PRICE OF COAL GOES UP AGAIN

Local Dealers Advanced the Price One Dollar a Ton Yesterday Afternoon.

IT NOW SELLS FOR $7.

Dealers Say That Increase is Made to Prevent Any But Necessary Purchases—Not More Than 1,500 Tons of Coal Left—Nut is Very Scarce—Only Two Have Much.

Coal advanced in Plainfield $1 a ton yesterday afternoon. There was a unanimity of opinion among the dealers on the point. A number of the retailers accidentally met in the lobby of a city bank yesterday afternoon and began to discuss the situation. After calling up one other dealer who is known to be pretty well supplied with coal, the action was taken.

For a long time there has been practically no change in the coal situation so far as Plainfield is concerned, but there has been a strong sentiment that an advance in price would soon be made. Some of the dealers have been entirely exhausted. With the exception of Boice, Runyon & Company, who have still enough on hand to supply their customers, McDonough Brothers and E. H. Holmes are the only firms that have any coal for outside trade, and practically the whole of Plainfield is dependent on them for its supply.

The principal shortage is in chestnut coal, there being no more than three or four hundred tons of that size in the city. Altogether there is not in Plainfield more than 1,500 tons of coal.

Plainfield dealers cannot get coal from the wholesalers at any price, but $7 a ton is cheaper than retailers in New York can buy the coal from the big dealers. The advance is due to mere temporary pressure, and coal will probably drop to its old price when normal conditions are resumed.

There is only enough of the article in Plainfield to last till the beginning of September, but it is not anticipated locally that there will be a coal famine, as there seems to be a feeling of confidence that the situation is not serious, and that the strike has now reached the beginning of the end.

The reason given for the advance is that many people who would buy if the coal were $6 will refuse to purchase when the price is seven. This circumstance was illustrated in several instances yesterday afternoon after the raise was decided upon. The local dealers who have coal now, have practically controlled the situation here for three months or longer, and could have advanced the price at any time to almost any figure. Six dollars, which has been the ruling rate, was hardly a prohibitory price, but the advance of $1 will deter many people purchasing, or at least confine their purchases to small amounts.

Drake's Latest Scheme.

The Pennington Realty Company is the name of a new concern capitalized at $50,000, divided into $20,000 preferred, bearing 6 per cent. cumulative dividend, and $30,000 common stock. Among the incorporators is Silas D. Drake, of Bound Brook. The company is to carry on a real estate business in the borough of Pennington.

Busy Baggage Man.

All records were broken at the baggage rooms of the North Avenue station yesterday. Agent Garretson found it the busiest day of the season, with more outgoing trunks than ever before. Today was little lighter, and it is quite evident that the August rush of vacation seekers is fully equal to previous years.

Borough Pastors' Vacations.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Rev. E. L. Earp, two borough pastors, will preach at their churches Sunday for the last time before taking their annual vacations. Both clergymen will leave town next week for the remainder of the month of August.

Measured for Winter Uniforms.

The conductors and brakemen on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad are being measured for their winter uniforms. They will be of the same material and style as those worn last year.

Making Braves.

Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order Red Men, will meet this evening and work the warriors and chief degree on one candidate. The team will meet early for practice.

TOLD OF TEMPERANCE WORK

MRS. T. H. TOMLINSON, COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT, MADE ADDRESS.

Gave a Report at Local Meeting of the Summer School of Methods Recently Held at Ocean Grove.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county superintendent of the W. C. T. U., gave a report of the Summer School of Methods held recently at Ocean Grove, at a meeting of the local Union yesterday afternoon. She gave an account of the various interesting features of the programme and told of the work of the probation officer in New Jersey and of the excellent work accomplished in Union county by Mrs. Emily Williamson, the officer for Union county.

Mrs. Tomlinson also told with regrets of the possibility of the National Union being obliged to give up the Temple in Chicago. This building was built by the members of the Union in all parts of the United States, but the expense in building and maintaining the same has been found too great for the members to bear. It is likely that it will be taken by the persons holding the mortgage.

The speaker said that the reports of the work throughout the State are very encouraging and the advancement of the cause of temperance is such that the members can feel proud.

CONCERT BY BLIND ARTIST

TOOK PLACE OF WEEKLY EUCHRE AT HOTEL NETHERWOOD LAST NIGHT.

I. Boyle, of Brooklyn, Entertained the Guests With a Delightful Programme—Dance Followed.

Instead of the usual weekly euchre at the Hotel Netherwood last evening the guests were entertained by I. Boyle, of Brooklyn, a blind travelling musician. Mr. Boyle is making a tour of the country and happened around at the Netherwood yesterday afternoon. Some of the guests were quick to note his musical ability, and he was invited to remain to give a concert in the evening. He is a thorough musician and his imitative powers are remarkable.

His programme consisted of baritone solos, whistling solos, selections on the piano, imitations of a fife and drum corps, and other imitative pieces. The concert was spoken of as the most pleasing entertainment yet given at the hotel. Mr. Boyle passed the hat around among the guests, and the collection netted him the sum of $50. By special request he will return to the hotel in the third week of August and entertain the guests with another of his inimitable programmes. After the concert the guests enjoyed themselves for a time in a successful informal hop.

The full dress hop will be held Saturday evening as usual. A smart programme is being arranged for the sacred concert Sunday evening. Mrs. Lux, of Hoboken, will sing, as will also Coleridge Vickery, of New York, a noted bass singer.

LIFE AT SEA GIRT.

W. F. Richards Gave His Camp Experiences at Rescue Mission.

At the Rescue Mission meeting in the First Church of Christ last evening F. W. Richards related his experiences while in camp with Company K at Sea Girt. Mr. Richards' talk was interesting and entertaining. Remarks were also made by John Goodwin, John Manley, and Wm. B. Ayres. Instrumental music was a feature of the evening's entertainment. Fred Goodwin presided at the piano, H. Hankinson, violin; Austin Hamilton, banjo.

More Money for the Baby Camp.

The fund for the King's Daughters' Baby Camp on the mountain is constantly increasing. The appeal made a few days ago by The Daily Press is finding a generous response. Yesterday Mrs. John D. Runyon and Mrs. D. J. Boice each contributed $5 through The Press for this work. The expenses increase more or less each day and any sum contributed will be appreciated. The fund now stands as as follows:

King's Daughters' Baby Camp.

Previously acknowledged	$66.16
Mrs. John D. Runyon	5.00
Mrs. D. J. Boice	5.00

Repairing Park Avenue.

Work on the West Front street macadam has now been finished, and the full force of Street Commissioner Gavett's men has been put upon the repair work on Park avenue, near the city and county line. The roller has been brought into service there also.

WILL CARRY PLEASURE TO FRESH AIR CAMPS

Park Ave. Baptist Endeavorers Plan Entertainment for Tenament House Children.

WILL VISIT TOMORROW.

WILL CONDUCT AN AFTERNOON OF PLEASURE AT NETHERWOOD HOME.

Games and Sports Planned—Will Visit Westfield Camp in the Evening and Conduct an Entertainment There for the Children.

To bring further brightness into the lives of the little tenement children who are enjoying the fresh air life in this section, the Christian Endeavor Society, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will devote itself to their entertainment tomorrow. Plans have been made for visiting the Netherwood Home in the afternoon and the Westfield Camp in the evening.

For the former, the trip will be made by trolley from the North Avenue station, leaving at 3:30 o'clock. The programme, which will be under the direction of the members of the society and of Superintendent George E. Hall, of the Sunday-school, will include games and other entertaining features, with many musical numbers, both solo and chorus, with cornet accompaniment.

More elaborate is the entertainment planned for the evening at Westfield. On a lengthy programme, the features promises to be a play entitled "The Love of a Bonnet," to be given by the members of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society. Vocal and instrumental music also will be rendered and recitations by Miss Arline Brown. This journey will be made via the 7:30 trolley car from North avenue.

To both of these entertainments, all persons interested are cordially invited. Opportunity will be given to inspect the home and the camp, as well as to witness the enjoyment of the little guests from the efforts of their Plainfield friends.

GOING TO DEWEY PARK.

No Truth in Denial of Aluminum Press Works Change.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 1—The story in the Newark EveningEws that the Aluminum Press Works was not going to remove to Dewey Park, but would remain in Plainfield, is false. The company has purchased ten acres at Dewey Park and has had plans drawn for its buildings, construction of which will soon begin. The story in The News was probably due to the fact that the company is building a temporary addition to its plant in Plainfield, made necessary by its increasing business.

CLARKE MUNDY HURT.

Wheel Slipped in the Mud and He Fell, Spraining His Ankle.

Clark Mundy, of Stone street, was the victim of a painful accident last evening. While riding his bike down Somerset street, he went to turn around at the corner of Linden avenue. The roadway in that vicinity is a little wet, and Mr. Mundy making a too sharp curve, the wheel slipped sidewise, throwing him to the ground tangled up in the bike. In the mix-up he sprained his ankle, and the injury will probably keep him confined to the house for two or three weeks.

Lost Camp Money.

Letter-carrier Chas. Glaentzer has lost his camp money amounting to $7. Charles spent last week at Sea Girt with Company K and he had a little over $7 coming to him. He received his check Wednesday evening, got it cashed and spent forty cents of the amount. Yesterday morning he missed the balance and upon investigation discovered a hole in his pocket. The loss is felt very much.

Y. M. C. A. Activity.

Preparations are being made for a very active season the coming autumn at the Y. M. C. A. The Star Course of entertainments this year promises to be of much greater interest than on any former occasion. The committee in charge of this branch of the work are Henry M. Maxson, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Curtis M. Thorpe.

Death of Mrs. Weaver.

Mrs. Hannah A. Weaver, wife of John Weaver, died yesterday at her home in Somerville. Mr. Weaver is a brother to Peter and David Weaver, of this city. The funeral services will be held next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late home, 14 Henry street, Somerville.

KILLED HIMSELF.

Albert Snedeker Left a Wife and Children in Plainfield, When He Took His Life.

Worrying over domestic troubles and alleged grief at a separation from his wife are adduced as the causes which led to the suicide on Wednesday at Jamaica, Long Island, of Albert Snedeker, formerly of this city. His body was found with a bullet hole through the head, showing how the wretched man had made way with himself.

Several years ago, the suicide resided here with his wife and children. The latter still reside here, in the West End, near the Potter Press Works. About fifteen months ago, Snedeker removed from Elizabeth, where he had spent a few motnhs working, to the scene of his death. It is said that he had frequently spoken of his lack of desire for life and of his despondency over the separation. The remains were buried this morning.

ONLY THE FAMILY KNEW

MISS ANNA SCHLICK AND EDWARD P. TOWNLEY WERE WEDDED.

Ceremony Took Place at St. Mary's Rectory Wednesday Evening—Those Who Attended.

Without any word of warning except to their immediate relatives, Miss Anna Schlick, of West Third street, and Edward P. Townley were quietly married at St. Mary's rectory Wednesday evening. No announcement of the wedding was made until late yesterday, after the couple had left town upon their honeymoon trip. They have gone to New York, whence they will return next week to begin housekeeping for themselves in a home in the West End.

At the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Father Farley at 7 o'clock, the bride was attended by Miss Lena Emery, while James Daly acted as best man. The only others present at the services were Mr. and Mrs. William Townley, Miss Margaret Townley and Mrs. Henry Ackerman, the latter a sister of the bride. Afterwards a wedding supper was served at the home of Mrs. Ackerman, prior to the departure of the couple upon their bridal tour.

Both bride and groom are well known and popular in the West End. Mrs. Townley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schlick. The groom is a machinist by trade and also a call man at the fire department. The couple began their married life with the best wishes of a host of friends.

THE DAY COLUMBUS LANDED

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS WILL MAKE IT A GREAT OCCASION.

Five Thousand or More Expected to Gather at Atlantic City Monday.

Five thousand or more members of the Knights of Columbus, one of the foremost Catholic organizations in the country, are expected to be in Atlantic City between Saturday and the following Monday. The occasion will be the national celebration by the order of Embarkation Day, which marks the anniversary of the departure of Christopher Columbus from the port of Palos, Spain, more than 500 years ago, on his voyage of discovery.

Much interest is shown in the coming event by Catholics in general, because prominent persons of that faith are to attend the affair, and at the concluding banquet may express their views of recent happenings in the history of the nation. Arrangements for the celebration, which is also to be in the nature of a reunion, have been under way for several months, and are now practically complete.

There will be a delegation of Knights from the Plainfield council of the order, and every branch in the State will send representatives. Then there will be large delegations from other States. That from Washington, D. C., is expected to number more than 500 persons, and the Boston councils are to send fully as many. Other parts of the country where the Knights muster a large membership will also help.

Quiet Service.

Very quiet were the funeral services held at the Scotch Plains Baptist church yesterday afternoon over the remains of the late Robert Snyder. Rev. G. M. Shott, pastor of the church, officiated, and interment was made in the cemetery adjoining.

Miss Lulu Vail, of Elmwood place, is enjoying a vacation of two weeks.

ST. SWITHIN KEEPING UP TO THE TIMES

Showers and Cloudy Skies Have Become the Rule With Very Few Exceptions.

AFFECTS THE TEMPERS

SUNDAY-SCHOOL EXCURSIONS HAVE BEEN PARTICULARLY UNLUCKY.

Sun Tries to Get a Peep at Plainfield, But the Clouds Are Soon Back Again—More Showers Are Promised for Today.

For all the damp predictions concerning the weather last month, the believer in the St. Swithin legend is sadly forced to admit that for once the weeping saint failed to affect the flood gates in the conventional manner. Early in the succession, the rule for the forty days' rain was broken, and the tale was shattered, for this year, at least.

So few and far between, however, have been the lapses from the traditional daily sprinkling following the shower upon Swithin's Day, that the lover of good weather has been groaning within himself for the past two weeks. Record has estabilshed that rain has fallen upon every day but three since July 15, and the general prospect is for more yet to come. Weather sharps all over the east are making the same doleful prognostications, preparing humanity for continued cloudiness and repeated showers.

It has been a matter of note that this season has witnessed the discomfiture of more Sunday-school excursions than ever before. Rain seemed to hang especially about the days selected for the annual outings to the seashore, and the enjoyment was often marred by the bad weather. Those at home are still complaining, because the sun has kept so persistently out of sight and kept them from enjoying their scant meed of pleasure in town. And over all, there has been a very pall of ill humor, caused by the same lowering clouds which have been dropping occasional moisture upon us.

Today's promise of sunshine was eagerly welcomed this morning, although the clouds soon obscured the heavens again. People now are anxiously awaiting the fulfilment of the forty days, feeling sure that in some way that will end the trouble and give real summer weather for the remainder of the season. The forecast for today and tomorrrow is for clouds and showers, as usual, according to the stereotype announcement of the weather bureaus.

Pensions Granted.

During the past month pensions have been granted to the following persons in this city and vicinity: George W. Affair, Scotch Plains, original, $6; Alfred R. Vail, Plainfield, original, $6; Francis M. Whitely, Plainfield, increase, restoration, reissue, etc., $12; Grace A. Negley, Plainfield, widows, minors and dependent relatives, $8.

Sold His Interest in Review.

Yardley T. Brown, who has held a half interest in the North Plainfield Review, has sold out his stock in the plant to H. H. Webb and retired from the business yesterday. Mr. Brown feels that the field here is too small. Mr. Brown has made a number of friends during the period of his residence here.

Dr. Yerkes Will Lead.

Rev. Dr. Yerkes will have charge of the preparatory services in the First Baptist church this evening. Dr. Yerkes has been unable to leave the house through illness for some time, and his many friends will be pleased to learn that he is lately improved in health.

B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of Washington Park, left today for Mooreland, Bass Rocks, Gloucester, Mass., where he will remain with his family until August 9. From that date to August 15 he will be at Point Breeze Camp, Wolfboro, N. H.

Interesting Reports.

Reports of an interesting character were given of the Summer School at Asbury Park at the meeting of the Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Union held Monday last.

ONE EXCURSIONIST INJURED

MRS. ANESTA CORWIN FELL ON STREET AND INJURED HER ARM.

Local Methodists Had a Delightful Day at the Shore With No Other Accidents.

Methodist weather greeted the Plainfield Sunday-school excursionists at Asbury Park yesterday. In spite of the clouds at home, at the shore there were clear skies and sunshine, and the day was such as to be highly enjoyable to all. It is estimated that over 800 persons took passage on the train. The return was made the scheduled hour last night, arriving in Plainfield about 9:30.

Amid the general enjoyment, only one mishap occurred to mar the pleasure of any of the party. The victim was Mrs. Anesta Corwin, an aged widow residing on Manning avenue, who fell while walking along the street and injured her arm. This happened in the forenoon and for the remainder of the day she was compelled to go about with the injured member supported by a sling.

On the arrival home, Dr. Buchanan was called, but the arm was so swollen that it was impossible to examine it thoroughly so as to decide the nature of the injury. It appeared to be a severe sprain, rather than a fracture.

GETTING READY FOR OUTING

REPUBLICANS' PLAN FOR THEIR APPROACHING OUTING.

Monday Will be the Last on Which Tickets May be Bought—The Reason Why.

That no mistake may be made with regard to the approaching outing of the Union county Republicans, it is announced that Monday of next week is the last day upon which tickets may be bought. The meeting of the county executive committee, scheduled for this evening, has been set ahead that much, so that as much time as possible may be given those who have the affair in charge.

In thus allowing two or three extra days in which the voters may secure their tickets, the idea of the committee is to expedite matters as much as possible.

It is especially requested that all those who intend to be present at the outing shall buy their tickets in advance, so that the orders may be made in accordance with the expected number. As some of the provisions must be secured and brought all the way from Boston, it is really necessary that the committee be able to give some reasonable estimate early in the week of the number expected.

Plainfielders will find that they can purchase tickets all day tomorrow and on Monday at the office of City Collector Frank H, Smith, in the Smalley building, North avenue. On Monday evening, the county committee will make the final arrangements for the big celebration of Saturday.

SNAKE ATTACKED HIM.

Herbert Chamberlain Rode Over an Adder While on His Wheel.

Snakes seem to be coming the way of Herbert Chamberlain, of the local telephone line service. One day this week, while in the vicinity of New Market he met and killed a large black snake, while on Wednesday he had a more exciting experience with an adder at Netherwood. In this instance he rode over the reptile upon his bicycle and was immediately turned upon. Fortunately he was prepared for the attack and had soon stretched his writhing enemy out in death. The snake measured several feet in length.

Manager J. D. Bailey, of the Park Avenue Hotel, has arranged a euchre party for the guests to be held this evening. These events at the hotel are proving a source of much pleasure to all.

Ran Into Ice Wagon.

A slight mixup occurred this morning on Park avenue, when a wagon belonging to the Plainfield Electric Light Company ran into Coddington's ice wagon. No damage resulted.

Meetings Called Off.

Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M. has called off its meetings for the rest of the summer. Last Tuesday evening at a regular communication this action was taken.

Write-Up for Plainfield.

Featured in the New York Tribune of Sunday will be a write-up of Plainfield, describing the vantage points of our city over its neighbors. It will be illustrated.

LINEMAN WAS ALMOST KILLED

Daniel Guinee Thrown From Trolley Pole by Heavy Current of Electricity.

OCCURED AT WESTFIELD.

Accident Happened at 11 o'Clock This Morning—He Accidentally Touched Feed Wire While Working on Trolley Pole—Internal Injuries and Ankle Fractured.

Jarred by an electric current 1,000 volts strong, Daniel Guinee, a local telephone lineman, is lying at his home on West Third street in a serious condition. He was thrown from a trolley pole in Westfield this morning, at 11 o'clock, sustaining injuries, which, combined with the shock, fell only a little short of proving fatal. A broken ankle bone, with possible internal hurts, besides the effect of the electricity, are the results of the accident.

Contact with the trolley feed wire was responsible for the trouble. Guinee was working upon a ladder at the top of a pole, along the line of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway, when he accidentally touched the wire. At that particular point, the power was of unusual strength, and the full force of it was felt by the lineman as it grazed his body. Without any warning or chance to call for help, he dropped to the ground.

When his fellow workmen hurried to him, it was found that Guinee was experiencing convulsions, induced by the electric current. He had several spasms before the arrival of Dr. Sinclair, who was immediately summoned to the scene. The physician succeeded in quieting the unfortunate man and in making a superficial examination, he found one of the small bones in the ankle joint fractured, but it was impossible to tell the existence or extent of internal injuries.

According to the advice of the physician, the injured man was brought directly to his home in this city, where he was placed in bed under careful nursing. He is still suffering extremely from the effects of the electric current upon his system and is altogether in a precarious state.

NO JERSEY DIVISION.

Was Wiped Out as First Step to Reorganize the League of American Wheelmen.

By vote of the executive committee of the League of American Wheelmen the once powerful New Jersey division of the organization has been abolished. For two years the officers in this State have done little, if anything, for the league, hence the drastic procedure of the national officials. At their meeting during the Atlantic City meet the latter decided that a strenuous policy was necessary to reinvigorate the organization, and the wiping out of the New Jersey division is the first move in that direction.

It is believed to foreshadow a general shake-up of the league. In other States in which apathetic officers retain titles, but perform no service, it is expected that the axe will also fall and their affairs be taken over by the national officials until aggressive men are found in the several districts.

To Sea Girt Again.

For a taste of another outing some of the members of Company K, who are to qualify at the rifle range at Sea Girt Monday, will start for the scene tomorrow or Sunday, so as to have the latter day at the shore. One party of men have arranged to go Sunday afternoon, leaving here at 3:30 o'clock.

Franklin's Excursion.

There is every indication that those who go with Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., on the excursion to Asbury Park August 14, will have one of the best times of their lives. Every detail will be arranged for a good time and past experiences prove that there will be no exception this year.

Another Old Resident Gone.

Death claimed another old resident of Scotch Plains last night in the person of Vendelin Yoerg. He was seventy-four years old and he came to this country from Germany when only a boy. The greater part of his life has been spent at the Plains.

Mrs. S. St. J. McCutchen and son, of Rockview terrace, went to Belmar today.

LITERARY.

The fiction number of Scribner's Magazine is a remarkable issue in the eminence of its authors, the absorbing interest of their contributions and the richness of the illustrations. To have Rudyard Kipling, J. M. Barrie, F. Hopkinson Smith, Richard Harding Davis, Edith Wharton and Quiller-Couch contributors to a single issue of a magazine is unprecedented. In addition some of the cleverest among the younger writers are represented—Miss Josephine Dodge Daskam, Mrs. Andrews, Sewell Ford and Arthur Ruhl.

Rudyard Kipling shows his keen appreciation of the latest thing in science as material for romance. "Wireless" is the title of his story, and it is suggested by the "Marconi business." It starts in a Marconi station back of a drug store on the coast of England, and develops into one of the weirdest and most imaginative tales that Mr. Kipling ever wrote. No other man living could have written it, and it stands alone as a work of strong imagination and the highest literary skill.

The beginning of a new serial by J. M. Barrie is an event in the world of letters. "The Little White Bird" is a most delightfully fanciful tale of an old club bachelor, a young married couple and a charming little boy. All of the pathos and tender fancy which characterizes Barrie at his best will be found in this story, which will be completed in the fall numbers. What the "Child's Garden of Verses" is to lovers of Stevenson, "The Little White Bird" will become to the lovers of Barrie.

F. Hopkinson Smith's masterpiece, "Oliver Horn," is concluded with such skill that no reader will have any doubt that Mr. Smith has created something which will last.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

FIGHT OVER MACADAM ROAD

HITCH MAY RESULT IN MACADAMIZING NO ROAD AT ALL.

Borough of South Amboy Wants One Road and Middlesex Freeholders Other.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

South Amboy, August 1.—There is a clash between the borough of South Amboy and the Board of Freeholders of Middlesex county over the macadamizing of a road here. Freeholder Michael Welsh, who represents the borough in the board, claims that the macadam is to be built in Stevens avenue, and the Borough Council insists that Broadway must be improved.

It is a question of which route a new road is to take through the borough, connecting the macadam road to New Brunswick with that to Matawan and Keyport. When that is completed there will be a continuous road from Newark to the coast resorts, by way of New Brunswick and by way of Perth Amboy when the proposed bridge is built across the Raritan river. The contract has been awarded before the borough authorities realized that it was to go through Stevens avenue. When workmen came here to begin the job, the borough street committee stopped them.

Freeholder Welsh claims that the predecessor of this council approved the Stevens avenue route before the matter was acted upon by the freeholders, and approved by State Road Commissioner H. L. Budd.

Assemblyman J. E. Montgomery, who was a candidate for Commissioner Budd's place during the last session of The Legislature, is prominently supporting the action of the council. He claims that the road commissioner promised him that the route he favors would be chosen when the appointment was made and the South Amboy man turned down. If the borough persists in its stand there may be no road built at all, and the important connecting link will be left out of the chain of macadam roads to the coast.

THEATRICAL.

Among the first of New York's theatres to open its doors to begin its regular fall season, will be the Academy of Music, which opens Thursday evening, August 7, for a limited engagement of the latest New England drama "Quincy Adams Sawyer," a dramatization by Justin Adams from the book of the same name. This will be its first appearance before a New York audience, and, if half the promises are lived up to, it will be fit to rank with either the "Old Homestead," or "Way Down East." It is hoped that such will be the case.

The uniqueness of this country story is responsible, no doubt, for its great success. It tells of a young city-bred lawyer, refined and wealthy, who goes into the country for his health. With but one exception all the characters are country people. All the scenes are laid in a quiet New England village, and what seems more strange, and will be welcomed by the audience, is the fact that a clean refreshing story is told without the aid of a villain, a betrayed girl, the old well, a church choir, or any lost mortgage.

Unusual preparations are being made for this production, in fact, it was specially built for the Academy's great stage, and Manager Gilmore feels sure that another "Old Homestead," will be the result.

Lackawanna's Low Rates.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

TROOPS GUARD TOWN

Twelve Hundred Armed Men In Camp at Shenandoah.

NO RECURRENCE OF THE RIOTING.

Miners Incensed at the Calling Out of Troops and Send a Message to Governor Stone Requesting an Investigation.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 1.—Twelve hundred state troops are encamped on a hill overlooking Shenandoah. Down in the town where rioters and policemen fought Wednesday's bloody battle all is still quiet, and the indications are that so long as the militia remains the peace of the community will not again be broken. The riot, which caused the soldiers to be sent here, came like a flash and was over almost as quickly as it had started, and since then there has not been a single case of violence reported. The tens of thousands of idle men and boys in this vicinity who had been gathering in large numbers and marching from place to place have not repeated their demonstrations, and the authorities consequently have had little or nothing to do.

Brigadier General P. H. S. Gobin of the Third brigade, in command of the troops here, and his staff were on the scene early. The camp is located on a very high hill just outside the town proper and commands a full view of the town. Within the camp lines are quartered two full regiments, the Eighth and Twelfth, two companies of the Fourth regiment and the troop of cavalry. General Gobin expressed himself as highly pleased with the rapidity with which the camp was established. The commander and his staff are quartered at the Ferguson House, but it is the general's intention to get under canvas with his staff as soon as circumstances will permit.

Beyond the presence of a group of soldiers here and there on the principal street, Shenandoah does not show any evidence of having passed through a trying ordeal.

The major portion of the population is made up of foreigners, and as a rule they kept close to their homes during the day. It is claimed by the citizens of the town that the foreign element was solely responsible for the trouble. Most of the curious persons gathered in the vicinity of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad depot, where the riot occurred. The station shows many bullet marks of the battle. A strong guard was placed around the station so that the crowd would not delay the soldiers as they left the trains.

Contrary to popular belief, Shenandoah is not under martial law. The local authorities and the sheriff of the county have not relinquished control of the town or county, and they remain in as complete control of their respective affairs as they did before the troops reached here. The soldiers are merely in camp on the outside of the town.

The mine workers are greatly incensed over the calling out of the troops. They assert that this action was entirely unwarranted and is an unjustifiable expense on the state. The strikers, through their officials, are making an effort to have the soldiers withdrawn. The first step in this direction was taken yesterday afternoon, when the following telegram was sent from here to Governor Stone:

"We, the undersigned officials of the ninth district of the miners' union, believe that the request made to you to send troops to Shenandoah was based upon exaggeration, and as we are confirmed in this belief we respectfully request you to send a personal representative into this town to investigate the conditions, and after such investigation we believe that you will learn that the presence of the troops in this town is unnecessary and that the order should be revoked."

Of the twenty or more persons who were beaten with clubs or struck by bullets during the rioting one man, Joseph Beddall, is dead. The four policemen who were shot and the strikers who were also hit by bullets will recover. Most of the wounded strikers claim that they were merely onlookers.

The district attorney and the sheriff are prosecuting an investigation, with a view of placing under arrest all those who participated in the riot.

Old Time Minstrel In Hard Lines.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1.—Barefooted and tattered, with foot and leg bandaged, Charles Howard, the famous old time minstrel and well known Uncle Tom in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was yesterday picked up on the street and sent to Bay View asylum for one year on the charge of vagrancy. Howard was one of the original minstrels and was familiar to all the theater goers of a generation ago. He traveled with his troupe from city to city and was well known everywhere.

Harlem Officials Indicted.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The grand jury has returned indictments against the officials of the village of Harlem for malfeasance in office and against eleven bookmakers for gambling at the Harlem race track. Conspiracy to allow gambling on the races and bribery of the town officers for permission for the bookmakers to operate betting booths were alleged.

An Observatory For Wesleyan.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 1.—In addition to three other new buildings which are now in process of construction Wesleyan university will this year have an observatory costing about $50,000. The announcement is made that the conservatory building is to be presented by a brother of Professor Van Vleck of Wesleyan.

Trite But Misunderstood.

A young colored man, stunningly attired, was standing at the southeast corner of Connecticut avenue and S street last Sunday evening, engaged, so far as could be deduced, in admiring his clothes by the light from the windows of a nearby drug store. Two damsels of ebony hue, likewise gaudily dressed and out for a stroll, approached. As they reached the corner the fashion plate standing there made a sweeping bow and remarked:

"Good evening, ladies."

"Good evening, Mr. Brown," responded one of the girls, "how are you feeling this evening?"

"I'm feeling right conspicuous, thank you," explained the man, in self-possessed tones.

"Huh! 'right conspicuous,'" repeated the second girl to her companion as they moved on. "What do you reckon that means?"—Washington Star.

New Use for Dried Peas.

A most interesting place is the interior of a powder factory, where fine and special brands of smokeless powder and powder used for sporting purposes are made. The smokeless powder, which, like all other gunpowder, is composed of three ingredients—charcoal, saltpetre and sulphur—requires a certain kind of charcoal, which the manufacturers discovered at the cost of a great deal of experimenting with fine cedar, boxwood, maple and ash charcoal. The special charcoal used in the manufacture of smokeless and other brands of fine powder is made, surprising though it may seem, of dried peas, which are "burned" to charcoal in kilns like any other vegetable material used for the same purpose. These dried peas make a very fine and light charcoal that is in great demand in the manufacture of fine gunpowder.—Scientific American.

Won't Work in Rain.

"There's a queer thing about Italian laborers," said a contractor who employs a great many of them, "and that is that they absolutely refuse to work in the rain. Stop a minute and think. Did you ever see a gang of them working on the streets, digging trenches or doing any other manual labor, in the rain? Well, you never did, and probably never will. Just as soon as a shower sets in, no matter how slight, they will scramble for cover. If the rain continues they will soon complain of feeling sick, and knock off for the day. One fellow will have a sore throat, another will be doubled up with pains in his stomach, and others will suddenly acquire equally severe ailments of all sorts. It is useless to attempt to do anything with them, and pretty soon they will all go trooping home. Why is it? I suppose it's their natural antipathy to water."—Chicago Journal.

A True Story.

A Sunday school superintendent, in talking to the children about cruelty to animals, said: "Only a coward would abuse a creature that had no way of protecting itself. Why, children," said he, "I once knew a little boy who cut off a calf's tail! Think of it, children—took a knife and cut the tail right off! Can anyone tell me a verse in the Bible that would have taught this cruel boy that he should not have cut off the calf's tail?"

After a moment's silence, a small boy, with a "happy-thought" expression, held up his hand. "What is it, my boy?" asked the superintendent, hopefully. "What God hath joined together, let no man put asunder," responded the small boy.

The superintendent was so impressed that he never brought his own verse to light.—Harper's Magazine.

FLEEING FOR SAFETY

Dwellers In Los Alamos, Cal., Driven Out by Earthquakes.

SEVENTY-FIVE SHOCKS EXPERIENCED

Brick Buildings In Ruins—Not a Chimney Left Standing In Town. No Loss of Life Reported. Limited Area Damaged.

LOS ALAMOS, Cal., Aug. 1.—The most severe earthquake in the history of this place occurred yesterday, and while no lives were known to have been lost there were many narrow escapes. The damage was extensive and heavy.

Every brick building in the town was destroyed or badly wrecked, and in nearly every house windows were broken.

The Presbyterian church, a large and handsome brick structure, was razed to the ground, and a similar fate befell the general store of W. S. Wickenben, also a brick building.

The shock seems to have had a spiral motion. Goods were hurled from shelves of stores and piled in the middle of the rooms.

Not a chimney is left standing in the town. All brick walls are badly damaged, but frame structures generally escaped serious injury.

The whole town was aroused, and people fled from their homes to the streets in panic.

There have been as many as seventy-five shocks since July 27, when the first heavy shock occurred, but that of yesterday exceeded in violence anything yet experienced.

The earthquake lasted thirty seconds.

Many families have left Los Alamos, going to Santa Maria, San Luis Obispo, Lompoc and Santa Barbara. The latest reports indicate that the damage was confined to the immediate vicinity of Los Alamos.

The last shock during the morning was at 10:26. Between 7 and 7:30 o'clock there were seven distinct shocks, and they were followed by others at intervals. A peculiarity of the disturbances is the limited area affected.

A conservative estimate of the loss to property in the village is $30,000, and this amount will probably be greatly increased by the damage in the surrounding country. The extent of the most severe portion of the disturbance is eleven miles long by four miles wide, but the shock was felt throughout Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties. At the Western Union oil wells on the Carriaga ranch two tanks were wrecked, and much other damage was done. The disturbances continued throughout the day at intervals of two hours, but none of the shocks was severe.

Michigan Democrats Nominate.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 1.—Judge George H. Durand of Flint, who filled a vacancy on the supreme bench of this state in 1892 and who is classed as a Gold Democrat, has been nominated for the governorship by the Democrats of Michigan. Judge Durand did not attend the convention nor authorize any one to state that he would accept the nomination if it should be accorded him. The free silver element made a vigorous fight to defeat him. Judge Durand, it was stated, was on a fishing expedition in the northern part of the state and could not be reached by wire, but in spite of the absence of any definite assurance of his acceptance his nomination was made unanimous after the fourth ballot. The platform adopted at yesterday morning's session of the convention is devoted almost entirely to state issues, the only mention of national issues being an indorsement of the election of United States senators directly by the people.

What Germany Sent Us.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Germany's exports to the United States during the last fiscal year increased $2,750,000, according to a report now made public at the state department from United States Embassador White, at Berlin. The embassador says that the declared value of the exports to the United States as shown by the statements made to the embassy by the four United States consuls general in Germany for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1902, was $102,714,000.

Shipping Subsidies Disapproved.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—At a largely attended meeting of shipowners held at West Hartlepool, Sir Christopher Furness presiding, resolutions were adopted protesting against the proposed subsidies to the Canadian Pacific railway and disapproving all subsidies except such as are necessary to secure efficient mail service.

In a Porto Rico Asylum.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 1.—Joshua Naar, representative of several New York business houses, went insane on the steamship Philadelphia, from Curacao. He was taken from the steamship to an asylum here. His insanity is not of a violent type.

Two Bathers Drowned.

HULL, Mass., Aug. 1.—Miss Anna D. Collier, a schoolteacher of Worcester, and Miss Jean Brown of Detroit, both summer guests at Bayside, were drowned in the surf while bathing. The undertow was responsible for the accident.

Hundreds of Chinese Rioters Killed.

PEKING, Aug. 1.—The foreign office has notified Edwin H. Conger, the minister of the United States, that government troops have killed between 300 and 400 rioters in Szechuen province and that order is now restored there.

MAYOR AMES RESIGNS.

A Climax to the Minneapolis Police Corruption Scandals.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 1.—Mayor A. A. Ames, now at West Baden, Ind., has decided to resign his office, the resignation to take effect Sept. 6. The letter will be read to the common council at its next meeting. The mayor postpones his nominal retirement to save the city the expense of a special election, which would have to be held if the resignation took effect earlier.

The mayor has also agreed to secure the resignation of his brother, Colonel Fred W. Ames, superintendent of police. He was brought to these terms by the visit to West Baden of Police Captains Charles R. Hill, who will be acting superintendent, and John Fitchette. He does not have the power while out of the city to perform the functions of mayor, but he wired Acting Mayor Fred M. Powers to secure the removal of the chief and wired the chief himself, advising resignation. Alderman Powers has agreed to carry out the wishes of the mayor.

This is the climax of the police corruption scandals which have agitated this community and occupied the grand jury and the courts for two months. Mayor Ames is in failing health and may not return to Minneapolis at all unless forced to do so by the courts.

SWORD FOR KITCHENER.

Cape Town's Gift to the Hero of South Africa.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Amid tremendous enthusiasm Lord Kitchener was last night presented with a sword of honor, the gift of Cape Town. Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, lord mayor of London, made the presentation in the course of a South African dinner which was attended by many notable persons. When the enthusiasm had sufficiently subsided for Lord Kitchener to make himself heard, he modestly returned thanks for the gift and expressed the confident hope that in South Africa, at any rate, the sword would not again be drawn from its scabbard. Lord Kitchener eulogized Lord Milner, British high commissioner in South Africa, and made a striking appeal, based upon his intimate and personal friendship with and knowledge of the South African administrator, that he be given the confidence and sympathy of the British nation.

Referring to the mineral and agricultural wealth of the new territory, Lord Kitchener said:

"You may assure yourselves that you have nothing less than the makings of a new America in the southern hemisphere."

Minister Wu Not Going Now.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The announcement from China that Minister Wu is to remain here indefinitely is explained by the further announcement here that there has been a change of plans and that Liang Cheng, the newly appointed minister to the United States, who is now in London acting as secretary to Prince Chen, instead of coming directly to Washington to assume his office, as originally intended, is going first to make a visit to China. This will consume from four to six months, so that Minister Wu probably will not be able to leave the United States this year.

Root and Porter In Paris.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The members of the United States embassy here and a number of other Americans welcomed General Porter and Secretary Root upon their arrival here at half past 11 o'clock last night. M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, sent Captain Paul Vignal, who was formerly military attache to the French embassy at Washington, to greet the Americans. When the party left the station, Captain Vignal placed himself at Secretary Root's disposition during his stay in Paris. Mr. Root passed the night at the house of General Porter.

Crops Ruined by Water.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Rain continues, to the detriment of the farmers' prospects. The excessive fall has been very discouraging. July broke all records for total rainfall here. The hay crop, while ordinarily very large in this section, has been partially ruined, and much of it is rotting in the fields, the farmers being unable to cure after cutting it. Part of the crop is still standing ready for harvesting, but the continuous rain prevents its harvest. Other crops suffer proportionately, entailing severe losses in eastern New York.

Eighteen Chinamen Captured.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Warrants have been issued here for eighteen Chinamen captured crossing from Canada. Orders have been received to clean up all cases pending against Chinamen. Thirty are awaiting trial in Canton jail, and the government yesterday submitted ten cases to Commissioner Gray.

Unprecedented Rainfall.

CORTLAND, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The rainfall for July in this vicinity was 10.45 inches. There were only four other months since January, 1896, when the fall exceeded five inches, and then the excess was slight.

Boiler Explosion Kills Two.

BELLAIRE, O., Aug. 1.—An explosion of a boiler in a sawmill on the farm of George Neff killed John Shaw and George Wheeler and fatally injured Charles Sunger. The mill was completely demolished.

Anarchists Arrested at Rome.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—A dispatch to the Central News from Rome says a number of anarchists have been arrested there. The prisoners are said to have been in correspondence with comrades in Paterson, N. J.

Also Fifty Coal Companies and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway. Bill Aimed at Unlawful Combinations.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 1.—President John Mitchell has been enjoined. A bill in equity has been filed in the federal court here by the Chesapeake and Ohio Coal Agency company, a New Jersey corporation which has its principal offices in the city of New York, in which fifty coal companies operating in the New River fields, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway company, G. W. Purcell, W. B. Wilson, John Mitchell, T. J. Carroll, J. A. Richards and about 150 members of the United Mine Workers of America are made defendants.

The bill sets up that the complainant is engaged in selling coal and coke and has a contract for the output of the collieries which are made a party defendant and a contract with the defendant railroad company for the shipment of the coal so purchased, that the coal is resold by complainant under contracts to manufacturing concerns, etc., and to the United States government for fuel on naval vessels, that because of a strike in the field embraced by the various companies mentioned, which has existed since June 7 last, the coal companies have failed to live up to the contracts for deliveries of coal and that there exists a secret organization known as the United Mine Workers of America, of which John Mitchell is president and W. B. Wilson is secretary, under the orders of which the men employed in the mines who are members of this organization have quit work and refuse to do their duties and in addition thereto assemble in marches and meetings and so conduct themselves as to intimidate employees of the various companies, thus preventing them going to the work which they desire to perform, and the said defendants occupy the tenement houses of the various companies and fail and refuse to vacate them at the request of the coal companies owning them.

The bill, which is a long one, was presented to Judge Keller yesterday, and he issued a temporary order restraining and prohibiting the defendants, G. W. Purcell, W. B. Wilson, John Mitchell and others (all of whom are named in the order) and all others associating or acting with them from in any way interfering with the management, operation or conducting of said mines by the owners or those operating them, either by menaces, threats of any character or intimidation used to prevent the employees of said mines from going to or from said mines and coke plants or from engaging in the business of mining in said mines or laboring upon said coke plants.

The purpose of this restraining order, Judge Keller says, is to prevent unlawful combinations or conspiracies and to restrain all of the defendants engaged in the promotion of such unlawful combinations and conspiracies and all other persons from entering upon the properties of the coal companies named in this order and from in any way interfering with the employees of said coal companies or either of them in their mining operations and manufacturing of coke, either within the mines or upon the coke oven plants, or from passing from their homes to their mines and coke oven plants or from the mines and coke oven plants to their homes and from in any manner unlawfully inciting persons who are engaged in working in the said mines or the said coke oven plants to cease work therein and from unlawfully preventing persons who desire to work in said mines or upon said coke oven plants entering into such services for the said defendant coal companies and from in any way aiding and abetting such acts as may result in the violation and destruction of the rights of the complainant under its contracts as recited in the bill.

The motion for a permanent injunction is set down for hearing at Charleston Nov. 18, 1902.

Noted Rabbi Dead.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1.—Rev. Benjamin Szold, rabbi emeritus of Oheb Shalom temple, this city, with which he had been connected since 1859, has just died at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., aged seventy-three years. The body has been brought here. He had suffered for several years with organic trouble. Dr. Szold was born in Hungary and was educated in Vienna and Breslau. He was deeply learned in Semitic languages and strictly orthodox in the maintenance of the Jewish Sabbath.

Bad Storm In Minnesota.

WINONA, Minn., Aug. 1.—The worst storm in the history of Winona struck this city yesterday. No loss of life is reported. The Bay State elevator and Central Methodist church were partially unroofed, and the street car transfer offices were blown into the middle of the street. The residence part of the city is in bad shape, many streets being completely blocked with fallen trees. Roads are badly washed out, and there was much damage done in the surrounding grainfields.

One Dry Spot.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 1.—Reports received here by the central office of the government weather department indicate a serious condition of drought in Alabama. Less rain has fallen in the state during the past three months than in any other similar period since 1839.

DEMOCRATIC CHANCES.

There isn't any doubt that the Democrats of the Fifth district are more confident than ever were the members of their party in the old Eighth district. They believe that they have an excellent chance of electing C. DeWitt Flanagan to Congress and there is every reason to believe that unless the Republican party of Union county suddenly strikes a harmonious chord, the Congressional fight in the Fifth is going to be a very close one.

It is far too early in the season to attempt any successful prognostications in a political line but there are some facts that are so evident even to the outsider than they cannot help but be seen. All through the State, the situation in the Fifth district is known and commented on. Every newspaper of any importance has published something about the fight which is now on between the forces of U. S. Senator Kean and Congressman Fowler in Union county and its reference to the Congressional campaign. Fights in the Republican ranks of Union county are not new. This present split is one of considerable age. If the reports are correct, however, it has assumed a bitterness that has not been present in the previous factional quarrels.

It is always possible that the wise men in the party may prevail in the counsels and a new regin of harmony started. Such a state of affairs would very likely mean the assured election of Congressman Fowler. This district is Republican under normal conditions and it is only by dissatisfaction in the Republican ranks that the Democrats can hope to make a strong fight against such a strong candidate as Charles N. Fowler who has already had the experiennce of several Congressional campaigns.

While the cool and rainy weather which has marked the first two months of summer has tended somewhat to keep Plainfielders at home, there are many families that are now enjoying life in the summer resorts of seashore or mountains. To hundreds of these summer sojourners, The Daily Press goes daily and keeps them in touch with the happenings in this city. While occasionally it will happen that copies of The Daily Press go wrong in the host of mail for the summer stopping places, most of the regular patrons of this newspaper receive their copies with much regularity and with but little delay. Every year sees a huge mailing list but this summer the bundle of Presses which goes out to these summer visitors is larger than ever.

The committee which has been trying to select a site for the proposed State home for consumptives has found it a hard task. South Jersey has a hot summer full of mosquitoes while the northern end of the State is objected to on the ground of the severe winter weather. The committee has been hunting for the happy medium. Whether or not it has been successful will be divulged later as the committee absolutely refuses to say at present what it has done.

The advertising manager of a western meat packing company says that the keynote of the prosperity of this establishment is publicity, relates the Philadelphia Record. Every kind of medium is used, but when it is necessary to "liven trade" in any section the house depends exclusively on the advertising columns of the daily newspapers.

Company K is going back to Sea Girt for a day to have its annual practice at the rifle ranges. The local soldier boys have done remarkably well at the targets and there is an excellent chance that the company will start very close to the top when all its members have had their chance.

It is satisfying to know that there is a decided improvement in the local milk supply. That is something which needs the best of attention. It is sincerely to be hoped that the efforts of the City Board of Health in that direction will meet with success.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

Number of Friends Entertained by Mrs. Henry Theodore Duensing.

In honor of the anniversary of her birthday, Mrs. Henry Theodore Duensing, of Liberty street, entertained a few relatives and friends at her home yesterday. The affair was a quiet and informal one. Mrs. Duensing received a number of presents, including a handsome bouquet of choice flowers.

Those present yesterday included Mrs. Duensing's nieces, Mrs. Fred Hagemann and Mrs. Henry Eggert and their cousin, Miss Lydia Tossberg, and Mrs. John Helmke, a member of the Evangelical Lutheran St. John's church, Prospect avenue, Brooklyn, where Mr. Duensing was pastor for several years. All of the guests were from Brooklyn and they had a most enjoyable day at the home of the pastor and his wife, both of whom are highly esteemed and beloved by all who know them.

PLAINFIELDER WEDS.

Quiet Event Celebrated in This City Tuesday Evening.

A pleasant affair of Tuesday evening last was the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Adele Wirsing, of Watchung, to Edward Lucien Chargois, of this city, which was celebrated at the home of Rev. Henry Theodore Duensing, on Liberty street. Mr. Duensing is the pastor of the German Lutheran church, of North Plainfield, and the ceremony was according to the form of that church.

The couple was accompanied by the parents of the bride and the mother of the groom, they acting as witnesses. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Chargois left for Brooklyn, where they have taken up their residence in a newly-furnished home. The groom hold a responsible position as foreman in a large manufactory in New York.

"Sunshine" cake is W. W. Warnock's latest — something especially nice for the palate. Angel cake continues to be popular, and the announcement that cream puffs and eclairs are filled while you wait has drawn many new patrons.

L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, has an enviable reputation for keeping one of the best pharmacies in New Jersey. He always carries a complete line of drugs, toilet preparations, Huyler's candies and his soda water is unexcelled as hundreds of people can testify.

The proprietor of the Paris Cloak Store, 322 West Front street, has just purchased the entire stock, sample line of women's skirts from a large manufacturer, and they will be put on sale at greatly reduced prices. The make and quality is first-class. There is also a superior stock of shirt waists offered at low prices.

Bicycles Collide.

Raymond Cohen, night operator at the local telephone exchange, while riding his wheel along Park avenue yesterday afternoon came into collision with a young man going in the opposite direction, who was occupying the wrong side of the highway. There was a general spill, and the wheel belonging to one of the parties was badly damaged.

A Quarter for Baby Coaches.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has issued an order that in the future all baggagemasters are to make a charge of 25 cents for the carrying of baby coaches. The company continually loses money in carrying these coaches, as frequently they become broken and the company has to settle for the damages.

In W. C. T. U. Circles.

Now that the W. C. T. U. has returned to its room on Madison avenue there is renewed interest in the temperance work which this organization has been carrying for some time. The meetings are well attended and there is a marked increase in interest.

Pulpit Supplies.

Pulpit supplies for Warren chapel during the absence of the pastor have been arranged as follows: August 10 and 17, Rev. N. J. Sproul, of Dunellen; August 24 and 31, Rev. A. E. Irvine, of New Haven, Conn.

Business Change.

Stephenson, caterer, 146 North avenue, will close Monday, August 4, and reopen for business Monday, August 25.

A Necessary Precaution.

Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute Cough Cure you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane. Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Children like it. L. W. Randolph.

ALLEGED THIEF CAUGHT.

"Respected" Citizen Gets Hit by a Spring Gun.

CHESTER DEPOT, Vt., Aug. 1.—By the use of a spring gun C. H. Waterman, a local mill proprietor, it is claimed, has revealed the person guilty of a series of robberies which have been going on in this town and vicinity for several years.

The alleged robber is Clarence Adams, one of the most highly respected young men of this section. He is under arrest, and in his home, it is claimed, a large quantity of stolen property has been discovered.

The detection followed the announcement one morning this week that Mr. Adams had been waylaid and shot on the previous evening. On that evening the spring gun set by Mr. Waterman and loaded with No. 6 shot was discharged. When it became known that No. 6 shot were removed from Adams' wounds, suspicion was aroused, and the arrest followed. Adams was not seriously injured.

THAT OIL COMBINE.

Facts Regarding the Rockefeller-Rothschild-Nobel Interests.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—The facts of the reported oil combination between the Rockefeller, Rothschild and Nobel interests are as follows:

The Russian oil companies and the English oil companies at Baku have been attempting all winter long to combine for export in competition with the Rockefeller, Rothschild and Nobel interests. The projected combine demanded preferential shipping rates from Baku and Batoum, which the government refused. The existing combine then offered to take in the projected combination at the initiative of the latter, but owing to the inability of the English companies at Baku and the Russian companies to agree among themselves the conferences to this end failed months ago.

The existing combine divides the English market on a percentage basis.

A Warning For England.

JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 1.—Lord Milner, British high commissioner in South Africa and governor of the Transvaal, presided at an important Church of England meeting held here. Dealing with the question of organization, Lord Milner said that the British nation was liable to attach too little importance to this matter at the present moment of general rejoicing and triumph when the country's power as a nation throughout the world stood or appeared to stand higher than ever before. Lord Milner said he felt that unless the future empire showed a more perfect organization than had been seen in the past it would tumble down.

AT SAGAMORE HILL.

President Entertains Governor Hunt and Postmaster General Payne.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Among the visitors who appeared at Sagamore Hill yesterday were Postmaster General Henry C. Payne and George R. Sheldon, a well known New York banker and personal friend of the president; Governor William H. Hunt and Attorney General Harlan of Porto Rico, the latter a son of Mr. Justice Harlan of the United States supreme court.

During the afternoon the president and Postmaster General Payne, after considering some matters relating to the postoffice department, discussed the Wisconsin political situation.

Governor Hunt and Attorney General Harlan discussed with the president and Postmaster General Payne the situation in Porto Rico, the governor reviewing at some length the important features of his administration and outlining the present conditions in the island. He became almost enthusiastic over the prospects of the island and its people. He told the president that the Porto Ricans, having already improved their condition by the alliance of the island with the United States, were anxious to establish yet closer relations, particularly in commercial matters. The trade of the island, he thought, would bear careful cultivation by American manufacturers and business men, the result of which would be advantageous to the people of both the United States and its island possession.

President Roosevelt indicated forcefully his interest in Porto Rico and expressed great confidence in its future as a most desirable acquisition to this country.

No formal dinner guests were entertained at Sagamore Hill last night.

Serious trouble has developed on the Mayflower, the president's official yacht. During the past few days nine desertions have occurred among the crew. A member of the crew said that not less than seventy men on board the ship were awaiting a favorable opportunity after pay day to take "French leave" of the vessel. Primarily the trouble seems to revolve around the executive officer of the ship, Lieutenant W. W. Phelps, who, the men assert, is overbearing and tyrannical. Ordinary privileges, it is alleged, have been curtailed seriously.

Vast Railway Improvements.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 1.—A Journal special from Marinette, Wis., says that over $2,000,000 will be expended this year by the Wisconsin and Michigan railway in furtherance of improved plans in the ore carrying trade from the mines to the eastern furnaces. Next fall the Wisconsin and Michigan road will have tracks into Norway, Quinnesce and to Lake Superior through a rich ore and timber belt. Side tracks will be laid to all the mines in the vicinty of Norway, Vulcan and Quinnesce. The plan is to load ore into cars at the mines, send them over the Wisconsin and Michigan to Peshtigo and then by car barges to South Chicago. From South Chicago the ore will go east over the big trunk lines to the Pennsylvania and Ohio furnaces.

Seven and a Half Millions Deficit.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—During July there was an increase in the customs receipts of $3,167,000 and a decrease in the internal revenue receipts of $6,700,000 as compared with July, 1901. The balance sheet for the month shows a deficit of $7,500,000 in round numbers, but this has been swelled by the payment of extraordinary appropriations for interest to the several states on civil war claims. The amount paid on these appropriations during the month aggregated $3,250,000.

West Shore Employees Stole.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Three more Newburg employees of the West Shore railroad have been arrested here, charged with complicity in the looting of freight cars. This makes eight employees now in custody. The prisoners were various clerks, brakemen and freight handlers and seemed to have formed a combination for systematic pilfering. More stolen property was recovered. Some of it is valuable, consisting of Winchester rifles, typewriters, etc.

An Australian Mine Horror.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Aug. 1.—An explosion resulting in heavy loss of life has occurred at the Mount Kimbla colliery at Wellington, a port forty miles from here. Twenty-seven bodies have been recovered. The buildings at the mouth of the pit were wrecked. One hundred and forty-nine miners were rescued, but a hundred are still entombed. It is feared their release is hopeless. A portion of the colliery is on fire.

Garden Seeds In the Fall.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The distribution of vegetable and flower seeds by the agricultural department for next year will begin Sept. 1. This is three months in advance of the usual time. The change is made in order to insure complete distribution. Each member of the senate and the house will receive 12,000 packages of vegetable seeds.

Seven Men Burned.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 1.—Seven men were fearfully burned by an explosion in one of the buildings of the Stoddard Manufacturing works. Three probably will die. The explosion was caused by a leakage of natural gas. It is not known how the gas was ignited.

WHAT TO WEAR IN BELTS.

The Shaped Kind Are Most Becoming to the Average Person.

High belts are still popular, but experience teaches that they must be made with care if they are to be worn with the straight front corset. The prettiest belts are made high at the back. The material is cut on the cross and is mounted on the bodice. The belt slopes gradually toward the front. Often the belt does not meet in front by a couple of inches, the intervening space being hidden by a tie of lace or a portion of the vest. For wearing with shirt waists a useful belt is made of crosscut glace or soft satin matching the color of the skirt. It is folded and stitched to a bone about four inches long at the back, and thence on either side the material slopes away to a point. The belt may be tied in a knot and the ends pinned up to the blouse, or it may be fixed with a buckle.

The shaped belt is far more becoming to the figure than the ordinary straight kind. The object of employing crosscut material rather than ribbons is that the former when pulled tight fits so much closer to the figure.

The three-quarter driving cloak shown is of pongee, with a double caped collar and rounded revers of red silk outlined with ecru applique. The cuffs are of the crimson silk, also outlined with the applique.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE CRAZE FOR WHITE.

Even Heavy Gowns Are Made of It. Some Novel Ideas.

The fondness for white this season extends even to tennis and outing suits. The white mohair ones are extremely smart and are accompanied by white shoes and white straw or taffeta hats. White storm serge is a favorite material with yachtswomen and trims up well with gold or silver braid and marine buttons. Anchors embroidered on the cuffs or collars add a bit to the jauntiness.

Touches of black velvet to set off a hat or gown are becoming almost indispensable. A bow tied loosely and set on the side of a hat of the palest blue or pink, with the ends hanging slightly over the brim, is extremely effective. Another pretty and novel idea is to wear one of these velvet knots at the nape of the neck on the slightly low neck dresses used for day wear.

A smart costume of white glace linen which is shown in the picture is made with an Eton jacket and a plain skirt trimmed with bands of pale blue linen. This is worn with a white muslin and insertion blouse and an outing hat of white linen stitched and trimmed with a bow and band of blue ribbon.

A KNAVE . . . OF CONSCIENCE. . .

—By Francis Lynde.

CHAPTER XXXV.

For a long time after the detective had gone Griswold paced the floor of the small office, treading out the winepress of humiliation and defeat, and trying, as a man may under such hard conditions, to decide upon a course of action which should be fair to all and decently fair for himself.

For a time it seemed impossible to draw any thread of sane procedure out of the revulsionary tangle in which Charlotte's confession had involved him. He told himself bitterly that she had failed him at the crucial moment; that she had stepped down from the pedestal of the ideal to become a woman of flesh and blood, loving, condoning and forgiving everything in the man to whom she had given her heart. But very quickly he was made to see the injustice of this; to see first that he had deliberately gone about to build a wall of personality around her judgment, and then, by his own confession of love, to apply a test too severe for any loving woman to withstand.

More than that, he saw that he had played the hypocrite with her even at the last moment. When he had gone to her, nothing had been farther from his thoughts than a confession of his guilt. The resolve to tell her all had come suddenly, and he had yielded to the impulse on the spur of the moment. None the less, he had let her believe that it was well considered; that he had determined beforehand upon the course he had outlined in the brief farewell.

Taking it all in all, he had an exceedingly bad half-hour after Griffin left him, and out of the fiery furnace of it emerged a man altogether different from the hot-hearted proletary who had robbed the Bayou bank. He had stood alone against the world's condemnation in that act, and had thought it defensible from an impregnable position fortified by the rights of man. But now he was made to see the act and its culpability through the magnifying glass of another's personality. He had called it a social necessity, and no sin; and yet the direct consequences of it had been to destroy his ideal of uprightness to make a pure, God-fearing woman his accomplice after the fact.

While Griswold was thus fighting his way blindly out of the darkness into the light, the net in which he had enmeshed himself was cut at the point where it was the strongest. When Dr. Farnham returned from a visit to the iron works neighborhood he found his daughter waiting for him at the gate.

"Please don't get out," she said. "I want you to take me over to the hotel on the Point. Will you?"

The father cut the buggy and gave her a hand to climb up beside him.

"What's gone wrong, Lottie?—Anything that I may know about?"

She shook her head. "Not now, poppa dear; but I must go."

She was silent and dry-eyed on the short drive; and when it was ended, and the good doctor had waited a long half-hour for her at the hotel, he drove her home and was no wiser than he had been. She had had him go in with her to send her card to Mr. Andrew Galbraith, but beyond the fact that she had been closeted for a half-hour with the white-haired banker, the father knew nothing—nor did he seek to know, having perfect confidence in his daughter.

What took place in Andrew Galbraith's sitting-room at the summer hotel was never known to any save the two who were the actors in the little drama. But when Charlotte came out Andrew Galbraith accompanied her and put her into the buggy with her father. And she was crying a little, though not as those who weep without hope.

The old banker watched the buggy as it melted into the darkness of the driveway, and shook his head.

"There goes a woman that any man might be proud to give his name till," he said. "Now, if the young deevil has half her courage—"

"A gentleman to see you, Mr. Galbraith," said the voice of the night clerk beside him. "I thought you were in your room, and I sent him there."

Griswold was standing, hat in hand, in the middle of the comfortable sitting room when the banker entered.

"I beg your pardon," he began. "The clerk told me you were here, and I found the door open."

"Sit down," said the banker, not inhospitably, drawing up his own easy chair. But Griswold remained standing.

"No," he objected. "What I have to say may be said standing. Mr. Galbraith, did you ever see me before you came to Wahaska?

The shrewd old face was unreadable by any, but if there was a certain glint of hardness in the eyes, it was tempered by the lines about the mouth.

"You wore a beard when you were in New Orleans, Mr. Griswold," he said at length.

"Then you recognized me?"

"Not at first, you may be sure."

"I suppose not; otherwise I should be awaiting my trial in the parish prison."

"Is there any good reason why ye shouldn't be?" demanded the old man, with a rasp in his voice.

"None at all, though up to an hour ago I should not have admitted it."

"And what made ye change your mind, I'd like to ask?"

"A number of things, but chiefly this: I have come to know now that what I did that morning was wrong."

"Wrong!" shouted the banker. "Are ye clean daft, man? Was there ever any doubt about its being wrong?"

"Not from your point of view, perhaps; but if it had seemed wrong to me, I should not have done it."

"You're crazy, man; clean daft, I say."

"Put it in the past tense, if you please, Mr. Galbraith. I'm in my right mind now."

"And what cured ye, I'd like to know?"

"The fact that I found out an hour ago that I had made a good woman my accomplice after the fact. There can be no question about the sinfulness of that, so I am here to do what I may in the way of reparation."

"Go on," said Andrew Galbraith.

"First about the money—"

It was the canny soul of the old Scotchman that groaned.

"Ye lost it, ye loon; I know all about that. Go on with your reparations."

"How did you know I lost it?" queried Griswold, no little mystified.

"Never you mind what I know or how I know it. Go on, I say."

"But I didn't lose it; or rather, I lost it and found it again. Odd as it may seem to you, I have never regarded the money as my own. I have held it as a fund in trust for the good of my kind. Ninety-five thousand dollars are invested in the Wahaska iron works, and there are some three thousand dollars of undivided profits due on this investment. Here is a check payable to your order for my balance at the bank—$3,940.57. The iron works stock can be sold at par to-morrow, if you like, and that, with the dividend and this balance, will make you whole again, with a small interest on the principal."

Andrew Galbraith heard him through, with grim satisfaction depicting itself on the shrewd old face. "Ye're not so bad a financier," he said. "Now, what's to become of ye?"

"That remains for you to say. You may go and ring for the police, and I'll wait here till an officer comes; or if you don't care to be mixed up in it, I'll take the first train south and surrender myself in New Orleans."

"Is that all?"

"All but one thing. If you put the iron works on the market at once it will embarrass Mr. Raymer perhaps to the point of forcing him to the wall. I have no right to ask favors of you—"

The banker sprang up and began to tramp up and down in something as nearly approaching rage as he ever permitted himself.

"Why, ye callow young fule, what d'ye think I'm made of?" he exploded. "A few hours ago you and that brave bit of a lassie—God bless her—risked your two lives to save mine. D'ye think I'll be sending you to that leevin' death in the chain gang if ye were twenty times the crazy loon ye are?"

Griswold drew himself up. "You've got it to do, Mr. Galbraith. You must not compound a felony to save me."

"Compound your grandmither!" shouted the old man. "If you go and give yourself up in New Orleans, I'll go on the stand and swear I never set eyes on ye before. Then ye'll have an old man's perjury on ye're soul to answer for. Na, na, lad; they call me a hard old skinflint, but after a' I'm just human. You've turned face about, and it's not old Andrew Galbraith who'll be piling stones in your way. Go you right away down to the doctor's and tell that brave lassie of yours what's come of it a', and tomorrow we'll see about the money matters. Maybe I'll make up my mind to let sleeping dogs lie, and set ye up as my resident manager at your iron works. Go on, ye loon, before I turn ye out."

Griswold went toward the door, with his brain in a whirl, but when his hand was on the knob Andrew Galbraith stopped him.

"Hold on a minute, I forgot. There's a man here by the name of Griffin; he knows who you are, and he'll be nabbing you." Griswold smiled. "No, he won't. He has thrown up the job, as he will probably tell you to-morrow."

"Thrown it up? What for?"

Griswold hung his head. "I—I was lucky enough to save his life, too. I—"

"That'll do; ye've a mission that way, it seems. Now, then, be off with you."

Griswold left the room and hotel, walking as one in a dream. The dream lasted until he entered the gate of Lake Lodge and saw a flutter of white on the high veranda.

"What have you done, Kenneth?" she asked, when he would suffer her to speak.

"I have done what I could, dear, and it is nothing—less than nothing, in the way of reparation. Oh, Charlotte, you must be my conscience, if you take me. I am but a sorry knave, after all."

"A knave of conscience," she murmured; and he caught at the phrases.

"That shall be the name of the new book you are going to help me write," he said quickly, confirming it with a kiss.

And so indeed it was.

The New City Palace of Millionaire Schwab

He Is Adding Another to the Many Beautiful Homes of New York City.

MANY men from states west of New York have, after accumulating enormous fortunes, returned to the metropolis to make that city their home. A number of these wealthy westerners have built or purchased elaborate homes, but they have almost invariably followed the fashion of closely crowded buildings set together so that in many instances but one wall separates the two houses, built flush with the streets, with nothing in the way of lawns or possibility for landscape decorations.

And now has come another man from out of the west—not so very far west, to be sure—who has set aside all previous conceptions of what a New York home should be, and proposes to build for comfort as well as elegance from the French renaissance to the French gothic.

The materials of which the new home is to be built is cream granite and stone, surmounted by dark blue slate roofs for the main building, and stone and brick for the two side wings.

The building will consist of cellar, basement, first, second, third and fourth stories, attic and roof terrace. In the basement will be located one of the finest natatoriums ever built, either in this country or Europe, bowling alleys and gymnasium. The first floor is to contain all the main rooms; the second floor will be given over to bedrooms almost entirely; the third floor to guests' rooms, and the fourth floor to the servants' rooms. Of the two wings of the building the one facing Seventy-third street will be occupied by the kitchen and pantries, and the one facing Seventy-fourth street will contain the art gallery.

THE SCHWAB HOME OVERLOOKING RIVERSIDE DRIVE.

To the artistic finishings of the rooms quite as much care is being given as to the construction of the building. In fact, it is in the finishings and furnishings that the artistic taste of Mr. and Mrs. Schwab will be shown to best advantage. Mr. Schwab's tastes will predominate in the Flemish den, the library, the billiard room and other portions of the house that are more distinctly masculine. The Flemish den is being designed as a place of entertainment for the personal friends of Mr. Schwab, and it is to be fitted up in such a way that will lend to comfort rather than dainty elegance. It will be a man's room in every sense.

A keynote to the whole artistic finish of the building will be given by the both inside and out. He could not be satisfied with a 25 or 50-feet frontage, but has bought an entire block 200x400 feet, and in the center of this he proposes to build a palace 75x150 feet.

That man is Charles M. Schwab, head of the billion-dollar steel trust, and in many ways the most interesting man in America. He is a self-made man in more ways than the mere accumulation of money. Coupled with the making of an enormous fortune he has cultivated a taste for the best there is in art and literature, and in the construction of his new home he proposes to combine comfort with artistic elegance. To secure these, he and his wife studied the best examples of European architecture, and it was not until they had decided upon their ideal that they gave instruction to an architect to prepare the plans.

THE RECEPTION HALL.

The site on which the New York home of the Schwabs will be built faces Riverside drive on the west and West End avenue on the east, extending from Seventy-third to Seventy-fourth stories, attic and roof terrace. the modest sum of $865,000 was paid. But this is but the beginning of expenditure. As now outlined, it will take $3,000,000 more to complete the house, and new features that will increase the cost are being added almost constantly. When completed it will be one of the most notable homes on this continent.

The style of architecture is patterned after three famous French chateaus. The main building will follow closely the architecture of the Chateau Chenonceaux, while the designs of the side and rear buildings are taken from the Chateau Blois and the Chateau Azay-Le-Rideau, all three of which have been admired by many generations of artists. It is a style of architecture that is described as the French transitional, a style that led

The building will be finished in the style of Francis I., the main hall being 2½ stories high and surrounded by a circular gallery which leads to the principal rooms on the second floor.

Many ingenious inventions are being utilized to add to the comfort of the home when it is completed. The temperature of the water in the natatorium will be regulated automatically; the lighting of all the main rooms will be from concealed and reflected overhead electric lights; in the summer time a refrigerating plant will cool the outside plant before it passes into the rooms of the house, and the air after being cooled will be circulated by electric fans and regulated automatically; in the winter the air will pass through heated radiators and the temperature regulated automatically; in the belfry of the observation tower, a set of chimes will ring the hours and half hours, and these to be connected with the observation clock at Washington.

MAX OWEN.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

Enwright is keeping up the swift pace he set in the early part of the season. At second base he has been a tower of strength for the Safe Works nine.

Wetumpkah Tribe of Red Men has called off the talked of game with their brother braves of Miantonomo Tribe. Official sanction from the organization has been withdrawn.

Teddy Overton will not be seen with the Hopes in tomorrow's game. Owing to an injury received to his hand while in camp he will be unable to play. Teddy will be among the rooters.

Winn, holding down first bag for St. Mary's, seems to be the choice of the fans as first baseman on an All-Plainfield team. Winn certainly plays good ball at the initial depot. Half of the put outs in last Saturday's game are to his credit.

Another change has been made with reference to the postponed game between the police and firemen. Tuesday afternoon is now the time set for the meeting upon the diamond. Game will be called at 3 o'clock upon the West Fourth street grounds.

Scotch Plains is looking for a chance to meet Hope chapel, despite the position arising from the refusal to comply with the Plainfielders' proposition. The out of town management is endeavoring to arrange conditions that will be acceptable to both teams.

Special headwear, similar to that adopted by other local organizations, is to be chosen by the Orange Field Club, to give its members equal prominence in the public eye. Popular choice seems to be centred upon a pattern in the shape of a skating cap, with alternate stripes of the club colors of red and white, and it is likely that this will be selected as the official hat.

One of the largest crowds of the season will no doubt be present tomorrow afternoon to see the Scotch Plains ball team and the Xavier Deaf Mutes' team of New York battle for supremacy. The Xaviers are one of the best clubs that Manager Johnston's team has met this season and when they defeated the Plains' two weeks ago showed that they could put up a fast, although silent, game of baseball. The 'Plains team promises to wipe out this defeat if possible. Whether it does or not the public is assured of a good game. Play will be called at 3:30.

Westfield and Scotch Plains are to meet on the baseball diamond sometime in the near future. Manager Johnston and Manager Denman, of the Westfields, are arranging a game or series of games, and the 'Plains lovers of the game are expecting that team to give a good account of itself when it goes against the semi-professionals. There is one thing sure Westfield will have no walk over as the 'Plains have defeated some of the same clubs that Westfield has by even larger scores on the Fourth. Garwood scored two runs against them while Scotch Plains shut the same time out 14 to 0. Of course there are the uncertainties of baseball, but the neighboring team will have no walk over when they meet.

League games scheduled for tomorrow are Hope and St. Mary's on Hope Common and Y. M. C. A. and Safe Works on St. Mary's field. The contest on Hope Common promises to be the hottest affair of the season. Hope is anxious to make it four straight against St Mary's, and the latter are bound to demonstrate that they have the ability to defeat their doughty rivals. The winning of this game means a whole lot to either team. Hope cannot afford to lose, especially should Y. M. C. A. win, and that probability is always to be considered. St. Mary's cannot afford to lose at any rate. It is a case of war to the knife. Y. M. C. A. and Safe Works are in the same relative positions. The struggle on St. Mary's field promises to be just as interesting and just as hot as the battle on Hope Common.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Interest is growing in the prospect of a revival of the matinee races at the Plainfield Driving Park. The members of the Association are working hard to get matters into schedule shape again and promise something in the way of a programme for tomorrow afternoon, as a beginning. Next week will probably witness a gathering of no small proportions, if the plans fulfil as expected.

COST OF STATE ENCAMPMENT

NEW JERSEY PAID OUT JUST $30,000 FOR SECOND BRIGADE.

Second Regiment's Share Was $8,158.75, of Which $622.50 Goes to Company K.

For the encampment of the Second Brigade at Sea Girt, during the two weeks ending last Saturday, the State expended just $30,000. About $17,000 of this sum was paid to the guardsmen for their attendance at the camp.

Quartermaster General Donnelly has already completed the payment of the men, or rather the checks have all been sent to the organization commanders for distribution among the men. The pay-rolls in both the Second and Third regiments, the battery of artillery and the troop of cavalry, comprising the Second Brigade, were kept in such a careful manner as to make possible the payment of the soldiers almost with the breaking of the camp last Saturday. Captain Armstrong, who is the paymaster of the Quartermaster General's Department, spent a couple of days each week in camp, and kept forwarding the rolls to the department here, where the checks were expeditiously prepared by Harry A Donnelly of the department.

It required $8,158.75 to pay the Second regiment. This had such a large turnout of its men as to make its pay roll greatly in excess of the Third regiment, which preceded it in camp. The Third regiment required only $6,996.25 for its pay rolls. For the artillery $899.50 was required and for the cavalry it took $810. The pay of the Brigade staff, which was in camp two weeks, aggregated $510.

The aggregate pay of the various company organizations of the Second regiment, as well as that of the field and staff officers and the music, was as follows: Field and staff officers, $690; music, $637.50; company A, $672; company B, $667.50; company C, $499.50; company D, $630; company E, $594; company F, $585; company G, $601.50; company H, $571.50; company I, $465; company K, $622.50; Company L, $604.25; company M, $338.50.

The pay of the respective members of the guard is as follows: Brigadier general, $6 a day; majors on the brigade staff, $4 a day; all officers on staff ranking below major, $3 a day; colonel, $5 a day; lieutenant colonel and majors, $4 a day; captains, $3 a day; lieutenants, $2.50 a day; non-commissioned staff officers, $2 a day; other non-commissioned officers, $1.75 a day; enlisted men, $1.50 a day.

All mounted officers, including the non-commissioned staff officers, get an additional allowance of $2 a day for horses.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Captain Joseph W. Martin, who was recently appointed to be the superintendent of the Rahway Reformatory, cherishes highly a piece of shell because of the particular attention it paid him during one of three battles in which his battery took part. The captain's story is this: "Another officer and myself were resting under a tree talking, and listening casually to the shells that flew over our heads like pigeons. I was sitting on my horse, the other gentleman was lying on the grass resting at full length. Suddenly I felt a 'ping' in my side, and putting up my hand felt the blood running. 'Say, comrade, I am hit,' says I to the officer. He made no reply, and looking at him I saw the death pallor on his face. An exact connterpart of the piece of iron that hit me had struck him in exactly the same place, passing through his body, killing him instantly. The fragment with which I was wounded had struck the ground and, rebounding, gave me the blow that nearly cost me my life, and the effects of which I feel yet at times."

Miss Matilda Coddington, of Grove street, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Flammer, of Newark.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Another Picnic.

The members of the German Lutheran church, of North Plainfield, are anticipating another picnic this season. The first one held recently at the home of Mrs. Koch at Watchung was such a success that it is now proposed to hold another outing similar in character.

The decision in the appeal cases of Daly Brothers and Geo. Cook, charged with selling oleomargarine, was rendered Wednesday in favor of the State. W. A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, represented the State.

Almost Ready.

"Well, Hetty," said Uncle Bill, "I reckon you have written your graduating essay and are about ready to say good-by to school."

"I am almost ready, Uncle William," replied Harryette. "I have selected the material for my graduating dress, and as soon as I can decide whether to carry a bouquet in my hand or wear it in my corsage I shall give some attention to other trifles of the occasion." —Judge.

MIDDLESEX MAY GIVE UP FREEHOLDER BOARD

And Substitute a Commission of Five Under Law Passed Last Winter at Trenton.

MUST BE VOTED UPON.

PETITION BEING CIRCULATED ASKING THAT QUESTION BE PUT TO VOTE.

New Brunswick Home News Tells of Progress of Movement and Some of the Arguments For and Against It.

Steps are already being taken, says The New Brunswick Home News, to submit to the voters at the coming election the act introduced by Senator Theodore Strong and passed by the last Legislature providing for a commission of five to take the place of the Board of Freeholders.

It is first required that a petition asking that the act be submitted to the people be presented, signed by 5 per cent. of the total number of voters in a county. This petition is now being circulated and already bears a great many signatures. The prospects are it will be signed by the required number, and that the act will be voted on at the fall election.

The five commissioners to be elected by the people cannot be voted for at the fall election. The law requires that the act first be submitted to the people, and that the election of these commissioners take place with the regular ticket at the following election, provided, of course, that the people vote in favor of the act.

Persons opposing the new law are trying to give the impression that, if it goes into effect, the candidate will be picked from New Brunswick, and that the rest of Middlesex county will not get a fair representation on the board. The law allows that these commissioners may be taken from any part of the county, but the politicians on either side would not dare attempt such a suicidal stroke as to show any preference. It would mean defeat in the county if all city men were nominated and disaster in the city if the men were all taken from the county. The political leaders are in duty bound to give the whole county a fair representation in the commission. They can nominate all their assemblymen from New Brunswick if they like, but they know too well that the county would not tolerate such treatment. The case is the same with the commission law. It is safe to say, however, that if the new act goes into effect the whole county will be fairly represented.

It has also been argued that five commissioners are not sufficient to govern the county. This has been shown to be untrue, as, for instance, in Pennsylvania many counties are governed by a commission of three.

EUCHRE AT HOTEL.

Guests at Park Avenue Hotel Spent Evening Playing Cards.

Ten couples gathered in the parlors of the Park Avenue Hotel last evening for the usual weekly play at euchre. After a most enjoyable time, it was found that the prizes had been captured by Mrs. Dodd, Mrs. Stothoff, Mr. Stothoff and John D. Bailey.

The first prize was a handsome tray of lacquered ware and the second a silver thimble case; while the men's trophies consisted of a silver match box and a letter holder.

Those of the guests at the table who took part in the evening play were Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Stothoff, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Squires, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Bailey, Mrs. Perkins, Miss Perkins, Mrs. Dodd, Mrs. McManus, Miss Leila Howard, Mr. Smith, Dr French, Mr. Jackson.

Held for Grand Jury.

Alfonso Bambado, up on a criminal charge in Justice Nash's court yesterday afternoon, was held in $500 bail for the action of the Grand Jury. Council for State is Walter Hetfield of Hetfield and Hetfield, and Codington and Swackhammer for the defendant.

Essay and Writer.

The prize essay on "The Probation Officer in New Jersey," written by Miss Lulu Fuller and which won the first prize, will appear in the Sunday Newark News, together with a picture of Miss Fuller.

Mrs. V. W. Laing, and daughter, Ethel, of East Front street, will leave today for a three weeks stay at Asbury Park.

REPUBLICANS IN ACCORD

FINE EXHIBITION OF HARMONY AT THE BOROUGH PRIMARY LAST NIGHT.

Seven Delegates to Congressional Election Were Chosen Without Semblance of a Fight.

Nothing in the way of a contest occurred to mar the serenity of the North Plainfield Republicans last evening at their primary election. Called for the purpose of choosing delegates to the new Fourth district Congressional convention at Flemington next Tuesday, the meeting was carried through in an harmonious ten minutes, in which all the necessary business was transacted, including the unanimous selection of the seven men who will represent the borough in making the nomination for Congress.

Fifty or more voters were gathered in Saengerbund Hall when John G. McLaughlin called the meeting to order. Former Mayor Caarles Place was named for chairman without opposition and W. W. Rowley, found himself chosen secretary in the same peaceable way. The latter then read the official call for the primaries throughout the district, after which nominations for delegates were called for.

With equal dispatch the following seven names were placed before the meeting, the nominations closed and the secretary instructed to cast the vote of the primary: Thomas Doud, Julius J. Stahl, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., W. L. Smalley, Jr., James K. Arnold, Francis J. Blatz and Horace J. Martin.

On motion, the delegates were empowered to fill their own vacancies. Adjournment was then taken, ten minutes after the meeting had been called to order.

WORD OF ST. MARY'S RECTOR

PERSONAL LETTER JUST RECEIVED BY FATHER OF REV. FATHER EGAN.

Writes in Glowing Terms of Rome and Approaching Audience With the Pope.

Not only the members of the parish of St. Mary's church, but also the many friends of the rector about the city, will be interested at the word which has just reached Plainfield in a personal letter to his father, who is making his home here for a short time. Mr. Egan heard yesterday from his son, who was at Rome when the letter was written, on July 20.

Rev. Father Egan spoke in glowing terms of the many places of interest in the eternal city which he had been visited and of his approaching audience with the Pope, to which he looked forward with most happy anticipations. On the date of writing, the Plainfielder had said mass for the first time in his stay abroad, officiating at the church of San Silvester, one of the largest and oldest of the Roman churches.

In health, Father Egan had been suffering somewhat from a slight indisposition caused by a change of diet, but he was almost recovered when he wrote. His plans were to leave Rome upon Saturday last, en route for Florence, the next stopping place upon his journey.

PING-PONG TOURNAMENT.

Being Arranged by Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A.

A ping-pong tournament is being arranged for the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. Much interest has been taken in the scheme and already a large number of entries have been received. The entries, which must be accompanied by a fee of 10 cents, will close Wednesday at noon. The money will be devoted towards buying a prize for the winning player, and at the conclusion of the tournament there will be a social session for the competitors. No more than twenty entries can be received and each player will contest in three sets.

A Pleasant Day.

A monster excursion to Asbury Park next Thursday will be that of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and Bethel chapel combined with Grace and St. Stephen's Episcopal churches. For a pleasant day by the seashore, amid ocean breezes, and salt water bathing this will be one of few remaining opportunity.

Change in Custom.

Contrary to the custom of former years, the Congregational church will be open for the regular services the first two Sundays in August. Rev. George Karner, who has recently resigned the pastorate of a large church in Albany, N. Y., will preach.

RESIDENTIAL CHANGES.

Rentals Made in Town Through the Mulford Agency.

D. G. Roesch, of Central avenue, has rented Mr. Harrison's house on West Sixth street, near Lee place, and will take possession next month. W. E. Hyatt, of Bedford Park, has rented E. J. Low's house on Fairview avenue, and takes possession September 1. Mr. Low will remove to Philadelphia, where he is now engaged in a position with the New Jersey Central. These rentals were made through the agency of Mulford, of North avenue.

POLICEMEN WERE BEATEN

PICKED TEAM OF LEAGUE PLAYERS DID THE ACT.

The Game Was Played on the St. Mary's Field Yesterday Afternoon—Score 17 to 6.

The policemen's baseball nine were up against the real thing on St. Mary's field yesterday afternoon. They faced a team composed of some of the best players in the city league, and although the guardians of the peace played with their good clothes on, they managed to make things very interesting at times for their opponents. At the end of the seventh inning the score stood 17 to 6 in favor of the picked team.

John Cose, the Hope magnate, and a member of the firemen's aggregation played out in right garden for the cops. It was Cose's debut on the ball field this year. His work was a little rocky but he showed up well at the bat. C. E. A. Heywood who got the nine together that downed the cops, also played out in centre field. It was also Mr. Heywood's first appearance on a local diamond this season and he outshone Manager Cose at every point. The other men on the two teams have frequently been seen on the ball field this summer.

The line-up was as follows:

TROUBLE OVER SCHORB'S BARN

Schorb Says He Will Build Despite Refusal of the Council to Grant Permission.

TALK OF A LAW SUIT.

Was Most Exciting Feature of an Otherwise Quiet Meeting—Mayor Wants Somerset Street Widened From Jackson Ave. to Mountain and From City Line to Front.

For a midsummer night's session last evening's meeting of the Borough Council was well attended. When the mayor rapped for order every member of the body was in his place. Little beyond routine business was transacted. A short discussion in regard to the building ordinance introduced at the last meeting and a resolution in regard to the widening of the upper end of Somerset street were the only matters of any importance before the board.

Mayor Smalley called attention to the fact that Somerset street, from Jackson avenue to Johnston's drive, in a bad condition at any time was deplorably so during a rain storm. He thought that thoroughfare should be balanced and widened as far as Johnston's drive, and that a storm sewer should be provided for. During the recent rain storms the street between these points was in an almost inpasssable condition. Even under normal circumstances the narrowness of the highway, with the trolley road in the centre, made it very inconvenient for driving purposes. Much business that would otherwise come to the borough is thus diverted to adjacent towns. The mayor signified his intention of appearing before the Plainfield Council Monday evening and asking that body to have that portion of Somerset street within the city limits widened so as to correspond with the already broadened section of the thoroughfare within the borough. Councilman Nichols acted on the mayor's suggestion and offered a resolution which was passed unanimously authorizing the street committee to look into the matter and report at the next meeting of the council.

John Schorb appeared before the board and asked permission to erect a frame extension to his present building on Manning avenue and Somerset street to be used for livery stable purposes. On the ground that a structure under the conditions provided for would be a menace to life and health, on motion of Councilman Northrop the permission was denied.

There was a question in Councilman Lee's mind as to whether such action by the council was legal, considering that the building ordinance, prohibiting the erection of other than brick or stone buildings on Somerset street, did not go into effect till last night, and that he understood that Mr. Schorb had already begun operations. He thought Councilman Northrop's resolution should be referred to the corporation counsel, in order to avoid any possibility of a suit against the borough. Councilman Lee was the only one to vote against the denying of the permission, on the grounds named, though he believed in the spirit of the resolution.

When Mr. Schorb began work a few days ago he received notice from Councilman Arnold to desist. Speaking to a reporter after the meeting Mr. Schorb claimed that there was no law for him to violate when he began, and signified his intention of going ahead with the work, and, if necessary, of legal action to uphold his stand. Members of the council, on other hand, say that the ordinance was introduced with a specific purpose in view and that no one had a right to begin building while the law was awaiting merely its second reading.

On motion of Councilman Arnold the building ordinance was amended so as to prohibit the erection of frame structures on Somerset street to the southerly line of Summit avenue, and also prohibiting the erection of like buildings on any grounds with 300 feet east or west of Somerset street. The ordinance as amended passed its second and third reading and went into effect immediately.

Nominated by the mayor, John H. Adelman and Lawrence Fahn, who have been acting as special marshals in the borough, were, on motion of Councilman Lee, authorized to serve

COME WHILE THEY LAST.

John Haffner's Cordial Invitation to the Chicken Thieves.

John Haffner, groom for Councilman George P. Mellick, has frequently suffered the loss of many chickens. Last year a number were stolen and this year they have disappeared slowly until twenty in all have been taken. Mr. Haffner says that those who have invited themselves to his chicken yard had better make the best of it this year, for next year he will not attempt to raise chickens and they may be disappointed.

WALKED OFF TROLLEY CAR

AS THE CAR HAD NOT STOPPED, THE WOMAN WAS INJURED.

She Had Child Under One Arm and Packages Under Other—M. J. Cashin Saved the Child.

Too much haste in alighting from a trolley car was responsible for a bad fall on the part of Mrs. John Craig, of New York, at Fourth and Liberty streets last evennig. Before the car had come to a standstill, the woman stepped off the platform backward, losing her balance and tumbled to the ground. She was not seriously injured.

Passengers say that the car was a considerable distance from the corner of Liberty street when the woman signalled the conductor and that as soon as he had pulled the bell, she arose and walked off the car. She had an infant under one arm and parcels under the other. M. J. Cashin, who was in the seat behind, quickly seized the child, just as the mother was about to fall.

As soon as the car stopped, the woman was taken into Mallinson's drug store and then to the home on West Sixth street where she is visiting. Dr. VanHorn was called.

On examination, it was found that two cuts on the face and a few bruises about the body comprised the extent of the injuries

SNEDEKER ALIVE.

So Arrangements for His Funeral Have Been Postponed Indefinitely.

Alexander Snedeker, formerly of Plainfield, whose death by suicide was reported in several newspapers yesterday, is a very much alive man at his home in Jamaica, Long Island, and was as much surprised as anyone to read of his own death. Some friends of the man supposed to be dead, went to Jamaica yesterday to make arrangements for the funeral, but after viewing Mr. Snedeker services were postponed indefinitely. The Western Union does not know who sent the despatch telling of the suicide.

FINED GEORGE.

He Failed to Make Strong Defence Against Wife's Charges.

Difference of opinion marked the somewhat interesting testimony offered in the city court this morning at the hearing of George Washington, on the charge brought against him by his wife, of using insulting and threatening language to her. It ended by George being fined $3. His defense consisted in abusing his better half and charging her with all sorts of misdeeds. Mrs. Washington told a straightforward story, which was accepted by City Judge Runyon.

No Lack of Good Time.

The committee in charge of the Retail Clerk's trolley excursion to Boynton Beach is doing everything in their power to make the affair a success. Good music has been secured for the occasion and there will be no lack of good time. The cars will leave the trolley depot at North avenue at 6:45 Tuesday evening.

Bitten by Dog.

John Schultiess, eight years old, of Manning avenue, was bitten Thursday evening by a dog, supposed to be mad, belonging to Joseph Haurand. Dr. Zeglio cauterized the boy's wound. Chief Campbell captured the dog and ended its earthly career.

Funeral of Mr. Yoerg.

WATER PLANT ALL READY

ELIZABETH'S NEW PLANT HAS MET ALL THE REQUIREMENTS.

Fifteen Days Test Showed That the Daily Capacity Exceeded 5,000,000 Gallons.

After a test, lasting fifteen days, ending last week, the new plant of the Elizabethtown Water Company at Springfield was declared to be satisfactory. The required capacity of 5,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours was exceeded by nearly a million gallons in the aggregate.

The test was begun on Friday, July 11, by Arthur J. Connolly, the contractor, who sank the wells. A double force of men were employed, including gaugers to read the water meters, and the machinery, consisting of four small compressors and four boilers, composing the contractor's plant, and two boilers and one large high and low pressure compressor, composing the plant of the company, was driven under forced draft. Everything passed off without a hitch.

After the test was concluded the works were closed down and will remain so for a week, while repairs are being made. When this is completed the formal turning over of the plant to the company by the contractor will take place.

John Whalen, the secretary of the company, was present when the test ended. It was anticipated that probably more water would have been obtained than there was, and a bonus was awaiting the contractor. It is said that there was an abundance of water but the power to force it out was not adequate. The plant was begun two years ago. The company has two other plants, one at Union of 4,000,000 gallons capacity, and a third in Elizabeth.

NO BASEBALL ON SUNDAY

ACTION TAKEN BY WETUMPKAH TRIBE OF RED MEN.

As Game Could be Arranged No Other Day It Was Called Off.

Sunday is not to be considered as the proper day upon which baseball games are to be played by the members of Wetumpkah Tribe, of the Improved Order of Red Men. This organization has taken a decided stand against the desecration of the Sabbath in such a manner, and placed itself on record as disapproving of sporting events conducted upon that day.

What led to this action was, primarily, the idea of another game with the members of Miantonomo Tribe. When the committee began to make arrangements, it was found that every day of the week afforded an obstacle in the way of one or more of the members of the team. When the report was made, the committee, intimating the state of affairs, tentatively suggested Sunday as the date to be selected, leaving the matter to the tribe to decide.

To the credit of the members of the organization, the tribal gathering of Thursday night promptly vetoed the suggestion by declaring that the tribe would not lend itself to an affair which thus violated an institution which, while not observed by all the members of the tribe upon the first day of the week, is nevertheless respected by them as an organization. The game, which was to have been played tomorrow, was then officially declared off, with the hope that circumstances could be so arranged in the future that a meeting may be effected between the two teams upon some secular day.

Learning of Wetumpkah's action, the members of Miantonomo, at their meeting last evening, followed similar course, discharging the baseball committee and letting the whole matter drop.

Bringing Son Home.

Councilman and Mrs. George P. Mellick, of LaGrande avenue, will return this afternoon from Norfolk, Conn., with their young son, Roger, who fractured his thigh while playing tennis. Dr. Hedges, who went to Norfolk a few days ago, will take charge of the boy. The ambulance will meet the train in this city and remove him to his home. Although the lad is improving it will be a long time before he will have the use of his limbs.

Sewer Bed Tests.

Leon R. Thurlow, health officer, has commenced a series of exhaustive tests of the sewage beds and thus far they have been very satisfactory. When Mr. Thurlow returns from his vacation he will continue the tests.

OFFICER FOR DUTY AT RAILWAY STATION

Police Board Decided to Add Another Regular Man to Force for Duty There.

NOW NUMBER SIXTEEN.

NEW MAN WILL LOOK AFTER NORTH AVENUE STATION AND VICINITY.

Trouble With Hackmen and Increasing Business Made Change Necessary—Board Took Action at a Meeting Last Evening.

Metropolitan principles have been brought into operation with regard to the police regulations of Plainfield, as far as the detail of a regular officer at the railway station is concerned. At a meeting of the Police Board last night, this decision was reached. The plan will be inaugurated at once.

For some time, it has been apparent that a man has been needed at North avenue, because of the frequent trouble among the hackmen, as well as because of the increasing traffic in that vicinity. It had been considered a wise plan to have an officer there, but the size of the force would not admit detailing a man upon that work alone, because of the needs of the other parts of the city.

Now, however, the provisions of the Police Board make it possible to bring about the desired improvement in the service. Last night's meeting arranged for the needed addition to the force, with the understanding that the extra man would allow for one to be used at the railway station and at the trolley terminus on Watchung avenue. It is generally conceded that there is work enough for a regular man between those two places. So, the beginning of a reserve squad will be made.

With the increase thus provided for, here will be sixteen regular men upon the local police force. For some time, the department has been slightly handicapped, owing to illness among the men, and especially by the absence of Patrolman Flanagan, who has been ill for months. Now, with a new man, matters will be in better shape for efficient service than ever before.

BADE FAREWELL.

Perseverace Extended Good Wishes to Trio of Members Who Are Going to SanFrancisco.

Farewells pervaded the atmosphere last evening when Perseverance Lodge extended its good wishes to the trio of comrades who are to attend the Supreme Lodge session of the Knights of Pythias at San Francisco. After the business of the evening, an impromptu programme of speech making and music was rendered in honor of the mystic three: J. E. Flannery, Jacob Blimm and Charles McGinley.

Eulogistic addresses pertinent to the occasion were made by James Paterson, David Bowden and William J. Mattox, interspersed with musical selections by Chancellor Commander Runyon and others. Replies were then made by the three departing members.

According to the plans, Mr. McGinley, with his family, will start tonight, while the other two will not set out until Monday.

Sunday's Meeting.

Harry Gee, who is a vigorous and attractive speaker, has been secured for the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Clara J. Mears, professionally known as Miss Mira Marisona, will sing and Martin A. Korff will be the violin soloist. Edson C. Martin will lead the singing. The meeting promises to be both helpful and refreshing.

Another Opportunity.

If you have another opportunity this year to go to Asbury Park be sure and go with Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., American Day, August 14. There will be councils present from every part of the State and it is planned to hold a reunion with many pleasant features. The Plainfield excursion will not leave the shore until 9 o'clock in the evening.

Buried at Hillside.

The remains of Miss Margaret Gunter were brought from Elizabeth to this city yesterday afternoon and interred in Hillside cemetery. Elizabeth Council, Daughters of Liberty, attended the funeral and conducted services at the grave, Miss Apgar and Miss Carman officiating. Miss Gunter formerly lived in this city, and was a niece of Mrs. Jacob Voehl.

A SITE HAS BEEN SELECTED

BUT LOCATION OF STATE CONSUMPTIVES' HOME NOT MADE PUBLIC.

The Commission's Committee Has Finished Its Work, But Withholds Nature of Report.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Hoboken, August 2—Colonel E. A. Stevens and the other members of the commission's committee appointed to discover and report for a site for the proposed New Jersey sanitarium for tuberculous diseases, have finished their work, but the nature of the report which they have to make has not been disclosed. It seems, however, that they found it anything but an easy task to select a site suitable in every way for the more or less unusual purpose for which it is required. There are so many considerations, by no means the least being indispensable economy, that the task is anything but an easy one.

Colonel Stevens, who has taken a very active interest in this matter from the start, in discussing the subject, said:

"It must be remembered that medicine is not an important item in the treatment of consumptives. Good, substantial food and plenty of fresh air are the agencies depended upon for the amelioration of the consumptive's condition. Now we take it that there are about 1,000 consumptives in the State. We have heard from 500, and that we estimate to be about one-half of the actual number.

"Suppose we open a home with about 200 inmates. These 200 would require food and clothing and attendance. These facts would, of course, bring us face to face with the problem of railroad facilities for both freight and passengers. It would be an important matter to locate where we can secure the lowest railroad rates, which would mean much in the economy of management at the end of each year. Then attendants would be required, and their transportation would be another matter to be considered.

"If you go to the pine woods in South Jersey," Colonel Stevens continued, "you find that there are two frightfully hot months in the summer, and you also find that the mosquitoes are a pest, but the winter is not severe, annd good water and drainage can be had. In the northern section of the State the winters are much harsher, the summer is cooler and there are no mosquitoes.

"In considering the question of a central location it must be remembered that Essex and Hudson counties show by far the heaviest returns of indigent consumptives."

The report of the committee will, it is said, be forwarded to the board of managers in a short time, and future action in connection with the report will be taken probably at the next meeting of that board.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

William L. Perrine, of Rockview terrace, has gone to Toronto and other Canadian points, to spend the summer.

J. H. VanWinkle and family, of Duer street, will leave next week to spend the remainder of the summer at Asbury Park.

BAND CONCERTS AT WESTFIELD

THE FIRST OF A SERIES WILL BE HELD THERE THIS EVENING.

Sufficient Funds Raised to Give Concerts Every Saturday Evening in August.

Westfield, August 2—The people of Westfield and vicinity are to be entertained by band concerts Saturday evenings during the month of August by Otis Ballard's Aeolian Brass Band, which has furnished excellent music here on several public occasions.

The concerts have been arranged for by Harry P. Condit, secretary of the Fair Acres' Driving Club, who has hustled about and secured enough to warrant four concerts at $50 each. Four concerts are therefore assured and more may be given should the public favor the plan and contribute liberally for the amusement.

The first concert will be given this evening at the corner of Broad and Prospect streets, on the property known as the Whitaker lot.

Otis Ballard, the director of the band, is a musician of ability and has secured players who have been with some of the best bands in the country. It is his purpose to give the public classical music, and also popular music of the day. During the season the programme will include solos by the several players in the band. In the event of rain the programme for the first concert will be postponed until the following Saturday.

The programme for the concert to be given this evening is as follows;

PART I.

Prelude—America.
March—"American Guard" . . . . . E. Brooks
Waltz—"Visions of the Past" . . . . . Rollinson
Overture—"Poet and Peasant" . . . . . Suppe
Medley—"'Way Down in Old Indiana," Chattaway
March—"Chicago Post" . . . . . Brooks

INTERMISSION.

PART II.

"On the Levee" . . . . . Milt. Hall
(An African two-step.)
Overture—"Welcome" . . . . . Catlin
Schottische—"The Honeysuckle and the Bee," Penn
Patrol—"Spanish March Past . . . . Laurendeau
"March of the Marines" . . . . . Brooke
"Home, Sweet Home."

WANTS TO PLAY.

Plainfield A. A. Asks to be Considered for Championship Team of the City.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Your article in Tuesday's paper in reference to sending a representative team to Westfield in response to that club's challenge, seems to have stirred up considerable interest in the subject. While your motive in trying to arrange such a game is landable, there is little doubt of its outcome.

I think you will admit that, as present constituted, there is no team in the League that would have a chance against the Westfielders. Not to mention the difficult task it would be to select the most competent players, it is a well known fact, demonstrated in the National League, that a team composed of individual "stars" very seldom proves a success. Team work is far more important, and is the main factor in winning games. To say that it would take a month or two of constant playing together before any aggregation could hope for success against the Westfield club, is no exaggeration. However since the challenge has been issued, the course you have taken is to be commended, as it gives the boys a chance to defend the sporting integrity of Plainfield.

I am writing this as a representation of the "Plainfield A. A.," recently reorganized, and whose members are willing to stand by you and give Westfield a game, provided we can prove that we are entitled to it, by defeating any other team in Plainfield. To that end we suggest that the winner of the League championship first play us—for to such a game we should be justly entitled—that is if team selected is to represent the city of Plainfield, and not necessarily the League only.

We are not over-estimating our strength, but merely ask for recognition in this matter. As the games with Westfield are to be played late in the season, we hope to be in shape to give any team hereabouts a good argument by then.

Yours truly.
C. S. Tapscott,
Secretary "Plainfield A. A."

Sale of Delinquent Lands for Unpaid Taxes and Assessments.

Collector's Office, City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

JULY 26, 1902.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, and by the direction of the Common Council of said City, will expose for sale and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, (but not for less than the amount due from the same, as appears in the following schedule, with interest and costs) on Friday, the twenty-ninth day of August, A. D., 1902, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day at the said Collector's Office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said City, certain lots, tracts and parcels of land situated in the First, Second, Third and Fourth Wards of said City, upon which the taxes and assessments have remained unpaid for the space of two years from and after the time, when they were due and payable.

This sale is made under the provisions of the 13th Section of an Act entitled, "An Act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments and water rates or water rents in Cities of this State, and imposing and levying a tax, assessment and lien in lieu and instead of such arrearages, and to enforce the payment thereof, and to provide for the sale of lands subjected to future taxation and assessment," passed March 30, 1885, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the lands to be sold may be obtained at the office of the subscriber on any week day prior to the day of the sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The following list contains the lot and block numbers of the lots, tracts and parcels of land to be sold in pursuance of this advertisement, as they appear on the official assessment maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, together with a statement of the Wards of the City wherein said lands are respectfully situated, and the amount due from each of said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot or parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest as indicated, and also its proportionate share of the costs of this sale, which is hereby estimated at Three Dollars for each item of arrearage thereon.

All lots so sold will be purchased subject to all taxes and assessments levied thereon subsequent to November 20th, 1899.

Baldwin Turns Back After a Year's Work—Will Try Again.

HONNINGSVAAG, Norway, Aug. 2.—Evelyn B. Baldwin, the arctic explorer, has arrived here. He reported all his men in good health and said:

"We have been baffled, but not beaten. The year's work has been successful in that enormous depots of condensed food have been established by means of sledges, one in Rudolf Land, within sight of the Italian expedition headquarters, another in latitude 81 degrees 33 minutes and a third at Kane lodge, Greely island.

"These depots, together with houses and stores left at Camp Ziegler, will afford the means for a large polar dash in 1903.

"The breaking up of ice early in June compelled the use of reserve supplies; hence the departure from Camp Ziegler on July 1 in order not to imperil the expedition.

"I discovered Nansen's hut, recovering original documents and securing paintings of the hut.

"In the field work 30 men, 23 ponies, 60 sledges and 170 dogs were employed from Jan. 21 to May 21, and this severe work resulted in the destruction of sledges and depletion of the food for ponies and dogs, thus rendering our return imperative."

Mr. Baldwin sailed for Vardoe, Norway, on July 30, 1901. An auxiliary expedition started from Vardoe on July 7, 1902, under command of William S. Champ to join him.

BOERS RETURN TO HOMES.

A Rapid Resettlement of Families Since the War.

PRETORIA, Aug. 2. — Excellent progress is being made in resettling the Boer farms. Already 9,000 families have been reinstalled on their lands, although the work of replacing the farmers has been accompanied by many difficulties, especially in securing and feeding horses and cattle.

Much complaint was caused by the military authorities selling at auction live stock, which was bought up by speculators who are reselling at large profits at the expense of needy farmers.

The dispersal of army horses has been accompanied by an epidemic of glanders, which is now raging in Cape Colony.

A New Armor Plate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The navy people hope to offset the recent development in high explosives and armor piercing projectiles by the army through a considerable improvement in the resisting power of the armor plating of a battleship. Lieutenant Cleland Davis, attached to the naval ordnance bureau, has produced an armor plate, which was recently tested at the proving grounds at Bethlehem, Pa., and the results encouraged the naval officials here to believe that the armor plate has again overtaken the gun in the never ending struggle for supremacy. This plate is obtained by a novel process, carbon being driven directly into the surface of the hot plate by an intensely powerful current of electricity, the result being a face as smooth as glass and of any thickness desired, supported by a tough back, which, it is claimed, cannot be cracked. The depth of the hardening is regulated by the length of time the current plays upon the plate.

Tracy Seen Again.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 2.—Harry Tracy, the escaped convict, crossed Colum river at Moses Coulee ferry, eighteen miles south of Wenatchee, at 11 o'clock Wednesday night and is now somewhere in the broken country of Moses and Grand Coulees in central Douglas county. The news was brought to Wenatchee by Sam McEldowney, who lives seven miles south of Wenatchee.

Fatality From a Falling Scaffold.

BUFFALO, Aug. 2.—While four men were climbing around on some scaffolding at the Schreck elevator yesterday it gave way. Two of the men saved themselves by catching ropes, but the other two, William Bird and William Harris, were precipitated to the ground, sixty feet below. Bird was killed and Harris seriously injured. The men had been warned that the scaffolding was unsafe.

A Balance on the Wrong Side.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The monthly comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of July, 1902, the receipts amounted to $49,305,691 and the expenditures $56,813,567, leaving a deficit for the month of $7,507,876.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

MITCHELL TO MINERS

Rousing Mass Meeting at Scranton Addressed.

STRIKERS URGED TO HOLD OUT.

President of Mine Workers' Union Says if This Struggle Is Won There Will Be an End to Strikes.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 2.—The first of the series of strikers' mass meetings planned to take place at the various strike centers was held yesterday in the Round woods. There were 7,000 strikers present from all parts of the city and the adjoining towns, some locals having marched four miles to the meeting, headed by a band or drum corps and carrying flags and banners. National President John Mitchell, District President T. D. Nicholls, District Vice President Adam Ryscavage, District Secretary John T. Dempsey, Organizer Mortini Memolo and Subdistrict President Theophilus Phillips delivered addresses. Vice President Ryscavage spoke in Polish and Organizer Memolo in Italian.

Mr. Mitchell's speech was brief and dealt only with the live issues of the fight. He said in part:

"It has been said by some who are not your friends that the miners of the Scranton region are getting tired of the strike and are about to return to work. I come to find out if this is so. I want to know if you are going to return to work, dishonoring your organization and dishonoring yourselves. If the strike is lost, may God Almighty help the men, women and children who depend for their subsistence on the mining of anthracite coal. If the strike is lost, you will pay the cost of the strike.

"I want to say that the anthracite miners went on strike themselves. They themselves voted for the strike. It was not the officers of the United Mine Workers who called the strike. It will never end until you vote it ended.

"From the offices of the coal presidents in New York comes the declaration that the strike will be settled only in their own way of settling it. I would direct your attention to similar declarations made in the 1900 strike. The coal trust may be powerful and strong, but the American people, whose hearts throb in sympathy with the miners' cause, are stronger than the coal trust.

"I understand there is some dissatisfaction and misunderstanding about the distribution of the relief fund. The operators have sent men among you to urge you to be dissatisfied. Through the newspapers they have told you that you were dissatisfied. We have sent a circular to all the locals which will explain in detail the plans for distributing relief, and I trust when you hear it read there will be an end to dissatisfaction and misunderstanding. While we haven't got millions, we have enough to see to it that no miner will starve during the continuance of the strike.

"I want to appeal to men with means to refrain from applying for relief. Let the fund be used by those who are in absolute need of help. Be patient with your committees. Put your shoulder to the wheel and do your share of the work. Don't depend altogether on your officers to win your fight. If we are to win, we must all help.

"The one among you who violates the law is the worst enemy you have. No one is more pleased than the operators in New York to hear of disorder in the coal regions. I want our men to exercise their rights that inure to them under the laws, but I want that no man shall transgress the laws.

"The strike will be won. I have no more doubt about it than I have that I am standing here addressing you.

"The operators are trying to make it appear that the strike is beginning to break up. There is a saying that those who come from afar can lie with impunity. At Shamokin the operators tell the strikers that the men at Wilkesbarre are returning to work, at Wilkesbarre they tell them the men at Shamokin are returning, and at other places they tell them the men at Scranton are weakening. I fail to see any signs of weakening here.

"If you lose the strike, the operators will make you pay for their strike losses by reducing your wages, and if you lose the strike you lose your organization. I trust and hope and constantly pray you will stand as you did in 1900."

Before the handshaking episode began Chairman Phillips asked all who favored a fight to a finish to raise their hands. Every hand went up.

Twenty-five years ago, Aug. 1, 1877, 10,000 striking miners who had been out for six months met at this same Round woods in almost the identical spot where yesterday's meeting was held and with uplifted hands avowed that they would not return to work until their demands were granted. That afternoon occurred the memorable riot on Lackawanna avenue, when a company of hastily formed vigilantes killed two men and fired upon a procession made up of strikers from this and another mass meeting who were bent on burning breakers and who had nearly killed Mayor McKune when he tried to halt them. A week later the miners went back to work without gaining any concessions.

Quiet at Shenandoah.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 2.—All is quiet in Shenandoah and surrounding country, and the general feeling of uneasiness which has prevailed is rapidly disappearing. The troops spent the time in perfecting their camp arrangements, and comparatively few of them are in town. No one is permitted out of camp after dark.

BIG BATTLE RAGES.

Colombian Rebels and Government Troops Meet.

FOUR DAYS' STRUGGLE AT AGUA DULCE

Peace Commissioners Forced to Return to Panama Without Completing Their Mission—General Berti Confident of Victory.

PANAMA, Colombia, Aug. 2.—A severe engagement has been fought between the revolutionary forces under General Herrera and the government troops at Agua Dulce. The battle began on Tuesday, July 29. Two hundred of the revolutionists are said to have been killed or wounded. The government troops have not suffered heavily. Ammunition is being sent from here to the government troops.

The peace commissioners who left here July 29 on the British steamer Cana to visit the revolutionary general Herrera, near Agua Dulce, have returned to Panama. They were unable to fulfill their mission because of the severe engagement between Herrera's forces and the government troops.

At 5 o'clock Thursday morning the best battalions of the revolutionary forces attacked the government intrenchments with fierce courage. The slaughter of the revolutionists is said to have been excessive and barbarous. That same afternoon the white flag was raised in their camp, and they asked for an armistice during which they could bury their dead. This was granted. The loss of the rebels up to Wednesday, July 30, were reported at over 200, while the government forces had eight men killed and eleven wounded.

General Moreno, one of the peace commissioners who returned, says the intrenchments at Agua Dulce are masterpieces of military art.

At the expiration of the time of armistice the engagement recommenced with the same fierceness. Nine government battalions which had not taken part in the fight were still being held in reserve.

General Salazar, governor of Panama, has received a letter from the government general Morales Berti saying he is very enthusiastic as to the outcome and that he hopes to win a battle which will decide the fate of the isthmus. General Salazar, in his turn, is doing everything in his power to help General Berti.

The King Gains Strength.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—King Edward daily increases his walking exercise, upon which his physicians no longer place any restraint. There is now no doubt that his majesty will be strong enough to undergo the coronation ceremonies Aug. 9, but in order to guard against contingencies a special movable chair is being prepared for his majesty's use should it be found necessary. The king is expected to remain on board the royal yacht at Cowes until the latest possible moment on Friday, the 8th, if this is possible, but there is a strong probability of his coming to London Thursday. His majesty is in excellent spirits.

A Dangerous Derelict.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2.—The wanderings of the lumber laden derelict schooner B. R. Woodside, which has been drifting about the Atlantic below Cape Hatteras for five months, a danger to navigation, is plotted on the July issue of the North Atlantic Pilot Chart, just made public by the local hydrographic office. This craft was abandoned March 1 and bids fair to become one of the ocean's famous derelicts. Since that time she has been sighted by vessels not less than thirty-six times.

Architects Sue New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Horgan & Slattery, the firm of young architects hoisted to fame and fortune by the last Tammany administration, have begun to fight the city for amounts alleged to be due to them on contracts awarded to the firm by Mayor Van Wyck and the Tammany board of estimate. The filing of the suits is the answer of Horgan & Slattery to the announcement of Mayor Low that they would not be allowed to do any of the work authorized by the Tammany administration.

A Bungling Hanging.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 2.—George Robinson was hanged at Wise Court House, Va., yesterday for the murder of another negro. On the first drop the rope broke. He was brought up the steps on the outside of the scaffold for the second drop and had to wait until the sheriff went to a store and secured another rope. He was conscious throughout the whole time and did not show the faintest sign of collapse. A thousand people witnessed the execution.

Could Not Swim the Channel.

DOVER, Aug. 2.—Holbein, who started from Cape Gris-Nez in an attempt to swim across the English channel, gave up when eight miles off this place. He had encountered an unexpectedly strong tide, against which it was useless to contend. He left the water unaided and feeling fresh. He had been in the water twelve hours and twenty-two minutes and covered, at a rough estimate, about thirty miles. He will make another attempt.

Diavolo Badly Hurt.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Diavolo, the American bicyclist, while "looping the loop" at the Westminster Aquarium yesterday afternoon fell from his wheel and was seriously injured. The bicycle was smashed. This is the second accident Diavolo has met with within a week. He fell last Monday night while giving a performance, but his heavily padded clothes saved him from serious injury.

Hay's HAIR-HEALTH FREE
Keeps You Looking Young
Test Its Hair Growing Powers

A BOTTLE FREE.

To prove what this great Hair Beautifier will do for you, every reader of this paper who is troubled with dandruff or with the appearance of gray or faded hair or bald spots may have by mail a FREE sample bottle. (See Free Bottle Offer below.)

Don't Look Old.
A feeling of regret comes with the first gray hairs. They stand in the way of business and social advancement. Hay's Hair-Health affords a sure means of restoring to the hair the beauty of youth.

Stops Falling Hair.
"My hair is now restored to its youthful color. I have not a gray hair left. My husband says I look 20 years younger, and my hair ceases to fall, while before I was in danger of becoming bald."

A Public Boon.
Hay's Hair-Health has earned this title, and thousands are enjoying fine heads of hair produced by this preparation. It quickly cleanses the scalp, removes dandruff, stops falling and breaking of the hair, and changes it if gray to its youthful color and luxuriance.

Stains Nothing.
It is not greasy or sticky; not a dye; does not rub off. Never soils anything. It is made from absolutely pure ingredients and may be safely used by old or young. Hay's Hair-Health is a clean, creamy dressing, delicately perfumed and highly desirable in every way.

In 1900-1901 this preparation was tested to the extent of over five million bottles in the United States and British possessions. It is highly endorsed by the nobility.

One Bottle Does It.
That is the expression of many who have had their gray hairs restored to youthful color and their bald spot covered with hair after using one bottle of Hay's Hair-Health.

No More Gray Hair.
Should you live to advanced age, if you use Hay's Hair-Health occasionally it is a vital hair food.

Guaranteed
TO QUICKLY RESTORE FADED, BLEACHED or WHITE HAIR to youthful color without staining the skin. An occasional application keeps the hair soft, glossy, of silken texture and disposed to remain in any desired position. Every lady needs a bottle on her dresser.

Harfina Soap.
Nothing like it for keeping the scalp free from dandruff, the hair silken, and the skin clear and rosy. Dandruff causes baldness. To keep the hair, scalp and beard in healthy condition, make a strong lather of Harfina Soap and shampoo freely. If it is desired to restore gray hair to youthful color, apply Hay's Hair-Health after shampoo. The grayness will disappear and the hair grow forth in its youthful color and beauty.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Light Record of Failures in July Metal Workers Busy.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Commercial failures during the month of July testify to the prosperous condition of the nation's trade and industry. Only one month of the preceding thirty-two recorded a smaller aggregate of defaulted indebtedness, while, omitting the few exceptionally heavy failures, the average liability to each default was much smaller than in the corresponding month of any year during the decade. There were 825 suspensions in July, 1902, involving a total indebtedness of $6,932,851. In the same month last year failures numbered 697, with liabilities of $7,035,933, and in July, 1900, there were 793 defaults for $9,771,775.

With business in sight for at least a year, the leading departments of the iron and steel industry may properly be considered prosperous. Notwithstanding the rapid increase in producing capacity, consumptive demand has grown still faster, and the recent official report of a new high record of pig iron production at 8,808,574 tons for the first half of 1902 is accompanied by the statement that unsold stocks at the end of that period were only 29,861 tons compared with 372,560 tons a year previously.

Grain prices declined sharply as the month of speculative manipulation drew to a close, and legitimate trading resumed a more normal volume. Wheat was least affected by option fluctuations, easing off in response to the steadily increasing receipts, which for the week aggregated 7,450,907 bushels against 6,508,311 a year ago, when the movement was considered exceptionally heavy. Foreign purchasers exhibited more interest at the lower quotations, exports from all ports of the United States amounting to 3,041,577 bushels, flour included.

The New Gunboats.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The board of construction of the navy department has decided upon the general plans for the two new gunboats authorized by the last naval appropriation act. They will follow very closely the Marietta type. The displacement will be slightly in excess of that of the Marietta, being 1,050 tons as against 1,000 tons in the case of the Marietta, and this will probably decrease the speed with the same horsepower, 1,000 in each case, from thirteen knots to approximately 12½. The batteries will be identical with those of the Marietta and Wheeling, six 4 inch guns, four 6 pounders and two 1 pounders.

Earthquake Shocks Continue.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Aug. 2.—During yesterday four severe shocks of earthquake were felt in Los Alamos valley, and several buildings not already destroyed were cracked badly. One immense structure belonging to Juan Careaga, a short distance from Los Alamos, was turned partly around on its foundation. Everybody who could has left Los Alamos, many departing on a special train sent from San Luis Obispo. Late advices state that the earth continues to tremble at intervals.

Million Dollar Fund Pledged.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The international committee of the Young Men's Christian association announced yesterday that it had been pledged the million dollar endowment fund for which it had been striving and for which the impulse had been given during the jubilee year by the promise of $250,000 from one of its best friends. Of the amount pledged six persons gave $632,000. Only 150 persons besides association secretaries were asked to subscribe, and of that number fifty-six contributed.

Heavy Rains in the Southwest.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 2.—The steady downpour of rain which began Tuesday morning has ceased. Reports from Mississippi, Arkansas, west Tennessee and north Alabama are to the effect that the rain was the heaviest experienced in years. At Memphis the precipitation for twenty-four hours was [illegible] inches. In Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee crops generally were benefited, but in a few localities the downpour was so violent as to destroy the younger crops.

Insurrection Leader Executed.

PEKING, Aug. 2.—Ching Ting Ping, the leader of the recent insurrection in the southern part of Chili province, who was erroneously reported to have been killed in an engagement with government troops last May, has been captured in Honan province and executed. His head has been exhibited at the scenes of his exploits as a warning.

Two Boys Drowned.

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., Aug. 2.—Harry Weller, aged seventeen years, and Leonard Stein, aged eighteen years, of this city were drowned at Lakeside, a short distance from here. The two boys, with three others, were rowing on the dam at that place when the boat capsized, and the boys named sunk before assistance could reach them. The others were rescued.

Month's Coinage.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The monthly coinage statements issued by the director of the mint shows that during July, 1902, the total coinage executed at the mints of the United States was $4,576,800, as follows: Gold (double eagles), $2,120,000; silver, $2,254,000; minor coins, $202,800.

Kaiser Wants to See Kitchener.

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—The kaiser has sent a pressing invitation to Lord Kitchener to visit Germany. The imperial letter states that the entire German army would esteem it a privilege to be allowed to welcome so distinguished a soldier.

MORGAN TO RETIRE?

Great Financier Reported to Be In Failing Health.

PERKINS NAMED AS HIS SUCCESSOR.

It Is Said the Tremendous Strain of Recent Years Has Sapped the Banker's Strength and Made Further Work Impossible.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 2.—A New York dispatch received here says:

"Wall street is discussing a rumor that J. Pierpont Morgan is to retire from the management of the vast interests in his hands and that formal announcement of his retirement will be made when he returns from Europe. Financiers say that private information regarding Morgan's health give much color to the rumor.

"So definite is the story that it gives the name of George W. Perkins as the man who is to succeed Morgan in directing the affairs of the million and billion dollar aggregations controlled by the big banker."

Morgan's continued stay in Europe and his repeated visits to famous physicians and health resorts all lend color to the story of failing health. The tremendous strain of recent years has worn out the great trust promoter, and he finds himself at a point where further work is impossible. It is said that Mr. Morgan will retain an advisory connection.

George W. Perkins, who is named as the future king of the street, has been Morgan's right hand man for two years. He is but forty years old and has spent nearly all of these years in the life insurance business. He began in Cleveland ten years ago.

Two years ago he was paid a salary of $300,000 per year to become Morgan's right hand man. He is chairman of the finance committee of the steel trust. He planned the Northwestern Securities company, settled the Northern Pacific war, conducted the Louisville and Nashville purchase and is the prime mover in the Southern Securities company.

A Grain Elevator War.

BUFFALO, Aug. 2.—The Commercial says: "It is learned that the Great Northern elevator, capacity 3,000,000 bushels, has withdrawn from the Western Elevating association. The Great Northern elevator is owned by the interests controlled by James J. Hill, owner of the Great Northern railroad and one of the principal factors in the Northern Pacific railroad. The withdrawal of the Great Northern from the Western Elevating association was followed immediately by discrimination on the part of railroads controlled by the Vanderbilt interests against the Great Northern. In brief, a fight is on now between the Vanderbilt interests and James J. Hill. It is also learned that the railroads are discriminating against all the elevators in the Elevator Owners' association, the new elevator pool that was organized recently in this city."

A Novel Riding Tournament.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2.—The novel spectacle of a riding tournament in which all the participants were young ladies of Maryland's best society took place yesterday in Baltimore county. The usual procedure was reversed, the chief marshal and assistants, heralds, judges and timekeepers being women, while the eleven contestants were all well known society women. Their riding was spirited and daring, many of them being able to take the rings with manly skill. After the tournament had ended each of the victorious feminine tilters crowned her favorite male friend. One thousand spectators were present.

Foreign Company Reaching Out.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 2.—It has been definitely announced that the Imperial Tobacco Company of Great Britain and Ireland wil enlarge its operations here and immediately begin the construction of a mammoth plant in this city. The company has recently completed the purchase of a site upon which the factory will be built. It is understood that the concern intends to further extend its proposed plant by acquiring other property adjoining that just purchased.

Wires Must Go Down.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 2.—Notices have been ordered sent by the subway commission to the United Electric Light and Power company and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company, giving them the usual six months' notice to bury all of their wires underground in the congested sections. This notice was the result of the announcement by Subway Engineer Phelps that the subway system down town has been practically completed.

Library Cornerstone Laid.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 2.—With brief ceremonies the cornerstone was laid yesterday of the building for which Andrew Carnegie gave the city of Syracuse $200,000, the building to be used for the public library of the city. Owing to the crowding of the site with building material the public was not generally permitted to watch the ceremonies, which were directed by Mayor Jay B. Kline.

Monthly Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The monthly statement of the national debt shows that at the close of business July 31, 1902, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $973,910,367, which is an increase as compared with July 1 of $4,453,126. This increase is accounted for by the reduction in the amount of cash on hand.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; fresh south winds, becoming variable.

NEEDS ATTENTION.

The attention of the Mayor and the officials of the street department is called to the condition in which the local trolley company has left certain portions of Watchung avenue. It is the old trouble. The roadway is torn up to allow the trolley company to make certain repairs to its tracks and then there is little or no attempt made to put the street back as it should be. Like cases have happened often before. Here is another instance which the city officials can see for themselves by walking through Watchung avenue where the trolley runs.

According to the franchise of the trolley company, it must put the road back into just as good condition as it was before the repairs were made. That was a provision which was expressly stipulated by the members of the Common Council who made the agreement with the trolley company. It was designed to prevent just such instances. As long as it exists in black and white in the contract with the trolley company, it should be inforced.

This is another instance of the disadvantages of a large system of which the Plainfield lines become only a "small drop in the bucket." The trolley officials do not know the provisions of the local ordinances and do not care as long as the municipal officials make no objection. If the subject was brought to their attention in an emphatic way, there is no doubt that they would act. Until they hear from the city authorities it is probable that they will take their time about making such repairs to the roadway.

Probably one of the most aggravated cases was that of the switch on East Fifth street. The road was left in horrible condition for weeks and today is not what it should be. The trolley company need not be expected to act unless the city shows an inclination to hold the company to its promises. It is therefore time that either Mayor Jenkins or the ones in authority in the city street department brought this subject home to the street railway company. If the local representatives of the company fail to act, Col. Hine can always be reached and is always ready to hear any complaint and to give it investigation.

Because certain residents of Hunterdon county were not satisfied with a particular stone bridge near Flemington and because the Board of Freeholders of that county refused to build a new one, that same bridge went up in the air early the other morning with the aid of some dynamite. It is generally believed that some of the neighbors are responsible for the explosion. The Freeholders have offered a reward to discover the ones responsible but it certainly looks as if the Board would have to rebuild the bridge all the same.

The price of coal in Plainfield has gone up again. It has now reached the figure of $7 a ton for the better grades. Even at that rate there is little coal to be had. According to a conservative estimate, the entire supply for the city only amounts to 1,500 tons which will only last until the middle of September. The dealers are confident that the trouble at the mines will be settled long before that and that no coal famine need be expected. Let us hope that such will be the case.

There is no doubt that the cause of good roads owes a great deal to the League of American Wheelmen. Now, however, when good roads are becoming common and bicycle rides for pleasure scarce, the L. A. W. is fast losing ground. Its membership in New Jersey is now so small that the State Division has been abolished. Unless the League can discover a new field, it looks as if its day had gone by.

A leading wholesale advertising manager, who considers advertising the life-blood of trade, says the modern grocer can interest the public in his advertisements every day in the year, according the Philadelphia Record. "He has goods from every part of the world, and can make a daily story which everybody will read, and which will swell his revenues."

From all accounts, the Republicans of Union county, even if they are in the midst of a bitter factional difference, will sit down together at a sumptuous banquet when their annual outing takes place next week.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Creoleum, the modern disinfectant and insecticide, is for sale by R. J. Shaw, the druggist. It fills the bill in every respect of safety and surety.

Ping-pong cake is the latest compound of goodness invented by John Wirth, the West Front street baker. It will make an acceptable addition to the tea table.

Does your watch lose time? Of course, you will continue to carry it around and lose two or three trains before bringing it to L. Moraller & Son, Park avenue.

For satisfaction in your groceries—at prices to please evreybody—try George W. Kirch, the Liberty street grocer. If you deal with Kirch your mental happiness is ensured.

That special sale of pictures continues to attract patrons to the Plainfield Art Gallery, in the Y. M. C. A. building. Some gems in the way of water colors and etchings are to be found in the collection.

Bargains in every department of the grocery trade are to be found at the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company's store. Their standards in coffees and teas are the highest, and the other goods follow suit.

PERSONAL.

DUNELLEN.

At the meeting of Defender Fire Company, held in the Town Hall Thursday evening, action was taken to secure a better fire alarm. At present the whistle is not always satisfactory and an alarm is wanted nearer the centre of the town. A committee was appointed consisting of Messrs. Wyckoff, N. Apgar, and Swackhamer, to look into the matter and report at a later date. It is probable that the kind of alarm that will be gotten will be of the wagon wheel kind with a spring hammer.

A jolly crowd of people came here from Rahway on the trolley and were entertained by the Christian Endeavor Society at the Presbyterian chapel last evening. Although it rained hard their spirits were not dampened and they enjoyed the entertainment provided for them. They returned home about 10 o'clock in the evening.

The brass band met last evening and serenaded the trolley party from Rahway in the Presbyterian church. The members of the band are endeavoring to get money to buy uniforms and are meeting with great success.

The local baseball team is confident of defeating Raritan today. This is the third meeting of the season. One game was stopped by rain and an other was won by Dunellen.

Joel Giddes is still kept at home as a result of injuries received in a railroad accident some time ago.

Lewis Schneider has been obliged to keep to the house because of illness during the past week.

Miss Majorie Burke, of Prospect avenue, is entertaining a friend from out of town.

The Misses Barrett have returned home after a vacation at Marlboro, N. Y.

Lewis Harris has lately removed from the lake house on Front street.

Herbert Richardson is spending Saturday and Sunday at Bath Beach.

Mrs. Edward Brook entertained relatives from Roselle yesterday.

Miss Nellie Dodwell is spending today in Newark with friends.

Chas. Bergen, of Elizabeth, was in town on business yesterday.

Henry Garretson spent yesterday near Neshanic on business.

Mayor Swackhamer entertained out of town friends yesterday.

Barney Siriski has secured an assistant in his barber shop.

The Y. M. C. team has no game scheduled for today.

NEW MARKET.

A crowd of rooters will accompany the baseball team to Metuchen today to see them play the strong Metuchen A. C. At the last meeting the locals proved victorious by a score of 5 to 1 in a hot game and are confident of repeating their victory.

Rev. Frank Fletcher will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church at Scotch Plains tomorrow morning. Rev. G. B. Shaw, of Plainfield, will occupy Mr. Fletcher's pulpit.

A party from Plainfield who were rowing on the lake last evening got caught in the rain and were well soaked before they reached shelter.

The night of prayer meeting in the First Baptist church has been changed from Friday to Wednesday night.

Prayer meeting was held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church last evening as usual.

Thomas S. Conner, of Bound Brook, spent yesterday visiting friends in town.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Services at the Baptist church tomorrow will be: Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching, 10:30; Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, will preach, Rev. Mr. Shott occupying the pulpit at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield. At the close of the sermon the monthly observance of the Lord's Supper will be held. B. Y. P. U. service as usual in the evening at 7. No evening preaching service during the month of August.

The Board of Education is about to discard the old method of trying to heat the school building during the cold weather and a new steam heating plant will be installed in the near future.

The several Sunday-schools in the village expect to take a large crowd of their friends with them on their annual union excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, Tuesday.

Sunday preaching services, which were discontinued at the Methodist church during July, will be resumed again tomorrow. Rev. Mr. Glazer will occupy the pulpit.

The members of the Farther Light Society, of the Baptist church, held their regular montlhy meeting in the parlors of the church yesterday afternoon.

A number from town and Plainfield attended the picnic at Hess's Grove, Berkeley Heights, last night. Music was furnished by Naylor's orchestra.

Frederick Ivamy, of the Scotch Plains Hotel, is arranging to hold a clam bake Thursday afternoon.

A meeting of the board of trustees of the Methodist church was held in the church last night.

Several from town attended the Gospel service at Camp Woolf, Westfield, last night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Services at the Baptist church tomorrow morning will be conducted by Rev. L. E. Livermore, of New Market, who will preach in place of the pastor.

The mill-house, which has been vacant for some time past, is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. David Richards. Mr. Richards moved yesterday.

William Faulks is able to be about again after several days of confinement with rheumatism.

Mrs. Darlington, of New York, was the guest of Mrs. W. E. Smith, yesterday.

Thomas Brantingham is entertaining a friend from out of town.

NEW PAPER.

The Central Star, Real Estate Publication, to Appear at Bound Brook This Month.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Aug. 2—A new paper is to be started here about Aug. 15, to be called The Central Star. It will be devoted to the real estate interests and building trades of Somerset, Union, Middlesex and Mercer counties.

F. M. Messler, for a long time local editor of The Somerset Democrat, at Somerville, and now of The State Centre-Record, Bound Brook, will be the editor. Its aim will be to bring to the attention of outside capitalists, manufacturers and home-seekers the advantages of central New Jersey.

After a Free Lunch.

To get a free lunch, two men broke into the eating tent at Galvin's Park early yesterday morning. Otto Voeren, the proprietor, discovered them and they were arrested by Officer Pangborn, of Scotch Plains, and taken before Justice Clark. The court committed them to the county jail to await the action of the Grand Jury. The men gave their names as Louis Acken and Max Weinstein, both of Newark.

Superintendent Will Talk.

No lesson will be taught at the Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning, but the time will be taken up by a talk from Superintendent Hall, reporting the recent convention at Denver. The session will begin at 9:30. Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, will be present.

Too Much Temptation.

Charlie Case, who has frequently taken pains to notify the public and the police that he had abandoned acquaintanceship with the bottle for good, is once more a backslider. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by Chief Campbell helplessly intoxicated and will appear before the Recorder this evening for trial.

No More Baby Carriages Free.

Commencing yesterday the New Jersey Central will carry no baby carriages or go-carts free. The charge will be at the rate of fifty pounds of excess baggage, whether you have any other baggage or not, but the minimum charge will be 25 cents even though the carriage is not carried a mile.

Gifts for Home.

The Netherwood Fresh Air Home has received through the kindness of J. A. Smith & Bro., a barrel of flour and some fine vegetables, for which the guests at the Home are very thankful.

No Evening Service.

During August there will be no Sunday evening preaching service at the First M. E. church, but the Epworth League will conduct a service in Vincent chapel from 7 to 8 o'clock.

A Necessary Precaution.

Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute Cough Cure you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane. Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Children like it. L. W. Randolph.

F. E. Kinsman, of Sherman avenue, has returned from a summer outing.

Mrs. L. E. Cole, of West Front street, is entertaining company from out of town.

Miss Mary Hoagland, of Linden avenue, is entertaining two cousins from Belvidere.

Miss Hattie Mattison, of the Board of Health office, has returned from her summer outing.

Miss Minnie Marsh, of Somerset place, will spend next week at the Delaware Water Gap.

Edward Baker, clerk in Kenney's shoe store, leaves tomorrow for Lake Hopatcong to spend a vacation.

Walter Long, of Park avenue, has gone to Jamaica on his vacation. He sailed from Boston on Thursday.

Newton Crane, of Codington & Swackhamer's law office, has gone to Asbury Park on a week's vacation.

Bert Schreiner, of Shaw's pharmacy, has returned home from a vacation outing in Hunterdon county.

The Misses Jessie and Edith Little, of Sandford avenue, are visiting friends in Oxford, New York State.

Miss Jennie Bowne, who has been sojourning in Hunterdon county, has gone to visit friends in Philadelphia and Trenton for a few weeks.

Miss Lulu Vaio, of Elmwood place, left Thursday to spend a week's vacation at Rahway, after which she will spend a week with friends in Brooklyn.

Jacob Blimm, Jr., of Somerset street, and John E. Flannery, of East Third street, will leave Monday for San Francisco on the Knights of Pythias' excursion.

Mrs. Charles Ball, of Washington Park, accompanied by the Misses Lacey, of LaGrande avenue, left today for Delaware Water Gap, where they will enjoy an outing.

Chairman Clark, of the fire, water and lamps committee, reported expenditures for the month of $12.50. On motion of Councilman Nichols the mayor and council were authorized and directed to borrow $1,000 payable on demand to meet current expenses.

Echo Meeting.

There will be an echo meeting of the State Christian Endeavor convention at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow evening at 6:45 o'clock. There will be special music on the violin by Martin Korff, and reports of the convention will be given by Miss M. Lou Karner, delegate from the First Presbyterian church, and Miss May Alice Ross, delegate from the Seventh-Day Baptist church. All are invited.

B. F. Coriell for Sheriff?

Latest among the political stories emanating from Elizabeth is one which places in the field for the nomination for sheriff another Plainfielder, Councilman B. Frank Coriell. It is claimed that this is merely a movement on the part of the Cross supporters to weaken the chances of City Judge Runyon for the senatorship by having two candidates from this city.

In Endurance Contest.

J. Dunbar Wright, of New York, a brother of Mrs. Corlies, of Road Ending, and Mrs. J. Parker Mason, of Stelle avenue, has sailed on the steamship Auguste Victoria for New York, atfer taking part in the recent automobile endurance contest between Paris and Vienna. Mr. Wright was the only American driving his own machine.

RICH IN PETROLEUM.

The Wells of Southern California Are Fair Producers.

Only Drawback Is the Speculative Fever Which They Cause and Which Impoverishes Many Small Investors.

[Special Los Angeles (Cal.) Letter.]

IT WAS remarked recently that there is hardly a poor working woman in Los Angeles who has not lost more or less money by investing in oil wells. While facts are exaggerated in this statement, it remains true that the petroleum craze, in its seasons, more thoroughly than any other enterprise in southern California, drains the pockets of large numbers of citizens who can ill afford to lose their small savings. It is undoubtedly true that the poor people of this state are wretchedly, sordidly poor; and the remembrance of better days and a hope of adding to a depleted income causes many to listen with over-willing ears to smooth stories concerning the oily product. There are still unwary individuals who seem not to be content unless they are risking burning their fingers, but the petroleum industry is now reduced to a very safe working basis. A radical though gradual change has been taking place during the last six months in methods of conducting this business. Instead of the eagerness formerly displayed to secure the oil in tanks, care is now being directed toward arranging for better transportation to such market as existed and increasing that market. For, although there was an increase of 50 per cent. in the oil product of California last year over that of 1900, the decline of 37.7 cents per barrel, resulted in a loss of about $2,960,000. This has caused a decline in the amount of development being made. In May, there were 122 rigs and 533 wells drilling, while in June there were 113 rigs and 529 wells drilling. This is a greater reduction than at first appears, for of the 80 wells drilling in the Kern river field 56 were suspended, leaving 24 in operation. In the McKittrick-Sunset fields, of the 167 drilling 118 were suspended.

The same state of affairs exists more or less in other portions of the state. However, the increase, in June, to 1,030 barrels per day, from 625 in May, in the Carreaga and Fullerton fields has kept up the general average. There is talk of extending railroad lines in different directions in order to tap the oil lands now nearly inaccessible to market.

California is justified in being proud of her newly-acquired fuel wealth. Coal and wood have always been scarce and high and the discovery of an abundant supply of petroleum has rendered the heating and cooking problem easy of solution. It was estimated that the yield in 1900 was about 4,000,000 barrels an din 1901 nearly twice that amount. Twelve oil refineries in the state are using at a rate of over 1,500,000 barrels of petroleum per year, the total amount of distillates being over 170,000 barrels, and the refining business is in its infancy. It has been practically proven that the supply is well-nigh inexhaustible, and manufacturers will no longer hesitate to make needed changes in their furnaces.

Until comparatively recent times, petroleum has been almost exclusively used for illuminating purposes, and the public has been slow in learning its value as a lubricant and fuel. Oil at one dollar per barrel is equivalent in cost to coal at $4.50 per ton. Coal in California is worth from $7.50 per ton, up. A large quantity of the output is not susceptible to refining to any paying extent, and this fact has given a wide spread impression that it is all too heavy. This is a mistake as there are all grades of oil in the state. In fact, near Newhall, are the white wells where perfectly clear kerosene, ready for illuminating purposes, has been found. This territory is, so far, supposed to be limited, being confined to a portion of Placerita canyon.

The first well was drilled at a large expense owing to the quality of the rock formation, but after months of hard labor the operators were rewarded by a fine floor; in fact, for a short time, the well was a gusher, throwing a stream 100 feet into the air—a 400-barrel tank was filled in 24 hours. They tried boring deeper, but the pipe deflected and the flow was "smothered.'" It is thought that the removal of the pipe and redrilling in a straight line will bring oil in paying quantities again. It filters through the rock in some way until it is distilled, and is worth from four to five dollars per barrel on the field. The smell of natural gas meets one at every turn in Placerita canyon, and in some portions of the state there are paying, flowing gas wells. It is probable that the Los Angeles fields have produced more oil than others in the state, although the greater portion of the product has been of low grade, and most of the wells must be pumped at considerable expense. One skeptic who believed that there were no flowing wells in the city was invited to look at a gusher when the cap was removed, with the result that a new $50 suit of clothing was ruined. In oil more than in any other industry one must look for the unexpected to happen. Most of the wells produce in large quantities at first, but a woman who lives in the midst of some wells, near Westlake Park, stated recently that some of the wells at the rear of her residence formerly furnished 65 barrels daily each. Now it is necessary to pump 65 wells to obtain that amount of petroleum.

In 1863 a well costing $65,000 was drilled on Hoover street, but the business was not pushed.

The California product differs from that found in the east in that it contains, as a rule, asphalt instead of paraffin. Since the earliest times the Indians used it for various purposes, and the Catholic fathers employed asphalt in roofing the missions.

During the time of the early oil excitement in Pennsylvania there was a great deal of wildcat speculation in this state, large sums of money being sunk. Oil is found in different strata representing different ages of the world. The productive strata are of sandstone or sand underlying bodies of shale. The most productive wells are about 1,000 feet deep, or even deeper. Their "life" varies. At Summerland some run down only 125 feet. And this point is one of the most picturesque of all the oil fields. The town is a settlement of spiritists and is situated on a narrow strip of land between the ocean and the mountains, the latter approaching very near the shore line at this place. Nearly the whole territory out into the sea is covered with wells. These ocean wells are most interesting to visitors. Some run to a depth of 350 feet, but 200 feet is a fair average. Wharves run out into the water and are surmounted by derricks.

These wells pay pretty well, for although the quality is not especially good or the output great, the cost of drilling is small and a well may be pumped for ten dollars per month. It may be loaded directly into vessels from the wells or be shipped on the trains while run through this field. A bituminous belt extends along the entire Pacific coast from some point in Mexico to Alaska. In transmitting solid asphaltum from the mountain mines of Santa Barbara to the coast refinery, naphtha is used as a solvent. After reaching its destination the naphtha is pumped back through the pipe to the mine and is ready for another journey with another load of asphaltum. Oils in the state vary from eight to over 50 specific gravity. The cost of wells varies with depth and formation of the ground. The cheapest are at Summerland, where $300 will put down a well 150 feet deep and furnish the equipment. There are wells costing up to $35,000. In Los Angeles the cost varies from $500 to $3,000, the rise in iron work having increased the price, particularly of casing. Oil was first found in paying quantities in Ventura county. It has been produced and refined there for 25 years. Oil bearing sand is found, alternating with shale. If the latter be soft there is little annoyance from water. If hard shale, the water is not easily shut off. A well in Tar creek is over 600 feet deep. It at first produced 300 barrels per day, now about 50 barrels. But the product of the white wells near Newhall is most valuable of all.

THE POPE'S FRIAR PLAN.

Obnoxious Orders at Manila to Be Removed Quietly.

ROME, Aug. 2.—According to statements obtained from reliable sources, it is the intention of the Vatican that the friars of the Augustinian, Dominican, Franciscan and Recolleto orders now in Manila, who number about 450 men, should leave there in small numbers at different times, so that when the moment comes to resume negotiations between Governor Taft and the apostolic delegation all the friars will have left the archipelago in such a way that the friar question will have resolved itself without the necessity of further discussion.

The foregoing plan is interpreted as a late but significant recognition by the Vatican that Secretary of War Root's first propositions made to the Vatican through Governor Taft were the most liberal that could be devised for the settlement of the question.

The great influence of the religious orders in Rome must be reckoned with, however, should they think it to their interests to resist these measures. From present indications this would seem not to be so, as the general of the Augustinians will soon leave for the United States to choose American Augustinians to replace the Spanish members of that order now at Manila.

FOR PRESIDENT'S PRIZE.

Arrangements Complete For Mayflower's Target Practice.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Arrangements have been completed for the Mayflower's target practice in Gardiners bay next Wednesday for the prize of $25 in gold offered by the president. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt will be witnesses of the contest. They will leave here on Tuesday on the Sylph and probably will board the Mayflower that night.

The practice will be conducted under the usual naval regulations. A target 20 feet wide and 16 feet high will be placed on a float. The Mayflower, at a distance of 1,500 yards, will steam past the target at a speed of five miles an hour. The armament of the Mayflower consists of twelve rapid fire guns, two gunners being assigned to each. Competition for the prize will be among these twenty-four men. Each gunner will have two opportunities to demonstrate his skill in periods of two minutes each. The gunners may fire as many shots as they care to in those periods, the firing being timed by a split second watch. A careful record of every shot fired will be kept in accordance with the naval regulations. The gunner making the best record will receive the prize from the president personally.

New Station at Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Work will shortly be begun on a new New York Central railroad passenger station which will cost about $230,000, be three stories in height and have just double the capacity afforded by the present depot. The train shed will also be considerably enlarged. It is said the plans for the new station were ready a year ago, but that the Pan-American traffic interfered much with building operations at that time. The new edifice, when completed, will occupy an entire block, and its appointments will be modern in every respect.

The Wadsworth-Hay Wedding.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The marriage of Miss Alice Hay to James W. Wadsworth, Jr., will take place on Sept. 30 at The Fells, Newbury, N. H., the country home of the secretary of state and Mrs. Hay. Only the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends will be present. After a short wedding journey the young people will go to Geneseo, N. Y., for the rest of the autumn.

FASHIONABLE GOWNS.

Many Are Made of Filet Lace—Boleros Still Popular.

Filet lace is much used for summer gowns. It is frequently trimmed with bands of pongee or silk. The foundation of this lace is a square meshed lace on which a pattern is worked in darned fashion. It has rather the effect of an old sampler. Gold or silver tinsel on black or brown is exquisite with a touch of color.

The bolero, like the blouse, has apparently come to stay. Chiffon and mousseline are appliqued with heavy textures or bits of silk, and the bolero in this fashion is fitted loosely and is fastened with bows of colored velvet set on in the front.

So far there is little change in the fashion of skirts, but short ones are in the minority and are rarely seen except for athletic sports.

A costume of gray veiling is shown in the cut. Both waist and skirt are laid in wide bias tucks. The skirt has three tucked ruffles. The waist is collarless and is trimmed with a yoke and undersleeves of white chiffon. Bands of white silk applique also aid in trimming the waist and skirt.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FANCY COLLARS AND TIES.

Silk Mull Fichus, Wash Collars and Stocks.

Bertha collars of embroidered batiste appear on very many of the new gowns. Another fashionable mode for linen dresses shows a short, oddly shaped bolero with stole ends of lace and edged around the sides with narrow bands of stitched linen. The bolero is worn over a tucked blouse of embroidered batiste.

Pretty little silk mull fichus are edged with flower passementerie.

OF OLD ROSE LINEN.

Thin white wash goods and net make equally effective fichus. A flower bordered fichu is as dainty a piece of apparel as one could wish for.

In the wash ties and neckbands fashion still clings to the pique stocks of white, with narrow colored ties. The knot seems to be superseding the bow, and many of the new stocks have the ties simply crossed over and fastened with a fancy pin.

Many collars are made of insertion and featherstitching. They fasten in the back and taper down into points in the front.

The picture shows a gown of old rose linen. The blouse waist has a tucked collar cut in points and edged with square lace applique. The skirt is also tucked and has a wide gored ruffle.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Thomas B. Reed on Fame.

Here is a definition of fame given by ex-Speaker Reed at the Bowdoin college commencement dinner: "Fame is largely a matter of accident. Being in the right place at the right time and doing the right thing, or, better still, making people think you are doing the right thing, is about all there is to fame." This definition gains much in effectiveness when "fame" is pronounced with the ex-speaker's well known drawl.

CHAPTER I.

THE TRAGEDY OF THE PARK.

Dick Barnett, the schoolmaster of Exton, cast a parting look at himself in the cracked mirror over the little washstand, added a few final touches to his toilet, and sighed.

"Not much of a place to leave," as he turned and swept the barely-furnished room with a glance. "But, still, I'm sorry to go."

He was a slender young man, with a keen, intellectual face, and carried himself with a certain dignity, as became one who had been five years the village schoolmaster. He was only 24, but looked much older, as the result of hard work and study. He did not always intend to remain a simple pedagogue.

As his glance lingered on the faded hangings, the uncomfortable-looking haircloth furniture, the faded rag carpet, it rested on a small trunk in the middle of the room, and he frowned.

"I wonder what can keep the fellow?" he muttered. "He promised me faithfully he would not disappoint."

Just then a timid knock sounded on the door and presently a man entered, a rough, ungainly fellow, in a dirty canvas suit, whose wild hair and beard made him resemble one of those grotesque toys that are sold about the streets during the holidays.

"Well, here I be," said the newcomer, in a deep, bass voice.

"Very good, Jim. Now, you will take this trunk to the station, without saying whose it is. Let no one know I am going. Understand?"

"Sure."

"Here is for your trouble," and from a slender purse the young man passed over a silver piece, which the other, after biting, thrust in pocket. Then he shouldered the trunk, and, with a "Good-night, guv'nor," went out with his burden through the door.

Barnett waited until he heard the man's steps on the front porch, then, with a parting look around the room that had been his home for five years, he blew out the lamp and slipped down the stairs and into the night.

He made his way rapidly along the country road, which, without the moonlight to guide him, he could have traversed safely, he knew it so well. Passing a few dark houses, he came at last to the entrance of an extensive estate, and paused for a moment before the great iron gate. It seemed to him that the stone lions bearing shields on the pillars on each side of the way were grinning at him derisively. "I wonder if I shall ever see this place again," he murmured. "Am I acting for the best? I hope so." Then, as he saw a faint light still glimmered in the gatekeeper's little house, he passed rapidly on. Further he found a hole in the tall hedge, and, wriggling through, entered the park.

It was evidently not the first time that he had found his way into the grounds in this surreptitious way, for here, where the old trees interlaced, not a gleam of moonlight penetrated the place. Yet he walked on without stumbling through the blackness, coming presently to another hedge, scarcely higher than his shoulder. A silvery radiance shone over this part of the park. Here he paused for a moment to listen, then stepped back again into the shadows. There was the sound of rustling leaves, and then a man appeared in the moonlight.

Dick could only make out that he was tall and ragged, for his face was in the shadow of an overhanging bough. Only for a moment did the stranger stand there, when he turned and made off in the direction of the house, the lights of which could be seen gleaming in the distance.

"What can that ruffian be doing here?" muttered the schoolmaster, as he came out into the path again. "A poacher, no doubt, after Ellison's fish. Better buy such things than have a stocked lake to attract all the wandering vagabonds in the country."

He approached the hedge again, peered cautiously over, and, catching sight of something white in the distance, uttered a low whistle. The young woman, for such the white object was, running forward, opened a gate in the hedge near at hand, and came toward him.

"Oh, Dick!" she began, impulsively, lifting her face to his, "what does it—what can it all mean?"

"I will tell you—but not here. Come, we are far too near the house to talk in peace," and he drew her away into the shadows, but still in sight of the moonlit path.

Finding a fallen tree, he pressed her to sit down, and then took a seat beside her.

"Now, then, tell me quickly. Don't you see, I am burning with anxiety?" she said.

"There is little more to tell you than that I think it best to go away. It is only a question of time before I should be sent. Your mother has learned of our attachment, and she could easily break it off, she believes."

"She little knows me," replied the girl, firmly. "After all, what can she do?"

"Well, the first step would be to get your father to discharge me, and that, I believe, he contemplates doing, though he has been friendly to the last. Still, she could persuade him. I feel sure of it. Then, you see, I would have to go anyway."

"But what is to become of me—what am I to do?" almost in tears. She was little more than a child, barely 17. "I don't want you to go—I won't have it!" with a stamp of the foot.

"My dear, I am acting for the best," firmly. "My usefulness here is over, and to remain would only make matters more disagreeable for you, as well as me. I am going to the city, where there is some chance for me to show my ability, if I have any. There is no chance for me to rise here, and when I have made a competence, and am in a position to take care of you as you deserve, why, we will marry, in spite of the world."

"And will that be very long—very, very long?" she asked, in a doleful voice, that caused him to laugh.

"Not long, if the world appreciates my transcendent genius," with a flippant air. "Not long, if hard work and application will lift me to a respectable place in society."

"Still, I think it is very mean of you to go," poutingly.

"Don't think it is not a wrench for me to part from you."

But the girl refused to be comforted, and it was only through lavish endearments and many promises that she became more composed and reasonable, and began to share his view, that it was for the best.

"But we can't part this way," she protested. "I must give you something to remember me by. Just wait here for a moment until I run over to the house. I shall not be gone long," and, before he had a chance to protest that a souvenir was not necessary, she had flitted away out beyond the light into the shadows.

After she had gone he found himself listening to the myriad voices of the forest, that seemed to fall with irritating reiterance on his ears. He felt far from being in a cheerful mood, not knowing what the future might bring forth, or if, indeed, he ever should see her again. It was such a breaking away from old ties, this starting out, after the placid years he had spent as the village school-teacher. Sometimes he wondered if he was fit to wage a good fight beyond there, in the humming city. Well, at least, he was not without courage, and, if he went down, it would be to fall fighting.

How long the girl was! It seemed to him that she must have been gone for hours. Perhaps she had been detained, and it would be impossible for her to return. Still, knowing what a passionate little person she was, and accustomed pretty much to having her own way, it would be a difficult matter for them to have kept her back. Finally, he could bear the waiting no longer, but rose and stepped out to the edge of the trees, looking anxiously in the direction of the house. It would be really too bad if their last meeting should be so woefully curtailed.

A step behind him, and, as he turned, it was to face Mrs. Ellison. Even in that light he saw that her face wore an angry expression.

"What are you doing here?"

He did not answer, for the surprise of the meeting had checked his speech. She was a tall, handsome woman, and wore an evening dress that displayed her fine arms and bosom. In the moonlight, with the dark trees around, she was a picture for a painter.

She was swinging a garden hat back and forth in one jeweled hand, with an angry gesture, then, stamping her foot, she repeated the question.

Billiards, Golf and Yachting

THREE SUBJECTS IN WHICH THERE IS UNUSUAL INTEREST AT THE PRESENT TIME

Wise followers of the whims of society women have spent considerable time in making a rule for the costume to be worn by women billiardists. The demand for a national style that would do for Newport and the west became so pronounced when it was learned that parlor billiards had begun to share with ping-pong the attention of women members of country clubs and the smart set that it had to be attended to.

"No time for jokes about the society girl being a rack for shirt waists, with a receptacle inside for lobster salad and ice cream and one outside for dumping diamond rings into," said one leader. "We must find a rational costume for the billiard room. Women have got the billiard fever again. There will be more dusting of old tables and polishing up of long unused billiard-room furniture this year than ever before. Ever since Champion 'Napoleon' Ives set a style for the billiardists—playing in an evening dress trousers and vest minus his coat—and Champion Jacob Schaefer hit this a body blow by bringing out a sort of a knit jacket provided with black satin sleeves, the big billiard tournaments invariably have been 'full dress' affairs. Women have attended the amateur tournaments, always wearing full dress. But for the women players the correct costume is a simple one."

The problem that had to be solved was to get the greatest possible freedom of motion consistent with making a good appearance. The costume selected as the best consists of a blouse, a loose and very short skirt—coming to the shoe top—and low heeled and broad-soled, comfortable shoes. The exercise gained in walking about a billiard room for a few hours is quite sufficient for any "pedestrienne," even should she be an English girl celebrated for her long walks.

The blouse, the edict says, should fit loosely and the sleeves should reach to the elbow. To prevent the skirt catching on the corners of the table, this garment should be made perfectly plain. High-heeled and tight shoes are the bane of any billiard player. It is said of Ives that once he essayed to play a big game wearing slippers. The following day he not only nursed his "sore" feelings, because he had been beaten, but had such sore feet that he could scarcely walk. The billiard player needs walking shoes.

"I should think that the correct costume for women billiard players, as adopted, should prove of great value to the women," remarked Mrs. Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor, one of the western leaders in society as well as in horsemanship, golf, and outdoor sports for women. "There will be many billiard tables uncovered in dusty billiard rooms this fall—some no doubt have been transformed into ping-pong tables by this time—and women will play the game. What is more natural than that a rational and correct costume should be agreed upon for women players?"

One of the packers in a great wholesale hardware house is not a philanthropist, but recently he did more to spread some knowledge of the game of golf among the sidewalk urchins of Chicago than a man in opulent circumstances would have desired to do. The packer now realizes that the supply of gutta percha has been visibly decreased, that golf is an expensive luxury for newsboys, that putting balls worth six dollars a dozen before street arabs is like "throwing money to the birds," and is thanking his stars that the head of the firm for which he has worked for a quarter of a century did not make him pay for his carelessness that resulted in the loss of so many of the little white globes. Golf balls of the patented kind—the only ones now used in the tournaments, because of their resilliency and ability to fly far when well driven—are sometimes as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth. The supply is less than the demand. In a "hurry up" order on the big hardware house, the packer hastily packed $150 worth of patented and gutta percha golf balls and the teamster hastened to the freight house with the box.

Passing a portion of the city much given to the street boys, a sly urchin is said to have wrenched a board loose and started the stream of golf balls. As the white spheres fell upon the pavement the boy howled with delight: "Come on, kids; here's lots of fine mibs." In a few moments the wagon had a procession of small boys longer than the one that follows a circus caliope, and the balls disappeared in their pockets as rapidly as they bounded on the pavement.

It did not take long for the $150 offering of gutta percha to run out. The driver of the truck continued to the freight depot in blissful ignorance of the loss of the balls. Soon, however, he discovered the "leak," and asking the assistance of a police officer to recover the property, the pair went over the ground traversed by the truck.

Playing at "golf marbles" on the street, they found plenty of newsboys. Others were bounding the balls on the stone flagging, while those who had gathered an idea of the use of the ball in the game of golf were making frantic efforts to drive balls down the street with bits of packing boxes and wagon wheel spokes for clubs. The boys scampered away with their golf balls, and the head of the firm naively remarked: "Perhaps our loss is the country's gain. These balls may be the means of starting some boy on the path which leads to the national championship."

Where is the dashing, impetuous fresh water yachtswoman? One of the followers of salt water yachting has made the statement that the inland seas have produced very few like the women who handle the tiller and sheet on salt water. No one has taken that critic to task and made a moral indictment against him. Yachting is a grand sport for women, be it sailing in a steam yacht, a single sticker or riding the waves with a gasoline launch. There are hundreds of women yachtsmen on salt water to tens on the inland lakes.

One great reason for the apparent lack of numbers on the small lakes is the element of danger. The salt water yachtswoman feels that Old Ocean with all his moods is not so tricky as the small lake. Besides, there are more yachts on salt water than on fresh water. It is difficult to pick out a woman sailor on fresh water with a national reputation. But the fact obtains that there are plenty of yachtswomen who derive a great deal of sport from sailing on the little lakes.

Standing out in bold relief among the western women sailors is Miss Russell, of Detroit, who can handle La Belle Canadienne, her brother's boat, with as much skill as any man on the river. Mrs. George H. Terry, of Chicago, is another celebrated handler of the sheet and tiller. She sails her husband's 35-footer with the skill that comes from long experience.

What woman did not envy Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, whose picture in a sou'western and rubber clothes, as she stood on the deck of the Columbia during the America's cup race, was a feature of the pictorial representations of the international contest. She is, perhaps, the best known of the American salt water yachtswomen.

Mrs. Royal Phelps Carroll has had more actual experience in cruising than any other woman known to the critics, it is said, and is able to handle a boat alone. Mrs. Ogden Goelet, of course, is premier among the steam yachtswomen. What a thrill of satisfaction must come over this immensely wealthy woman as she stands at the wheel and giving signals by electricity to the engineer far beneath her, she causes her steam yacht to glide into its dock without scratching a flake of paint from its sides! The exhilaration is commendable, but, of course, it is impossible for all of the women lovers of the water who envy her to try their hands at the wheel. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt and other leaders in society are among the other well-known handlers of yachts. To be a good sailor requires such a combination of circumstances—wealth, yachts and leisure—that it will take time to build up a constituency for the inland seas that will equal that of the salt water bays.

GOLF.

Among the crack golfers who will play three days next week in the invitation tournament of the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club is J. Whitney Baker, representing Princeton.

The weekly competitions for the Boys' and Golf Committee cups will be the only event on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course today. There are a number of members at home, however, and the events should be of interest.

The caddy boys from the Baltusrol Golf Club will send two teams to Plainfield Monday morning for the purpose of playing two matches with the boys from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. Caddymaster McCarthy has given the boys the use of the course for practice and good games are looked for.

TENNIS.

Regular play at tennis for the Mellick cup will be played on the courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club today.

With the court fixed up in ship shape, arrangements for a tournment are well under way at the Y. M. C. A. A large number of entries have been received. All wishing to take part in the play may leave their names at the office, and intending competitors must be down on the list by Monday evening. All entries must be accompanied by a fee of twenty-five cents, and the proceeds will be devoted to buying a prize for the winner. At the close of the tournament the contestants will enjoy a spread in the nature of a banquet.

ON THE DIAMOND.

League games scheduled for this afternoon are St. Mary's and Hope on Hope Common; Safe Works and Y. M. C. A. on St. Mary's field. Both games will be called at 3:30.

Safe Works have secured a new pitcher, who is reported to be a crack. His name is Wilhelm, a left-handed twirler. In a game he pitched against Scotch Plains nine recently that team secured only four hits off him in nine innings. He may be seen in the game this afternoon.

Included in the registry of late arrivals at the Howland House, Long Branch, is J. Schwed, of Plainfield.

Joseph Keefe, John Hines, John Trainor, and G. Kiely left this morning for a short vacation to Atlantic City.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

As a treasured souvenir of their departed father, the children of the late Robert Snyder, of Scotch Plains, who died Tuesday night from an attack of apoplexy, have discovered among his possessions the following touching verses, composed a short time before his death:

When the sun sinks to rest
And the star of the west
Sheds its soft silver light o'er the sea!
What sweet thoughts arise,
As the dim twilight dies,
For then I am thinking of thee.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Ransom, of Newark, is visiting in Plainfield for a few weeks.

Miss Anna Thain, of North avenue, has gone to the hospital, where next Monday she will undergo an operation.

Miss Lillian Brothers, of Wappinger Falls, New York, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. M. J. Cashin, of West Fifth street.

Miss Margaret Cramer, the trained nurse, leaves Monday for Hunterdon county, where she will spend her vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall, of Watchung avenue, have gone to Fishkill, N. Y., where they will remain over Sunday.

Dr. G. W. Endicott, of Park avenue, will leave Monday for Rangeley Lakes, Maine, where he will remain for two weeks.

John Gilbert, of Cardiff, Wales, has returned home after two weeks' visit with his brothers, Richard and Elmaner Gilbert, of West Third street.

Mrs. William J. Nelson, of West Front street, was taken to a New York hospital this morning in charge of Dr. Zeglio, to undergo a surgical operation.

Asa Collier and family, of East Sixth street, accompanied by Miss Dougherday, of Providence, R. I., have gone to Saratoga, where they will remain during August.

Mrs. Gunn and children, of Watchung avenue, and Edward Stram, of North Plainfield, will leave Monday to join Mr. Gunn, who is employed in the General Electric Company's Works, Schenectady, N. Y.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Hopes Won From St. Marys in a Twelve-Inning Battle—Safe Works Forfeited Game.

RESULTS OF OTHER GAMES.

Plains, 11; Xavier Deaf Mutes, 2.
Westfield, 10; Watsessings, 2.

Leadership in the City Baseball League is still an unsettled question. Saturday's games failed to put any new phase on the situation. Y. M. C. A. had its game with the Safe Works well in hand when a disputed decision of the umpire's resulted in the withdrawal of the Safe Works team and the subsequent awarding of the game to Y. M. C. A. 9 to 0. This decision has been protested and it remains for the executive committee of the league to decide whether it was Y. M. C. A.'s game or whether it will have to be played over. This is the first incident of this kind that has broken the successful career of the league.

Hope Y. M. A. and St. Marys had the third contest to stretch out over the allotted nine innings. It was not until the twelfth inning that a misplay on the St. Mary's side gave Hope the needed tally to win 3 to 2. It was a good game and the personalities, which have been noticeable at previous games, were happily absent.

PITCHERS' BATTLE.

"Smiling Jimmy" Montross made another leap in popularity on Saturday afternoon by the superb work which was the real cause of the victory of the Hope Y. M. A. over St. Mary's. The game was a pitchers' battle from start to finish, and with proper support the score would have been 1 to 0 in Hope's favor. For twelve innings, Montross kept the opposing batsmen guessing, giving them only six hits, with a total of seven bases.

Costly errors were responsible for the nerve-wracking nature of the game. Honors seemed to belong to either sides, while the advantage seesawed back and forth from one to another, raising false hopes only to shatter them by some unlooked for rally. St. Mary's won the game in the eighth, through the generosity of the Hope fielders, and then lost it by misplays in the ninth, when victory was fairly within sight.

Then followed the harrowing extra innings, in which the fans suffered all the premonitory symptoms of heart failure and nervous prostration. At last, in the fateful twelfth, the driving pace proved too much for St. Mary's, and the wildest error of the game sent the winning Hope run across the plate.

For nine innings, Keefe pitched gilt edged ball for St. Mary's, with the best of support. In the ninth, after Lederer had made the first error, two hits followed, scoring the tying run, and Doyle was called into the box. At the same time, Mague, who had been on the bench, was put in to bat for Munro and then placed in left field, Shortman going to short and Martin to third. The change had no appreciable effect upon the result.

Hope made the first run, and the only earned one, in the third, off Munro's single and Gordon's two bagger. In the ninth, Lederer dropped a long fly from Martin, who scored on Montross' hit to centre. The winning run was made by Gordon, who drew a pass to first and stole second. Shortman hit an easy grounder to Crotty, who allowed Gordon to pass wihtin reaching distance in getting to third. When the crowd howled, Crotty lost his head and threw the ball high over first base, letting in the run.

St. Mary's scored the first run in the fourth on a fluke. With Lederer on third, Hartfelder tried to catch Barry on second by throwing to Montross, who passed the ball on to Martin. Like a flash, Lederer took the opening and came home The second run also was a gift. Taylor reached first on a dead ball, second on Hewitt's muff, stole third and scored on Lederer's hit.

Following is the official score:

SAFE WORKS QUIT.

In the eighth inning, with one man out, and the score 6 to 3 in favor of the association nine, the Y. M. C. A.-Safe Works game on St. Mary's field Saturday afternoon ended in a fiasco. Symons bunted and was out from Moore to Barnes. It was here the dispute begun. Safe Works maintained not only that the ball was foul, but also contended that the umpire called "foul" and refused to abide by his decision that the ball was fair.

Umpire Young said that he did not call "foul" and he certainly ought to know. But there can be no doubt that Symons partially stopped after hitting the ball and would otherwise have been safe at first. That, however, was his own mistake. Neither can there by any doubt that if the umpire erred, his error was an error of judgment merely and does not constitute an illegal decision. Only on an illegal decision—that is, one conflicting with the rules—can an appeal for a revoke be made. The rules distinctly state that there can be no appeal from any decision rendered by the umpire in which any error of judgment is involved. Precluding the contention that the umpire called "foul" when the ball was struck—a contention which none can prove—there can be absolutely no grounds on which to base a protest.

Up to this juncture the game had been a clean and close exhibition. Wilhelm, the new twirler for the Safe Works, was an object of interest in the early part of the game. The kaiser showed that he was capable of pitching good ball. Four safe hits, hardly worthy of the name, were made off his delivery in the second, netting with a base on balls, three runs for Y. M. C. A. George Schoonmaker hit a ball between short and third, which no one touched, but which, nevertheless, should have been fielded. Smith sent a short rap over second baseman's head, and Pond bunted another ball which should also have been fielded, filling the bases. A free pass to Hand forced in a run and a safe hit by Ralph Schoonmaker brought in two more. The emperor was a little off in the fifth and after allowing three men to walk, Burns took his place in the box. Y. M. C. A. tallied two more in the seventh.

Burt was also generous with free passes. Two in the second and a base hit gave Safe Works a run. Franklin's double scored Enwright and

HOUSE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

Mrs. George Studer Knocked Down and Left Unconscious by Passage of Lightning Bolt.

SHE IS NOW RECOVERING.

Edgar Brokaw, Who Was Shutting Window in Park Avenue Baptist Church, Was Knocked Down by Same Bolt—Brief Visit of Thunder Storm Yesterday Morning.

Lightning played havoc about Plainfield for the brief space of thirty minutes yesterday morning, striking one building and making itself felt in shocks in various other places. At the home of George Studer, 985 Arlington avenue, a bolt pierced the house from the roof to the ground floor, shocking Mrs. Studer into insensibility and doing considerable damage to the property.

Between the chimney and a pediment on the gabled roof, the shaft struck, tearing away the tiles and shattering the roof beams. One jack-rafter was broken entirely through and another and a long valley rafter split. The lightning then made its way down the chimney, passing through a stove-pipe hole into the dining room and thence into the kitchen and out the open door.

Mrs. Studer had been in the kitchen at the time and she started into the dining room just as the crash came. As she was passing through the door, she was thrown to the floor. She was taken at once to her bed room, where she lay in an unconscious state for over an hour. Her injuries were found to be confined to the effects of the shock upon her nerves.

So severe was the lightning that the lower part of the house was filled with strong, sulphurous smoke, leading to the belief that the place was afire.

Worshippers at the Park Avenue Baptist church also felt the force of the atmospheric disturbance. While Rev. G. M. Shott was preaching, a tremendous crash was heard, and the people distinctly felt the shock. Edgar Brokaw, who had gone into the primary department room to close the windows, was thrown to the floor. He was unhurt, although badly shattered as to nerves.

Almost at the same time the lights in the church were extinguished. The preacher continued his sermon in darkness for a few moments, when the lights returned. It was learned afterwards that the slight cessation was due to a change of dynamos at the electric light station, caused by a leak which made it necessary to put another into service.

Within the thirty-five minutes which the storm lasted, the rainfall attained the remarkable amount of .96 of an inch.

SHOT ONE MAN.

Watchman Mills Broke Up a Fight at Rahway Junction of Trolley Line.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Aug. 4—A free fight occurred at the Rahway junction of the trolley Saturday night between three men employed on the Picton bridge and a friend from Westfield. Richard Mills, the night watchman at the junction, was compelled to take a hand to quiet the disturbance and in doing so discharged his revolver. The bullet struck the ankle of the Westfield man inflicting a slight injury. He is now under treatment. The other three men were arraigned and given ten days' at Elizabeth.

Now is the Time.

Before many more days have passed it will no longer be a luxury to spend a day at the seaside. An excellent opportunity is offered for an outing on the beach next Thursday when the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church in conjunction with Grace and St. Stephen's Episcopal churches, hold their excursion to Asbury Park.

To Accept Bridge Plans.

The bridge committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders will meet in this city tomorrow to accept the plans for the Jackson avenue and Berckman street bridges. The committee was unable to meet last week as planned.

GOOD TIMES FOR THE FRESH AIR CHILDREN

Endeavorers of Park Avenue Baptist Church Visited Both Camps on Saturday.

PLEASED LITTLE ONES.

VISITED THE NETHERWOOD FRESH AIR HOME IN THE AFTERNOON.

Games, Music and Refreshments Were the Features—Then Went to Westfield in the Evening—The Programme There.

Enjoyment in large measure came to the fresh air children in this city and Westfield Saturday through the generous efforts of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Some twenty-five made the trip in the afternoon to the Fresh Air Home at Netherwood, where they entertained the little folks with games and general jollity. Music also was a feature, there being a duet sung by Mrs. T. A. Cuming and Miss Adelaide Runyon, with choruses and cornet accompaniment by B. T. Allen, of Cranford.

After the visitors had done their share, a number of the children also recited and sang. They had been trained for the occasion by the matron, Miss Curry. Then the hearts of the little ones were gladdened further with ice cream and cake, the former given by Superintendent George Hall, of the Sunday-school, and the latter by the Christian Endeavor Society.

In the evening, Westfield was the objective point of another journey which drew a good sized crowd. Under the direction of Miss Jennie Giles, a clever play was enacted by some of the members of the Junior Society, as follows: Margaret Ostrom, Grace Weeks, Arline Brown, Lillian Cuming, Autumn Delaney and Grace Pierson. Miss Arline Brown recited in her usual charming manner. The fresh air youngsters also contributed toward the programme, speaking and singing, under direction of the matron, Mrs. Diehl.

WORDS AND BROKEN BOTTLES

THESE WERE THE MISSLES WHICH BEGAN TO FLY.

Four Arraigned in Court This Morning for the Trouble—The Other Cases.

Dominick and Wilhemina Vitello and Lucy Ruffins and Annie Williams, the latter two colored, were arraigned in the city court, this morning, for fighting in Morse's Row, Saturday. Hostilities began over Wilhemina's cutting a clothes line on which Annie's wash had been hung. A wordy war, interspersed with throwing broken bottles, followed until Patrolmen McCarthy and Higgins arrived. The participants were lectured severely and warned not to return to court again after which sentence was suspended.

Other cases in court, this morning, were as follows: Edmund Scott, arrested yesterday morning for disorderly conduct; paid $3.

William Walker and Mrs. Agnes Egleton, arrested at their home on West Third street, near Clinton avenue, Saturday evening, for disorderly conduct; fined $5 or twenty days each.

In the matter of Loyise Colucci through the city, against Alphonse Bombano, adjournment was granted until Friday morning.

Funeral of Mrs. Mitchell.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Cornelia Mitchell, were held at her late residence on Grove street at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, pastor of Holy Cross church. The pall bearers were Former Mayor Charles Place, Gilbert Rhodes, Henry Phillips, Dr. O. L. Jenkins, Thomas Lloyd, John McNaughton, and Charles Matthews. The interment was in Hillside

Wedded at Westfield.

Rev. J. W. Mitchell, of this city, officiated at the wedding of William J. Rowlett and Miss Mary C. Burke, Thursday evening. The ceremony was performed at the home of W. M. Wright at Westfield and was witnessed by a number of friends.

Willian Griffen, of West Second street, left yesterday morning for his home in Hempstead, L. I. Ill health will cause Mr. Griffen to remain at his old home for some time.

OFF DAY FOR THE GOLFERS

Weather and Slow Course Combined to Keep the Scores Away From Low Marks.

THE REGULAR EVENTS.

Honors at Hillside Went to W. T. Glenney and C. W. Abbott—Jos. O. McKelvey Was Low Man at Park Golf Club—Not a Good Day for the Local Golfers.

Excessive humidity and a slow course combined to keep many of the golfiacs off the local courses, Saturday afternoon. The only events at the two clubs were the regular wekely competitions and none of those brought out more than fair fields. The number of entries at the Hillside Club was particulalry small but the Parks made a better showing.

At the Hillside Club, the day's honors went to W. T. Glenney and C. W. Abbott. Jos. O. McKelvey was low man at the Park Club.

HILLSIDE CLUB.

In the weekly competition for the Boys' cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Saturday morning, Arthur Peterson, who still leads with eighteen points, added a half point to his total while W. T. Glenney, who won first honors, is now tie with Gordon Abbott with ten and one-half points, and N. P. Rogers, who finished second, now has a total of ten points. A. D. Beers received the other half point, but this changes his position little.

The scores for the Boys' cup are as follows:

W. T. Glenney, 87, 10—77; N. P. Rogers, Jr., 81, 0—81; A. D. Beers, 101, 10—91; Arthur Peterson, 101, 10—91; J. C. Martin, 159, 18—141.

The standing for the Boys' cup is as follows:

	Points.
Arthur Peterson	18½
Gordon Abbott	10½
W. T. Glenney	10½

PARK GOLF CLUB.

Although a score started in the weekly competition for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club, Saturday afternoon, the number turning in scores was comparatively small. The excessive humidity affected many of the players. Then the frequent showers gave the grass a start on the greenkeeper which could not be overcome in a week.

Jos. O. McKelvey and W. de la R. Anderson both played in good form. Everybody else was way off in their game. By getting third, Dr. A. W. Anderson advanced to third place in the race while McKelvey and the other Anderson are now in the bunch tied for fifth place.

Saturday's scores, better than 100 net, were:

	G	H	N
Jos. O. McKelvey	98	16	82

FOR THOMPSON.

Will Receive Complimentary Vote for Congressional Nomination, But Lanning Gets It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 4—The Bridgewater township primary, for the election of delegates to the Republican convention of the Fourth Congressional district at Flemington tomorrow, was held Saturday afternoon in the Court House here. The following delegates were selected: Lewis A. Thompson, James L. Griggs, John F. Reger, Christopher Ebni, Charles A. Houston, George A. Dilts, Samuel W. Davenport, Joseph Fitzga, W. H. Rechenbury, Leffert C. Waldron and Frederick A. Pope.

These are known to favor the nomination of Hon. L. A. Thompson, of Somerset for Congress and he will doubtless receive the full support of the Somerset delegation, but it is understood that he does not seek the nomination and will make no fight to wrest it from Judge Lanning, of Trenton. Thompson will receive a complimentary vote and then his delegates will go to the Mercer man.

Injured Lad Brought Home.

That he might have the care and comfort of his own home, Roger, the young son of Councilman Mellick, was brought to this city on Saturday afternoon after the accident which resulted in a broken thigh at Norfolk, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Mellick and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges accompanied the injured lad. They arrived on the 2:11 train and were met at the station by the hospital ambulance, in which the boy was taken to his home.

Bit the Dust and His Lip.

A foul ball at the Hope-St. Mary game, Saturday, struck a horse attached to a carriage in which George Pope, of Manning avenue, and a number of other spectators were standing. All were thrown to the ground and Pope's teeth closed over his lower lip, piercing the flesh and leaving a wide wound. None of the others were hurt.

Good Sermon.

Rev. J. P. Morris, pastor of Trinity church, Newark, occupied Dr. Schenck's pulpit in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning and a good sized congregation listened to a very interesting sermon from the text "Show us the Father," as recorded in the fourteenth chapter of St. John's Gospel.

Meet for Drill.

Warren Engine Company will meet for drill this evening. All members are requested to be on hand, as these drills are preparatory to the trip to Atlantic City.

Paid His Fine.

It cost Charlie Case $15 in Recorder Doud's court Saturday evening because of his intimacy with John Barleycorn. Case paid up like a millionaire.

SAW HER SON MEET DEATH

Six-Year-Old Joseph Greenhouse Instantly Killed by Express on Jersey Central.

HE DIDN'T SEE TRAIN.

Attempted to Cross Tracks Near the Cornell Crossing—His Mother Was Standing on Porch of House and Saw the Fatal Accident—The Body Was Badly Mangled.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Aug. 4—Almost within reach of his terror stricken mother, Joseph, the six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Greenhouse, of this place, was tossed to death on the tracks of the Central Railroad Saturday evening. Crossing to get to his home, the little fellow was struck and instantly killed by a Philadelphia flyer.

Unaware of any impending danger, young Joseph made his way past some coal cars standing near the Cornell crossing. The view of the main tracks was thus shut off and the boy stepped forward just as the express, No. 525, due at Bound Brook at 5:55, crashed through the borough at a fifty-mile speed. The little body was hurled by like a bit of paper, in plain sight of the agonized mother, who had stood upon the porch of her home.

When the remains were picked up, it was found that the head was crushed and the body badly mangled in other parts. It was taken to Bound Brook on the train which had caused the death, and afterwards returned to Dunellen.

CORIELL'S CANDIDACY.

He Has Refused to State Whether He is a Candiate.

The story of the candidacy of President B. Frank Coriell, of the Common Council, for the shrievalty has been fast gaining ground throughout the county. Mr. Coriell has been interviewed a number of times but has refused to talk for publication. The general impression seems to be that he is a bonafide candidate and is backed by the Kean faction to run with Senator Cross in opposition to City Judge Runyon's boom. By booming Coriell, they hope to spoil City Judge Runyon's [illegible] of a solid delegation from Plainfield.

DUTY AT STATION.

Patrolman McCarthy Detailed to New Position on Force.

In accordance with the action taken by the police board at its recent meeting, Chief Kiely assigned Patrolman McCarthy to permanent duty at the North Avenue station, this morning. He will also keep watch at the trolley transfer station. That he may be readily discerned when wanted he will wear the regulation blue uniform. Another patrolman will be appointed to the force, in all probability, at this evening's meeting of the Common Council, but there will be no more plain clothes man.

Delegates to Conference.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was held last evening, when twenty delegates were chosen to attend the annual conference to be held at Ashaway, R. I., on August 20. T. C. Smith was chairman of the meeting and Asa D. Randolph clerk. Dr. F. S. Wells was chosen chairman for the next meeting.

Individual Cups Used.

The individual communion cups were used for the first time yesterday at the First Baptist church and the new plan worked entirely satisfactorily. Everyone at the service was much pleased with the change and not a single thing happened to mar the solemnity of the occasion.

Death of a Child.

Paul E. Kennedy, one year and eight months old, son of William J. and Sarah Kennedy, died at their home on Harrison street yesterday afternoon. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the parents' residence.

School Board Meets.

A regular meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education is scheduled for this evening.

TROLLEY MEN'S CLUB.

Motormen and Conductors Have Organized and Secured Rooms at Elizabeth.

Motormen and conductors on the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway have formed a club to maintain a room in Elizabeth for amusements for themselves, where checkers, dominoes and pool will furnish a pastime for their leisure time. They will have a reading room also, for those of literary taste. The club was prompted by the desire to employ the time in some way, while waiting for the turns on the cars, and will be the means of keeping the extra men on hand so they can be called on quickly when they are needed to take cars out.

Superintendent Ackarman, learning that such a club was forming, proposed to the company to pay the rent of the building on condition that the club allow the company's telephone to be put in there. It will be a convenience to the company as well as to the employes, because the men will be there when wanted.

Up the Hudson.

On August 7, 14, 21, 28 and September 4, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run its usual midsummer excursions on the "Upper Hudson," under personal escort. Special excursion tickets will be sold on those dates for regular trains arriving at Jersey City prior to 10:05 a. m., good to return on same day on any regular train leaving Jersey City after arrival of steamer.

A stop will be made at West Point, giving those who disembark an hour and a half at that point, and enabling them to view the United States Military Academy.

In order to insure an early return, no stop will be made at Newburgh, although the steamer will run to a point off that city and there turn.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

ONE OF WESTFIELD'S BEST PASTORS CALLED

Rev. N. W. Cadwell Called to Hyde Park Presbyterian Church of Denver, Col.

HAS NOT DECIDED YET.

WESTFIELD PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IS A VERY OLD ONE.

While the Denver Church is Only Ten Years Old, it is in the Centre of a Very Thriving Community of the West.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 4—Rev. N. W. Cadwell, who has been pastor of the old historical First Presbyterian church here for the past twenty years, has received a unanimous call, with a most flattering offer, to become the pastor of the Hyde Park Presbyterian church of Denver, Col.

The church which calls Rev. Mr. Cadwell is only ten years old, has an immediate future, being located in one of the rapidly-growing suburbs in the centre of a population of 20,000, with no other church of any strength within a mile. At the present time the church has over 400 members, who enjoyed listening to Rev. Mr. Cadwell a few weeks ago when he was in Denver as a delegate in attendance at the convention of the International Sunday-school Association.

As yet Rev. Mr. Cadwell is undecided whether or not he will accept the call. He has been given several weeks to make up his mind, and is considering the question gravely. The First Presbyterian church here has between 600 and 700 members and Rev. Mr. Cadwell and his wife have a host of warm friends in and about Westfield.

The First Presbyterian church dates back in history with the beginning of the town. The tract of land upon which the church stands was purchased from the Indians, and the parish settled in 1720. The first pastor, Rev. Nathaniel Hubbard, was installed in 1730, and during the 172 years this time-honored organization has had but twelve pastors.

Rev. Mr. Cadwell came here after being educated at Monroe Collegiate, Hamilton College and Auburn Theological Seminary. He took the first oratorical prize of his class at preparatory school and college, and was admitted to the bar.

During his pastorate here the church has been remodeled, a handsome parsonage built, one of the finest chapels and Sunday-school rooms in the State and union chapels have been erected at nearby country places. The congregation comprises the most fashionable people of Westfield and the older families in the vicinity. The church is steadily progressing along safe lines, and is very active in all moral reforms.

As a preacher, Rev. Mr. Cadwell is known throughout the State as one of the most eloquent men of the pulpit.

MORE ROOM.

Requirements of Rahway Reformatory Make an Addition Necessary at Once.

Already plans and needs for the new wing at the Rahway reformatory are being earnestly discussed. In the part now built there are 256 cells. There are but ninety-eight of these now unfilled.

The institution will have been opened a year Tuesday. At its opening it was thought by the commission and others in authority that all possible arrivals could be well taken care of for five years at least. Now the question is "What is to be done when we get another even hundred?" Doubling up prisoners, putting two into one cell, is bad for discipline, for health and various other reasons. A few, perhaps a dozen, may have earned their right to a parole by the time the year rolls around, but there are already nearly that number now in waiting, who have been sentenced from the various courts of the State, and will be here inside of a month.

Supposing the new wing were to be started at once, it would be nearly a year before it was completed, and, judging the future by the past, inside of that time there will be 350 inmates, with less than 300 rooms for them.

Mrs. J. S. Harden, of South Branch, is visiting her son in Plainfield for a time.

VIRGINIA TO OHIO AFOOT.

Plucky Young Couple to Walk All the Way—Transportation Refused.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—To walk from Richmond, Va., to Dayton, O., is the task set by a young couple who left here yesterday. They stated at the office of the superintendent of charities that they had eloped from Dayton four months ago and had gone to Washington, where they were married. This part of the story was substantiated by the marriage certificate which they exhibited. From Washington they said they had gone to Richmond, where the young man had secured employment as a conductor on a trolley. Then came a strike, and the husband lost his position. His lungs were not strong, and they decided that he would be better off in Dayton, especially as there did not seem to be any way of making a living for himself and wife in Richmond, whereas he is confident of securing employment in Dayton.

They had very little money and decided to walk, and they started out, heading for Baltimore as one of the stopping places. It had taken them four weeks to get here.

The officials refused to give the names of the couple, but said the man was twenty-seven years old and his wife seventeen. They declined to accept transportation to Dayton, but were provided with shoes.

KING DINES WITH FAMILY.

Preparations For the Coronation Proceed Quietly.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Up to Saturday King Edward had taken all his meals alone, but then, for the first time since his recent illness, he lunched and dined with members of the royal family. His majesty now receives numerous visitors daily, and Cowes is becoming crowded with fashionable notables.

New preparations for the coronation, which event is to take place Aug. 9, are proceeding rather mechanically. The erection of the familiar street barriers, the cleansing and decorating of the stands and the rehanging of decorations attract slight attention.

The outward preparations are an old story, but public interest in the actual proceedings is rekindled by official assurance that the king is getting on finely and that his majesty is ready to bear the fatigue of being crowned at the week's end.

The publication of the official programme of the procession shows no special changes from the original arrangement, but the ceremonies in Westminster abbey have been curtailed.

The city council of Westminster, in compliance with the king's wishes, has voted that no further expenditures be incurred in replacing the street decorations.

Trolley Accident Victims Doing Well.

HUDSON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The twenty people who were injured in the collision of the Albany and Hudson Electric railway Saturday night and who are now in the Hudson hospital are doing as well as can be expected. Marjorie Hoysradt, who was killed, died in sight of her mother. With another girl Marjorie saw the approaching electric car from the rear vestibule of the detained car on which she was a passenger, but was caught in the wreck before she could jump. Edward Doyle, a five-year-old child, died in his father's arms after being fatally crushed. Thousands of people visited the wreck yesterday.

Was This Tracy?

CRESTON, Ia., Aug. 4.—A stranger resembling Harry Tracy, the noted bandit, and claiming to be he, came into Huss' barber shop at Afton, just east of here, and, with drawn revolvers, compelled the eight occupants in the place to line up against the wall while he took possession of the tools and compelled the barber to shave him. The fellow was wounded in the side and refused to lie down. He sat upright, nervously watching the door until the barber was through. He made his escape, and no trace of him can be found.

Lord Derby's Owner Changes Plans.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—E. E. Smathers, owner of Lord Derby, 2:06½, announces that he has decided to withdraw the winner of the $40,000 match race at Hartford from his grand circuit engagement at Buffalo this week and drive the horse himself in a race to wagon, with a blue ribbon for the prize, at Empire City park next Saturday. The New York Driving club, of which Mr. Smathers is a member, will hold its fifth meeting at the Yonkers track at that time.

Wrecked Off Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 4.—With her forward compartments filled with water and a hole in her bottom amidships the freight steamer Blaamanden, Captain Amundsen, from Hamburg for Philadelphia with a general cargo, lies on the rocks at White Point ledges in a dangerous position. The two passengers, Mrs. Moffatt of New York and Mr. Grey of Elizabeth, N. J., have landed at Canso and will go home by rail.

WILL SHOOT TO KILL

Stern Orders to Troops on Duty at Shenandoah.

THE CAMP WAS REPEATEDLY STONED

An Ugly Feeling Against the State Guard—Soldiers Are Frequently Jostled and Otherwise Annoyed In the Streets.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 4.—A double guard supplied with ball cartridges surrounds the camp now, and the sentries have been instructed that if stone throwing is repeated they must shoot to kill and investigate afterward. One of the recent attacking party, a Lithuanian named William Stoponitz, is under arrest and is confined in the guard tent, and the provost marshal is on the trail of others.

The entire Eighth regiment was called to arms during Saturday night as a result of three attacks made by a band of men in ambush who threw stones at the troops now in camp on the plateau outside the town. These attacks had become so frequent that Brigadier General Gobin decided to adopt stern measures. No disturbance occurred last night.

Colonel Hoffman said that he did not know whether the stone throwing was done to annoy the troops or to see what the regiment would or could do.

"Saturday night's occurrence demonstrates that we can be ready for any emergency in three minutes," he said, "and hereafter we will stand no nonsense and will give a bullet for each stone."

The colonel said there is an ugly feeling among many persons against the troops. Reports are being made to him daily of soldiers being elbowed and otherwise annoyed on the streets. It was the intention of Colonel Hoffman to give a parade in the town proper as a compliment to the brigadier general, but owing to Saturday night's affair it was decided that it would be better to have the parade take place within the camp.

The soldiers spent a quiet Sunday. There was a large crowd out. The regiment chaplain held services in the morning, and in the afternoon each command gave a dress parade.

Mitchell Reports No Change.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 4.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers made another visit to Scranton yesterday. Before going he said there was no change in the strike situation. He did not think that an attempt would be made to resume work at any of the collieries the coming week. From what he could learn the Oxford mine, in the Lackawanna region, was being operated by new men. None of the old employees had returned, and at a meeting they pledged themselves not to return. Mr. Mitchell said the same conditions prevailed throughout the entire region. The strikers were still confident that they were going to win, and so long as they felt that way there was little probability that they would report for work.

Stone Will Not Withdraw Troops.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug 4.—Governor Stone made the following reply to the request of the officials of District No. 9 of the United Mine Workers, represented by Miles Dougherty and others, asking for the recall of the troops at Shenandoah: "Yours of the 31st ult. requesting the recall of the troops was duly received. Upon full consideration of the letter I am of the opinion that it would not be wise or safe to withdraw the troops at present."

Not One Unfaithful.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 4.—At a meeting of the executive board of the United Mine Workers held here reports were received from every local in the district to the effect that not one member of the union has returned to work since the strike and furthermore that they have no intention of doing so unless ordered back to the mines by their officers.

Fierce Storm In Omaha.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 4.—The worst electrical storm this vicinity has ever experienced began about 8:30 o'clock in the evening and continued until 12:30. At one time the fire department was at work on four fires, and not less than a dozen places in the city were struck by lightning. The fire losses are small, except in the case of the Omaha Milling company, whose loss from fire and water will aggregate about $25,000.

Russia's Position Relating to Sugar Bounties Defined.

GOVERNMENT NOTE MISUNDERSTOOD.

American Newspapers Had Interpreted It to Mean a Combine In Europe Against American Trade.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Mr. M. Routkowski, the financial agent of the Russian government at Washington, has, by direction of the home authorities, made the following official statement regarding the recent note of the Russian minister of finance relating to the Brussels sugar convention:

"In view of the erroneous interpretation by many organs of the American press of the object and meaning of the recent note of the Russian minister of finance sent to various governments, whose representatives have signed the Brussels convention on suppression of bounties on sugar, M. Routkowsky, financial agent of the Russian government in the United States, has been instructed to communicate to the American press that in case of the negative answer of the powers to the above mentioned note and the establishment of a countervailing duty on Russian sugar the imperial Russian government shall consider the establishment of such a duty as an infraction of its commercial treaties with powers so doing and therefore free from obligations imposed by them and at liberty not to comply with their stipulations whenever it will be to the advantage of Russia."

Many of the American newspapers, M. Routkowsky explained, have interpreted the note referred to as a move on the part of the Russian government to inaugurate a European coalition against American trade. Such an understanding, he declares, is entirely incorrect and does the Russian government an injustice. The note was sent by Russia to the governments participating in the Brussels sugar conference and also to the American government merely as an act of courtesy, the United States not having been a party to that conference. In retaliation for the countervailing duty against Russian bounty sugars imposed by the United States, Russia now imposes her maximum tariff rates. The object of the statement, M. Routkowsky says, is to show that Russia is not engaged in any effort to wage a campaign against American trade, but to make plain to the parties to the Brussels conference that the imposition of countervailing duties against Russian sugar will be met as it was in the case of the United States. The question of the legality of the countervailing duty on Russian sugar is now pending in the United States supreme court.

Battle Still On.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—"Battle still being fought desperately." These were the words contained in a dispatch received at the Colombian legation last night from General Salazar, the governor of the department of Panama, and were in answer to a message asking that official for information regarding the contest which has been in progress since last Tuesday at Agua Dulce, when the Colombian revolutionists began to attack that place. The officials here are anxiously awaiting additional news of this battle. The understanding here is that the government's force of about 7,000 men is engaged with a large portion of the revolutionists, who have in the department of Panama about 4,000 men in all. Agua Dulce, though only seventy-five miles from Panama, is in an inaccessible part of the country for ready communication. It requires eight days to make the overland journey, while the water communication is very irregular and is carried on mainly by the small boats.

A Missouri Injunction.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 4.—Judge Phillips of the federal court has issued a temporary injunction restraining the officers and members of the Retail Clerks' National Protective association and the Journeymen Tailors' union from enforcing their boycott on a Kansas City clothing firm. The patrolling of the sidewalk in front of the premises was stopped by order of the court. The cause of the trouble was the refusal of the firm to comply with the demands of the union to close the store at night. Judge Phillips said that the court had no disposition to oppose the union, but that the members had no right to stand in front of a man's place of business and accost people who were about to enter the store with the view of deterring them from buying therein.

Excursion Train Wrecked.

CADILLAC, Mich., Aug. 4.—An excursion train on the Ann Arbor railway, made up of eleven coaches and carrying 700 people, was wrecked six miles north of this place. So far as known no one was killed, but about a dozen persons were injured, some seriously. The train was bound from Durand to Crystal Lake and Frankfort and was running about thirty-five miles an hour. It is believed the wreck was caused by the flange breaking on one of the wheels of the combination baggage and smoker, next to the engine.

"Mother" Uzzell Dead.

DENVER, Aug. 4.—Mrs. Margaret Uzzell, mother of "Parson" T. A. Uzzell, is dead at the age of seventy-five years. She was born in Kentucky and came to Colorado in 1877. "Mother" Uzzell for eighteen years had been associated, with her sons, in conducting the People's tabernacle in this city, of which Rev. T. A. Uzzell is now pastor. She was one of the most noted charity workers in the west.

SMITH WILL NOT TALK.

He of the "Kill and Burn" Order Silent on Retirement.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—General Jacob H. Smith, who returned last Friday from Manila, will spend several days in this city and then go to his home in Portsmouth, O. Speaking on the subject for the first time since his arrival, General Smith said of his forced retirement from the army:

"It was an unwelcome surprise to me. I naturally supposed that I would receive a reprimand as a result of the verdict of the verdict of the court martial, but nothing more. I have always tried to do my duty in a conscientious manner and conduct myself as a soldier. I am still in the government's service and not at liberty to discuss recent personal occurrences. I could be as readily court martialed now as if I were not on the retired list.

"I am feeling first rate; never better in my life. In fact, I was with the Twelfth and Seventeenth before I was promoted. I spent most of the time I was in the islands in and around Samar. I always tried to do what seemed best for the service in both districts. The natives of Luzon seem considerably more civilized than those of the islands. Some of those in Samar are nothing but savages and, of course, cannot be treated like civilized people. They all would resort to most barbarous methods of warfare at times. Instances of the torture and slaughter of American soldiers are very numerous. Any one of my commands knows that they were not unduly severe with the natives. I have always tried to conduct my campaigns according to military regulations.

"There is no use asking me to talk about other things. It would not be military. It would be of no use. I am a soldier and take what is coming to me. It is not for me to say whether I deserve it or not. I have done what I thought was right and am ready to settle down in quiet."

TROUBLE IN THE ARCTICS.

Sensational Reports Regarding the Baldwin-Zeigler Expedition.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Aug. 4.—A dispatch to the Morgen Bladet from Tromso, Norway, says that Captain Johannsson of the American, which arrived at Honningsvaag, Norway, Aug. 1, with Evelyn B. Baldwin, the arctic explorer, on board, has asked to be examined before a maritime court concerning incidents which occurred on board the American during the voyage of the Baldwin-Zeigler arctic expedition.

To this dispatch the Morgen Bladet adds that there are sensational reports in circulation, one being to the effect that Captain Johannsson was deprived of his command during the voyage.

Another dispatch received here from Tromso says the pilot of the America has demanded an inquiry into several mysterious deaths among those on board the vessel which occurred during the voyage.

Fire Closes Arizona Mine.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Aug. 4.—Fire has appeared at the fourth level of the United Verde mine at Jerome, the fumes of the burning sulphur pervading the entire mine. An agreement had been made to bulkhead the level, but with the air being pumped from the surface the men could work only for a few minutes at a time. One miner was overcome by gas while ascending in the cage and was killed. The company has been compelled to close down the mine and smelter. It is stated that it will be a month or probably more before the plant will be started again, as the men refuse to risk their lives by going into the mine.

A Novel Inspection Engine.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—A unique engine has just been completed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at its Mount Clare shops, this city. It is designed for the use of officials in making inspection trips. The engine has a small passenger coach constructed on top of the boiler back of the smokestack. The boiler is heavily covered with asbestus and the floor of the car with brussels carpet. The seats in the coach are arranged in amphitheater style, so as to give every one in the car a full view of the track and surrounding country. Passengers enter the car by winding stairs on either side of the front pilot.

President Made Five Bullseyes.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—President Roosevelt has beaten the Dutch—that is to say, he defeated a Boer officer at target practice, making a remarkable record with a .32 caliber revolver at fifty yards. He drove five bullets, one after the other, through the hole made by the first in the center of the bullseye. No such shooting has even been done before around Oyster Bay, and Commandant W. D. Snyman, an officer on General De Wet's staff, declares he never saw such skill in South Africa.

Trolley Cars Telescoped.

ELGIN, Ill., Aug. 4.—In a street car collision here two cars were telescoped and several persons seriously injured. A switch to a siding, upon which stood three empty cars, was left open, and a loaded car from Elgin crashed into the standing cars, two being telescoped. The passengers were imprisoned for nearly an hour, and every one of the fifteen of them was more or less seriously injured.

Leaped From Express Train.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 4.—Miss Minnie C. Blizzard leaped from a West Virginia Central passenger train while running thirty miles an hour near Cumberland. She wanted to get off at Keyser, but passed that point. She is deaf, and, discovering her mistake, she made a daring leap. She was picked up unconscious, supposed to be fatally injured, but will recover.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW JERSEY, PROPOSED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1902.

Be it resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring) that the following amendments to the constitution of this state be, and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next (being the fourth day of said month), in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, the said newspapers to be designated by the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Assembly and the secretary of state.

ARTICLE V.

Executive.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 10, a new paragraph, as follows:

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor and the attorney-general, or two of them of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

ARTICLE VI.

Judiciary.

1. Insert in lieu of Section II, a new section, as follows:

1. The court of errors and appeals shall consist of a chief judge and four associate judges, or any four of them.

2. In case any judge of said court shall be disqualified to sit in any cause, or shall be unable for the time being to discharge the duties of his office, whereby the whole number of judges capable of sitting shall be reduced below four, the governor shall designate a justice of the supreme court, the chancellor or a vice-chancellor, to discharge such duties until the disqualification or inability shall cease.

3. The secretary of state shall be the clerk or this court.

4. When a writ of error shall be brought, any judicial opinion in the cause, in favor of or against any error complained of, shall be assigned to the court in writing; when an appeal shall be taken from an order or decree of the court of chancery, the chancellor or vice-chancellor making such decree or order shall inform the court in writing of his reasons therefor.

5. The jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the supreme court by writ of error shall be exclusively vested in the court of errors and appeals; but any writ of error pending in the supreme court at the time of the adoption of this amendment shall be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place.

Section IV.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. The court of chancery shall consist of a chancellor and such number of vice-chancellors as shall be provided by law, each of whom may exercise the jurisdiction of the court; the court shall make rules governing the hearing of causes and the practice of the court, where the same is not regulated by statute.

Section V.

1. At the end of paragraph 1, add the following:

The court may sit in divisions at the same or different times and places.

Strike out paragraph 3.

Section VI.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraphs 1 and 2, the following:

The court of common pleas shall be constituted and held in each county in such manner as may be provided by law.

ARTICLE VII.

Civil Officers.

Section II.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. Judges of the court of errors and appeals, justices of the supreme court, the chancellor, the vice-chancellors and the judges of the circuit court and of the court of common pleas shall be nominated by the governor and appointed by him with the advice and consent of the Senate; all persons now holding any office in this paragraph named, except the judges of the court of errors and appeals as heretofore existing, shall continue in the exercise of the duties of their respective offices according to their respective commissions or appointments; the judges of the court of errors and appeals, except those first appointed; the justices of the supreme court, the chancellor and the vice-chancellors shall hold their offices for the term of seven years, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointment; and they shall hold no other office under the government of this state or the United States; the judges of the court of errors and appeals first appointed shall be appointed one for three years, two for five years and two for seven years; judges of the court of common pleas shall hold their offices for the term of five years.

PUBLIC NOTICE

is hereby given by Charles Sheelen, Collector of the Borough of Fanwood, county of Union, that by virtue of a tax warrant issued on the 20th day of June, by Mayor and Council of the Borough of Fanwood, he will sell at public vendue all the lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate hereinafter mentioned, for the shortest term for which any person or persons will agree to take the same and pay the taxes assessed against the same for the years of 1900-'901, with the interest thereon accruing, and all costs, fees, charges and expenses in relation to the levy, assessment and collection of said taxes. The said sale will take place at the Council rooms, Fanwood fire house on Wednesday, August 20, at 2:30 p. m. The said lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate so to be sold, and the names against whom the said taxes have been laid on account of the same, and the amount of taxes laid on account of each parcel are as follows: House and lot, M. L. K. Carter—taxes due $9.00.

All that tract or parcel of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the Borough of Fanwood, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey.

Beginning at a point in a line drawn parallel with and distant five hundred and ninety (590) feet northwesterly at right angles from the centre line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey as filed in the office of the Secretary of State, said point being distant two hundred and twenty-five (225) feet southwesterly from the intersection of said parallel line with the southwesterly side of Hunter avenue; thence south thirty-one degrees and forty-five minutes east (S. 31 45' E.) and at right angles to said centre line as filed two hundred and four and ninety-six one hundredths (204.96-100) feet to the northwesterly side of North avenue; thence along said side of North avenue, south fifty-three degrees and fifty-nine minutes West (S. 53 59' W.) one hundred and seven and five one hundredths (107.05-100) feet to a stake; thence north thirty degrees and thirty-one minutes West (N. 30 31' W.) three hundred and twenty-seven and ninety-six one-hundredths (327.96-100) feet to a stake; thence North fifty-eight degrees and fifteen minutes East (N. 58 15' E.) and parallel with said centre line as filed ninety-nine and sixty-eight one-hundredths (99.68-100) feet to a stake; thence south thirty-one degrees and forty-five minutes East (S. 31 45' E.) and at right angles to said centre line as filed one hundred and fifteen feet to the place of beginning.

MILK TRAINS COLLIDE.

Four Killed In Ontario and Western Wreck.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 4.—A head on collision between milk trains on the Ontario and Western railroad yesterday afternoon at Hortons, Delaware county, resulted in the death of four persons, the wrecking of two engines and the ditching of several cars.

A loaded milk train, southbound, and a train of empties, northbound, had orders to pass Chiloway, one mile north of the wreck, but for some reason the southbound train passed the point and met the other on a curve. Reports reach here that the killed are:

Andy O'Neal of Norwich, engineer of the southbound train; Robert Reese of this city, fireman of the same train; Michael Tully of this city, fireman of the northbound train, and Frank E. Monroe of this city, trainman of the same train.

Benjamin St. John, the engineer of the other train, jumped from the cab, escaping serious injury. His father, also an engineer, was killed in a similar accident several years ago a few miles from the same place.

Both the engines and seven cars were thrown down an embankment. The firemen and Engineer O'Neal were found under the engine.

Andy O'Neal, who met death, was in a similar accident on the same road eight years ago yesterday, having a remarkable escape from injury. His brother is George W. O'Neal, foreman of engineers on the road.

PHILIPPINE AFFAIRS.

A Bandit's Fate—Preparing to Welcome Taft Home.

MANILA, Aug. 4.—Pablo Muros, a bandit who had terrorized the island of Romblon for the past ten years, has been captured by the native constabulary on the neighboring island of Sibuyan. His arms were bound, and he was placed in a boat, to be conveyed to Romblon. He sprang overboard in a dash for liberty and was drowned.

The United States transport General Alava will leave here for Singapore, Strait Settlements, tomorrow to meet Governor Taft, who is returning from Rome, and bring him to Manila. The chamber of commerce and the Federal party are now arranging to give banquets in Governor Taft's honor upon his arrival.

While cholera is decreasing in Manila, the reports received from the provinces show a large number of cases and deaths. Last Saturday there were 605 cases and 525 deaths from cholera in the provinces. Since the outbreak of the epidemic there have been throughout the archipelago a total of 21,408 cases of cholera and 16,105 deaths. It is believed that many cases were not reported, and the total number of cases is estimated at 28,000. Forty-eight Americans and eighteen Europeans have died in Manila since the outbreak.

A Pool to Raise Price of Bread.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 4.—There is much popular indignation here over the formation of a pool among the bakers of this city to raise the price of bread. This trade is in the hands of half a dozen rich Spaniards from old Spain, who have signed an agreement to charge prices mutually agreed on and not in any way to enter into competition, as they have done hitherto. The agreement is for two years. The daily papers point out that this agreement is wholly unjustifiable, as the price of wheat has not altered in two years, while the taxes are the same. The cost of living for poor people and the lower middle class has been increasing here steadily, and meat has been rising for two years past.

Lord Derby Won.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 4.—Boralma won the first heat of the Lord Derby-Boralma match race here in 2:08. Lord Derby had the pole, but lost it in the first half mile. Lord Derby won the second heat in 2:09½ and the third in 2:18¼. At the end of the third heat the race was awarded to Lord Derby, Boralma having been withdrawn on account of injuries. Boralma severed an artery in the leg while scoring for the third heat. The injury will keep him off the track for a long time.

Dynamite Bomb Explodes.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—By the premature explosion of an immense dynamite bomb filled with colored figures, which was about to be sent into the sky just before midnight, four persons were seriously injured, scores were knocked down, and thousands were thrown into a panic. It was the feast of the Madonna Del Anco, and the accident happened while the Italians of Mount Vernon were concluding their celebration with a great display of fireworks.

Murderer Halle Executed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—After two stays of judgment by the courts of the country since June 24, 1900, when he was sentenced to die six weeks later in the electric chair, Aaron Halle, the murderer of his sweetheart, Miss Mary Brannigan, was executed today at Sing Sing.

Murderer Identified.

REDUCED ARMAMENT

Victor Emmanuel's Object In Visiting Czar and Kaiser.

EUROPEAN WARS NEARING AN END.

Large Sums Necessary For Keeping Up Great Armies to Be Used to Resist American Encroachment.

ROME, Aug. 4.—With regard to the statement in these dispatches under date of July 13 that one of the principal questions of discussion between King Victor Emmanuel and the czar of Russia upon the occasion of the former's visit to St. Petersburg would be the reduction of armaments, it is now learned that King Victor Emmanuel's visit to Emperor William at Berlin the latter part of this month is intended to continue this same work in the direction of reaching an international understanding in the matter of reduced armaments, the king of Italy having been encouraged in his determination in this matter by the czar, who is ready to reassume the leadership of the movement he initiated with The Hague peace conference.

According to information received from an authoritative source, the sovereigns referred to argue that the time of European wars is almost over, as their interests are so great in other continents that it is not worth while to fight for a strip of land here and there in Europe. Consequently the large armaments which are now intended for European conflicts might be reduced or transformed for the defense of colonial interests, the gain being devoted to the improvement of commerce and industry and for a collective fight against the common danger—American competition.

Ohio Electric Road Tied Up.

IRONTON, O., Aug. 4.—The strike of the employees of the Camden Interstate Electric railway has almost completely tied up the lines from Guyandotte, W. Va., to Hanging Rock, O., and intermediate points. In seven hours all the nonunion men were driven from the cars in this city by violence. Crowds gathered at street intersections, hurling fruit, eggs and other missiles at motormen and conductors. At noon James Sanders, a union man who refused to quit, was taken from his car and dragged toward the Ohio river. On promising not to resume his car he was escorted home in a roundabout way to escape the crowds.

Gentleman Burglar Confesses.

CHESTER, Vt., Aug. 4.—A partial confession by Clarence Adams, the gentleman burglar of this town, covering incidents of the past six years, has added to the excitement over this case. Adams had his legs peppered with shot one night last week, and, while he claimed that he had been held up on the road and shot, his statements show that he ran into the gun set for burglars in the grain mill of Charles Waterman. Adams admits burglaries covering six years back, but adds that he is being charged with too many of them. The only explanation he gives for his depredations is "amusement."

Windstorm In Canadian Town.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 4.—A windstorm struck St. Catherines, Canada, about 1 o'clock yesterday and did considerable damage, but so far as known did not cause any fatalities. It destroyed a one story house occupied by a Mrs. Devaux on Lake street, blew out one end of the brick barn of the Niagara Falls, St. Catherines and Toronto railroad, picked up a freight car bodily and dropped it twenty feet from the track and scattered telegraph and telephone wires about the streets. Several houses were also moved from their foundations.

Restoration of Railway to China.

PEKING, Aug. 4.—Prince Ching, president of the foreign office, has notified the various representatives of the foreign powers here that agreements have been arrived at with Sir Ernest Satow, the British minister, for the restoration of the Northern railway to the Chinese. United States Minister Conger replied to Prince Ching and congratulated him upon the fact. The other powers are demanding further small concessions, but it is hoped the transfer of the road will be shortly completed.

Another Venetian Structure Falling.

VENICE, Aug. 4.—A great window in the basilica of the Dominican Church of St. John and St. Paul has fallen in as the result of having been shaken by a clap of thunder. The church itself, which ranks next in importance to St. Mark's, has been declared by experts to be in danger of collapse. It contains fine monuments to the most famous doges who lie buried there.

An Infant Killer.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The police have arrested Mrs. Neil Campbell of 655 Grand avenue on a charge of allowing an infant to die from insufficient nourishment, and the officials say sensational developments are sure to follow. It is alleged that within the last three years eight other infants have been buried from the woman's house.

President Steyn's Journey.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Former President Steyn of the Orange Free State, who, with his family, arrived at Southampton Saturday and who sailed the same day for Holland, has arrived at Scheveningen. Mr. Kruger has sent him a message in which he prays for his early recovery.

THE WESTFIELD GAME.

The efforts of The Daily Press to bring about a contest between the crack nine of Westfield and a representative team from this city have been crowned with success. The managers of the local league teams appear to be of one mind in that it will be best to allow the winning team in the league, with such other league players as may be necessary to strengthen it, to meet the Westfields. The Daily Press therefore takes much pleasure in turning over the games, which it secured the refusal of from President C. H. Denman, of the Westfield Baseball Association, to the league.

It did not look right for Westfield's challenge to go unanswered. So The Daily Press took up the matter. The result has been that the league managers have become interested in the project and will undoubtedly formally act upon it at the regular league meeting this evening. It has not been the aim of The Daily Press to interfere at all with the league. On the contrary, we are only too glad to do anything we can to further its interests. It is with much satisfaction, therefore, that we see the suggestion of The Daily Press so ably and cordially seconded.

The Daily Press has guaranteed President Denman that there will be a Plainfield team ready to meet Westfield on the two days selected. If the league will take up the subject, as it undoubtedly will at tonight's meeting, then the object of The Daily Press has been accomplished. If anything should happen at the last moment to end negotiations, it will be our duty to furnish some team, either picking an all Plainfield team or transferring the games to one of the league teams. We trust, however, that everything will go smoothly and that there will be no need for any further action on the part of The Daily Press.

It really looked for a moment as if a place had been found for the Loyal Temperance Legion drinking fountain at the square in front of the Crescent Avenue church. It turned out that the site was on private property and the owners thereof objected to it.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Herring, of Park Avenue, returned home yesterday, from a stay at Toronto, Canada.

Prof. A. Venino, of Spokane, Wash., was in town Saturday calling on friends, after an absence of nearly ten years. He was formerly a resident of Plainfield for many years.

Leonard S. Smith, of 113 Duer street, returned to business today after a two weeks vacation, a portion of which was spent with relatives near Pluckamin, Somerset county.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

If you want your curtains and fancy articles done up carefully take them to Meissner's hand laundry on Watchung avenue.

Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, keeps a superior stock of jewelry, silverware and watches. He does first-class repair work and guarantees it.

Prescriptions are carefully compounded, and every patron, whether he spends a dollar or a dime is given the best attention at E. S. F. Randolph's, the North avenue druggist.

The increase in the trade at S. Scheuer & Company's store is due to the excellence of the goods and the low prices. They handle such large quantities that the goods are always fresh.

If you buy your groceries from Fred H. Firstbrook, the Liberty street grocer, you will get double trading stamps with every purchase. A book full of these stamps entitles you to a handsome premium.

Rogers' fish market continues to attract patronage by the quality and variety of the seafood offered every day over its counters. Freshness and moderate prices are the two characteristics which appeal to the popular taste.

If has often been remarked that the women of Plainfield are better dressed than their sisters in other towns and cities. This is no doubt true for the reason that Peck, of West Front street, is the mecca for these women. His goods, the style and prices, are distinctively Peck's.

Large invoices of the luscious Rocky Ford and Jenny Lind melons, with fresh lots of Georgia peaches, make T. L. Walsh's fruit market a popular stand. Something new also is being offered now in the shape of cultivated Florida garden pines, which excel in juiciness and sweetness.

It is a credit to Plainfield that there is such a store as that kept by Woodhull & Martin in the city. It is metropolitan in every respect and the quality of the goods in every department and the prices will compare favorably with those to be found in New York or any of the big cities. This is why so many Plainfielders trade at home in preference to New York.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

There has been considerable correspondence of late between Charles H. Denman, president of the Westfield Baseball Association, and the manager of the Plainfield City League, with the idea of getting a series of ball games between Westfield and a nine representing Plainfield. It remained for the Plainfield Press to do the hustling on that end of the line as the challenge from Westfield was not acted upon by the City League and from present appearances there will be two games played, one in Westfield and one in Plainfield.

The Press caters to the wants of the Plainfield public and that want at present seems to be that Plainfield should play Westfield. President Denman is ready to accommodate Plainfield with two games to be played September 13 and October 4.—Union County Standard.

PERSONAL.

PAUL H. LOIZEAUX WEDS

MARRIED TO MISS LUCY COTTON AT HOLLAND HOUSE, NEW YORK.

Took Place Saturday—Bride is From Baltimore—Quiet Wedding on Account of Illness in Family.

Paul H. Loizeaux, son of Paul J. Loizeaux, of this city, was married at the Holland House, New York, Saturday afternoon, to Miss Lucy Biggs Cotton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Cotton, of Baltimore, Md. On account of the illness of the bride's mother, no invitations were issued, the wedding being attended only by the families of both bride and groom and their intimate friends.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Bebb, pastor of the University Place Presbyterian church. Wm. S. Loizeaux, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride, unattended, was given away by her brother, Dr. Harry Cotton, of Worcester, Mass. Employes of the firm J. H. Thorpe & Company, of which the groom is a member, sent a large floral horseshoe upon which were inscribed the words "good luck."

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Loizeaux will spend their honeymoon in Europe. On their return in September they will make their home in New York city.

Led Congregational Singing.

The rich base voice of Fred S. Cutter was very much enjoyed yesterday morning in Trinity Reformed church, as he acted as precentor and led the congregational singing, in the absence of the choir, which has been given a vacation for the month.

Miss E. C. Benedict, of East Fifth street, has been compelled to return home from the Catskill Mountains, on account of an attack of malaria.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

With a patched up team the Dunellen A. C. went to Raritan Saturday and met defeat at the hands of the Raritan A. C. strengthened by a number of semi-professional players, in an interesting game by a score of 6 to 5. Although defeated the Dunellenites came home with the feeling that they had been naturally robbed of the game as the umpire allowed three men to score on a blocked ball which bystanders declare Ettinger picked up and was not blocked. Ettinger was invincible and struck out fourteen men, although obliged to retire because of sickness in the last inning.

During the hard rain yesterday the water backed up at the corner of North and Jackson avenues, and flooded the roadway to the depth of about a foot.

No services were held last evening in the Presbyteiran church but Christian Endeavor meeting was held at 7:30 instead of at 6:45 as usual.

Only a very few attended morning services in the Methodist church yesterday but the congregation of the evening was large.

Charles Maxwell, of this place, who is at Muhlenberg Hospital suffering with typhoid fever, is still alive although very low.

Miss Ethel Jamison, of Raritan, has been spending the last few days at the home of Mrs. F. H. Gise.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Teel and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wynkoop spent yesterday at Long Branch.

Geo. Schenck and family left on Saturday for Ocean Grove where they will spend a week.

A number from here went to see the wreck on the Central Railroad yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Edward Brook, of Front street, is entertaining her mother from Stockton.

Rev. August Todd entertained a number of out of town relatives yesterday.

Mrs. Randolph, of Front street, entertained out of town friends yesterday.

Rev. Father Dumphy officiated at services in St. John's church yesterday.

Hazelwood Craig spent Saturday and Sunday at Atlantic Highlands.

The young daughter of James Day is recovering from a slight illness.

Mrs. Thomas Todd entertained some out of town relatives yesterday.

This evening the regular monthly Council meeting will be held.

No play was held on the Park Tennis Club court Saturday.

NEW MARKET.

Rev. Frank Fletcher occupied the pulpit in the First Baptist church at Scotch Plains yesterday morning. Rev. G. B, Shaw, of Plainfield, occupied Mr. Fletcher's pulpit and preached to a small audience.

The lake is considerably swollen as a result of the recent heavy rains and a small-sized flood is threatened.

Christian Endeavor meeting was in the First Baptist church, as usual, last evening.

A large crowd of rooters accompanied the ball team to Metuchen Saturday.

C. T. Sanford, of Scotch Plains, visited relatives in Piscataway yesterday.

Abram Nelson and family visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

Miss Stella Sofield spent yesterday with friends in Dunellen.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The annual Sunday-school excursion of the several Sunday-schools of the village, together with several of the schools of Westfield, will be held tomorrow. Train leaves Fanwood 8:15 sharp, stopping at Westfield. It has been suggested that the friends of the school who expect to go buy their tickets at the Fanwood station of some member of the committee, as this is the only way that it will help the Sunday-school of the village as each school only realize a profit on what tickes they can sell.

Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, occupied the pulpit in the Baptist church Sunday morning. At the close of the service the monthly communion was observed. No evening preaching service was held.

Sunday preaching services, which were discontinued at the Methodist church during the last two weeks of July, were resumed again yesterday, Rev. Mr. Glazer having returned from his summer outing.

Little Malcom Marsh, who has been at Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, for several weeks, having underwent an operation for appendicitis, was brought home Saturday.

"The Call to Separation" was the subject discussed by the members of the B. Y. P. U. at their weekly meeting in the church parlors last night.

The unusual heavy rain of Sunday morning did no damage in town with the exception of washing the sidewalks and roadbed considerably.

An interesting weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held in the Methodist church last evening. John Wade had charge of the meeting.

Hervey Marsh, captain of the junior baseball team, played with the Gilbett's Saturday afternoon in their game with the Stirling's.

Miss Mamie Merceir, of Plainfield, has been spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Merceir, of Grand street.

Rev. G. M. Shott occupied the pulpit in the Park Avenue Baptist church, Plainfield, Sunday morning.

OLD SETTLER TALKS.

Has Been a Resident of Washington for 67 Years.

National Capital, Now Noted the World Over for Its Beauty, Then Was a Measly Country Village.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"THIS is the most pleasant summer I have ever seen in the national capital, and I have been here 67 summers."

The speaker does not look like one so far advanced in years. He has been selling postage stamps for our city post office for a very long time, as every patron of the office knows, but nobody would suppose that he had seen so many cycles of time. He added:

"I was born in 1827 and am in my seventy-sixth year. I was here when Jackson was president, and in my youth and young manhood I knew Henry Clay, John C. Calhoun and all those worthies of whom you have read so much. Even until this day I am almost as proud as I was in my youth to be able to boast that I have sat on the knee of Daniel Webster."

William T. Turpin is the name of the vigorous old gentleman who has seen this city grow from an obscure marshy village into the beautiful capital of the republic. There was a lull in the business of the evening, and the narrator stood by the window and received a lot of very interesting information, in answer to quite number of pertinent questions.

"There was no city here in those days beyond a block or two north of Pennsylvania avenue, between the capitol and the white house. All of South Washington was a morass the greater part of the year, except the high ground beyond the canal, and that was called the Island. Very few people lived down there except those who handled freight from the numerous sailing vessels that used to dot the Potomac. The popular ports were Alexandria, Va., five miles down the river, and Georgetown, which is now a part of this city.

"The reminiscence most interesting to me," said Mr. Turpin, "is the public meeting where I first saw Miss Ramsay, of Georgetown. It took almost a year for me to find some mutual acquaintance who could introduce me to her. When I was at last formally introduced and asked permission to call, which was granted, I was the happiest young man in these parts. I lived on East Capitol street and although it was four miles to her home in Georgetown, I walked there to call on her twice a week for two years, and then we were married. That was 51 years ago and both of us are still living and in good health.

"There were no sidewalks nor curbstones in those days. All east of the capitol was a woody country. We had some graveled paths, but no sidewalks. West of the capitol as far as the white house we had some sidewalks, but almost every highway was graveled. After passing the white house I trudged along gravel paths until I came to the old wooden bridge over Rock creek, and after that the paths were dirt paths, hardened by much walking. Of course I walked over there and back at night. We had no electric lights, no gas lamps, no gasoline, nor even candle lights along the way. The moon and stars furnished the light. I would not meet or pass a single person on my walks back and forth more than once a week. But I was never lonely because I had my mind occupied with my love.

"When we were married I bought some ground on Massachusetts avenue for 15 cents a square foot. I have lived there for 50 years, had the use of the property all of the time, and it has grown in value so that it is now worth more than six dollars a square foot. There is a nice little fortune in that bit of property alone.

"Yes, I was here during the Mexican war, but that struggle made little difference with us. The soldiers went over turnpike roads towards Wheeling and Pittsburg, thence down the Ohio river, so that we who dwelt here knew practically nothing concerning that war. But when the civil war began, and while it lasted, we knew that there was a war going on. There were soldiers on the streets all of the time, day and night. The city was not only surrounded by them, but it was filled and crowded with them. Quite a number of them were lawless, too, and gave no end of trouble to our civil officers, as well as to their own military commanders of companies and regiments.

"I was a clerk in the city post office and had an experience such as few of our people have known anything about. You see McClellan had gathered here more than 100,000 soldiers, nearly all of them young men from the public schools. All of them could write letters, and they did so. They wanted to tell the folks at home what they were doing in camp, and they wanted to know what was going on at home. The result was that they filled our post office with tons and tons of letters. Our force was inadequate, and we simply corded up the letters in great bales. It was impossible for us to forward them. Finally Postmaster Edmunds took me with him to the postmaster general to discuss the situation.

"I told the official that in my opinion we should be relieved of the system of sending letters to their addresses direct; that we should send all of Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, West Virgina and Kentucky letters to Pittsburg; all mail for states west of Ohio to Chicago, and let the large forces of our clerks there distribute them to their proper trains. This idea was adopted, and that was the origin of the D. P. O., as it was called, meaning the distributing post offices. In a short time we cleared our office of accumulated mail, and then congress increased our force.

ALEXANDER SHEPHERD.
(The Man Who Made Washington a City of Beauty.)

"Why, in those days while the army was camped on the Virginia hills, across the Potomac, the army wagons came in here loaded with immense stacks of mails, and as soon as we were able to handle the returning missives we sent those wagons back to the army loaded with a like amount of mail matter. It was a great work to handle the army mail alone. Besides that, we were required to handle a greatly increased amount of mail for the war department, the navy department and the state department, the latter office having been incited to great activity by diplomatic correspondence. The eyes of the people were centered on the army, but nobody knew what we officials in civilian positions were doing in order to keep the army and all of the other branches of the service in motion.

"You have no idea what a scare we had after the first battle of Bull Run, when our army came streaming back with all sorts of stories of the black horse cavalry and Stonewall Jackson's tremendous reenforcements. We expected the rebs to capture us all at once. Again, after the second battle of Bull Run, the following year, there was an awful scare. But in 1864 a great army of confederates came right up to the north defenses of the city and gave us the greatest scare.

"As to the city's growth, there is little to tell. It didn't grow at all until the civil war. After that war it grew rapidly, but irregularly. It was in 1872 that President Grant determined to have a capital city here to be proud of, and he ordered Alexander Shepherd to rip it to pieces and put it together right, according to the original plans. Well, the way he did tear down and build up was a caution. Everybody that owned property was howling mad, but the president stood by Shepherd and he went ahead.

"For example, on the big square where the new Carnegie library is being erected there was what was called the Northern Liberty market. It consisted of hundreds of little shacks which completely covered the square. That block of ground was intended for a public square, and Shepherd ordered everybody to get out of the way, for they were trespassers. They paid no attention to his orders, and gave notice of riotous resistance. So one night he gathered a small army of laborers and set them to work at midnight. When the hucksters came at sunrise there was nothing left of the market. It had all been torn down and carted away. Well, Shepherd went ahead in that arbitrary manner and by 1874 he had the city started right. In the succeeding years there has been strict adherence to the original plans of the city, and it has grown beautifully and rapidly. But up to the time of the Shepherd regime this was not a creditable city, and its growth was sluggish.

"Forty years ago the horse cars came, and we thought that we were growing into a metropolis. That was 11 years after I was married. Then came improvements in roadways, followed by cable cars, then overhead trolleys, and at last the beautiful underground electric system of the present. A young man living on East Capitol street nowadays can ride over to see his girl in Georgetown inside of 20 minutes. It used to take me more than a hour of trudging, and then more than another hour of trudging back home about midnight. But I guess the young couples of the present are no happier than we were then and are now. I've never regretted my choice nor the trouble I took to win her; and she seems to have been contented, too, with her long-walking suitor for a husband.

"Yes, this is the mildest summer I've seen here in 67 years."

MAIL WAS DELAYED.

That Is Why a Kansas Lover Lost a Bride Whom He Values at $10,000.

James Wilson of Wichita, Kas., is in line for a ribbon. Unlike most lovers, his grievances are subject to redress if he can only convince the courts that Uncle Sam cheated him out of a wife, who, he estimates, would have been worth $10,000 to him—rather a startling figure when the records of the divorce courts are taken into account. Wilson's sweetheart was Miss Ada N. Smith of Oklahoma City O. T. They were to have been married, but he claims that the ceremony was prevented by the negligence of the Kansas City mail service.

THE GIRL WAS IN A RAGE.

He was to have met his sweetheart at Cherokee Kas., and they were to have been married at the home of a relative there. He secured the marriage license in Winfield—that is, he paid the clerk there to issue it and send it on to Cherokee to him. In the meantime he went to Cherokee to meet his bride to be.

The date of the wedding arrived, but the license did not. He wired the clerk of the probate court at Winfield, who said that the license had been forwarded all O. K. He then went to the postoffice at Cherokee and asked for his mail. There was none given him. The girl was in a rage at him, and threatened to desert him at once. He begged her to wait another day. She did, and still another but the necessary paper did not arrive.

They could have got one there at Cherokee, but she was furious at his alleged negligence, and said that if the one from Winfield did not arrive she would never marry him. After waiting four days it did not come and she went home. Two days later the necessary envelope was handed to him, having been delayed in transmission.

HE WANTED REALISM.

And When He Got It from the Maiden with the Stony Heart he Returned Thanks.

She could not see his face as he knelt and asked her to be his.

She was glad of that, for she did not wish to know how much suffering her refusal caused him.

She told him as gently as she could that their lives could not be linked together; that, although she admired him and esteemed him, she felt that it would be risking his future as well as her own to consent to a union when she was sure no affinity existed.

It was a touching speech, and she threw so much heart into it that she did not observe he was taking notes in shorthand.

When she had concluded he arose and put his notebook in his pocket. Extending his hand he remarked, genially:

"I'm ever and ever so much obliged to you."

"S-i-r-r-r!"

"You did it ever so nicely and I'm under a thousand obligations. I'm writing a novel, and I have a scene in which a girl refuses to marry a man. I was anxious to avoid the stereotyped style of depicting such incidents and to make it realistic. You're the seventh girl I have proposed to, and every one of the others accepted me. If you had said 'Yes,' I think I'd have been completely discouraged."

SUMMER NOVELTIES.

Dainty Petticoats—Novel Tulle Evening Gowns.

A pretty novelty in petticoats has white muslin flounces trimmed with insertion or frillings of lace set on a foundation of silk. The flounces may be procured ready made at some stores and are intended to be tacked on to the silk slips, from which they can be removed from time to time for washing.

A white tulle dancing frock recently seen at a summer resort was lavishly trimmed with tiny coral velvet ribbons. The skirt was made with a long yoke of cluny lace describing vandyke points. On this the tulle was plaited at intervals, so that its flare was quite extensive. The lower part of the skirt was trimmed with narrow coral velvet ribbon wrought into a scalloped border.

Another pretty tulle gown was made of simple black and white, with tiny chenille dots powdered all over it.

A very smart evening gown is here shown. It is made of ecru lace and pink chiffon. The lace is cut in a vandyke bolero over a full underblouse of the accordion plaited chiffon. This chiffon is banded with narrow black lace. The sleeves, which reach exactly to the elbow, are mainly of the chiffon banded with the lace and partly covered with two diamonds of lace joined to form an upper sleeve.

The skirt is plain, with the exception of a front and a wide flounce of chiffon. A spray of artificial roses decorates the left shoulder.

EVENING HAIR DECORATIONS

Empire Half Wreaths and Coronets of Flowers.

For evening wear as a hair decoration a full wreath or an empire half wreath of tiny pink roses, with a few leaves in either the delicate green of the rose foliage or the darker green of the ivy, is very becoming to a young wearer.

There are also coronets of larger roses or of lilies of the valley combined with maidenhair ferns. Frequently worn with such a hair ornament there will be a similar spray of flowers on the waist or skirt.

A bertha of tiny drooping blossoms such as lilies of the valley or field daisies can appear on a girlish looking gown of airy chiffon or tulle. A princess gown of white lace was seen recently decorated with three lilies near the left bosom, and from this to the bottom of the gown extended a spray of the lilies intermingled with black velvet ribbon.

A smart foulard is the subject of the illustration. The waist is made with a yoke of white mousseline de soie, and the sleeves have undersleeves of the same. The skirt has a wide gored ruffle trimmed with three bands of lace. With this is worn a big black hat with a feather and a pale rosette.

Stairs of Sand

"I ask you again, sir, what are you doing in these grounds?"

"It may be that I came to take a last look at the house—of my friend, Mr. Ellison," he stammered.

"You might have spared yourself the trouble—since it is my house and not his," which was true, Dick knew, since the wife had the fortune. "And now, since you have seen it, go!"

"Yes," replied the young man, but making no move to leave.

"I know that it was one of the family you came to see," she continued, with rising anger. "I congratulate Mr. Ellison on his protege. A fine guardian for young people, truly. Sneaking in here, like a thief in the night, to see my daughter, who is too young to know better."

"Your daughter will never suffer at my hands, madam," the anger rising within him, which he dared not give vent to.

"Enough! We will not discuss that matter. Your presence here is a sufficient answer. And now I insist again on your going. Do you want me to appeal to the servants?"

"I—I will go. I will go," murmured poor Dick, as he moved away, cursing his misfortune in having encountered this beautiful fury at such a time. Once he looked back, only to find that she was still standing in the path looking after him. She doubtless meant to remain there until she was sure that he was on his way out of the park. With a sigh he went on his way, until a turn of the path hid her from sight.

Then he stopped for a moment to consider. Should he not be able to return by a circuitous way to the place where he was to wait for Grace? What would she think if she arrived there and found that he was gone? Was it not worth braving even the anger of Mrs. Ellison to try and see her again? While he was considering the matter an agonizing cry in a woman's voice rang through the woods. Had something happened to Grace? Without a moment's hesitation, he dashed back over the road he had just traversed. It was only a short distance before he almost stumbled over the figure of a woman on the ground. It was very dark at that point where she lay. He stooped and picked her up, carrying her into the light. It was Mrs. Ellison. Her eyes were closed, a strange pallor on her face. He laid her gently on the bank at the side of the road. Had she fainted? It was strange that he should be the first one to come to the assistance of a woman who had been abusing him but a few moments before. Had the excitement of that short interview so worked on her nerves that she had fainted? What was to be done? It was an embarrassing position for him to be in. There was nothing that he could do to help her, and yet help was needed. Should he call for assistance? There seemed to be nothing else to do; he could not leave the poor woman there, even if she had insulted him.

Then, as he leaned over her, hoping to see some signs of returning consciousness, a shuddering feeling of terror crept over him. There was a strange stain on the white silk waist, a stain that, as he watched, seemed to be spreading slowly—slowly. Filled with horror at the sight, and the consciousness that he was in the presence of the victim of a tragedy, he looked around him with frightened eyes. Then he turned instinctively to his hands—they felt warm and strangely moist. With a feeling of overcoming faintness, he stooped hastily and began to hurriedly clean them on the grass. It seemed as if—it seemed as if the stains would never come out.

He was rising, eager to be on his way to the house and warn the people of what had taken place. Then he felt a strong hand grasping his shoulder. He remembered trying to wrench himself free. Then the confused sound of many voices, the flash of lanterns and imprecations, in which his name was mingled, then a blow that mercifully seemed to dispel all these distorted visions, and a grateful oblivion that hid everything.

CHAPTER II.

IN THE SHADOW OF THE BARS.

The landlord of the Bluebell inn of Exton was dozing in a corner of his cafe one morning, moodily meditating on the dullness of business and the appalling temperance of the natives, when he was startled by a deep voice calling out:

"Waiter, a pint of champagne!"

Mr. Peter Bowersox was on his feet, rubbing his eyes, and wondering if the voice was a part of his dreams. Not since he had started in business in that too abstemious village had anyone surprised him by such an order. He looked, expecting to find a bediamonded traveler who had strayed into his inn for want of a better, but found himself facing a small, gray-bearded man, clad in a snuff-colored suit. His hands were red and knotted, he wore a shocking bad hat, while his dusty and bulbous shoes showed that he had not come in town in a carriage.

Peter thought he must have heard wrong until the order was repeated, with the pleasing addition, "Make it a quart."

Then Mr. Bowersox realized that he was confronting a pleasant reality, and not a dream, and at once set down his guest as a prince traveling in disguise. It did not occur to him that princes seldom spoke with a pronounced Yankee twang.

The wine was secured from its fly-blown eminence behind the bar, where it had served for many years as an ornament. After it was duly opened, the stranger displayed his princely character when he invited the landlord to share its contents.

The stranger smacked his lips with gusto over the vile decoction of gooseberries and alcohol, to the great delight of the host, who was afraid the first taste of the beverage might be the cause of a violent outbreak. It warmed his heart to meet with a customer so easily pleased, for the natives of the place were not very considerate of his feelings. He was a shrewd enough judge of human nature to know that the stranger was there for a purpose, so he waited respectfully to learn what it was.

"It seemed to me as I came along that there was a great deal of excitement going on in the town for such a quiet place," began the man in the snuff-colored suit. "What's up? Some political matter on hand?" And he looked the landlord over keenly with his sharp, black eyes.

"No wonder they're flyin' 'round like hens with their heads cut off. There hain't been such doin's, I guess, sence the town was started!" exclaimed Peter, who dearly loved to retail gossip.

"Ah!" and the stranger took advantage of the other's enthusiasm to drop the contents of his glass on the floor.

"There was a murder committed up to the big house. You might have passed it on the way down. Got two stun critters on the pillars on each side of the big gate."

"Yes, I passed it."

"Ellison's wife, it seems, was walkin' in the park t'other night 'bout ten o'clock, and she never come back alive. Was struck down right in the path near the house. Just one blow—she never spoke again."

"Bless me, what a tragedy for a quiet place like this!"

"Ye may well say so. The folks is wild. It'll go hard, I'm afraid, with the school-teacher."

"What had he to do with it?" and the little man seemed to prick up his ears, as if a point of interest to him had been reached.

"Well, they think he done it—and everything points that way. Ye see, the Ellisons had one child—a daughter."

"Ah!" The little man pushed his glass aside, drew himself closer to the table and looked at Mr. Peter with such a piercing expression that the good landlord for a moment was speechless.

TELEPHONE INCIDENT.

Eavesdropper on a Party Line Is Taught a Lesson Which She Will Never Forget.

Telephone party lines have their amusements as well as their discomforts. When the telephone rings for a neighbor across the way it is the greatest temptation in the world for some women quietly to take down the receiver and hear what is going on. One woman who has been quite annoying to the other people on her party line got a lesson the other day she will doubtless remember. The telephone, says the Kansas City Journal, rang and, as usual, she went to it and quietly took the receiver down so that the two who were trying to talk could hear each other only indistinctly.

"Hello, hello, Mrs. Brown. Oh, dear, somebody's got down their receiver. Can you hear me? Oh, I wish they'd stop that!" The woman who was listening heard her distinctly.

"No, I can just barely hear you," came the answer indistinctly. "It's so provoking, isn't it. Now, I want you to come—"

The rest of the sentence was lost.

"Hello, Mrs. Brown—hello! Can you hear me now?"

"Yes, a little—that woman across the street has got her receiver down—that's Mrs. M. you know. I guess she rushes to the telephone to hear what I've got to say every time my 'phone rings."

"Indeed, and I don't do any such a thing," came the third voice, and the two women who were trying to talk heard the receiver go up with a soft click.

"I guess she got excited and forgot herself," said Mrs. Brown.

"Yes, I rather think she did," came the answer.

The party line of that neighborhood works better since the incident.

LOOKING FOR A BRIDE.

While Doing It George W. Barnes Pushes Invalids About the Atlantic City Boardwalk.

George W. Barnes, a chair pusher on the boardwalk, at Atlantic City, N. J., has not yet wound a wife to share his fortune of $150,000 which awaits him in England if he does not marry Mary Ellen Dougherty. Between rests of wheeling invalids up and down the beach Barnes is keeping his eyes open for the desirable "one" and when he sees her he says: "I won't be long in popping the question."

Since the publication of his inheritance, which was left him by his uncle,

FLOODED WITH LOVE LETTERS.

William P. Barnes, under the one condition, Barnes has been flooded with letters from women who are "just dying to meet him."

"They're all too willing," says Barnes. "Uncle William always had an aversion to Miss Dougherty and I suppose that's why he left me the money on the condition that I would not marry her. My lawyer informs me that as soon as I marry anyone but her I can legally claim the money."

A Hint for Bon Vivants.

A great deal of the so-called champagne drunk in this country is really made in France of American apples. The apples are here cored, sliced and dried, sent to France, and there converted into cider. Carbonic acid gas is added, with yeast and a little flavoring powder, and some of the connoisseurs smack their lips over it, under the delusion that it is real champagne.

DOG SAVED THE PAIL

But the Bear and the Groceryman Made Their Escape.

How a Tin Bucket Came Back to Its Owner After It Had Been Worn by Bruin as a Sort of Rakish Helmet.

"I lost an eight-quart tin pail on the Pocono huckleberry barrens one summer in a manner that was certainly extraordinary," said John Gilbert, the traveling groceryman, to a Chicago Inter Ocean man, "and it came back again in a way that was quite as extraordinary.

"I was up there seeking rest, and, with strange inconsistency, got it into my head one day that I would go out huckleberrying. To make this trip of mine I borrowed an eight-quart tin pail at the farm where I was living, and, accompnied by the farmer's very intelligent shepherd dog Sandy, sallied forth.

"The berry barren was a mile or so away, and along toward noon I had my pail pretty near filled with nice, big berries. I had enough and was thinking about starting back home, when I heard Sandy barking in a peculiar manner off in the brush, and I went to see why he was doing it.

"I carried my pail of berries along with me, as the course toward the spot was homeward. When I opened the bushes and stepped into the opening beyond them I saw at once that it was a great pity I wasn't a bear hunter, for then I would perhaps have swelled with joy.

"As it was the sight gave me no pleasure at all. It was a bear that seemed to me to tower up at least eight feet as he stood erect on his haunches.

"I was so scared that I couldn't move, but when the bear came near enough I mechanically raised my pail of berries and brought it down on his head like a trip hammer. The blow had no effect on the bear, but it made a very sick-looking utensil out of the pail. And it spilled all my berries.

"The bear came right on, and in my desperation I jammed the battered pail down over his head. The pail handle dropped down and caught under his lower jaw. This took him by surprise. The pail was well down over his ears, and the handle held it securely in position.

"The bear dropped on all fours and made frantic efforts to scrape the pail off, first with one paw and then with the other. Sandy assumed that his strategic move had worked to the proper result, and he retired from between my legs and attacked the enemy in the rear.

"The bear at once abandoned the attempt to get the cumbering pail off of his head, and turned on the dog. The dog at once renewed his strategic tactics and took his position between my legs again.

"I hadn't moved an inch from my original stand. When the bear, with the undoubted impression that the dog had shown the white feather again, saw him in his old place between my legs, he advanced to the charge again, the pail still perched on his head, and cocked to one side in a rakish way, giving him a most comical appearance in spite of his rage—something as a helmeted soldier might look with a jag on.

"The bear came on and Sandy retreated. A good-sized stone lay near me. I picked it up and threw it at the bear. I hit him alongside the head and he bawled like a mad bull.

"Then Sandy came back and pitched in again, and I took advantage of the engagement to streak it toward home. I turned once and looked back.

"The bear, still with his rakish helmet on, was doing his best to get his clutch on the dog, and the dog was dodging him and nipping him every now and then in the rear. If Sandy wanted to stay there and fight it out with the bear, I thought that was his own business. It was me for home, and I wasn't long in getting there.

"Maybe it was an hour after I got in that I was standing in the road and saw Sandy come trotting along, looking a little tired, but with never a hitch nor a halt. And in his mouth he had the eight-quart tin pail.

"The pail couldn't have been battered worse if a wagon had run over it, but it was the pail, and Sandy had it. He never noticed me, but went on to the house and put the pail on the back stoop.

"How he got the pail away from the bear, of course we never knew, but Sandy was never chummy with me after that, and I always thought he had it on his mind that if I hadn't run away from him that day we might have got the bear, too."

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Orange Field Club defeated the St. Mary's second nine by the score of 9 to 8 on the North Plainfield High School grounds Saturday afternoon.

The Firemen's Seconds defeated the Newsboys on St. Mary's grounds this morning by the score of 8 to 6. Townley and Margentino were the battery for the seconds; Buckley and Mullen for the Newsboys. Jack Martin umpired.

The crack Somerville baseball team was taken in to camp to the tune of 13 to 4 by the Millstone Field Club, at Millstone, Saturday. The Somerville aggregation failed to secure a run after the first inning. Frank Remsen, of this city, caught for the Millstones while Harding pitched. Allgair and Allgair was the Somerville battery.

Everything is in readiness for the local Police and Firemen's baseball game, which is to take place tomorrow. It will be played on the St. Mary grounds, commencing promptly at 3 o'clock. Winn and Conroy will be the bluecoat battery and they will be opposed by McCabe and Townley for the fire fighters. As both teams have been practicing daily for the past month, a hot contest is expected.

Continued honors are coming the way of Warren McLaughlin, of this city, for his wonderful pitching in the Connecticut Baseball League. "Warrie" is at present the idol of the fans at New London, where he is twirling the leather this season. In a game with Norwich last Thursday, not a hit was made off the Plainfielder's puzzling delivery and only twenty-nine men faced him in the nine innings. New London won by the score of 7 to 0, McLaughlin himself contributing a single and a two bagger to the hits.

BLED TO DEATH IN HOTEL

WESTFIELD BARBER MET DEATH AT HIS OWN HAND.

Severed Arteries in Wrist While in a Dispondent Mood, Following His Discharge.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 4—Joseph Hasenstab, aged forty years, a barber by profession in the employ of Martin Frick, of this place, was found dead in room 42 of the Westfield Hotel, yesterday morning. He committed suicide by cutting the arteries in the wrist with a razor and allowing himself to bleed to death. The act was committed early Sunday morning and he was not found until nearly 8 o'clock in the morning.

Hasenstab had lived in this place four months and of late he was of a melancholy disposition. Saturday evening he was discharged by his local employer. A week ago he went to the local cemetery and was discovered praying for his sister, who lives in New York. He also has a brother at Jersey City Heights. Dr. Westcott was called and pronounced the case one of suicide. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of George Cole at Plainfield, where arrangements will be made for the burial.

On the body were found Hasenstab's naturalization papers, photographs of himself, a woman and four children and the address, Jessie S. Broughter, P. O. Box 32, Closter, N. J.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WEAVER.

Former Resident of Plainfield Who Died at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 4—The funeral of Mrs. Hannah A. Weaver, wife of John Weaver, of East Somerville, and formerly a resident of Plainfield, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jacob Frech. Mrs. Weaver died from heart disease at the age of sixty-five years. She had been confined to her room for only about a week. Brothers of her husband, David and Peter Weaver, of Plainfield were among those who attended the funeral yesterday.

DEFEATED DEAF MUTES.

The Scotch Plains baseball team administered a severe drubbing to the strong Xavier's Deaf Mute team, of New York, Saturday afternoon. The 'Plains boys had felt sore over their defeat by the mutes two weeks ago and every player was anxious to redeem himself and succeeded in winning from the visitors by a score of 10 to 2.

Fitzgerald, who was in the box for the visitors, proved to be an easy proposition to nearly all the home team, only one man being struck out. Harvey pitched an unusually strong game and with but several exceptions, one of which was in the Mutes' half of the first inning, received excellent support. Several little hits assisted by an error of Flannery dropping a fly in the outfield gave the visitors their first run. In their half of the seventh, they were able to bring another man across te plate, making their tally two.

The home players were shut out for the first two innings but after that they were enabled to score every inning but the seventh. Harvey, of the home team, distinguished himself by two two base hits at the proper time. Crusius, who has been playing short, was unable to play and Manager Johnston brought Albert in from the outfield to cover the position, playing Substitute Fitzgerald in right garden.

L. H. Biglow, Jr., Led.

L. H. Biglow, Jr., conducted a very interesting meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There was a good attendance and the service was a helpful one. All those at the Home are well and enjoying life, except the baby, who has been very sick. She is no worse and her recovery is almost assured. Those in charge of the Home are very grateful for the fresh vegetables given by David Hand.

Car Hit Wagon.

While Jacob Mintz, of Mountain avenue, was about to drive across the trolley tracks on Leland avenue last night, his carriage was struck by a passing car. Mr. Mintz received a bad shaking up but was not otherwise injured.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

LIFE AT THE NETHERWOOD

SATURDAY HOP AND SUNDAY SACRED CONCERT WERE POPULAR.

Hotel Guest Took Part in Last Evening's Very Enjoyable Programme.

Saturday evening's hop at the Hotel Netherwood was another unqualified success from every standpoint. The usual large number of Plainfielders were present at the function.

The sacred concert given last evening was an event not surpassed by anything of its kind presented this season.

Coleridge Vickery, of New York, the possessor of a splendid baritone voice, sang Miss Adelaide Proctor's "The Lost Chord," as set to music by Sir Arthur Sullivan. Mr. Vickery's solo evoked the deserved plaudits of the guests, and an encore was demanded. "Thy Sentinel Am I" was the title of another solo in which Mr. Vickery was heard in the second part of the programme.

Mrs. Joseph Lux, of Hoboken, who is already known to the guests as a polished soprano soloist, sang "Fear Ye Not, O Isreal," in a manner that won for her the applause of her listeners.

PERSONAL.

Rev. Dr. E. L. Earp, of Park Place, has left on a vacation for Ridgewood, N. J.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of LaGrande avenue, has gone on a vacation to Southold, New York.

Mrs. Mary L. Winter, of East Fifth street, has returned home from a two weeks' visit with relatives in Brooklyn.

The quarantine was removed today from J. C. Martin's house on Duer street, the sick child having completely recovered.

John H. Olmsted, of Newark, spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of his brother, William H. Olmsted, 215 East Fifth street.

Eddie Henschen, of Jersey City Heights, has returned home after a week's stay with his cousin, Alexander Dresselt, of Lincoln place.

Dr. G. W. Endicott, of East Seventh street, was called to Stamford, N. Y., yesterday, to attend Mrs. Francis Wood, of this city, who is summering at that place.

Mrs. John P. Emmons, of Prospect place and Washington avenue, returned home from Flower Hospital, New York, last evening. Except for being slightly fatigued, her condition is very favorable and an early recovery is expected.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Laird, of West Second street, left today for Newark on the beginning of their honeymoon trip, after which they will go on a three weeks' tour in the west through Kansas and Ohio. Mr. Laird has since his marriage received his discharge from the U. S. Hospital Corps.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The West End Hose Company will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening.

—Charles M. Ulrich and family, of East Fifth street, removed Saturday to Third place.

—Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., initiated one candidate at the meeting Friday evening.

—Fancy Georgia, Delaware and Mountain Rose peaches—a splendid assortment on hand daily at Neuman Brothers.

—Manager Schermerhorn, of the local Western Union telegraph office, will take possession of the new office at the north end of the North Avenue station today. The office is thoroughly equipped with every modern convenience.

Mr. Hall Made Report.

Much interest was shown in the session of the Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday morning. There was no lesson, as Superintendent Hall took the time to give his report of the recent Sunday-school convention which he attended at Denver. The musical features included a solo by Miss Elsie Giles, with cornet accompaniment by DeWitt Frazee.

Dodged Bolts.

Jerry Foss and Charles Jeter started out early yesterday morning for a day's fishing at the banks off Seabright. They reached the anchorage safely but hardly had cast their lines when an electrical storm arose and they spent the rest of the day dodging lightning bolts. They reached home late last night with Jeter much the worse for his storm tossing.

For Rifle Practice.

A detachment of officers and privates from Company K started for the State camp at Sea Girt, yesterday, for the purpose of qualifying on the rifle range today. They will in all probability return this evening.

MORE SEWERS FOR WEST END

Common Council Asked for Bids for Several Miles More of Sanitary Sewers.

SOME OTHER BUSINESS.

Complaint Filed Against Fireman L. M. Dunavan and Day Set for Hearing—Contract for Arlington Avenue Sewer to C.M.Meeker—Cannot Tax the Trust Company.

The extension of Plainfield's system of sewers in the West End of the city, as advised and recommended by the Board of Health several weeks aso, was one of the most important matters considered by the Common Council at its regular session last evening. The initial steps towards installing sewers in the West End of the city were taken, such as the filing of maps, specifications, etc., and setting Tuesday evening, September 2, at 8 o'clock, as the time when bids will be received for the performance of this work. Advertisements will be placed in the local papers and Engineering Journal.

The streets included in the specifications for the extension are as follows: Albert street, Compton avenue, Mariners avenue, Pond place, Stebbins place, Muhlenberg place, John street, Prescott place, between South Second street and West Fourth street, Dunellen avenue, between Clinton and Compton avenues, Essex street, between Spooner avenue and Prescott place, West Fifth street, between Grant avenue and Prescott place, West Fourth street, between Plainfield avenue and Prescott place, Lee place, between South Second and West Sixth streets, North avenue, from Leland avenue 2,000 feet east, South Second street, between Plainfield avenue and a point 250 feet west of Morris avenue, West Sixth street from Grant avenue 1,000 feet west, South avenue between Central street and Woodland avenue, Spooner avenue, between South Second and West Seventh streets, West Third street, between Grant avenue and Pond place.

The next matters of importance was that of receiving bids for the work of constructing a storm sewer in Arlington avenue, between West Fifth street and Cedar brook. Acting President vanHerwerden, who filled the position of Mr. Coriell, who was out of town, suspended the regular order of business to receive these birds, three in number, C. M. Meeker, of Plainfield; Patrick J. Plunkitt, of Jersey City; and Jamees Maybury & Son, of Passaic. Mr. Meeker's bid, $2,827, was the lowest and he was awarded the contract for the work which is to be started not later than August 20. Mr. Plunkitt's bid was $3,709 and that of the Passaic firm $3,869. In accordance with the law an opportunity was given anyone so desiring to speak for or against the sewer, but no one spoke.

Among the communications was one from Mrs. Catherine Hamilton McClure protesting against the payment of certain taxes on property owned by her and located at 108 Crescent avenue and 726 Watchung avenue. She complained that she had been informed by the collcetor that her taxes were paid after which she received bills for certain taxes in 1899, which were already paid. She claimed to have receipts for taxes paid and asked the Council to remit to her the taxes paid twice. The matter was referred.

J. C. Pope, of West Front street, and Mrs. Mary Emma VanArsdale, of East Front street, who live just within the fire limits, petitioned the Council for permission to make additions to the residence property. The petition were referred to the proper committee, as was also the petition from residents of Pemberton avenue, asking for an electric light on that avenue near Central avenue.

A communication was received from Chief Doane, of the fire department, stating that Griffin H. Freeman preferred a charge against Louis M. Dunavan complaining that the latter was guilty of violating section 45 of the rules and regulations of the department. Both men are regular firemen. The charge preferred includes the use of improper lanugage on July 8. A resolution was then offered by Mr. Lee, chairman of the fire committee, setting Tuesday evening, August 19, at 8 o'clock, as the time when a hearing in the matter will be given by the Council. Mr. Mellick also offered a resolution fixing August 19 as the time for the Council to meet to pass upon the books of the Board of Assessors, and when the meeting was concluded last evening an adjournment was taken to that date.

Building Inspector Doane reported that twenty-one building permits were granted during July and Street Commissioner Gavett reported that nineteen sewer permits were granted during May June and July.

Mr. Mellick stated that a report had been received from Acting Corporation Counsel Nelson Runyon stating that the capital stock of the Plainfield Trust Company could not be taxed this year as it was not paid in on or before the date prescribed by law. This settles the question which perplexed the minds of the Board of Assessors.

Mr. Mellick also offered a resolution which provided for the borrowing of $1,500 on account of the sewer improvements being made in South avenue.

Mr. Randolph recommended that one electric light be placed on Jackson avenue, another one on Dunellen avenue and a third one on Dunellen avenue near Mariners avenue, as requested by residents. The same were granted.

Mr. Mellick moved that Moraller & Son, the Park avenue jewelers, be appointed custodians of the city clock for the coming year at an expense not to exceed $30. The Council decided to that effect.

The resignation of George E. Rogers as constable in the Fourth ward, was received and Councilman Murphy presented the name of William F. Walters as a successor to Mr. Rogers and he was elected by the Council.

Mr. Tolles called up the ordinances providing for the macadamizing of Prospect avenue, between Hillside and Woodland avenues, and that providing for the repair of sidewalks, and both ordinances were passed on a third reading.

Mr. Mellick said that he had been asked to speak about the careless manner in which persons run up to the railroad station in automobiles, allowing the machines to make a great noise thereby frightening horses. He said that he had been requested to bring the matter to the attention of the police department.

Mr. Buckle in reply stated that the police board had in mind certain things concerning the running of automobiles and as soon as Corporation Counsel Marsh returns from his vacation steps will be taken to govern their operation.

At this time the Council took a recess and when the session was resumed, the meeting adjourned after the auditing committee reported.

IN AN OLD HOUSE.

Cornelius W. Latourette Died in Bound Brook's Oldest House.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 5—Cornelius W. Latourette, aged eighty-eight, an old and respected citized died suddenly Saturday night. His wife and a son, Eugene, survive him.

Mr. Latourette lived in the oldest house in this vicinity. It is located on the west side of the Raritan river, on the road leading to New Brunswick and is known as the Staats house. During the Revolution Baron Steuben, a major-general in the American Army, occupied this house and during the year 1777, Gen. Washington was a frequent visitor to the house. The hall windows are of beaded bulls-eye, the front door is in two sections, the lower part being kept closed to keep children in and animals out. The ceilings are low, with great beams showing. A portion of the furniture now in use was used by Baron Steuben.

Nothing Like It.

When the pagan priest of the Grecians was in danger of losing his temper he went down to the sounding sea and soothed his soul with the strains that swept the sands. To rejuvenate the body and revivify the mind there is nothing like a day at the seashore. A monster excursion will be run to Asbury Park next Thursday by the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Grace and St. Stephen's Episcopal churches.

Service at Westfield Camp.

Friends and members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church are requested to be at the North Avenue trolley transfer at 7:15 this evening, to make the trip to to the Westfield Fresh Air Camp. The society will have charge of the service, the leader assigned being Edgar Sheppard.

Mrs. Samuel Dreier, of West Front street, who has been detained at her home by illness, is slightly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Garretson, of East Millstone, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. T. R. VanZaddt, of Madison avenue.

JUDGE LANNING FOR CONGRESS

WILL BE NOMINATED BY REPUBLICANS OF FOURTH DISTRICT.

Convention Met at Flemington This Morning—The Nominations This Afternoon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, August 5—Today's big occasion in local history for the year is the gathering of the Republican delegates from the Fourth Congressional district to the convention which is to slate the nominee for Congress. Hunterdon county's thirty-seven delegates welcomed the forty-four from Somerset and the crowd of 136 from Mercer in most elaborate style and the town made the day a time of general celebration.

Mercer's large representation practically decides the work of the convention. The Trenton people will name Judge Lanning, who will be nominated unanimously, it is believed, after the first ballot. Hunterdon's choice is former Senator George H. Large, of this place, who will be given the complimentary vote of the delegation at the opening.

On the calling of the convention to order in the court house at 11 o'clock, the chairmanship was given the other visiting county, Somerset, former Senator E. A. Thompson, of Bridgewater, receiving the honor. The convention adjourned for dinner, with its work practically outlined for afternoon.

Several changes were made in the North Plainfield delegation after the primary of last Friday night. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., W. L. Smalley, Jr., James K. Arnold and Horace J. Martin were unable to make the trip and the following alternates were appointed: N. B. Smalley, Frank Rowley, Harry Potter and William Campbell. The other three regular delegates, Thomas Doud, Francis J. Blatz and J. J. Stahl, were able to go. From North Plainfield township, the delegate was J. W. Coddington.

GRACE PLANS FOR CHANGES

THE NEW ORGAN HAS BEEN ORDERED FROM A NEW YORK FIRM.

Architect is Completing Plans for Decorations and Other Repairs That Are Planned.

Plans for the extensive repairs to be made to Grace M. E. church during the summer were brought nearer fulfillment at a meeting of the Official Board of the church Sunday. The contract for the organ was awarded and other matters, connected with the decoration of the building, were discussed. The contracts will be given out this week.

Hook & Hastings, of New York, will furnish the organ, which will be almost similar to the one recently installed in All Souls' church. The work of placing it in position will occupy considerable time, and the date for the completion of the task has been set for October 15.

As to the decoration and other repairs, the architect is drawing up the plans and specifications, which are almost ready. The work will be done during the present month. It is likely that the church will be closed for a part of the month, probably for two weeks, in order to facilitate the operations. Their completion will be fitly celebrated by the church people.

WINDOW ESCAPED.

Because John Kenney Reached the Horse's Head Just in Time.

Made frantic by biting flies a horse, attached to A. A. Stryker's carpentering wagon, became entangled in the lines while standing at Park avenue and Front street, yesterday afternoon, and backed itself and the front wheels on the sidewalk. It was in imminent danger of going through a plate glass in the Corey building when John Kenney sprang through his side window and caught it. His prompt action prevented the damage which would undoubtedly have resulted.

Church Social.

A social will be given tonight in the German Reformed church. An attractive and suitable entertainment has been arranged by the committee in charge. No admission fee will be charged.

MATINEE RACES.

First of the Season Were Held by Members of Plainfield Driving Association.

For the first time this season, the members of the Plainfield Driving Association had a public meeting on Saturday afternoon, full of interest to many friends. Two first rate races were on the card, giving the spectators as pretty an exhibition as has been seen in a long time.

One particular feature was in the first race of the event in which John Osborne's Fairmount Maid, Mayor Smalley's Alicia, D. C. Smalley's Ned Davis and George Jennner's New Market Belle were entered. Jenner's horse had led all the way to the three quarter pole, after which Ned Davis and Alicia drew up and made a driving finish, with all three abreast in a dead heat. In the second heat, Ned Davis won by a length.

Another interesting race was between Thomas Brantingham's Cigarette and A. C. Vail's Rover R., won by the former in 2.22. No races are scheduled for the coming Saturday, but another matinee is being planned for next week.

DEATH OF DR. GLEN.

A Plainfield Resident for a Decade Passed Away After a Long Illness.

Dr. I. Renwrick Glen died at his home on Madison avenue last night. His death was not unexpected, as he had been in poor health for a long time. Dr. Glen had been a resident of Plainfield for the past ten years, and had a large clientele of friends, both in a business and a social way. He leaves a widow, and two daughters, Misses Katherine D., and Lillian.

Dr. Glen was born at Fishkill, N. Y., sixty-two years ago. He was a son of Rev. Wm. R. Glen, a well-known Presbyterian clergyman of German Valley. He was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and for many years was a practicing physician. For the six years previous to his death he had been connected with the Rumford Chemical Works, of Providence, R. I.

Funeral services at the home in Plainfield will be private. The interment will be made at Flemington tomorrow afternoon.

HOTEL HOP.

Successful Social Event Was Weekly Dance at Park Avenue Hotel Last Evening.

Successful in every particular was the weekly dance given at the Park Avenue Hotel last evening. Some twenty-five couples enjoyed the dancing up to a late hour. The patronesses were Mrs. J. H. McManus, Mrs. Henry C. Stothoff and Mrs. John D. Bailey. During the intermission Miss Helen McManus and Miss Rosabel Schroeder entertained the guests with soprano solos.

Among the Plainfielders present, who are not guests of the hotel, were Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Barrett, Miss Schroeder, the Misses Patton, Fred W. Goddard, A. Willis West, Harold Phillips, and Laurens H. VanBuren.

Thursday evening, E. J. Boyle, of Brooklyn, the blind musician who proved such an entertainer at the Netherwood last week, will give one of his concerts.

CLAIMED BY BROTHER.

Body of Suicide Will be Buried Here Tomorrow Afternoon.

The body of Joseph Hasenstab, the Westfield barber who committed suicide, Sunday, was claimed this morning by his brother, Frank Hasenstab, a well-to-do baker whose place of business is on St. Ann's avenue near 134th street, New York. He stated that the young barber had been a ne'er-do-well and had been set up in business by his relatives several times. Arrangements were made to have the body interred in this city tomorrow afternoon following a short burial service.

Injunction Not Granted.

An injunction was not granted to Mrs. Lucy McVey against the Plainfield Cab Company and Mrs. Julia Peck. The hearing took place before Vice Chancellor Stevens at Newark this morning. W. A. Coddington, of Reed & Coddington, represented the Cab Company and Isaac P. Runyon, of Bird & Runyon, represented the other defendant. Mrs. McVey's lawyers were Baldwin Strauss and W. S. Angleman.

Hearing for Claassen.

Hearing in the embezzlement charge preferred against Wm. Claassen by a New York firm has been adjourned from today until Thursday. It will take place before Justice Kelly, of Elizabeth, at the local police headquarters. V. W. Nash, Jr., has been retained by Classen to look after his interests.

BRIDGE CONTRACT SIGNED

NEW NEWARK BAY BRIDGE ONLY NEEDS APPROVAL OF OFFICIALS.

Will be a Steel Bridge Built on Stone Foundations to Cost Nearly a Million.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey has just prefected plans for the construction of a new and substantial steel bridge across Newark bay, the cost of which will run close into a million.

The new structure will be more than a mile in its total length, and will provide draws over the channel in conformity with the recent regulations of the United States Navy Department The plans provide a clearance of 100 feet each side of the central pedestal.

The foundations of the new bridge will be built of masonry, sunk below the surface of Newark bay to bed rock, and the architectural design is impressive for its solidity, the object of the engineers being to construct the new bridge in so substantial a manner that express trains of the heaviest weight—especially those used in making up the New York and Philadelphia limited—may pass over at speed without vibration.

The new bridge will be the chief artery for all express passenger trains on the main line to Philadelphia and of the Bound Brook route.

The present structure is constructed throughout of wood and rests on a causeway built entirely of wooden piles.

Contracts for the new bridge have already been signed, and work on the structure will begin as soon as General Manager Besler and other officers of the Central Railroad approve them. One of the specifications in the contracts provides that the new bridge must be constructed so as not to interfere with traffic.

MINOR OFFENDERS IN COURT

SOME DISORDERLY CASES AND TWO DOG OWNERS.

One Will Care for His Dog—Other Thought Dog Wasn't Worth the Price of a Muzzle.

In the city court, this morning, Edward Dooley was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred against him by Patrolman McCarthy. He paid $3 in preference to spending ten days in jail.

William Willis and Roy Wyckoff, two colored newsboys whose faces are familiar in the city court, were charged by Patrolman Lunger with fighting and making of themselves a general nuisance. As they were released on several occasions City Judge Runyon made it $2 or ten days. Unless their parents intercede they will take the latter.

Sigmund Frucht and Harry Dreier were accused by Patrolman Lunger with allowing their canines to run about without the prescribed muzzle. Sentence was suspended on the latter's promise to take care of his dog and at Frucht's request for an officer to shoot his animal, claiming that it wasn't worth the price of a muzzle.

BOROUGH COURT CASES.

Wm. Galloway Given Five Days in Jail—Remano Has Hearing Tonight.

William Galloway, arrested yesterday afternoon by Borough Chief Campbell, was arraigned before Recorder Doud, last evening, on a charge of drunk and disorderly. Five days in jail is the way that Galloway is reaping the whirlwind.

Francesco Remano is behind the bars this morning arrested on a warrant as the result of a lively scrap yesterday in the vicinity of Pearl street and Watchung avenue. Remano will come up for trial this evening.

Ping-Pong Tournament.

Entries for the ping-pong tournament in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. closes tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Much interest is taken in the contest, which will begin Thursday asternoon. The limit of entrtes has about been reached.

Drake's Hearing.

Charles Drake, accused of atrocious assault on the person of Edward Korman, will be given a hearing in Justice Mattison's court tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Wm. G. DeMeza and Francis J. Blatz will defend Drake.

Funeral of a Child.

The funeral of Paul E. Kennedy, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Kennedy, of Harrison street, was held from the parents' residence yesterday afternoon. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

WANTS RECEIVER.

Elizabeth Evening Times Wants One Appointed So It Can Straighten Out Its Financial Affairs.

Before Vice Chancellor Stevens in the Court of Chancery at Newark, yesterday, William W. St. John and Peter Egenolf, complainants, made application for the appointment of a receiver for the Times Publishing Company, publishers of the Elizabeth Evening Times.

The application was made on the basis of an affidavit sworn to by Mr. St. John, manager and editor of the Evening Times, which shows the company is without the necessary capital to properly conduct the business and that, under present conditions, it seems impossible to negotiate the additional capital necessary to put the company's business on the basis which will conserve the interests of the stockholders. At present the assets of the company are named at about $5,800 and the liabilities $5,885.

The Vice Chancellor granted an order to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed and made it returnable August 18.

FAVOR IT.

Favorable Hearing of Mayor Smalley's Request That Somerset Street in City be Widened.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, appeared before the members of the Common Council, last evening, while they were holding a recess, for the purpose of urging that body to take up the work of widening Somerset street between Front street and the brook. The Council listened very attentively to the Mayor and evidenced much interest in the scheme.

It was the opinion of nearly all that the improvement would be an excellent one and while the members did not promise to widen the street, Mr. Smalley has reason to believe that the improvement will be made within a reasonable length of time.

DINED BY WRITERS.

Pad and Pencil Club Gave a Dinner to City Judge Runyon.

News writers laid aside the impedimenta of their craft for a time last evening to gather at a dinner tendered by the Pad and Pencil Club, of this city, to City Judge Runyon, in the nature of a public endorsement of that official's candidacy for the State senatorship from Union county. Timbo's dining rooms were the scene of the gathering, which was one of unusual enjoyment. There were present eleven of the local scribes, all of which contributed in a measure to the success of the occasion by speech, story or song. The Pad and Pencil Octette did excellent work with the latest topical music.

A New Organization.

All persons interested in the cause of temperance are invited to attend a meeting to be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, 100 Madison avenue, Babcock building, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of forming an organization. The object of this organization is to hold meetings once a month and to circulate good temperance and prohibition literature.

Outing for West Ends.

At the meeting of the West End Hose Company, last evening, the members decided upon an outing to Wintzel's Park, Long Island Sound, Sunday. The committee in charge of the arrangements are Henry Gracely, William Pasch and Charles Greder. There was no other business except the usual routine.

Too Busy to Move.

Press of business prevented Baggage Agent Garretson from removing into his new quarters at the North Avenue station yesterday. The change was made today, leaving the west end of the old depot deserted. The baggage and telegraph rooms will be occupied by the U. S. Express Company.

Captured Reptile Alive.

While sauntering long a mountain road below Washington Rock, Sunday afternoon, James Apgar and Charles Ludgate, two Evona lads, captured alive a huge blacksnake. They carried the reptile home and measuring showed it to be nearly five feet in length.

Too Much Sun.

Eddie Mundy, of Stone street, one of The Daily Press carriers, is unable to leave his home on account of a severe sun burning he received because he was too fond of the ocean at Asbury Park the day of the Methodist excursion.

To Set Date for Outing.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hope Y. M. A. is scheduled for this evening. As it is expected the date for the week's camping trip will be decided upon, all members are asked to attend.

BIG SENSATION SIDE TRACKED

Councilman Lee Was Ready to Spring Something at Last Night's Council Meeting.

BUT IT WAS HELD UP.

Under Act of Legislature City Can Compell Water Company to Put a Price on Its Plant and a Resolution to That Effect Was to Have Been Introduced Last Evening.

What promised to be one of the most sensational moves yet made by the Common Council in municipal affairs was for some unknown reason checked at the regular meeting of that body last evening. The plans were well laid and there were several interested persons in the lobby expecting to see something drop. Councilman Lee had the matter in tow and when he let the secret out during the recess held by the members, it was evidently sidetracked for the time being at least.

The plan was to introduce a resolution forcing the Plainfield Water Supply Company to sell its plant to the city if the latter wanted to purchase it. Mr. Lee has been looking into the subject and he discovered that under an act of the Legislature the city can condemn the holdings of the water company and force the company to put a price on the plant. If the price does not suit the people of the city, who, according to the act are given the privilege of voting on the question of purchasing or not, they can apply to the courts and have commissioners appointed who shall put a price on the plant. In case this price does not suit either the city or the company either party has the right to appeal from that court to a higher tribunal. But in any event the company is forced to sell to the city if the city desires to purchase.

This movement, as characterized by Mr. Lee, would have been one of the greatest sensations of the year, and just why it did not go through is a mystery. It has been hinted that some of the members are unwilling to lend themselves to such a scheme to force the water company into selling, while it is said that others feel that the present condition of things are all right. The question would have to be put to a vote of the people first for them to determine whether it is their wish that the city own its water plant. Then the other legal proceedings would follow. Something more may be heard of the matter later.

Y. M. C. A.'S GAME.

League Executive Committee Decided to Sustain Umpire's Decision.

Final disposition of the Safe Works-Y. M. C. A. baseball game was made at last evening's meeting of the League executive committee. Manager Muir was present and offered a written protest but it was unanimously voted not to take into consideration, thus sanctioning Umpire Young's decision in awarding the game to the Y. M. C. A.

The only other matter of business transacted was the assignment of Umpires Townley and Melvin to the Hope-Safe Works game and Young and Brown to the St. Mary-Y. M. C. A. contest, those being the games scheduled for Saturday.

At a House Party.

Elston M. French, of Somerset street, has returned home from the south. Mr. French spent a month's vacation with a house party at Savannah, Ga., and later visited Atlanta and Lexington, Ky., and other cities in the land of Dixie. He leaves today for Old Forge, N. Y., to accompany his mother and sister on their return to Plainfield.

Franklin's Excursion.

Just one week from Thursday, August 14, Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will run its excursion to Asbury Park. This is American Day and there will be so many attractions at the shore that no one will want to miss the excursion. Go and take your family or your friends. The train will leave the shore at 9 o'clock in the evening.

At Westfield Camp.

At the Westfield Fresh Air Camp this evening the religious service will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church.

CHANGING TRACKS.

No Delay in Great Task of Pennsy at New Brunswick.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Burnswick, August 5—Rapid advancement marks the work of elevating the Pennsylvania Railroad's tracks through this city. The change in tracks have caused the abandonment of the New street switching and signal tower, which is at the beginning of the double track through this city. The constant shifting of tracks to permit of elevation has done away with the need of the switching tower, and the work of tearing it down was commenced. Practically all the work of putting up one of the retaining walls has been completed and the wall is ready for the embankment.

The false work for five of the arches of the new bridge is up, and work has been commenced at stone laying on the arches. The arches are constructed half the requisite width. When half the bridge has been built tracks will be laid on it, and the tracks will be used while the old iron bridge is torn away. Then the other half of the stone arch bridge will be constructed.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

We should like to know when that Amboy bridge is going to be built. Is it possible that the generous members of the present Board of Freeholders will let it hang over for the commission of five which is to succeed them? The Pennsylvania Railroad could give the board a year's start and beat them out at bridge building.—New Brunswick Home News.

The Republicans will not say much about the economy of the anti-spring election law during the coming campaign. At least they will keep mighty quiet about the Meeker act until the Supreme Court has passed upon the decision of Judge Storrs that the election officials are entitled to double compensation at the consolidated election.—Newark News.

DeWitt Clinton Flanagan, in accepting the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Fifth district, greatly deplored the great rise in price of commodities and declared that there had been no increase in wages, at least in the industries with which he was familiar. It is apparently high time for the distillery and brewery workers and the wine packers to organize.—Newark News.

An important improvement is announced in the construction of a new bridge for the Central Railroad of New Jersey across Newark Bay. It is said it is to be of steel, with stone piers, instead of piling, and with adequate drawbridges. This will make the railroad safer and will permit faster running across this long stretch. More valuable still, will be the effect upon navigation and the tidal flow of the bay and its rivers. The present bridge has undoubtedly caused much interference with the natural flow of the waters there, and the change should have a decidedly beneficial effect, not only on the navigation of the bay, but the Passaic and Hackensack rivers as well.—Newark Call.

The Summit Herald speaks in no uncertain tones with reference to the renomination of Senator Cross, and it undoubtedly reflects the sentiments of the Republicans in that section of Union county. It says: "Senator Joseph Cross is the logical Republican candidate for the nomination for State Senator from Union county. The effort of the shrievalty candidates in Elizabeth to launch an opposing candidate to Senator Cross in Plainfield has been peremptorily declined by both Mr. Ackerman and Mr. Fisk, but the opponents of Senator Cross have finally secured a candidate, and the announcement is made that Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, has consented to become a contestant for Senator Cross' seat in the State Senate. Judge Runyon is a popular young man and excellent timber for future official position, but we doubt the advisability of even suggesting a change in Union county's representative in the State Senate at this time. Senator Cross is one of the most experienced statesmen in New Jersey today, and an honor to the State or the Nation in any official position, and the county cannot afford to replace him with an inexperienced and untried candidate, no matter how popular he may be among his friends."—Elizabeth Journal.

If there is any new trolley deal, it is safe to say it will not water the stock or increase the bonded indebtedness. This deduction may be made by any investor, on his own account, by consulting the price list of the securities of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, and its subsidiary corporations. The North Jersey stock now sells at about 34½. The four per cent. bonds sell for about 85. To increase the number of shares or bonds would reduce the value, and both are as near the bottom as they could well be. Any one who knows the primary lessons of finance must perceive that in North Jersey stock the watering process reached its limit when the last flood occurred.

The companies with which it is proposed to consolidate the North Jersey are not so rich as to make further inflation practicable. That the North Jersey Company and its connections and branches is in no condition to guarantee an increased income to investors seems altogether probable. If it has more money than is needed to pay interest and rents and damage suits and provide for absolutely necessary repairs after meeting current expenses, why does not it expand its business, increase traffic by more accommodation, prevent stealing by reducing the crowds on cars, and relieve old lines by new routes? The answer is that it has not the cash.

If the new trolley deal would provide better security for existing obligations, would provide a fund for improvements, it might have a big success. It is said the promoters promise something of the sort. We trust they will at least get money for new cars and more of them, somehow. Conditions are becoming worse with every day's wear upon the present equipment.—Newark Call.

GREAT TIMES FOR PYTHIANS

CALIFORNIAN KNIGHTS HAVE MADE MOST ELABORATE PLANS.

One of Remarkable Features Will be Showing Made by Nevada County—Other Plans.

During the recent session of the California Grand Lodge of Pythians, the delegates from each county announced that appropriations had been made for the purpose of installing and maintaining an exhibit at San Francisco during the national gathering, August 11 to 20. The amounts vary from $400 to $2,000 each, though there are many more who have appropriated $2,000 than $400, while some counties have voted appropriations, without placing a limit upon the cost or upon the expense of the committee that is to look after it. Samples of the choicest fruits, for which sections of California are famous, will be sent for free distribution. Some places have voted to send a car load each day during the convention.

A feature of the street fair to be held will be Nevada county's exhibit. Nevada county is one of the oldest mining counties of California, and a proud bit of its display will be a gold brick worth a half million dollars. A special guard of police will watch over the treasure. Besides this, in the exhibit, will be a collection of old-time nuggets from the hills and canyons of the county, carrying $30,000 of the virgin gold; a pyramid made of glistening, gold-bearing precious quartz, valued at a fabulous amount; an interesting collection of mining implements, from the most primitive used by the argonaut prospector to the most improved of the present day; a complete miniature hoisting plant and quartz mill operated by electricity, showing how mining is carried on in the gold-yielding mother lode district.

Alongside of these will be samples of the mammoth grapes, peaches, pears, apples, plums and oranges, all of which grow to perfection in the county, and are noted for fine appearance, flavor and keeping qualities. Specimens of the famous mountain timber will also be on exhibition. At the end of the conclave the citizens of Nevada will be ready to escort the visitors on a special excursion, which will be had on or about August 20, to an outing into the heart of the Sierra Nevada gold fields, and give them a picnic and barbecue in a most picturesque mountain retreat, between Nevada City and Grass Valley.

Some of the exhibits from the mining and agricultural regions will be a revelation to those who have never been in California, and an object lesson to the young that they will never forget.

THEATRICAL.

Heading the best bill that has been offered at Keith's Theatre, New York, this season is Valerie Bergere, who with a strong supporting company is presenting a new one-act play called "Billy's First Love," the work of Miss Grace Griswold, herself an actress of some note. This will be the first time that this play has been seen in the east, but the Pacific coast critics have grown enthusiastic over it, and its cordial reception by the public seems to warrant the belief that Miss Bergere will repeat with it the great success she had with the little Japanese tragedy Madame Butterfly, which caused the greatest sensation vaudeville has known in recent years. Next on the bill is the Melani Troup, the Parisian Musical Gretesques, an act imported from Europe, and said to be one of the funniest acts ever seen. Zazell and Vernon have a comedy bar act that is great, and Bryce and Inman, the celebrated Irish comedians, are as laugh-provoking as ever with their act, which has added so much to the gaiety of nations. Paul Stephens, the novelty acrobat, in an act which has not been seen before on this side of the Atlantic; Beeson, Ferguson and Beeson, with an eccentric comedy sketch; Craig and Ardelle, musical comedians; Morton and Elliott, paper manipulators and nineteen other acts, which include new slides for the stereopticon and new films for the biograph, are all on this excellent programme.

C. A. Leland, of Central avenue, has returned home after a week's vacation.

Miss Clara VanFleet, of Jackson avenue, has gone to Ocean Grove, where she will spend the summer.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

IMPORTANT MONTH FOR JERSEY'S TWIN CITIES

Two Big Events of the Year Will be Held at Asbury Park During August.

LAKE CARNIVAL FIRST.

PARADE OF CRAFT ON WESLEY LAKE TAKES PLACE AUGUST 13.

Baby Parade Will be Held on the Board Walk Tuesday, August 19—Junior Day Will be August 14—The Plans in Detail.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, Aug. 5—The principal month of the season has begun in a week of alternating sunshine, cloud and rain. August is the main reliance of the hotel-keepers, and they are looking anxiously forward to what the month will bring forth. Last week has been a poor one. It has rained a little harder than any time before this season, and the warm spells have not been protracted enough to bring crowds down to the shore. On the other hand, there have been plenty of excursions last week that had to come, rain or no rain, and the business men with indoor attractions feel that they have no cause for complaint.

The month just started will see the two big events of the season here—the Wesley Lake carnival and the baby parade. The former will take place August 13. The Jr. O. U. A. M. of the State endeavored to have the carnival changed to the following day, when the Mechanics will visit Asbury Park, but without success. The children's concert will take place in the Ocean Grove Auditorium on the 14, and for this reason the carnival could not be changed. The carnival will consist of decorated boats, which will make the round of Wesley lake. The boats will all move separately instead of being attached to one another, as was previously done. They will pass the judges' stand twice and must make the round of the lake in one hour, between 8:30 and 9:30.

The children will hold forth the week following the carnival. The parade will take place Tuesday, August 19, but the announcement of the awarding of prizes will not be made until the following evening at the Children's Festival. Each entry in the parade will receive a souvenir whether a prize winner or not. There will be prizes for the finest doll coach, go-cart, baby coach, express wagon, pony wagon and float decorations; for children in costume and portraying foreign life; for babies from the greatest distance, and for twins and triplets. The age limit for the "babies" will be fifteen years. The baby parade commission so far has had most of its time taken up with accepting prizes. Business houses from all parts of the country are offering their goods for the purpose.

Victor Hohn, a New York sculptor, has accepted the challenge of Sand Artist J. J. Taylor, issued to all comers for a sand modeling contest for the $250 prize offered by the Asbury Park Board of Trade. The contest will take place in sand studios, which will be erected on the beach, on August 9.

Owing to delays at certain recent small fires, Mayor Bradley has ordered that during the balance of the summer each engine company shall keep two teams in the house continually.

The habit of visitors bathing all along the beach front in Ocean Grove has been summarily broken up. Notices have been put up directing bathers to stick to the life lines, and the policemen have been instructed to see that the order is carried out. There are lifeguards at Lillagore's and Ross's pavilions, and only there are the bathers safe. The notices posted are signed by Rev. A. E. Ballard, vice president of the Ocean Grove Association.

The heavy surf early in the week kept the lifesavers busy. None of the bathers had narrow escapes, but they would generally cry out as soon as they found themselves being borne from the shore, and the guards had their hands full towing them back to safety.

Ocean Grove celebrated its thirty-third anniversary Thursday by service at 3 and 6 o'clock. The service at 3, in the Tabernacle, was in memory of those persons who died during the past year who were identified at any time with Ocean Grove. About sixty names were enrolled on a blackboard to show who was being honored. Among the names was that of President William McKinley, who spoke in the Auditorium three years ago. United States Senator William J. Sewell's name was also on the list. At 6 o'clock services were held in Thompson Park on the spot where Ocean Grove was founded July 31, 1869.

Miss Emma Brokaw, of East Front street, is stopping with a party of friends at Hunter in the Catskills.

STRIKERS ON GUARD

Fearful That Operators May Reopen Works.

CLOSE WATCH KEPT ON MINES.

Coal Companies Say That When Ready They Will Open For Business, but Refuse to State the Precise Time.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 5.—Yesterday having passed without a resumption of mining in the strike region, there was rejoicing at President Mitchell's headquarters. There was some fear that work might be started at the Woodward colliery of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, near Plymouth, and a large number of strikers and their sympathizers were stationed in the vicinity, but when it became known for a certainty that the mine would not resume the strikers returned to their homes.

At the offices of the coal companies the only information that could be obtained was that when the operators got ready to resume work they would do so, but how soon that would be they would not say.

Those in charge at strike headquarters are apprehensive that some of the coal companies will spring a surprise some morning, and they will have a colliery in operation before the strikers know it. To prevent such a surprise the strikers are watching the collieries very closely and also the movements of all men who go in and out of the works.

TROOPS STILL ON GUARD.

Funeral of Recent Riot Victim Held. No Mines Reopened.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 5.—While the situation in this region is calm, the troops encamped here showed more activity yesterday than they have on any day since they were ordered to Shenandoah. There was nothing on the surface to indicate anything, yet there was a feeling of uneasiness which caused the commanding officers to increase their vigilance and hold the soldiers in a state of preparedness. The greater part of this vigilance was due to the fact that the funeral of Joseph Beddell, who died as a result of injuries received in Wednesday's riot, took place.

Rumors of intended attacks reached brigade headquarters, and General Gobin decided to take every precaution possible to prevent any untoward incidents while the funeral was being held without too great a display of the military force.

Rumors of a resumption of work in this territory are still in circulation, but there is nothing to indicate that these rumors have any foundation whatever. There are in the Shenandoah district nineteen collieries operated by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, which formerly employed 12,000 men, and six collieries owned by the Lehigh Valley Coal and Iron company, which employed 3,000 mine workers. Besides these there are several individual collieries.

Hundreds Ask For Aid.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 5.—The headquarters of the Ninth district, United Mine Workers, have been visited by hundreds of men asking for aid. They were accompanied by wives and children. Orders on stores for provisions were issued only to strikers in good standing in the union. A number of applicants who have not worked in the mines for years tried to obtain aid, but were refused, whereupon they threatened to go to work as nonunion men.

Firmin Much Compromised.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 5.—General Jumeau, the Firminist commander, has started for Gonaives in order to defend that city, which probably will be attacked by the government troops under General Nord. The forces sent to subject the town of Petit Goave have revolted in favor of Firmin. M. Jeremie, minister of foreign affairs in the provisional government, has resigned because he disapproved of Firmin's acts during his candidature for the presidency. General Firmin seems to be very much compromised.

Pension List Growing.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Commissioner of Pensions Ware states that legislation enacted by the last session of congress will result in at least 10,000 new pensioners. The number of pensioners on July 1 of this year was 999,446. This shows a steady growth of the roll for a number of years. Commissioner Ware said that this growth was accounted for by the constant new pension legislation by congress.

Murder Confessed on Deathbed.

DENVER, Aug. 5.—On his deathbed William Thompson of Vilas, Baca county, has confessed that he killed his son Benjamin, aged thirteen, and that Zeb Nicholson, who was convicted of having murdered the boy and is serving a sentence of ten to twenty years in the penitentiary, is entirely innocent. A petition for Nicholson's pardon has been filed with the state board of pardons.

Safe Robbed by Cracksmen.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Aug. 5.—Cracksmen blew the safe of the Laddsdale Supply company at Laddsdale, near here. They secured an unknown amount. The postoffice is in the same building, and part of the funds belonged to the government.

Circus Performance For Prisoners.

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 5.—A circus performance was given in the state prison yard yesterday for the convicts. A ring was made and a performance that lasted an hour and a half given.

CONVINCING PROOF.

The Average Plainfield Citizen Must Accept the Following Proof.

The great Sir Isaac Newton, one of the most profound reasoners the world ever produced, once cut a large hole in a board fence to allow a favorite cat access to two gardens, and cut a smaller hole to allow her kitten to follow her. The weakness manifested in Sir Isaac's action was due to want of thought. Any reader who mentally debates the proof offered here about Doan's Kidney Pills and arrives at any other conclusion than that stated in this citizen's statement, is as short of reasoning powers as the philosopher when he turned carpenter.

Mr. Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so-called kidney cures but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper, and, being in bad shape at the time I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and, continuing their use all the pain left me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

SITUATION IN FRANCE.

Vatican Said to Regard It as One of Gravity.

ROME, Aug. 5.—The Vatican regards the present situation in France arising from the closing of unauthorized congregationalist schools as most grave, as it is now believed to be the intention of M. Combes, the French premier, to denounce the concordat.

It is reported that Cardinal Rampolla, papal secretary of state, is still in favor of temporizing with France, fearing that the hostile attitude of the Vatican toward that country would lead to graver complications.

Some of the cardinals advocate an entire rupture with France, thus anticipating that republic and preventing the passage there of further anti-clerical laws.

Further Disturbances.

CHAMBERY, France, Aug. 5.—Crowds made demonstrations in two neighboring townships yesterday against commissaries of police who were closing up schools conducted by nuns. The tocsin was rung, and the sisters, who refused to open their doors to the commissaries, were cheered by the people. The police were eventually obliged to make breaches in the walls of the buildings, whereupon the sisters, amid the cheers of their sympathizers, left by the front doors.

New York Yacht Club.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 5.—This morning the great fleet of the New York Yacht club got under way for the initial run of the cruise to Newport, a distance of forty miles.

The greeting of Commodore Lewis Cass Ledyard to eighty-seven captains on board the flagship Corona yesterday afternoon formally opened the cruise of 1902. Grouped about the flagship at this time were over 100 of the finest yachts in American waters, ranging from palatial steam yachts to little yawls equipped with auxiliary motors. The racing element was also well represented with the three seventy footers Rainbow, Mineola and Yankee and the sixty footers Weetamoe and Neola and the two crack schooners Elmina and Muriel.

Getting Ready For Big Mill.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 5.—W. L. Crowley has awarded the contract for the erection of the arena for the proposed Corbett-McGovern boxing exhibition to be held in this city on Aug. 29. Work will begin on the arena today. The exterior dimensions of the structure will be 420 feet by 250 feet. It will seat 20,000 people. Tiers of boxes will encircle the ring, and behind these and encircling them will be twenty tiers of seats. All arrangements for the exhibition are going on despite the assertion that the exhibition will be stopped.

Francesco Won at Saratoga.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Charles F. Dwyer's three-year-old Francesco won the ten thousand dollar Saratoga handicap, the feature of the race of the Saratoga association opening day's sport. Herbert was second and Articulate third. The time for the mile and three-sixteenths (1:59) was very fast, considering that the track, although dried out considerably, was inclined to be cuppy.

Celebrates Thousandth Birthday.

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—The quaint old Wurttemberg city of Ravensburg has celebrated the one thousandth anniversary of its founding by a historical procession representing the successive centuries. The king and queen of Wurttemberg attended the ceremonies.

Fire In Pennsylvania Village.

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Aug. 5.—In the village of Belleville the Eagle hotel, the Belleville Deposit bank, the postoffice and a storeroom, three dwellings and three stables have been destroyed by fire; loss, $30,000.

Secretary Root at Carlsbad.

CARLSBAD, Austria, Aug. 5.—Elihu Root, United States secretary of war, has arrived here. He intends to make a considerable stay in Carlsbad.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Texas stockmen are to try the experiment of pasturing cattle in Canada.

One man was killed and four were injured in an accident on the Santa Fe railroad near Los Angeles, Cal.

Thomas Jansen was killed and four others of his family badly shocked by a lightning bolt near Monticello, N. Y.

TIN WORKERS SAY NO

Reduction Proposition Rejected After Long Vote.

MANY PLANTS ARE CLOSED DOWN.

Shenango Works at Newcastle, Pa., and Several Indiana Shops Are Unable to Continue Operations.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 5.—The proposition made by the American Tin Plate company to its employees that they accept a reduction in wages of 25 per cent has been rejected. The vote, which has been in progress for several weeks, was tabulated with the above result. Another conference between the company and Amalgamated association officials has been arranged for and will probably be held in New York within the next two weeks.

The proposition was thoroughly understood by the workers, it having been explained that in order to secure the foreign trade, amounting to about 1,500,000 boxes, the general wage reduction would not be more than 3½ per cent and that the production would be increased fully 16½ per cent, which would increase the earnings of the workers about 12½ per cent. It is explained that while the majority of the men would work at a slight reduction in order to secure more employment most of them are Welshmen, and they are friendly to their fellow workers across the ocean. If the proposition had been accepted, the tin plate workers in Wales would be deprived of employment. This fact influenced many to vote against accepting the offer.

The American Tin Plate company will now be unable to secure this increased business, and as stocks are large it is forced to close a number of its plants. The largest in the world, the Shenango works at Newcastle, have been shut down indefinitely, and several in Indiana have closed. The two works at New Kensington are also idle. All the nonunion plants of the company are in full operation.

Van Horne Mysteriously Ill.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Richard B. Van Horne, son of Sir William C. Van Horne, chairman of the Canadian Pacific railway, who arrived here from Cuba on the steamer Curityba, was sent to Swinburne island for treatment and observation. Dr. Doty, the health officer of the port, said that Mr. Van Horne was detained because his temperature was 103. The young man said he had been ill for several days after eating something that disagreed with him. He is about thirty years old and is the chief engineer of the new Cuban railway in which his father is interested.

King Edward Gains Strength.

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 5.—King Edward for the first time since his illness walked up and down a flight of stairs without assistance. He also enjoyed a stroll upon the upper promenade deck of the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, from which a splendid view of the yacht races was obtainable. Empress Eugenie, who has arrived here on her yacht, the Thistle, visited King Edward. Queen Alexandra, Princess Victoria and Sir Frederick Treves took a cruise yesterday on board the royal yacht Osborne.

Failure of a Spreckels.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Peter Spreckels, a kinsman of the San Francisco family, is the principal owner of the private banking house of Eduard Rocksch, which closed its door on Friday with assets nominally 10,000,000 marks and liabilities of 3,000,000 marks. Spreckels before and since the failure cabled to his American relatives for help. It appears the American Spreckels family kept a considerable deposit at Dresden, which Peter Spreckels now asks to have used for the benefit of his creditors.

Young Vanderbilt to Wed.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 5.—The engagement of Reginald Vanderbilt and Miss Kathleen Gebhard Neilson has been formally announced by cards sent out by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, the mother of the young man, and by Mrs. Frederick Neilson, the mother of the prospective bride. The announcement was no surprise, the couple having been generally considered as engaged for some time. In fact, there have been oft repeated reports to this effect.

A Floating Dock Wanted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The navy department will soon call for bids for a huge floating dock to accommodate a 16,000 ton battleship, to be built in the United States and floated over to the Philippines. This will be one of the largest floating drydocks ever constructed. The amount available is $1,250,000, and Admiral Endicott of the bureau of yards and docks has about completed the specifications under which the huge structure will be built.

Earthquake In Montana.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 5.—An earthquake which lasted only two seconds has visited Missoula county, causing some slight damage. At Bonner a large dynamo was shaken from its adjustment. At Clinton the shock was quite severe, the operator reporting that several old buildings collapsed.

Lord Beresford to Visit Us.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, M. P., will visit the United States the coming autumn to study the American navy and to inquire into the working of the Morgan shipping combine.

MR. CORIELL'S CANDIDACY.

Since the withdrawal of Andrew McCardell in the race for the shreivalty nomination of the Union county Republicans, there has come another change which has given a new appearance to the political situation. With the close of last week, a story emanating from Elizabeth mentioned B. Frank Coriell, of this city, as a possible shrievalty candidate. This story has since gained ground and becomes so persistent that one is inclined to give it credence.

Mr. Coriell has been interviewed on the subject. He has refused to talk for publication intimating, however, that he is considering the subject. Mr. Coriell is now deputy county clerk and the position of sheriff is a good thing that no man is likely to throw aside. So it is only to be expected that Mr. Coriell will carefully consider the subject before formally announcing his position in the case

There is no doubt that Mr. Coriell's candidacy would affect City Judge Runyon's chances for the senatorial nomination. That certain party leaders have favored the Coriell boom for that same reason is a fact that cannot be gainsaid. They realize that in order to secure the senatorial nomination for Mr. Cross he must have a strong running mate for sheriff and that the candidate will be of most service if picked from Plainfield in order to divide Judge Runyon's support there if possible. Mr. Coriell is popular in Plainfield and through the county as well. His courteous treatment of many in the county clerk's office has made for him many friends. So the Cross advocates believe that he will be particularly strong to place beside Senator Cross on the ticket.

Mr. Coriell's decision will be awaited with much interest. He has the subject under consideration now. If he accepts it and the fight which he must realize it means, the county primaries in Plainfield promise to offer no end of excitement. If he rejects it, the situation returns to the same position it was before the advent of the Coriell boom.

The Fourth Congressional district convention is in session at Flemington today, and there is every reason to believe that Former Judge Lanning will be nominated. He will have some opposition but it will not be of a strenuous nature. Like Union county's position in the Fifth, Mercer county has control of the convention, possessing 136 delegates to Hunterdon's thirty-seven and Somerset's forty-four. As Mercer appears to be a unit for Lanning, the other two counties will bestow complimentary votes on "favorite sons" and then proceed to get on the "band wagon." Hunterdon proposes to compliment Former Senator George H. Large, of Flemington, while certain of the Somerset county delegates want a similar honor extended to Former Chancery Clerk Lewis H. Thompson. As the Mercer vote is going to settle the nomination, the other two counties will promptly move to take the nomination unanimous.

THE WAY TO GO.

Picturesque Trip Up the Hudson Offered by the People's Line.

Among the picturesque trips which are offered to the summer tourist, there is none more delightful than the ride up the Hudson river in one of the palatial steamers of the People's Line. Every night in the week, except Sunday, either the steamer Dean Richmond or the Adirondack leaves its pier at the foot of Canal street, New York, bound for Albany. The start is made at 6 o'clock and the passengers are treated to the prettiest part of the Hudson valley with the Palisades and then the Highlands in the twilight. While pretty at any time, this great river with its rocky borders is at its best when the sun sink behind the horizon. With a moon to add to the effect, the trip is an ideal one.

While the trip is worth making for itself alone, it also offers a delightful incident for a journey to the summer resorts in New York State. Direct connection is made at Albany for Saratoga, Lake Champlain and the various parts of the Adirondacks. The steamers themselves offer every comfort and convenience and are known as the largest river steamers in the world.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

At the monthly meeting of the Borough Council, last evening, the subscription for the macadamizing of Chestnut street and a portion of South avenue was announced as being $105. Thereupon the Council appropriated another $100 to complete the work as the total cost has been estimated at $200. Some claim, however, that this sum will not be sufficient. This action is in accordance with the progressive movement to make the town more attractive for those desiring homes.

As an instance of the need of a local superintendent for the water company in town a connection in the plumbing in a house in town broke the other day and the house would have been flooded if the water had not been turned off at the street. As it was the place was nearly flooded as the tools for shutting off the water were in the office formerly occupied by the local superintendent. As the need was so imperative entrance was made and the pipe tools secured.

An unknown man employed at the factory at West Dunellen had a narrow escape from death at the Purnell crossing yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. In crossing he did not observe the approach of a Blue Line train and just jumped back in time to escape being hit. The pilot of the engine did not miss him by more than a foot.

Mrs. Peter Apgar, of Front street, who has been ill for the past few days attempted to walk in her home yesterday and overtaxed her strength. She fainted and in falling struck her head on a table, suffering a large gash.

A number of Dunellen people were inconvenienced last night by the breaking of a wire on the Plainfield trolley line. A walk of half a mile was necessitated.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Peters and daughter, Elsie, have been enjoying the sea breezes at Rockaway Beach since Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. VanEps, of Plainfield, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lane, of Dunellen avenue.

Mrs. Tomlinson and children, of Plainfield, are spending today with relatives in town.

Edward Apgar, of Philadelphia, is spending a few days at the home of Newton Apgar.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening.

Miss Lulu Gise will leave tomorrow to spend some time with relatives at Clinton.

The Dunellen A. C. will play Clinton Avenue on the home grounds Saturday.

Mrs. Youndt and children are spending today at Asbury Park.

Harry Apgar, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday with his parents.

Miss Sadie Tilton is entertaining a friend from out of town.

Barney Siriski is spending today out of town.

The checker club will meet this evening for practice.

NEW MARKET.

Mrs. Willard L. Larrabee entertained the Sunbeam Mission Band of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at her home on Sunday afternoon.

This place has not been greatly affected by the rise in coal as the local coal company has kept the price as low as possible.

The Township Committee will hold a regular monthly meeting today.

Abram Nelson's new house is ready for occupancy.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The members of the Baptist, Methodist and Episcopal Sunday-schools took a good percentage of the residents of the village with them this morning upon their annual excursion to Asbury Park and Ocean Grove.

A number of New Market's deaf mutes' colony were interested spectators at the game between the locals and Xavier Mutes, Saturday afternoon.

John B. Anderson and family, formerly of the village but now residents of Jersey City, have been visiting at the homes of friends in town.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Baptist church was held in the church parlors last night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Terry, of Plainfield, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Terry's mother, Mrs. James Buckley.

T. Rombo Collins has left for West Hampton, L. I., where he will spend his two weeks' vacation.

LeRoy Day has returned from a business trip of several days at Far Hill, this State.

Chas. Housell, of Bound Brook, has been visiting at the home of friends in town.

Miss Blanche Merceir is spending a few days with relatives in Plainfield.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

It is expected that a few from here will go with the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Sunday-school on its excurison to Ocean Grove and Asbury Park next Thursday.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Rev. Daniel H. Clare, of Waverley, N. Y., will preach at the Park Avenue Baptist church next Sunday.

—A special meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Monroe Avenue church will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

—Neuman Brothers receive daily large consignments of Delaware and Mountain Rose peaches, delicious in flavor and quality.

—There are ice creams and ice creams. Ice creams, it seems, are not always what they seem. The best ice cream is at Tier's.

—W. A. Woodruff is planning to make some extensive improvements to his property on Elmwood place now occupied by Joseph Randolph.

—City Engineer F. A. Dunham has been surveying L. E. Hart's lot on West Front street, where Mr. Hart intends to erect a dwelling house soon.

—In this issue Ralph W. Christie, district manager of the New York Painting and Decorating Company, calls your attention to the fact that George S. Farlee is no longer in the employ of his company.

—The Ladies Aid Society of the German Lutheran church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. John H. Kochs, at Watchung. During August there will be no Sunday evening services in this church.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

GRAY BOYS IN BLUE.

Will Meet Early in October in the Nation's Capital.

Elaborate Preparations Being Made to Give Them a Hearty Welcome —Candidates for Commander in Chief.

[Special Washington Letter.]

WASHINGTON is making extensive preparations, which are at the same time detailed and businesslike, to render the 1902 encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which is to occur at the national capital during the second week in October, an all-around success. Ten years ago the veterans of this patriotic organization were entertained as the guests of the capital city and the reception then accorded the members of the grand army proved to be one of the most notable experiences in their history as an organization. It is the purpose of the business men who have interested themselves in this year's reunion to make the encampment even more noteworthy. Three days, October 6, 7 and 8—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—have been selected by Gen. Ell Torrance, commander in chief, and his associates of the G. A. R. executive committee as the period of the national encampment. The entertainment of the veterans and their guests, however, will approximately cover a week, beginning with the Thursday or Friday preceding the meeting of the delegates.

GEN. ELL TORRENCE.
(Commander in Chief Grand Army of the Republic.)

Monday has been set apart for the first day's session of the convention and a special and elaborate display of fireworks, at which all the officers of all the organizations then assembled in Washington and the president of the United States are to be present. On Tuesday the convention will continue and conclude its annual session, while all the general visitors to the city will view an attractive and picturesque parade of the Sons of Veterans, who meet simultaneously with the G. A. R., a regiment of militia from the District of Columbia and several battalions of regular troops—engineers, marines, cavalry and artillery—from the barracks about Washington. The third day has been set aside for a parade of the veterans, a sentimental desire on their part that none but soldiers who have seen service at the front should participate having been recognized by those in charge of the programme. In the evening it is probable that President Roosevelt will tender Gen. Torrance and the general associate officers of the auxiliary societies a reception at the white house; the display of fireworks will be presented a third time and several smaller receptions will be tendered the officers of the women's organizations by local chapters of those bodies.

FLORAL CORPS BADGE DESIGNS.

This is a brief and tentative statement of the programme so far agreed upon, and is, of course, subject to change to conform with the later wishes of the commander in chief and his advisers. An extensive schedule of regimental, division and corps reunions has been arranged to cover the first two days of the encampment. Conventions of less noteworthy significance than that of the grand army will be held at the same time by various societies of survivors and auxiliary associations. Numerous excursions will be made to nearby points of historic and legendary interest, such as Mount Vernon, Braddock's Brook and the 200 or more battlefields within easy reach of the Potomac river.

The whole city will be handsomely dressed for the occasion. As a culminating number for each night's programme there will be a representation in fireworks of the fall of Peking. A lake of appropriate size will be constructed to represent the River Pei Ho. Representations of Chinese junks and other characteristic Chinese river craft will be constructed to make the view of Peking as realistic as possible. During the battle 500 young men will impersonate the soldiers who scaled the wall of the Chinese capital, and models of gunboats will depict the attack made on the city by the improvised fleet of the allied forces. Admission to the grounds—the extended spaces about the Washington monument—will be free, but the committee will provide several thousand reserved seats with boxes for the distinguished guests who are to view the display the first night.

The landscape gardeners in the employ of the government will contribute their share toward making the capital a grand army city in every respect. Already they have planted a variety of plant designs representing the various corps badges by which the veterans like to designate themselves. The florists who are doing this work are under the immediate supervision of Capt. George H. Brown, who is himself a veteran and a civil engineer by profession. It has been arranged that somewhere in the city each veteran will be able to find his corps badge painted in nature's colors. One of the prettiest designs is the trefoil of the second corps, done in rich red colors. All the foliage badges are in the exact proportion "laid down in the books" for the badge insignia provided for by act of congress in 1862. The second corps, by the way, will be particularly honored in Washington. It turned out some noted men, among them Gen. O. O. Howard, Gen. Miles and Gen. Thomas Francis Meagher, who commanded the Second brigade of the red trefoil division, known everywhere as the "Irish brigade." The finest display of plant badges will be at the pension office. On the south side of the great building are displayed in thrifty foliage plants the "Kearney patch" of the First corps, the trefoil of the Second, the diamond of Third, triangle of the Fourth, Maltese cross of the Fifth, Greek cross of the Sixth, six-pointed star of the Eighth, and crescent of the Eleventh. On the west side are the minnie ball cross of the Sixteenth corps and the badge of the Ninth. At the census bureau are two beautiful badges, the Second and the Sixth, placed there by special request of Gen. Merriam, of Minnesota, director of the census. In all there are some 20 large floral badges fast advancing toward perfection in the public parks, among which those pictured herewith seem to be the most popular with the people of the city.

So far but little has been heard of grand army politics, although it is generally believed that the competition for the highest honor within the gift of the body lies between Col. John McElroy, of Washington, and Gen. Thomas J. Stewart, of Pennsylvania. Col. McElroy, although a resident of Washington, where he edits the National Tribune, is considered as the western candidate. The colonel was formerly in the newspaper business in Chicago and St. Louis. He began life as a typesetter, and worked at his trade until the second year of the war, when he enlisted in the army. He was captured soon after reaching the front, and was for a long time a prisoner in Andersonville. Gen. Stewart served with the One Hundred and Thirty-Eighth Pennsylvania volunteers, enlisting when only 16 years of age. In civil life he served as a member of the house of representatives in 1885. He was elected secretary of internal affairs of the state of Pennsylvania in 1886, and was reelected in 1890. He was appointed adjutant general by Gov. Hastings in 1895, which post he has filled since. He has always taken an active interest in grand army matters, and has been commander of the post at Norristown, in which town he makes his home. In 1897 he was elected commander of the Pennsylvania department. He has also served on the staffs of several national commanders in chief.

Both of the gentlemen named are making an active canvass for delegates, of whom there are 1,500, and the friends of each seem sure that their particular choice is sure of winning the day.

DEATH OF AMASA SPRAGUE.

Was Senior Member of Once Famous Rhode Island Firm.

WARWICK, R. I., Aug. 5.—Amasa Sprague, senior member of the once widely known firm of A. & W. Sprague Manufacturing company, is dead at his home in Coneset Heights, aged seventy-four years. His brother William, who survives, was the war governor of Rhode Island and in 1861 responded to President Lincoln's call for troops to defend Washington by taking the field in person. Amasa Sprague was a colonel on his brother's staff.

In 1873 business reverses overtook the family, and the greater part of the estate, including their immense cloth printing plants, went into other hands. The output of the Sprague mills then was greater than that of all the other factories in the United States combined, and a member of the family recently said that for the year preceding the panic the books showed a profit of $20,000,000. But the depression which followed the war had its effect, and the great concern went down, the properties were sold, and the two men retired from the textile world.

Their ancestors were the earliest cotton manufacturers in Rhode Island, and William Sprague (second) was the first calico printer in America.

Cuban Loan For Sugar Growers.

HAVANA, Aug. 5.—The sepate has discussed and approved in part a bill to empower the executive to raise a loan of $4,000,000 at the minimum price of 90 and at the maximum rate of interest of 5 per cent, payable in thirty years, to be used to assist the sugar cane growers of the island, who will be paid at the rate of 50 cents per 100 arrobas of sugar cane ground from the last crop. This money is to be repaid by the cane growers in February, March and April of 1903 at 6 per cent interest. The bill provides that the executive be authorized to pledge the customs receipts of the republic as a guarantee for the principal and interest of this loan and to guarantee increased expenditures on account of the loan.

Boers Plotting In Holland?

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at The Hague says in a dispatch that it is becoming increasingly difficult to combat the generally accepted Dutch theory that the Boer leaders here are campaigning toward the ultimate subversion of British rule in South Africa. The Boer general Lucas Meyer, who has just reached Holland from London, instead of going to Germany, has stopped at The Hague and is going to visit Mr. Kruger, while several other prominent Boer leaders are assembling here. Nobody at The Hague, continues the correspondent of the Daily Mail, believes their story that their mission is to collect funds for Boer widows.

Death of Noted Fighter.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Commodore Joseph E. Mongomery, the aged Confederate naval officer who nearly captured General Grant during the civil war, is dead here at the home of his son, Dr. James Montgomery. Commodore Montgomery was born in Carrollton, Ky., in 1817, and from his youth until the war broke out was engaged in river traffic. At the battle of Mobile Bay he played a conspicuous part. He also was in the engagements at Fort Pillow and New Orleans, and at Memphis he lost his fleet. He was an intimate friend of Jefferson Davis.

Another Historic Building Falling.

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—The historic building in Frankfort in which the old German emperors were crowned is beginning to crumble. The authorities have ordered that braces be placed immediately to save it.

UP TO DATE STYLES.

The Latest Two Color Tea Gowns, Pearl Side Combs.

In tea gowns two colors are quite the vogue. One shade constitutes the underdress, while the upper one is made of some more sober tint. For instance, a gown of willow green will have an underdress of shrimp pink crape accordion plaited.

The prettiest side combs have a row of pearls on top, and these are charming in dark hair. Strings of pearls are also twisted among the coils, and a single rose is perched above the ear or a little one side of the twist if the hair is done high.

There is a tendency to trim the hips of skirts and yet at the same time preserve the plain lines.

The stout woman should avoid muslins, at least those of startling nature.

A dainty bolero for an evening dress is here shown. It is of silk mousseline de soie and white lace. The wide collar is of the mousseline de soie and lace. The undersleeves are also of this. The sleeves are laid in horizontal tucks and the body in vertical ones. Both are banded with lace insertions. The bottom of the bolero is edged with a wide lace frill.

GOWNS FOR THE COUNTRY.

Foulards Are Elaborately Trimmed. Useful Holland Dresses.

Foulards and china silks have large, sprawly figures and are elaborately trimmed. The bottoms of the skirts are finished with innumerable chiffon ruffles, and they have very long trains.

Some ox blood mercerized chambray suits are trimmed with rows of white honiton braid, the same appearing on sailor collar and bodice. Plain shirt waist suits are made with tiny tucks back and front. The sleeves are tucked below the elbow.

Brown holland is another material a liking for which has been revived this season. It is extraordinary how very smart a costume of this can look when cut and fitted by a first class tailor or dressmaker.

An approved hat for country wear is made of fine white or cream chip, with a wide brim and a flat crown which is encircled by a wreath of flowers and leaves.

A pretty seashore gown is made of white cheviot, as shown in the illustration. The waist has its body made of all over Irish lace, with a front and bolero effect of the goods. The sleeves are slashed to allow a glimpse of the lace undersleeve. The skirt has a gathered flounce set in under a wide band of insertion, and there are three narrow bands of insertion down the front. The hat is a model of elegant simplicity.

Women Filemakers.

American emancipation of women embraces not only the upper classes, but the working classes as well, so much so that Americans reading the following item from an English trade paper receive a genuine shock of surprise:

"The census returns for Yorkshire show that in that country there are 402 women engaged at home in filemaking."

Hard manual, mechanical labor is a good deal of a rarity in this country.

Stairs of Sand

By

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

"Well, what about this daughter? Why don't you go on, man?" exclaimed the stranger.

Mr. Bowersox risked a swallow from his glass to fortify himself, made a wry face, and continued:

"The young gent what's been school-teacher here for the past five years was sweet on the young lady, and them what knows says it was returned. Mrs. Ellison heard of it, and was mad enough, though her husband never let on to the young man that he knowed what was up, though, of course, he couldn't help it. All the town knowed. Well, young Barnett, which the same was the school-teacher's name, was pervadin' 'round the grounds that night. He was seen to meet with Mrs. Ellison by the watchman. There was hard words between 'em, she accusin' the young man of tryin' to steal her daughter away. Just what happened after that isn't known, but some time a'ter a cry was heard, and when folks got on the scene they found Mrs. Ellison dead, and near by Barnett, cleanin' his hands on the grass." The landlord was silent for a moment, as if to give emphasis to his words. He was astonished at the cool way in which the little man received his tragic recital.

"Well, that don't mean that the young man was the murderer," said the latter.

"Oh, it don't, eh? Well, most of us in this here neighborhood thinks it does. And do you know that he had made arrangements to leave last night, surptitious-like, as they say, and had sent his trunk off, instructin' the man what carried it not to let anyone know that the schoolmaster was goin' to skip. All that looks bad."

"Hum!" and the stranger for a moment drummed on the table with his stubby red fingers. "The young man is certainly in an unpleasant position. What does he say—what is his side of the story?"

"Oh, he denies that he had anything to do with the poor lady, though acknowledgin' that they had words, and that she ordered him off the grounds. On his way out he heard this cry in the night, and, runnin' back, found her dead or dyin' on the ground."

"And what sort of a reputation does he bear in the neighborhood?"

"Oh, fust-rate, as far as that goes, though he never patronized me none," with a rather rueful tone in his voice. "Right smart, he seemed to be. But, ye see, the mother allus was against him. Hadn't been for her, he might have got the gal. Ellison, ye see, was friendly like to the last."

"Well, from what you tell me I feel sure that young man had nothing to do with the crime," said the stranger, decidedly. "Perhaps it is the work of some miscreant, who took advantage of his being in the grounds that night to kill her. I never heard of a young man taking such a step because the mother happened to oppose his suit. It is not common sense. Well, I must be going now," and he rose and laid a piece of money on the table. "Oh, never mind the change," as the landlord was counting it out. "It was worth something to hear such a dramatic story."

"I hope you'll come again, sir."

"You might see me this evening, but I can't tell. I suppose you could put me up for a day or two."

"There's one room I think might be vacant to-night;" then, to himself, "and seven others, if you wanted them."

"Very well, here's a dollar to hold a room for me. If I'm not here by eight o'clock, you can rent it," and he tossed a silver dollar on the table.

"You can find your way back here, I hope, sir," as the stranger was nearing the door.

"Not the least doubt of it;" then, as if a sudden thought struck him:

"Where do you suppose they have held this unfortunate young man—village jail?"

"There ain't such a thing. Had one once, but, as it lay empty for years, it was rented to a feller what raises hens. I think Barnett is kep' in the constable's house—little gray stone cottage near the meetin'."

"Thank you; good-day," and the little man disappeared through the doorway. Mr. Bowersox followed his guest outdoors and watched him go down the road at a swinging gait until he disappeared from view.

"If I was to make a rough guess, I sh'ud say that was one o' the young man's folks, but, if he is, he took the young feller's predicament mighty ca'm-like. Well, what does it matter to me, anyway? I wisht I had a hundred like him, that's all," and he went back to his doze by the bar to dream of the prosperity that would come to him if his customers were all like the man in the snuffy brown suit. Meanwhile the object of his complimentary thoughts was swinging along at a brisk pace. Though small, in walking his great strength of muscle was manifest. There was nothing light or graceful in his movements, but he strode on with the clumsy power of a bull. "You landed here at the right moment," was the thought running through his mind as he made his way along, keeping a furtive outlook for the meeting house.

"If this chap is worthy of the girl, he shall have her, but first we must see about getting him free. He certainly succeeded in placing himself in a nice corner, but if she loves him, we shall get him out of it."

He stepped aside to allow a carriage to pass, a handsome turnout with gold-mounted harness and sumptuous fittings. A rather handsome, military-looking man, with a gray mustache, lolled back on the cushions. He was dressed with quiet elegance, and puffed lazily on his cigar.

The little man eyed him for a moment searchingly, and then gave vent to a hoarse laugh, which the man in the carriage must have heard, if the swift horses had not by that time carried him out of earshot. The little man, after looking at the vehicle for a moment, shook his head and passed on his way.

"Bears his years well, hang him!" he muttered. "And thus is virtue rewarded," and he laughed again. "How glad he will be to see me. I have a favor to ask, and I don't think he will refuse to grant it." He had no trouble in finding the place he wanted, for around the little building was a group of the townspeople, talking excitedly. The center of the gathering was a very stout man, in a species of uniform of dark blue, much faded, and who seemed to be the center of interest.

"What you folks blamin' me for?" he was expostulating as the little man in brown drew near. "I had to do my duty as I seen it. The young man won't be none the wuss for a little rest away from the push. If he's innercent, why, he'll get free soon enough. It ain't often as justice makes a mistake. But don't you alls be too all-fired sure that he is innercent," wagging his grotesque head sagely. The town sympathies were evidently with the young man, and the village constable was the object of unkind remarks.

The subject of the discussion was just at this time reading in the room that had been allotted to him as a cell. It was comfortably furnished, and but for the fact that he was a prisoner, he had nothing of importance to complain of. What he regretted was the thought that he must soon leave his comfortable quarters and be transfered to the county jail, where he was sure not to fare so well. It would have made his confinement less burdensome, too, if he could have gotten some news of Grace, but not a word had come to him since that awful night. She was prostrated when the intelligence of his arrest reached her. Since then he had heard nothing. The voices wrangling in front of the house drew him to the window, which was only lightly barred with wood. He hoped that he might catch some of the conversation, and learn, perhaps, what was being said of his case.

As he stood there, in an attitude of attention, he suddenly heard a loud "Hist!" that seemed to come from a point very near at hand.

DEMURRERS FILED.

Government Suit Against Beef Trust Advanced a Step.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The government suit against the alleged beef trust has been sent a step forward here by the filing in the United States circuit court of demurrers of the defendants, both as individuals and as corporations. The demurrers set up at a considerable length that the complaint on which an injunction is asked is insufficient. It is maintained that the suit is multifarious and if allowed to stand would tend to congest the business of the court. In specific terms the demurrers assert that "so much of the bill of complaint as asks a discovery" of the several interests of the defendants and their business methods "has not stated such a case as would entitle the complainant to the relief prayed for."

The effect of the filing of the demurrers is technically to admit all the allegations charged in the bill of complaint. The argument advanced in support of the packers' position is that, admitting the truth of the charge, no sufficient ground has been shown for the issuance of the petitioned writ. The instrument was signed by John S. Miller, counsel for all the packers.

If the demurrer is sustained by the court, the original complaint may be amended, and if overruled the defendants have the privilege of answering. It is not expected that any further steps will be taken in the case by either side until about Oct. 1, when the federal grand jurors return from their vacations.

Siamese Prince Due In September.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Akharay Varadhara, the Siamese minister, has informed the state department that the crown prince of Siam will sail from Cherbourg Sept. 24 and also has furnished the itinerary of the distinguished guest while in the United States. The party is expected on the German steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on Sept. 30 or Oct. 1. They probably will spend three days in New York, including a visit to West Point. The party will go to Newport Oct. 4 and be in Boston Oct. 5 and 6, making a visit to Harvard college and an inspection of the factories in the vicinity of Boston. They will arrive in Washington on the morning of Oct. 7 and Philadelphia on the 9th, remaining six days, making a personal visit to William Potter. On Oct. 16 the prince and his party will start on the main tour of the United States in a special train.

Dog Led to Ghastly Discovery.

WINSTED, Conn., Aug. 5.—Every morning for the past week the dog owned by Louis Weigold of Winchester Center has left the house of its master and returned about two hours later. Weigold became interested in the actions of the dog and followed it and made a startling discovery. Lying near a stone wall about two miles outside the town in a secluded spot was his cousin William with his throat badly gashed, but still breathing. Young Weigold disappeared from home just a week ago, and it was feared at the time that he had committed suicide. It is now believed that he has been in a serious condition, without food or water for a week, the dog being his only companion.

Reid Visits President.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Whitelaw Reid and Mrs. Reid were guests during yesterday of the president and Mr. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill. They arrived at the bay on the yacht Electra, owned by Elbridge T. Gerry, whose guests they were. The party landed at the J. West Roosevelt pier and were driven to the president's country home. Later the three guests were joined by Archbishop Ryan of Philadelphia, who made the fourth guest at luncheon.

Hot In Kansas.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 5.—All heat records for this year were broken yesterday when the government thermometer registered 100 degrees. Other thermometers registered as high as 108. A hot wind blew all day, but corn is not injured. Reports of small rains are received from the western and northern portions of the state, but the precipitation has kept down to the minimum.

Sixteen Prisoners Escape.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 5.—Information from the state prison, four miles northwest of here, says that convicts last night blew a hole in the prison wall with dynamite, sixteen of them escaping. Three have been recaptured, and one, Ed Carney, sent up from Davidson county for safe blowing and highway robbery, was killed.

Immense Ore Shipments.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 5.—Reports for the month of July show that the upper lake ore shipping ports sent 4,000,000 tons and upward down the lakes. That beats any record that has ever been made for any month on the chain of lakes and is equivalent of shipment during this year of upward of 23,000,000 tons, perhaps 24,000,000.

Killed by Lightning.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 5.—William M. Wells of Burlington, N. J., coroner of Burlington county, was struck by lightning and instantly killed while fishing in Absecon bay yesterday. His wife and daughter were with him in the launch Bluebird, and both of them were severely shocked.

Statue of Commander Stevenson.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Ell Torrance, commander in chief of the G. A. R., has appointed a committee to organize and press to a speedy completion the work of erecting in this city a statue of General B. F. Stevenson, the founder and first provisional commander in chief of the G. A. R.

DEFEAT FOR REBELS

Such Is the Report From Battle at Agua Dulce.

THE NEWS IS NOT YET CONFIRMED.

Colombian Revolutionists Said to Be Deserting—Heavy Losses Are Sustained—No Word From Missing Gunboat Boyaca.

PANAMA, Colombia, Aug. 5.—Telegraphic communication with San Carlos was re-established yesterday, and at 5 p. m. General Salazar received a telegram from San Carlos saying that some revolutionary officers belonging to the forces under General Herrera had passed that town in flight. They reported the defeat of the revolutionists at Agua Dulce. This news has not been confirmed, and details and further information are awaited.

The United States cruiser Ranger is reported to have gone to Agua Dulce for the purpose of bringing the wounded back to Panama. Definite news of the engagement is expected when she returns.

The government gunboat Chucuito, which was sent from here with ammunition for General Morales Berti, could not deliver her cargo because the port of Agua Dulce had been captured by the revolutionists. Water communication between the government troops at Agua Dulce and Panama is consequently interrupted.

A government officer who was captured by the revolutionists in January of this year during a previous battle at Agua Dulce has made his escape from General Herrera's camp and has reached Panama. He reports that many revolutionists are deserting, partly because they are forced to fight against members of their own political party as well as on account of the heavy losses the revolutionists are said to have sustained every day since the beginning of this battle.

The government gunboat Boyaca, which is missing, left here last Tuesday with re-enforcements for General Morales Berti, who is located near the port of Agua Dulce. She was attacked by the revolutionary fleet and obliged to retreat. Since that time nothing has been heard of the Boyaca; but, being faster than the revolutionary gunboat Padilla, she is believed to have escaped.

General Salazar, governor of Panama, is of the opinion, however, that some accident has happened to the gunboat which has left her helpless at sea or stranded on the coast or on some island.

United States Consul General Gudger and Captain Potter of the United States cruiser Ranger have sent cablegrams to Washington asking permission, for the sake of humanity, for the Ranger to search for the Boyaca. There are over 300 men on board the Colombian gunboat, and General Salazar hopes that the Ranger will be permitted to go to their rescue.

Valuable Gift For Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Through the generosity of A. Abraham of Brooklyn Cornell university has been enabled to purchase the Egyptological and Assyriological library of the late Professor August Eisenlohr of Heidelberg university. By Mr. Abraham's gift the university has acquired the most important Egyptological collection which has come into the market since the death of Lepsius, nearly twenty years ago. The Eisenlohr library contains over a thousand volumes, comprising all the important publications relating to Egyptology down to 1901, several ancient manuscripts, many costly facsimiles of papyrus manuscripts, several hundred photograph squeezes and sets of periodicals, etc. The books are now being received at the university library.

Two Broke Jail.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 5.—Two prisoners, Fred Slocum and William Murphy, have broken from their cells and escaped from the Rockland county jail. There is no trace of their whereabouts. They clambered up through the skylight to the roof and let themselves to the ground by a rope made of blankets, no one noticing them. The jailer had gone away, leaving the men unguarded. Slocum was serving a term for assault in the second degree, and Murphy was arrested in the act of committing a burglary in Haverstraw and committed for the grand jury.

Former Senator Cameron Hurt.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—While former United States Senator J. Don Cameron and Mrs. Cameron were driving yesterday afternoon from Fort William, Inverness-shire, Scotland, to Inverlochy Castle, Lochaber, which he has leased for the summer, the horses shied, and the carriage collided with a cart. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cameron were thrown out, and the senator was severely injured in the groin. With the exception of shock Mrs. Cameron was not hurt.

Suicide at San Juan.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 5.—Alexander Nonez, twenty-six years old, a native of St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, committed suicide here yesterday by shooting. Nonez was prominent socially and is said to have relatives in New York. He had been drinking to excess lately and left a number of debts.

A Fatal Quarrel.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Aug. 5.—In a quarrel about a woman near Trenton Mose Tyler, a farm hand, advanced with a drawn pistol on Thad Coleman. Coleman hurled two stones at Tyler. The first stunned him, and the second struck him on the head and killed him instantly. The coroner's verdict exonerated Coleman.

ON THE DIAMOND.

There is some talk among the local league players of forming a picked team to play the Xavier Deaf Mutes in this city Wednesday of next week. No definite action has yet been taken.

Through a mistake in the tabulated scores of Saturday's Hope-St. Mary game, Winn was credited with an error, instead of Crotty. St. Mary's first baseman played an errorless game.

The Dewey Park A. C. was defeated by the Lincoln A. C. yesterday by a score of 6 to 4. Excellent plays were made at second by Frank King. The batteries were King and Hansen for the Lincoln A. C. and Clay and Purnell for the Dewey Park A. C.

All teams look alike to Westfield. The slugging Watsessings, of Bloomfield, with wins over the Equitable Life and Marions, of Perth Amboy, were treated badly Saturday. Kinney, their box man, who early in the spring with the O. N. T's downed Westfield, its only loss this season, was loser, while Welsh for Westfield was near invincible, but two hits being made off his delivery although there was some phenomenal fielding on many apparently safe drives. The The fourteenth straight victory came 10 to 2. The feature of the game was McManus' hard and timely hitting. Saturday the best bunch that Rahway can assemble will go against Westfield in a county championship game.

GOLF.

An interesting match game at golf was played yesterday on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, between the caddy boys of the Hillside and Baltusrol Clubs. The home team was successful in defeating its opponents by the score of 15 to 8. Eight men played on a team. Marty Loughlin made the best score, 85, for the eighteen holes. The youngsters all put up a good game and some of them made the round as well as many of their seniors. There will be a return match on the Baltusrol course next Monday.

The summary of yesterday's match is as follows:

Hillside.		Baltusrol.
M. Loughlin	7	J. Roach	0
Kane	0	C. James	1
Johnson	3	Farley	0

TENNIS.

The tennis tournament at the Y. M. C. A. opened last evening. Charles Schomp defeated B. Brokaw six to two. Those who have entered for the events are: Charles Schomp, C. M. Rogers, Eric Moraller, Harry Scull, B. Brokaw, A. Denton, Edward Neil, Dr. Whitford, Eugene McCarthy, J. Emes, A. L. Schomp, Ray Hallock, J. F. T. Fuller, Robert W. Meeker.

INJURED WHILE FISHING.

J. Koontz Broke Bone in His Foot and Was Soaked.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Aug. 5—J. Koontz went bobbing for eels in the Greenbrook Friday night, and while thus busily engaged a sudden shower came up. While hastily scrambling up the bank Koontz sprained his ankle and broke a bone in his foot.

Leslie Pugh, a young boy, was with him and he was sent to the residence of L. V. D. Shepherd, nearby, for assistance. Koontz was carried home, receiving a soaking from the rain, where medical attention was given him.

Rousing Farewell.

A delegation of Knights from Perseverance Lodge gathered at the city ticket office of the Lehigh Valley road, yesterday morning, and bade a rousing farewell to Jacob Blimm and J. E. Flannery who took their departure for California. A second delegation composed of Frank Dunham, Harry Werner and Cyrus Boice accompanied them as far as South Plainfield and saw them safely on the train.

Mail Carrier Resigns.

David Martin, who has been mail carrier between the local office and the North avenue station since the death of James Frisbie some months ago, has notified Postmaster Bird that he wishes to be relieved from his contract within thirty days. The department has ordered new bids secured for the work to be opened August 14.

The Inn Closed.

The Mountain Park Inn has been closed for the season and Manager J. E. McConnell has been returned to the Plainfield. As yet no plans for the future of the mountain hostelry has been completed by Charles L. Strong, who holds the lease.

Miss Maggie Cobb, of West Third street, has gone to Richmond, Va., for a visit.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. POLICE BEAT THE FIREMEN

Remarkable Game Played on St. Mary's Grounds Between Two City Departments.

SCORE WAS 18 TO 6.

Firemen Couldn't Hit Special Winn's Delivery, While Police Infield Was Like a Stone Wall—Guardians of Peace Were Heroes at the Bat—How the Game Was Played.

Three hundred enthusiastic spectators witnessed the local firemen's baseball team play its initial game and receive a severe drubbing at the hands of the municipal police nine yesterday afternoon. It was clearly seen from the outset that the fire fighters were playing out of their class as the blue coats walked right away from them. To quote one of the members of the discomfitted team "the pressure was too low for the proposition they were up against." The final score was 18 to 6 and of the latter, the firemen made four in the last inning. It was played on the St. Mary grounds.

Both sides were provided with good pitchers, Winn for the cops and Townley for the firemen. The latter was in fine fettle and if he had received the support to which he was entitled, the result might have been different. Sixteen of the peace preservers batsmen swatted the air in their efforts to reach his deceptive out curve and when they did connect with the leather the outfielders were always in the wrong place. The coppers landed on him, however, for twenty hits one of which was a beautiful three bagger made by the jocose Jack Conroy. It should have been a home run as Jack was hampered in his base running by his immense avoirdupois. Fred Winn secured four hits and Captain Overbaugh, "Carrie" Higgins, Arthur McGinley and Mose Quass each picked off three.

The coppers' fielding was better than ever before and Short Stop McCarthy and Right Fielder Higgins outdid themselves. Winn held the opposing team down to six hits and struck out fourteen men.

"Whitey" Daley surprised everybody by his clever work on first, catching everything that came his way and some that didn't. Dan Force caught many of the patrolmen trying to steal second and Dory Larew nabbed a fly in left field that surprised himself as well as the grandstand.

Manager John Cose, of the Hope team, was prominent in center garden and showed several members of his aggregation who were spectators just how the position had ought to be played. He made a number of frantic leaps in the air after high flies which amused the small boys highly even if they didn't suit the team he was with.

On taking the bat the firemen were distinctly not at home as they couldn't seem to get the ball out of bounds. They went out in one, two, three order until the last inning when they got a "second alarm" as one of them put it and made a little spurt which netted them four runs. It was of no use, however, as it did not come quick enough to make it a ten inning game.

NEW BRIDGES.

Are Being Built by Lehigh Valley R. R. Along Its Eastern Division.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad is having new bridges constructed over its entire eastern division, reaching from Jersey City to Wilkes Barre. They are to be much larger and stronger than the present structures in order to withstand the strain from the new engines which the company recently placed in service east of Wilkes-Barre. The construction work is being done by the Phoenix and Pencoyd Bridge Company.

TO LEASE EPWORTH HOUSE

MONROE AVENUE CHURCH WILL HELP OUT THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Decided at Meeting Sunday to Rent Epworth House for Additional School Rooms.

More school room will be at the disposal of the children in the West End next term, according to the decision just reached by the Official Board of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. At a meeting held Sunday, it was agreed that the suggestion of the Board of Education to lease the Epworth House connected with the church be followed and that the contract be drawn at once.

Some opposition to this plan existed at first among the church people, who were averse to the idea of converting their property into a public school room. After deliberation, however, the general opinion grew to be that it would be extremely ungenerous to stand in the way of a public service by refusing to accommodate the school board. As matters stand now, the Irving School is likely to be far overtaxed in the coming fall, and this will mean that many of the children belonging to the Monroe Avenue church would suffer with the other young West Enders.

Consideration of these aspects of the case led the board, at the meeting Sunday morning, to vote an unanimous approval of the plan to lease the Epworth House to the city. The details have not yet been arranged, but they will be shortly, as soon as a conference can be held between the church officials and the school board.

TARANTULA LOOSE.

Made Things Exciting at Home of William Wyman Monday.

Fear of the poisonous attack of a tarantula made life uncomfortable for Mr. and Mrs. William Wyman, of West Front street, all day Monday. Search in all possible hiding places was made for several hours without success and the anxious suspense of the young couple was not ended until late in the evening, when the insect was discovered by accident and put to death.

Providential was the escape of Mrs. Wyman from being bitten by the bug. Taking a banana from a bag, she was horrified to see the thing clinging to the end of the fruit. With admirable presence of mind, she tossed it from her, the spider seeming to land in the kitchen sink. After that, it disappeared from view until it was finally seen by Mrs. Wyman's little brother, far up on the wall of the room.

REFERRED TO SPECIAL MASTER.

Continuation of Chancery Case of the Watchung Knitting Mills.

There was a further airing of the troubles of the Watchung Knitting Mills before Vice Chancellor Stevens, yesterday. The third appeal for a receiver on the part of Henry B. Drouin was denied but the defendant, Leo J. Studle, agreed to file an answer in a week. The Vice Chancellor referred the matter to Special Master Nelson Runyon to take account of the partnership. S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer, appeared for the complainant and Winfield S. Angleman for the defendant

Settled in Full.

The insurance companies have adjusted the loss on Mrs. Sebring's property on West Front street which was destroyed the time of the fire in the Babcock building. The companies settled in full, as the loss was a total one. It is the intention of Mrs. Sebring to have a suitable building erected in place of the one destroyed and it will be arranged for stores and flats.

Certain of a Good Time.

A day at the seashore will put you on better terms with yourself. Man should occasionally give himself a respite from the worry of work-a-day life. Go to Asbury Park tomorrow with the excursion conducted by the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Grace and St. Stephen's Episcopal churches. You may feel certain of enjoying yourself to the full.

TELEGRAPH IN BETTER QUARTERS AT STATION

Model Telegraph Office Along Line of Jersey Central Now Located in This City.

OFFICE IS UP-TO-DATE.

LOCAL MANAGER CHAS. H. SCHERMERHORN NOW WELL EQUIPPED.

Has Been in That Position for Thirty-Two Years and in the Old Quarters Since 1876—Description of His New Quarters.

To have his new quarters made the model telegraph office along the line of the Central Railroad in point of equipment is the laudable ambition which promises to be realized for Local Manager Charles Schermerhorn. So great is the improvement in the location and furnishings of the room into which the paraphernalia of the local master of the sounder and key have been removed that the place will easily rank among the first class offices of the railway system.

All the fixings of the office are strictly new and up-to-date. Desk room, instruments, resonators and the other accoutrement of the craft are all that could be desired. The new switch-board, with its seven wires, is especially a modern fixutre, being equipped with an attachment of fuses, designed to act as arrestors, to prevent lightning from running down to the board and burning out the wires.

Clearer view of the tracks, to add to the efficiency of the telegraph service, has been gained by cutting down the bushes in the park at the east end of the station and by removing a tree which stood in the way of an open vision along the west. The old new stand also will be taken away from the western end and the high hedge at the extreme east of the upper park will be trimmed to the level of the fence. The new bow window, where the two railroad instruments are placed, also is designed to give the operator a better sight along the line. The three Western Union instruments are at the upper window.

More room is enjoyed by the operators in the new office. Another advantage not possessed in the old quarters is the absence of the afternoon sun, thus adding much to comfort and coolness. A new convenience is in the shape of a stationary wash stand, which is now being installed. Additional means of entrance and exit also will be furnished by the reopening of a door on North avenue, as soon as the steps can be placed in position.

Thirty-two years ago, in 1870, Mr. Schermerhorn entered upon the position which he still holds At that time also he was in the eastern end of the depot, where the telegraph office remained until 1876, when the new building was competed. Then quarters were take up in the place from which the office was removed on Monday.

As assistant to the chief operator at present is Wesley Randolph, whose father was one of the first messenger boys under Mr. Schermerhorn in 1870. The present staff includes Edward Golden, the night operator, and five messenger boys.

TEN DOLLARS TOO MUCH.

Bound Brook Domestic Arrested for Increasing Amount of Check.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 6—Martha Morgan, a colored girl employed by J. A. Bailey, was arrested yesterday by Officer Sebring for raising a $6 check given her by Mrs. Nina G. Bailey to $16. Justice Brampton committed her to the jail at Somerville to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The complaint was made by H. G. Herbert, cashier of the Bound Brook Bank. The bank paid out the money before noticing that the check had been raised, as the girl was in the habit of presenting a check for $16 every month.

HOTEL ON THE HILL HAS A BUSY WEEK

There are Many Guests Still Assembling at The Hotel Netherwood.

IS DELIGHTFULLY COOL.

MANY HAPPENINGS FOR ENTERTAINMENT OF THE GUESTS.

Euchre Party Will be Held Tonight—An Entertainment Tomorrow Night—A Subscription Hop Arranged for Next Week.

The social season at the Hotel Netherwood is now at its height. The hostelry on the hill is maintaining the reputation for delightfully cool evenings and the degree of humidity has been decidedly less than in the surrounding districts. Various modes of entertainment are in vogue among the guests at the hotel. Both indoor and outdoor sports receive their full meed of attention. The registry list is now larger than at any time in the history of the hotel, and the future promises no abatement in the number of arrivals Among those who were booked at the resort last week are the following:

G. H. O'Donnell, New York; Mrs. Samuel H. Wilson and maid, Miss Marguerite Wilson, Master Gordon Wilson, New York; Harry Weil, Shreveport, La.; S. H. Wilson, New York; Haines Pierson, New York; Mr. and Mrs. A. Guggenheimer, Frank T. Trull, Preston M. Trull, Brooklyn; Mrs. William H. Kirby, Mrs. D. Korn, R. Korn, New York; Mrs. John H. Emery, Wallace Emery, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Keller, Brooklyn; W. J. Murphy, Brooklyn; John Quimry, Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert M. Smith, Brooklyn; Arthur W. Opp, New York; Hugo G. Hillman, Brooklyn.; B. Payton Legares, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Hebert, Miss Hebert, Miss Elizabeth Hebert, New York; Martin Stenson, New York; Mrs. William Irwin Martin, E. E. Irwin Martin, New York; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clarke, Baltimore.

This week will be a period of activity at the hotel. A progressive euchre is on the tapis for Friday evening, and tomorrow evening J. C. Burdette, a humorist, will be present to entertain the guests.

The fancy dress ball has been postponed to the last week in August, and the subscription cotillion, which was to be held Saturday evening, has been put off till next Wednesday.

BARNS BURNED.

Total Loss for Frank Nelson in a Fire at His Barns at Piscataway, Last Evening.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, August 6—Fire of a mysterious origin burned down all the barns and outbuildings on Frank O. Nelson's farm in Piscataway last evening about 8:30 o'clock. All the buildings and part of the contents, together with all the crops which had been gathered in, were destroyed. All the live stock was saved except a few chickens.

The fire was under good headway when discovered, and all appearances point to the work of incendiaries. A large crowd assembled and formed a bucket brigade, but could do little against the flames. Mr. Nelson's loss will be $3,000.

About the same time, fire broke out in the barns and hay barracks of A. D. Vermeule, near the landing bridge at the Raritan. Here, too, a total loss of buildings and crops was the result. Both parties were protected by insurance. It is believed that both fires were the work of incendiaries.

Sixteen Endeavorers Went.

Sixteen Plainfielders took the trip to Westfield last evening with the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, which had charge of the religious services at the Fresh Air Camp. Edgar Sheppard was the leader, speaking upon the need and work of faith. The meeting was interesting and profitable to the visitors and to the twenty-seven mothers who were present. This week's total of children at the camp is 110.

Was Just Adjourned.

In the McVey-Cab Company case in the Court of Chancery at Newark, yesterday, the injunction asked for was not issued as the case did not come up for a hearing, but was adjourned for two weeks when the question of an injunction will be considered. There was no hearing yesterday.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS AT MT. TABOR FRIDAY

Mid-Summer Rally Will be Held There by Newark Conference Epworth League.

PROGRAMME FOR DAY.

SERVICES IN MORNING, LECTURE AFTERNOON AND CONCERT IN EVENING.

Announcement of Meetings at Mt. Tabor Camp Meeting Grounds for Week Beginning Next Sunday—The Various Speakers.

A midsummer rally will be held at Mt. Tabor Friday by the Newark Conference Epworth League and it is expected that the largest crowd at the Methodist campmeeting grounds this season will be present. A special train on the Lackawanna Railroad will leave the Broad Street station, Newark, at 10:45 o'clock, and will stop at intermediate points. The programme is attractive.

The exercises will open at 10:30 o'clock, with ten minutes addresses by four district presidents on the general subject: "How Can We Increase the Success of Our League Chapters?" as follows: "Points of Our Work that Need Strengthening," R. F. Fenno, of Elizabeth district; "Resources for the Strengthening of Our Work," Samuel McCollom, Paterson district; "Improved Methods of Epworth League Work," S. J. Hoole, Newark district; "Results that Ought to Be Expected in League work," F. H. Sned, Jersey City district. Following will be a consecration service led by S. S. Smith, first vice president of the Central Church Chapter, Newark.

In the afternoon Rev. Dr. George C. Wilding will deliver a lecture on "Riding a Virginia Circuit." "The Holy City" will be sung at night der the direction of Rev. D. D. Eaton. There will be a chorus of seventy voices.

For a week beginning on Sunday, August 10, services will be held at Mt. Tabor, as follows:

August 10, 9 a. m., love feast, led by Rev. Dr. J. R. Bryan; preaching at 10:30 and 7:30 by Rev. A. F Chaffee, and at 3 p. m. by Rev. Dr. Charles Roads. Monday—Preachers, Revs. W. B. Fleming and Charles L. Mead; Tuesday, Rev. Dr. J. F. Stout and Rev. Dr. T. I. Coultas; Wednesday, Rev. J. H. Andariese and Rev. Dr. R. S. Pardington; Thursday, Rev. Irving B. Bristol and Rev. Dr. G. C. Wilding; Friday, Rev. George E. Watson and Rev. S. M. Vansant; Saturday, Rev. Dr. J. E. Adams and Rev. W. A. Chadwick. Sunday, August 17, love feast, led by W. H. McCormick; preachers, Rev. Dr. John H. Handley and Rev. Dr. E. V. King.

Besides these services there will be a sunrise prayer meeting each morning, led by Rev. Amzie L. Smith. The young people's meeting at 6 p. m. daily will be under the care of Rev. Dr. C. S. Woodruff. At the same hour Dr. A. B. Richardson will conduct a holiness meeting. There will also be meetings in the cottage of Mrs. Osse M. FitzGerald as in former years. Rev. Dr. W. H. Morgan, one of the committee, is absent in Ohio, so the work of the meetings will fall on Drs. Richardson and Woodruff, the other two members. The evangelist, Miss Annie A. Smith, and her co-worker, Miss Jessie Mechling, will be present through the eight days and help at the various meetings. In addition to the preachers mentioned there will be others, who will give addresses or read papers at the meetings held in the morning especially for the ministry.

Return at 9 o'Clock.

At the shore until 9 o'clock, with all the privileges of enjoyment afforded by the attractions of American Day at Asbury Park, is the special drawing card of the excursion to be run under the auspices of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., Thursday of next week. Don't forget the date and remember that this annual celebration of the Junior Mechanics is one of the features of the season at the Park.

Cruise Along Jersey Shore.

Away from the cares of business and professional life a quartette of Plainfielders will start Saturday upon a cruise along the Jersey shore. Lawyers George Ball and Louis A. Clement, Alfred Clement and Fred Nicholson will comprise the party and the trip will be made in a good sized sloop, fully equipped with all the necessaries and luxuries for a week at sea. Mr. Nicholson will act as skipper.

NO CLASS SESSIONS.

Summer Plans for Sunday-School at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

Prominent speakers from different parts of the country will be present at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday mornings during the summer to speak upon the international Sunday-school lessons. There will be no class sessions. For the coming week, Rev. Ackland Boyle, of New York, will be in charge of the lesson. Souvenirs will be given to the scholars for attendance during the month of August.

THROWN OUT BY TROLLEY

HENRY TAYLOR SERIOUSLY INJURED IN COLLISION THIS MORNING.

Horse Said to Have Backed Wagon Into Path of Car—Chas. Graves Was Slightly Injured.

An incoming trolley car on the through line, in charge of Motorman William Brown, of East Third street, struck a wagon belonging to Charles Graves, the slater, at Richmond and East Third streets, this morning. Graves and a colored employe, Henry Taylor, of Arlington avenue, were hurled to the roadway and rendered partly insensible.

The latter was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital where it was found in addition to a number of severe abrasions, he had suffered a fracture of the left leg. He will be detained at the institution for at least a month. Graves escaped with a few bruises.

The cause of the accident is assigned to Graves' horse backing suddenly as the car was about to pass. The vehicle was struck near the front wheels and was badly damaged. The fender just cleared the animal and it was not hurt.

HORSE FELL ON HIM.

But E. M. Laing Was Not Seriously Injured—Mr. Laing Was Trying to Stop a Runaway.

E. M. Laing, the Park avenue haberdasher, had a miraculous escape from serious injury, early last evening, while endeavoring to hold a plunging horse belonging to a Mrs. Snyder, which had been left in front of his store.

The animal became frightened at a steam automobile belonging to E. T. VanBuren and made frantic efforts to run away. It was seized by Mr. Laing, who had just secured a firm hold on the bridle when the equine reared. He was thrown down and the animal fell on him but although directly underneath, he escaped with a few bruises and contusions.

On getting to its feet again, the horse ran on the sidewalk where it was captured and finally quieted by Louis M. Dunavan.

WANT NEW MANAGER.

The Eastern Bottling Co. Is Having Some Trouble Over Management.

The Eastern Bottling Company is preparing to put a new manager in charge of its establishment on West Second street. Frank Linke, the present manager, claims that it is an attempt to freeze him out and says that he has the upper hand in that the license was issued to him and the accounts are in his name. The counsel of the company says that Linke was running behind and that they wanted a manager who could make it pay. Linke is a stock holder in the company but he and the other stock holders cannot agree on a price for his shares.

I. C. T. Club's Outing.

Plans for an outing were discussed at the meeting of the I. C. T. Club, last evening, the objective point to be Riverside Park. A committee was appointed to have the matter in charge and to make arrangements for trolley transportation, should the scheme prove feasible. With regard to securing a special car for the members to accompany Franklin Council on the excursion to Asbury Park next week, another committee was named to superintend.

Sunday's Preacher.

Rev. Dr. Stillwell, of Minneapolis, will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church Sunday morning and evening. Dr. Stillwell preached at this church last summer while in the east on his vacation and he made a favorable impression.

Herman Schwed, of Westervelt avenue, is enjoying an outing at Porter's Lake, Pa.

Frank Scheuerlin, of Somerset street, is visiting friends at Paterson for the week.

Miss Leila Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue, left town this morning for a two weeks' stay at Oconomowoc, Wis.

NO CANDIDATE BUT LANNING

The Delegates Did Not Name Favorite Sons at Fourth Congressional Convention.

HARMONY PREVAILED.

But Former Chancery Clerk L. A. Thompson's Name Was Not Mentioned—Change in Somerset's Representation on the Congressional Committee—Hegeman Named.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, August 6—Harmony prevailed at the afternoon session of the Fourth District Congressional convention here yesterday. No opposition of any kind developed to the Mercer county choice, Judge Lanning, and he was named unanimously. Contrary to expectation, there was no complimentary vote given any other nominee, but both Somerset and Hunterdon cast the full delegation vote for the Trenton man.

Somerset county made a change in its representative upon the Congressional committee. The county caucus was held yesterday morning before the convention assembled, with Mayor N. B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, as chairman. On motion of Thomas Doud, former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of North Plainfield, was unanimously elected to membership on the Congressional committee, supplanting Charles Place, also a former mayor of the same borough.

Partly as a result of the Somerset caucus, the expected selection of former Senator Thompson for chairman of the convention was not even mentioned. The gathering was called to order by Former Senator Large, of this place, and Charles Place, of North Plainfield, was chosen chairman. The secretary was J. A. Metz, of Somerville.

Upon the committees, North Plainfield received recognition as follows: On resolutions, N. B. Smalley and Frank Rowley; on rules, Thomas Doud. After Judge Lanning's name had been put forward by Mercer, N. B. Smalley, for Somerset, moved the nomination be made unanimous, which was done, as no other name was mentioned.

After the nomination, Senator John Kean, who was one of the visitors, made a speech, and the candidate and Senator Stokes, of Cumberland, also made addresses. The members of the convention then marched about the town behind a band, displaying much enthusiasm over the harmonious workings of the day.

FAMILY HOODOO.

Third Son Killed by Accident on the Railroad—Funeral Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 6—The funeral of Frank Winner, thirty years of age, was held in the Methodist church here yesterday. Rev. Dr. E. S. Jamison, of Raritan, officiated. Winner was a brakeman on a Pennsylvania Railroad drill engine and was killed at Waverly Saturday. A car mounted a frog and he was thrown under the wheels and horribly mangled.

Two of his brothers were killed while in the employ of the New Jersey Central and his father, Stephen Winner, of Newark, while he lived here, was so badly injured by the cars that he was laid up for a year. The railoads have been the family's hoodoo.

WANT TRAINS STOPPED.

Guests at Hotel Netherwood Petition for Better Evening Service.

Guests at the Hotel Netherwood have directed a communication to C. M. Burt, general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, expressing their appreciation of the excellent morning express train service with which they are favoted between Netherwood and New York. The guests would like a corresponding service in the evening and to this end petition that the trains leaving New York at 4:40 and 5:10, preferably the 5:10, be allowed to stop at the Netherwood station.

Drawing Postponed.

The drawing for the parlor lamp by Protective Conclave, No. 505, Improved Order Heptasophs, has been postponed until September 2.

Irving Clark and his sister, Mrs. John Swan, of Crescent avenue, have gone to Walters' Park, Pa., for a few weeks.

MONCTON AT A HOSPITAL

RECOVERING FROM SUNSTROKE RECEIVED WHILE IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Has Been in Presidio, Cal., Hospital Since June 22—He Was in the Army.

Reassuring word comes to the relatives in this city of George A. Moncton, of the Twenty-second Regiment, who has been lying at the Presidio, California, Hospital, since June 22. In a letter received here on Saturday, it was stated that the patient was doing well, although it was impossible to tell how soon he would be in condition to be discharged from the institution. He has been suffering from a sun stroke, experienced in the Philippines some time in April.

Monction will be remembered by many acquaintances in Plainfield. He enlisted at the beginning of the war with Spain, taking service with a Texan cavalry troop, with whom he saw active service in Cuba. At the close of hostilities, he entered the regular infantry at New York, and sailed with the Twenty-second for Manila. He was twice wounded in action, but his excellent physique enabled him to recover. He is of an athletic build and of a strong constitution. It is thus thought that his chances of surviving his present trouble are most promising.

Information as to Moncton's condition was secured through R. D. Nichols, the secretary of the Army and Navy Department of the California State committee of the Y. M. C. A., to whom inquiry was made by friends of the soldier here. A letter from the young man himself corroborates the expressed hope that he will soon be well enough to leave the hospital.

PLACES FOR PLEASURE.

Admirable Outing Places on the Sea Shore Reached by Jersey Central.

There is no section where recreation is more popularly enjoyed than at the sea shore. Thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands, will choose the sea shore to any other region for a day's outing or a prolonged stay, and it is not difficult to trace the cause. The broad expanse of water, the glittering sands, the exhilarating sniff of salt water, the hundred and one sports, the delights of a plunge into the surf, the palatable shore dinner and the general atmosphere of the shore are the attractions.

No where can one find more admirable outing places than those on the New Jersey coast reached by the New Jersey Central. Every point of renown including Monmouth, Normandie, Atlantic Highlands, Seabright, Long Branch, Ocean Grove, Asbury Park, Allenhurst, Spring Lake, Belmar, Barnegat, Beach Haven, Atlantic City, Ocean City, Cape May and a score of others are reached through the superb train service of the New Jersey Central, and each resort abounds with fine hotels and boarding houses.

A hotel list is published by the general passenger department of the New Jersey Central, Central Building, New York, and it's yours for the asking. Send a postal for it.

Aid for Netherwood Home.

Aid for the Netherwood Fresh Air Home is to be given by departments of the Park Avenue Baptist church. During this month, the Wednesday evening offerings will be devoted to Miss Curry's work, and Sunday morning a special collection will be undertaken in the Sunday-school for the same purpose.

Fred Casper, of Denver, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Frank Keller, of Harrison street.

Miss Frances T. Cose, of Grant avenue, is entertaining her cousin, Miss Dodd, of Bangor, Pa.

HOW JULY DIFFERED FROM OTHER MONTHS

The Most Remarkable Thing About Month Was Absence of Really Clear Days.

ONLY SEVEN RECORDED.

RAINFALL WAS REALLY BELOW THE NORMAL FIGURES.

And Most of What Fell Came in Storms of Two Days—Nothing Remarkable in the Temperature—Average Was 73.1 Degrees.

Poor conversationalists have found such a fertility of matter in the discussion of the weather of late that even those who are not compelled to resort to this ordinarily threadbare topic have agreed that atmospheric conditions for the past month have been quite worthy of comment. Consideration of the records for July, as taken from Sergeant Neagle's official complication, show that the claim has been fully justified.

Nothing remarkable has been shown in the way of temperature, although the extreme humidity made the days oppressive. The thermometer marked its highest with 94 degress on the 9th. The lowest was 51 degrees, on the 17th. The mean maximum was 83.1 and the mean minimum 63.1, making the average 73.1. In daily fluctuation of temperature, the greatest range for twenty-four hours was 36 degrees.

Contrary to general opinion, the rainfall for the month was far below the average, amounting to only 4.71, inches which is 1.27 below normal. During the past ten years, the amount has ranged from 13.92 in 1897 to 1.41 in 1894. Nearly half the total amount for July fell on the 24th and 25th, when two showers within twenty-four hours precipitated 2.04 inches.

As to the supposed preponderance of rainy days, it is shown that there were eighteen of the thirty-one, which is four above the average. On twelve of these there were thunder storms. Rain was threatened, however, during the greater part of the month, as only seven days were recorded as actually clear. Ten were cloudy and fourteen partly so, making the times of the sun's unsobscured appearance worthy of note by their infrequency.

To the latter cause may be ascribed the fact that the crop report is not of the best. Sergeant Neagle states that the hay crop was only one-third of what it should be, while wheat and rye ranged from 50 to 75 per cent. with a full quota of oats. Corn and tomatoes are rated good, apples scarce and peaches, fair.

A Burst of Magnificence.

That glorious and renowned region in which Mauch Chunk is located is as far famed as the country itself. In the heart of a beautiful mountain range, the Switchback railway leads to the summit of one of the highest peaks, where marvelous views are in every direction. The air is cool and delightful and one cannot but become intoxicated with the wondrous outlooks. This celebrated locality is located on the lines of the New Jersey Central, and on Sunday, August 10, there will be a popular $1.50 excursion to Mauch Chunk. Special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m., arriving at Mauch Chunk at about noon, and if you want a day of genuine enjoyment don't let this excursion pass. Switchback tickets are 50 cents extra.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

ALL WORK PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO.

WORKING ON NEW TROLLEY

LINE WHICH WILL CONNECT NEW BRUNSWICK AND TRENTON.

Claimed That Entire Line Will be Open by September 1, and Cars Run Every Half Hour.

Work upon the Trenton and New Brunswick Railroad Company's branch from the main line, at Trenton, east of Greenwood cemetery, to the intersection with the Trenton Street Railway Company's tracks at the entrance to the Interstate fair grounds is progressing nicely. Several hundred feet of the grading has been completed and ties have been distributed over the entire route.

This branch will be about 4,050 feet long and will not be the real Trenton terminus of the line, but rather the fair ground terminus.

The entire line is nearing completion, and will be ready for running by the first of September, it is expected.

Double poles have been used throughout for the stringing of the trolley wire and this will give a wide clearance on each side of the track and do away with all danger of coming in contact with a nearby trolley pole or fence.

No wire has been strung yet on the Trenton end of the road, but it will not be more than a month's work to do that counting in what has already been accomplished on the other end.

It is evidently the intention of the company to strike in towards the center of Trenton a little later as the track is now completed for more than 1,000 feet past the intersection with the branch line.

It was not intended, at first, to run the line to the fair grounds, but it was considered desirable afterward because of the travel during fair time, not only this year but in the future as well.

The company claims that it will be able to run the entire distance between the fair grounds and Milltown, about twenty-four miles, in an hour, because of the levelness and straightness of the track. Cars forty-five feet in length are to be used, and they will probably run about forty miles an hour or faster.

It was stated by one of the representatives of the company that cars will be run a half-hour apart, but it is more probable that they will be operated every hour during the fall and winter unless some unexpected traffic develops.

Without striking but one village in twenty-three miles, and that being Dayton, it is difficult to see where there will be enough traffic to warrant the half-hour schedule.

Men Will be Boys.

In the excitement of a lively exercise like boat-racing or ball-playing, they will strain their muscles and go home limping and sore. Then they are glad they have Perry Davis' Painkiller on hand to soothe the quivering nerves; to penetrate the muscles with warmth and healing power. It has relieved the pain of two generations of Americans. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

TROOPS KEEP PEACE

An Uneasy Feeling Prevails About Shenandoah.

ADDITIONAL MEN MAY BE CALLED OUT

Arrest and Commitment of Two Wounded Rioters Accomplished by Officers Under Strong Guard. Some Mines Are Started Up.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 6.—The peace of this troop protected town remains unbroken. The unsettled feeling which has been apparent for the last few days, however, continues.

Yesterday was a lively one at brigade headquarters, where all the staff officers were kept busy in connection with the movement of the troops and in keeping in touch with the situation in the entire county. There were many rumors of trouble; but, excepting at Girardville, where a workman was shot and slightly injured, nothing of a serious nature occurred anywhere. Brigadier General Gobin was unusually alert, however, and kept soldiers in readiness for instant use all day long. Many stories of threatened trouble reached him, but he was able in every instance to run them down without sending out a detail of men.

Officers around headquarters feel that the tension is increasing and would not be surprised if some of the troops now in camp here were sent into the surrounding region. The brigadier general says he will not send for additional men until there is need for them. It is not unlikely, however, that a battery and another troop of cavalry will be in the field by the end of the week.

Probably the most important development in the Shenandoah region was the arrest and commitment to the county jail of two wounded Lithuanians who participated in the riot of last Wednesday.

The arrests were attended with considerable show of military force, they being taken into custody by constables who were surrounded by a platoon of infantrymen and marched through the streets under a strong guard. The prisoners are Antony Klimovitz and Stanislaus Zukowsky. Each had been shot in the foot during the riot and was unable to walk. They were located in a boarding house in the heart of the foreign quarter of the town. The constables feared that trouble would ensue if they attempted to make the arrests themselves, and upon their suggestion General Gobin sent a platoon of Company I of the Twelfth regiment to protect them.

The soldiers formed a line around the house, and the two Lithuanians were carried from the house and placed in an open wagon. By this time a crowd of foreigners of different nationalities had gathered around the soldiers and followed them and the prisoners to the office of Squire W. H. Shoemaker, where the prisoners were given a hearing. While the hearing was in progress the platoon kept the crowd some distance from the place.

The three men were held in $2,000 bail each, and in default they were taken to the jail at Pottsville.

Three Collieries Opened.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 6.—The Dickson colliery of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad company in the Green region resumed operations yesterday with returned strikers. Superintendent Rose says the company has been cutting and loading coal at this mine for two weeks. The coal is now being hoisted and sent through the breaker. The company will not give out the number of men who are working. This makes three collieries now in operation in this city. The other two are the Oxford of the People's Coal company and the Cayuga of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western. Superintendent Tobey of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western said that his company will start up another colliery at once. The strikers are making no very serious effort to prevent men from working at these collieries.

The Mines Picketed.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 6.—Lest some of the coal companies might attempt to spring a surprise on the strikers and start up some of their mines pickets are stationed in the vicinity of nearly every colliery, but no attempt has yet been made to resume operations at any of the mines. At Nanticoke four men were arrested, charged with inciting a riot. It is alleged they interfered with the deputies in charge of one of the mines of the Susquehanna Coal company. The defendants were held in $500 bail each for trial at court. If the other companies were as alert as the Susquehanna, there would be many arrests. The officials of the company operating the Nanticoke mines say they intend to pursue every case where their men are interfered with.

All Needy Will Receive Aid.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 6.—From the Ninth United Mine Workers' district headquarters it is announced that hereafter all miners, whether they belong to the union or not, will receive financial aid. Idle nonunion men have in the past week been threatening to go to work unless they were aided by the union to buy provisions.

Wants Bigger College at Rome.

ROME, Aug. 6.—Rev. Dr. Thomas Kennedy of Philadelphia, rector of the American college at Rome, has left here for Naples and will sail for the United States Aug. 7. The principal object of Dr. Kennedy's visit to America is to appeal for funds for the enlargement of the college, for which purpose he has purchased all the houses in the block in which the college is situated.

Opportunities for Money Saving Grow Greater
WITH THE ADVENT OF AUGUST,

We made the month of July a period of splendid economic purchasing of the most desirable seasonable merchandise. The values presented were meritorious and the price cuts commensurate with our invariable policy. But we have determined that the month of August shall record extraordinary retailing of a nature to add fresh laurels to those already won. To that end we have inaugurated a sale of that permit of the most liberal money saving features that have ever been augmented by any establishment in the State. The Prices Attached are for This Sale Only. Your Interest Will be Doubly Quickened by Prompt Action.

THE SAMPLES represent the newest styles for the coming season's selling. They are advance patterns of innovations for Fall, and the lines now on our floors are exact patterns of what you will buy later, but not at sample sale prices. We sell as we buy, the saving accruing to our patrons.

THE DISCONTINUED STYLES are desirable in every sense. They portray patterns that have been carried in regular stock, the manufacture of which, however, has been discontinued.

CASTRO'S SCHEME.

President of Venezuela May Set Up Government In the West.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Aug. 6.—Four million cartridges and 10,000 Mauser rifles were received by President Castro last Saturday. Half of these arms and ammunition were deposited in Caracas, and the other half was sent to Maracaibo on a schooner.

This distribution of munitions of war is taken to be proof that if Castro's forces are beaten in the expected engagement with the revolutionists and if the president can escape he intends to prolong resistance and purposes to transport the headquarters of the government to San Cristobal, in the extreme western part of Venezuela, where he was born. This apparent decision on the part of President Castro has created a feeling of depression in commercial and financial circles.

The British cruiser Pallas has anchored in the La Guayra roadstead.

News has reached here from Venezuela that Barcelona, in the state of Bermudez, is at present being surrounded by revolutionists estimated to number 8,000 men, under the command of General Pietro. They demand the surrender of Barcelona. The government soldiers in the town number only 250 men, and it is not believed that they will offer resistance.

IN PORT AT LAST.

The Notice Drifted Helplessly For Many Days.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The fast Italian steamer Sardegna, from Genoa and Naples, arrived in port during yesterday with a small two masted schooner in tow. Captain Montana of the Sardegna said that he fell in with the schooner drifting about helplessly, with her decks crowded with people.

Running down near the disabled craft, she was found to be the American schooner Notice of Providence, R. I., from Brava, Cape Verde islands, for home with sixty-four persons on board. The mate of the Notice said that Captain Antonio Ramos had been lost overboard and was thought to have committed suicide.

The vessel was disabled and short of provisions. He asked for assistance. The steamer sent a boatload of provisions and took the schooner in tow and brought her to port.

Of the sixty-four passengers on board eleven were women. The people on board the Notice are all natives of the Cape Verde islands. They come here to join friends and find employment as laborers and fishermen.

Three Pensions; Entitled to None.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 6.—Richard Swinton of Milwaukee, who was admitted three months ago as an inmate of the Hampton (Va.) National Soldiers' home, has been arrested; charged with drawing three fraudulent pensions from the government under different names until an application for a fourth was filed and the fraud discovered. The prisoner, it is charged, was never in the Federal army, but served during the civil war with the Confederate forces.

DEMANDS REJECTED.

Strike Threatened on Manhattan Elevated Road.

GRAND MASTER ARTHUR SENT FOR.

Five Hundred Engineers and Motormen Ask For a Nine Hour Day, a Relay System and Other Important Concessions.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Vice President Skitt of the Manhattan Elevated railway gave to a committee of seven that called upon him, representing the 500 engineers and motormen of the road, a refusal of their request made two weeks ago for a nine hour day and other concessions.

When the company's reply became known among the men, there was immediate talk of a strike. The committee after leaving Mr. Skitt's office went at once to a telegraph office and sent the following message to P. M. Arthur, grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers:

"Come at once. Everything refused."

Chief Jenks of division No. 105 of the brotherhood says of the grievances:

"Since the introduction of motor cars into the service we have been compelled to make six round trips daily between One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street and South ferry, consuming ten hours and travelling on the average 108 miles a day. On the engines we never made more than five trips, and four and a half was the usual number. The company claims that the motor cars being faster we should be able to make the additional trip. They also say that the strain on us in running the electric trains is less. The first statement may be true, but the second is not. We are under just as great a strain as we were on the engines. We are willing to make five trips a day in nine hours and no more. We also want a relay system that will give each man a chance to get a bite to eat and a few minutes to himself at the end of each run."

Grand Master Arthur is expected to arrive tomorrow.

Rumors About Edward Not So.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The emphatic denials of the sinister rumors of King Edward's condition are confirmed by all persons who have recently visited his majesty. The king will land at Portsmouth and entrain for London at half past 3 o'clock this afternoon, and his train is due to arrive in London at half past 5. His drive to Buckingham palace will be by an extended route instead of the direct way in order that the public may have an opportunity to see and congratulate the sovereign. The king has commanded that coronation day and the anniversary of his coronation be observed as "collar day," a day of ceremony at the English court when the courtiers wear the collars of their orders.

Indians Sue Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Thlechumi Fixico, Gosofixico Chee, Ufoula Horigo and James L. Gray, representing themselves as agents and delegates of the Creek Indian tribe in Indian Territory, have brought suit to enjoin Secretary Hitchcock and Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones from proceeding in execution of what is known as the Creek agreement for allotments, etc. They ask to be allowed to remain in undisturbed enjoyment of their landed interests and that such property as already has been taken from them under the agreement and the ratifying act be restored to them and an accounting made to them by the government.

To Follow Dowie.

CLAYTON, N. J., Aug. 6.—D. Wilson Moore, the wealthy glass manufacturer of this place and who has heretofore been a pillar in the local Presbyterian church, announced that he would renounce that faith and devote his time in the future to the cause of the doctrine preached by John Alexander Dowie, the healer and high priest of the Christian Catholic church of Zion. It is not yet known whether he intends to place his great wealth at the disposition of Dowie or not.

Office of Oldest Postmaster Robbed.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The office of the oldest postmaster in the United States has been robbed. It is that of Postmaster Roswell Beardsley of North Lansing, near this city. Mr. Beardsley is ninety-three years old and has been postmaster since 1828, but this is the first loss of the sort he has sustained. Stamps and postal cards to the amount of $50 were removed from the office. No clew was left by the burglars.

Diavolo Falls Again.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Diavolo, the American bicyclist, sustained a terrible fall just after turning the loop in his act at the Aquarium last night. He was taken to Westminster hospital unconscious and is believed to have concussion of the brain. Diavolo's act was "looping the loop." This is the third time he has fallen while performing this feat in the last ten days.

WHAT BECAME OF IT?

That there is a possibility of Plainfiled becoming interested in the subject of municipal ownership of water works was made evident at the meeting of the Common Council, Monday evening. While the subject did not come up at all in open session, it was discussed at the caucus during the recess and was, for some unaccountable reason, held back. Previous to the meeting it was the intention of Councilman Lee to introduce a resolution providing that the city take advantage of the law which compells a water company to give a city in which its plant is located a price on that same plant. Had the resolution been sprung as was intended, it certainly would have made considerable of a sensation.

When the special committee, appointed by the Common Council to consider the question of a water supply for the city and the advisibility of renewing the contract with the Plainfield Water Supply Company, made its report and recommended that the city accept the offer of the water company and sign a new contract, it was generally supposed that municipal ownership of a water plant, as far as Plainfield was concerned, was very dead and not likely to be heard of again for some time to come. So this last move of Councilman Lee's was decidedly in the nature of a surprise.

There can be no doubt, however, that such a resolution, if passed by the Common Council, would meet the general approval of the people of Plainfiled. It does not commit the city to any action. It simply serves to find out what the water supply plant would cost, should the city desire to go into the business for itself. It would enable the city officials to figure with much more exactness a comparison of the cost of city ownership and the expense when provided by a corporation. The latter side has been made public. It would now be interesting to hear just what municipal ownership would mean.

It is sincerely to be hoped that Mr. Lee's resolution has not met an untimely death. It was an excellent idea on his part and the idea is worth while carrying out. He should have the co-operation of all his fellow councilmen. It would not bind the city to any action and there might be some interesting information as a result of it.

The Republicans of the Fourth Congressional district have selected their candidate for the seat in Congress for the seat in Congress for which they will vote in November. At the convention held in Flemington, yesterday, Judge Lanning was chosen as everybody expected. Somerset had talked something of trying to give the honor to Former Chancery Clerk L. A. Thompson but his candidacy was not seriously considered outside of his more enthusiastic friends and Mr. Thompson gracefuly retired from the contest declaring Judge Lanning his choice. As Mercer county happened to have a large majority of the delegates, its candidate went through without a suggestion of real object. The Hunterdon county delegates cast a complimentary vote for one of Flemington's best citizens and then fell into line with the rest.

Until last Saturday, the games of the City Baseball League had been remarkably free from disputes among the players. That day, the Safe Works team was withdrawn from the field on account of a dispute over a decision of the umpire. Such incidents are greatly to be deplored. It is far better to play the game out under protest and not disappoint the audience which had assembled to see the game. Saturday also saw a decided improvement among the rooters who follow the Hope Y. M. A. team. The personalities were eliminated. It is sincerely to be hoped that those remarks, which have been very unpleasant features of a few games, will disappear for good.

Mayor N. B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, appeared before the members of the Common Council, last evening, with the request that the city continue the good work done by the borough and finish the widening of Somerset street from the brook, which is the dividing line between the two municipalities, to Front street. No action was taken on the request but Mayor Smalley is hopeful that it will be granted. It is certainly the city's duty to make the change and assist the borough in the wonderful improvement which it has made to that thoroughfare.

The barber who committed suicide at Westfield Saturday evening, followed the example of many Roman citizens who thus took fate in their own hands. With much deliberateness, he opened an artery in his left wrist and allowed the blood to flow in a basin while he reclined on the bed. There are few suicides who have the nerve to go about it so deliberately.

It seems only a question of time before the grade crossings at Dunellen will disappear as have similar crossings in other places along the line of the Jersey Central. Deaths of the nature of the one which occurred at Dunellen, Saturday, will ultimately bring about such a change, although as in this case the railroad was not to blame.

The head of a well known baking powder company began business in a small way with a firm belief that advertising is the sure and most direct source of success, relates the Philadelphia Record. By paying as much attention to advertising as to any other part of his business he became deservedly rich.

Frequent thunder showers are always to be expected at this season of the year but the present summer appears to have been more than favored by vivid electrical displays. Strange to say, however, the lightning, although unusually sharp, has been not as destructive as usual.

William Jennings Bryan recently made a trip through New Jersey and, if the reports of the newspapers are to be believed, he behaved strikingly like any other citizen and attracted but little more attention.

It is still an open question as to who will win in the City Baseball League. It certainly looks now, however, as if it would be either the Y. M. C. A. or the Hope Y. M. A.

Many Will Attend.

Local Methodists find a source of attraction in the annual session of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, to be held at Mt. Tabor tomorrow. A number from Plainfield will attend and enjoy the excellent programme which has been prepared for the occasion.

SUMMER SOCIAL.

Pleasing Programme Rendered at German Reformed Last Night.

Most successful was the social and entertainment given last night in the German Reformed church. A very pleasing programme was carried out. Recitations were delivered by Miss Clara Allen, Miss Lizzie Betzold, Miss Anna Bach, and a recitation, "Germania," by August Bach. Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Anna Boss, accompanied by Miss Katie Bach, Miss Sorensen, accompanied by Miss Anna Bartlau and Fred Tallamy, accompanied by Miss L. Eisenmann. Misses Anna R. Bartlau and Elizabeth Bartlau gave a piano duet, and Mrs. Henry Angerbauer and Miss L. Eisenmann rendered several piano solos. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Engagement Announced.

Society notes announce the engagement of Miss M. Adelaide Runyon, daughter of Mrs. J. C. Runyon, of Plainfield, to Lieutenant Gerald Ollif, U. S. N., who is now stationed at Newport, R. I. The marriage will take place in September.

Picnicked on Mountain.

Chaperoned by Mrs. F. R. Stevens, a party of twelve young women picnicked at the foot of the mountain, near Somerset street, Saturday afternoon. The affair was arranged by Miss Beatrice Miner and Miss Jessie Stevens.

THEIR LATEST MARK.

Burglars Are Finding Somerville a Good Field for Their Labors.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 6—Petty burglars seem to be making this town a mark for their fine work nowadays. Yesterday morning the home of Jacob Klawe was broken into and thoroughly ransacked. The robbers effected an entrance by prying up a window. After eating a square meal they took the contents of two children's pocketbooks, containing about 75 cents, and a gold watch belonging to James Collier, who boards with the Klawe family. The occupants of the house knew nothing of thieves' visit until they saw the disordered rooms the next morning.

This is only one of the many houses that have been broken into here the past month or so.

Freight Cars Wrecked.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 6—A mixed freight train on the Port Reading Railroad parted just east of this place, yesterday morning, and came together again near the bridge spanning the Green brook. One large coal car went off the bridge into the brook, three others rolled down the embankment and a freight car was telescoped. One car was loaded with fire brick and the others were empty. No one was injured.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening in Whittier School. No business of much importance was transacted. It was decided to open the public schools September 2. The text book and supply committee made its recommendations for the year. The board also received a letter from County Superintendent Willis commending its action in opening the school library to the public. Some bids for next winter's school supplies were received but were laid on the table.

While playing around the guild room of Holy Innocents church Saturday afternoon little Dorothy Garrabrandt started to pet a dog belonging to Mrs. Emma Nelson. The dog evidently took the movement for a hostile one as he turned and caught the child by the nose inflicting a painful wound. The bite was dressed and no serious effects are feared.

Funeral serivces were held yesterday afternoon over the remains of little Joseph Greenhouse who was killed on the railroad last Staurday. Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel, officiated.

Letters remain uncalled for at the postoffice this week for Mrs. L. G. Brown, Wm. Hart and H. Sarberry.

J. L. Peters and wife returned yesterday from a few days' vacation at Rockaway Beach.

Miss Martha Whitenack, of Somerville, spent yesterday at the home of W. J. Hamilton.

Walter Runyon has purchased a new horse for use in his livery business.

Miss Lulu Gise left this morning for Clinton where she will visit friends.

Rev. S. K. Doolittle is spending a few weeks vacation at Mt. Tabor.

Mr. W. J. Hamilton is spending today with friends in Somerville.

Russel Runyon is spending a few days with out of town friends.

The Juniors met last evening and transacted routine business.

The brass band will meet for practice this evening as usual.

Adam Dealaman is spending a few days at Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Peter Apgar is improving from her recent illness.

NEW MARKET.

A large crowd from here went to the fire at Frank Nelson's place last evening and assisted in saving the stock and farm materials.

Prayer meeting will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church. Rev. Frank Fletcher will lead.

C. P. Ross, of Plainfield, spent yesterday fishing on the lake. He did not meet with much success, however.

Henry Garretson and son, of Dunellen, spent this morning at his farm in Piscataway.

The regular meeting of Friendship Social Circle will be held this afternoon.

A party from Plainfield spent yesterday picnicking on the lake.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The local fans will probably see two new faces in the local baseball ranks in the game Saturday afternoon with the Roselle Field Club. Manager Johnston is on a still hunt for a pitcher to help relieve Harvey in the box, and a short stop to fill the vacancy in the team made by the loss of Chick Crusius, who has gone with the Rockville Centers of Long Island.

The members of the several Sunday-schools in town and their friends who went with them all report having spent a delightful day at the shore yesterday. Not an accident happened to mar the pleasure of any. The second section of the excursion landed at Fanwood shortly after 8 o'clock.

Isaac Ryno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ryno, of Park avenue, and Miss Sadie Woodruff, of Westfield, were quietly married Saturday evening at Westfield. Mr. and Mrs. Ryno are making their home for the present with Mr. Ryno's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Lee have returned from Paterson where they have been attending the funeral of Mr. Lee's mother, who died at Easton, Pa., Saturday.

Mrs. Sarah Cockrane and daughter, Miss Katie, who have been visiting at the home of Miss Susie Parse, have returned to their home in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Fales, of Bayonne, has been spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Frentz, of Westfield avenue.

Wm. B. Noble is enjoying a two weeks' vacation from his duties at the Nassau National Bank, of New York city.

Miss Cecilia Day, who has been spending a week with friends in town, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company will hold its regular monthly meeting in its rooms tonight.

There will be dancing at Ivamy's pavillion tonight, music by Naylor's full orchestra.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

William Elliot, aged ninety-three years, died at his home at Samptown yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He had been ill for ten days with dysentery, and had been confined to his bed the last two days. The deceased is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Carman, of Bound Brook, and Mrs. Jesse Dayton, of Piscataway; two sons, Walter and Richard, both of this place, and a widow. A private funeral will be held at the home Friday afternoon. Rev. J. A. Cubberley will officiate. Interment will be made at Hillside cemetery, South Plainfield.

A large blaze in Piscataway last night was noticed here and caused considerable excitement. This morning it was learned that the scene of the fire was at Frank Nelson's where all his barns and out-buildings were destroyed.

James H. Cubberley left on the Black Diamond Express this afternoon for Scranton, where he will make a visit with his brother, Claude.

The Middlesex Water Company is building a small store house here in which to store pipes and tools.

Miss Laura Manning has returned home after a week's stay at Asbury Park.

St. Gabriel's Academy.

Attention is directed to the advertisement in another column of St. Gabriel's Academy, corner of Jackson and Watchung avenues. This institution will open Monday, Sept. 8. The course of studies is very complete, embracing all branches requisite for a refined education.

No Meetings During August.

At the regular business meeting of the Reform Club, held last evening, it was decided to discontinue all meetings of the club during August. A committee was appointed to secure a temperance evangelist to hold a series of meetings in the fall.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The gospel temperance meeting at the W. C. T. U. Sunday afternoon was one of the most interesting held in a long time. William Lunger conducted the services and his remarks were very helpful and inspiring to the many present.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

OLD BOUND BROOK MAN GONE

CORNELIUS W. LATOURETTE CAME FROM OLD COLONIAL STOCK.

Died in Historic Old Mansion, Near Bound Brook—Funeral Held Yesterday Afternoon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Aug. 6—The funeral of Cornelius W. LaTourette, aged eighty-eight, was held from his late residence yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. T. E. Davis, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated, assisted by Rev. J. B. Cleaver. The remains were interred in the Bound Brook cemetery. The deceased is mourned by his aged wife, to whom he was married in 1845, and by his only son, Eugene DuBois, who is adjuster for the Home Insurance Company, New York.

The deceased was a son of Judge John LaTourette, and was born in Bound Brook, where he has spent all his life, with the exception of a few years in California during the gold excitement of 1849. Upon his return from California he became secretary of the Somerset Steam Saw Mill Company, which furnished the timber for the first bridge built by the Central Railroad over Newark Bay and also for many piers in New York.

Mr. LaTourette has lived a retired life for many years in the old homestead, which was built by Mrs. LaTourette's grandfather, Abraham Staats, a noted patriot during the Revolution, and one of the four men to whom Lord Howe refused to grant amnesty. General Steuben occupied this house during the time the American Army was encamped in this vicinity, and General Washington and other distinguished men were frequent visitors.

Mr. LaTourette retained his faculties to the last and just before he died called his family to his bedside, bade them all farewell and said he hoped to meet them in the Promised Land.

In politics Mr. LaTourette was an ardent Democrat. He never held office, although often urged by his friends to do so. He was one of the oldest members of the Presbyterian church.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Passengers on the 11 o'clock trolley to Scotch Plains, Sunday morning, were witnesses to a most astonishing exhibition of deliberativeness on the part of the motorman. It was just at the time the heavy storm was approaching and everyone was anxious to reach his or her destination, with the exception of the man in front of the car. After the ingoing trolley had passed him on the East Second street switch, he cooly removed the coverings from a bundle he had near him and a coat, vest, socks, boots and rain coat were revealed. He then coolly proceeded to divest himself of the corresponding articles of clothing he had on and array himself in the others. The change required fully five minutes and during that time there was one continuous wail of anguish and series of howls from the load of passengers but the motorman did not even design to look in their direction. When the discarded clothes had been packed up, he gazed smilingly at the lowering clouds and resumed his trip, confident that he, at least, was fortified against rain.

WHITE HAS RESIGNED

American Embassador to Germany Soon to Quit Post.

TO TAKE EFFECT, IT IS SAID, NOV 7

Tower at St. Petersburg and Storer at Madrid Mentioned In Connection With Appointment of Successor.

BERLIN, Aug. 6. — Embassador White mailed his resignation to the United States several days ago, and it may now be in the hands of President Roosevelt. The date set by the embassador for his resignation to go into effect was Nov. 7. He is now at Homburg, where he is taking the waters and where he probably will remain till the end of the month.

There is much gossip at Berlin concerning Mr. White's probable successor, and one circumstantial story is that the president intends to transfer Embassador Tower from St. Petersburg to Berlin, Minister Storer from Spain to be embassador to Russia and to appoint Henry White, secretary of embassy at London, minister to Spain. Mr. Tower, who has been dissatisfied with St. Petersburg, expressed months ago a wish to be transferred to some other equally desirable post, preferably Berlin.

Andrew D. White was appointed embassador to Germany April 1, 1897. In March last it was announced that he contemplated resigning because of ill health.

Not Unexpected.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—No information has been received at the state department indicating that Embassador White had resigned, but the announcement was not unexpected, as a report was current some time ago that he would retire from public life upon reaching his seventieth birthday. Several gentlemen in the diplomatic service have been mentioned in connection with the Berlin embassy should Embassador White retire, the most prominent being Dr. David Jayne Hill, now first assistant secretary of state, and Hon. Bellamy Storer, at present minister to Spain.

Tracy Leaves a Note.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 6.—The sheriff's office at Davenport received a message from Breston stating that Harry Tracy spent all day Monday at the home of L. B. Eddy, a rancher, on Lake creek, 3½ miles south of Fellows. The outlaw made his appearance Sunday evening and took possession of the place. Pinned to the well on a farm about a mile north of Odessa, where apparently Tracy had watered his horses, the following note, signed "Harry Tracy," has been found: "To whom it may concern: Tell Mr. Cudihee to take a tumble and let me alone or I will fix him plenty. I will be on my way to Wyoming. If your horses are any good, would swap with you. Thanks for a cool drink."

Great Salt Lake Drying Up.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 6.—Great Salt lake, which for several years has been slowly but steadily receding, has, according to Director Murdock of the United States weather bureau, now reached the lowest level recorded since observations have been taken by the department. Up to Aug. 1 the lowest mark ever recorded was on July 11. Since that time the lake has receded four inches. The fall of the water since 1894 amounts to nearly six feet, and on the low, flat eastern shore this has resulted in a recession of the water line during that time of fully three-quarters of a mile.

Firmin Sets Up Government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The state department has received a cablegram from Minister Powell at Port au Prince, Haiti, stating that General Firmin on the 4th inst. set up a new government and denominated it the provisional government of Artivorite and Northwest and proclaimed himself president, Killick secretary of war and navy, Bourand secretary of the treasury, Henrignez foreign affairs, St. Louis public works, Chicoye interior and Lamour agriculture.

Miraculous Restoration of Sight.

DENVER, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Sarah Nessler of this city, who has been blind for seven years and whose case was pronounced incurable by oculists, claims to have recovered her eyesight in a miraculous manner. She says that while praying at a revival meeting of the Holiness sect at the Pentecostal union a white light broke upon her eyes, and soon she was able to distinguish objects. Her vision, she declares, is now nearly as good as it was before she became blind.

Gambling on Ocean Steamer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—There was poker playing for high stakes on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on its last trip, according to a passenger who refused to give his name. Something like $11,000 changed hands in one night, so this passenger said, and finally the game was stopped by a spectator, who accused four men of cheating. The ship's officers refused to discuss the matter.

Timothy L. Woodruff Returns.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Lieutenant Governor Timothy Woodruff, accompanied by Mrs. Woodruff and their son John, who is a junior at Yale, has returned on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse from a four months' tour of continental Europe.

Colorado Forest Fire Checked.

ESTES PARK, Colo., Aug. 6.—The forest fire south of Long's peak has been considerably checked. Three hundred thousand feet of timber are reported to have been destroyed.

HAD FORTY-SEVEN TRUNKS.

Mrs. Spreckels' Baggage From Paris Causes a Sensation.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The arrival of Mrs. C. A. Spreckels of San Francisco was an interesting feature of the end of the trip of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse.

For more than an hour steamship company employees labored to get her baggage out of the hold and off the ship.

She had forty-seven trunks and thirty pieces of hand baggage. Nearly all of the trunks were new, and all were marked "C. A. S., Paris."

Four of Mrs. Spreckels' maids remained on the pier to unpack the trunks for the custom house men.

Women crowded ten deep around the maids, and as trunk after trunk was opened a chorus of feminine exclamations went up.

No free show of beautiful gowns has ever been given in this city to compare with the display of the gowns of Mrs. Spreckels. Each was a magnificent creation.

THE GALICIAN STRIKES.

Trouble Among Peasants Said to Be Spreading.

VIENNA, Aug. 6.—The strike of Galician peasants is at present spreading to districts which have hitherto not been affected, and there have been many conflicts between the peasants and the military. A detachment of uhlans attacked 500 peasants at Pothering. Many of the latter were wounded, and the soldiers made 173 arrests. The prisoners were confined overnight, densely overcrowded, in a stable and taken to jail the next day in a fainting condition, not having tasted food in twenty-four hours.

Three Ruthenian members of the chamber of deputies have protested in this matter to Dr. von Koerber, the Austrian premier, declaring the peasants to be indifferent whether they die at the hands of drunken gendarmes, brutal soldiers or the legal executioner. This protest alleges that officials are siding with the landlords instead of acting as mediators in the trouble.

Grand Circuit Races.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 6.—The second day of the grand circuit was rather tame. Direct Hal and the Roman repeated their wins of earlier in the season, both getting their races easily. The only excitement came in the first heat of the 2.24 pace, when there was a collision on the first turn, the drivers of King Charles and Grasshopper being unseated. Grasshopper made the circuit of the track without a driver, but King Charles was stopped. Cooper, who drove the former, was not hurt, but Maloney, the owner of King Charles, got a black eye and a badly skinned cheek.

Funeral of William Clark.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 6.—The funeral of William Clark, the multimillionaire thread manufacturer of this city and Scotland, took place yesterday from the North Reformed church. It was one of the largest funerals ever held here, friends of the deceased having come from their summer homes in all parts of the east to be present. Conspicuous in the throng were Governor Murphy, Senator Dryden, former Senator Smith, Congressman Parker and ex-Mayor Lebkeucher, who were part of the board of trade delegation.

The Pacific Cable.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—S. S. Dickinson, superintendent of the Commercial Cable company in Nova Scotia, who has been in Hawaii for some time past making arrangements for the landing of the company's proposed Pacific cable at that point, has just arrived here on the steamer Sierra. He states that the cable will land at Waikiki, on a strip purchased for $5,000, a part of which is known as the Sans Souci property, where Robert Louis Stevenson lived during his sojourn in Hawaii.

PRESIDENT'S EASTERN TRIP.

A Request That No Public Receptions Be Held.

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—The secretary to the president, Mr. Cortelyou, has telegraphed to Senator Lodge and Senator Hoar that the president will reach Boston on Saturday, Aug. 23, late in the afternoon and will go at once to Nahant, where he will pass Sunday with Senator Lodge. The next morning the president will go to Newport, making ten minute stops at Taunton and Fall River. He will return from Newport the same day, reaching Boston about 8 o'clock, where he will be received by the governor, the mayor and the Boston congressmen.

Tuesday morning he will go via the Boston and Maine to New Hampshire, making fifteen minute stops at Lowell, South Lawrence and Haverhill. After a week in Maine and New Hampshire, he will return to Massachusetts on Monday, Sept. 1, reaching Northfield late that afternoon. He will pass the night at Northfield and will leave at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 2, arriving at Miller's Falls at 8:50; leave at 9 a. m. and arrive at Fitchburg 10:40, leaving at 11:40.

He will arrive at Worcester, where he goes to see Senator Hoar, at 12:40 p. m. and will leave at 3 p. m. He will arrive at Westfield at 6:30 p. m. and leave Westfield at 6:50 p. m. either for Dalton, where it is hoped he may go to pass the night with Governor Crane, or for New Haven.

Mr. Cortelyou states that it is the president's desire that there shall be no public receptions held anywhere. The president will speak briefly at the various points indicated, but will hold no receptions of any kind.

REVOLUTIONISTS SHOT.

Colombian Generals Had Been Tried by Court Martial.

PANAMA, Aug. 6.—The revolutionary generals Antonio Suarez Lacroiz and Juan Vidal and Colonel Julian Locama, who were sentenced to death by a court martial composed of government representatives, have been killed by shooting at Barrigona camp, which is situated between Honda and Ambalema, on the Magdalena river. Other revolutionists were condemned by the same court to various terms of imprisonment, the longest of which is for twenty-five years.

General Salazar, governor of Panama, has received a telegram from the Colombian minister of war, General Aristides Fernandez, saying the recent amnesty decree issued by the president of the republic, under which all the constitutional guarantees were granted to those revolutionists who surrendered within a specified time, has resulted in making a few members of the Liberal party believe in the weakness of the government.

At Palima a band of revolutionists refused to submit to the government, and General Perdomo, with a strong force, was sent against them. The government soldiers surrounded the revolutionists and after a hard resistance the latter were captured.

Cuban Senate Passes Loan Bill.

HAVANA, Aug. 6.—The senate has passed the bill, which had already been discussed and approved in part, to empower the executive to raise a loan of $4,000,000 at the minimum price of 90 and at the maximum rate of interest of 5 per cent payable in thirty years, to be used to assist the sugar cane growers of the island. This bill includes authorization to raise within six months another loan of $35,000,000 to include the first loan. This second loan is to be used to pay the Cuban revolutionary army and the debts of the revolution referred to in the constitution. Some changes in the original draft of the bill regarding security have been made.

Expulsion of Sisters Goes On.

PARIS, Aug. 6.—The expulsion of the sisters from their schools continues in the provinces. They are in most cases conducted without trouble, but a few instances of disorder have been recorded, mostly from Brittany and Savoie. At Regny, Loire, near Macon, the gendarmes were compelled to break in a school door with axes. At Ravoire, near Chambery, Savoie, the police found the school defended by a rampart of stones. Masons were summoned to demolish the wall. The assembled crowd threatened to kill them if they did so, and the masons declined to work.

Chinese Ground Down by Taxes.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6.—General Sharretts, the special American tariff commissioner, was given a banquet here last night. In the course of an address he said the Chinese people were ground to the verge of penury by the taxation necessary to meet the obligations of the central government and that, individually and unofficially, he was opposed to the abolition of the likin and the substitution of a sur tax, which, General Sharretts said, would prove disastrous to all nations and especially to the United States.

Baldwin Denies Sensational Reports.

TROMSO, Norway, Aug. 6.—In an interview Evelyn B. Baldwin, the arctic explorer, who arrived at Honningsvaag Aug 1 on board the America, said that the alleged trouble between himself and Captain Johannsson of the America is grossly exaggerated. He characterized the reports of trouble as a cheap sensation and said there has been no deaths on board the America during her trip.

Brakeman Killed; Four Hurt.

PEEBLES, O., Aug. 6.—In a freight wreck on the Norfolk and Western near here Brakeman Foley was killed and four other trainmen were seriously hurt. Harvey Norman, brakeman, will die, and the condition of John McArthur, conductor, is critical.

STYLISH TRIMMINGS.

Taffeta Bands For Muslin Gowns. Lace the Ideal Ornamentation.

A new idea in trimming muslins and batiste gowns is the use of taffeta bands. They are straight or curved at the edges and scattered with embroidered polka dots. The taffeta may be white or some delicate color. One band is placed at the hem and another between waist and hem, curving up in the back. The bodice usually is outlined at the yoke with an applique pattern of this.

Lace forms, of course, the ideal summer trimming. Jaunty little coats made of lace are quite cut away in front to show the waist and fasten with a band of chine ribbon, which passes under the arms and is caught with art nouveau enameled clasps. The sleeves reach to a little below the elbow and are slit to above the bend of the arm.

Some of the neatest street parasols are made of white silk, hemstitched around the edge. The silk is often embroidered in polka dots or small figures, and the handles are of wood.

A pretty blue muslin is the subject of the sketch. The waist is made with a very original arrangement in the shape of a frilled bolero and a wide satin collar. The sleeves are finished with frills. The skirt is laid in fine perpendicular tucks and has a graduated flounce finished with three narrow frills.

DETAILS OF DRESS.

Neck Boas Are Made to Go With Each Costume.

The tulle bow at the back of the neck is not seen so much on gowns this summer.

Boas of every description are the rage this summer. They come in chiffon, dotted and plain; net, feathers, chenille, ribbon, and crepe de chine in all the delicate shades as well as black and white. White dotted net trimmed with black and white ribbon is very pretty. The chenille boas are usually of black, trimmed with white chiffon or white satin ribbon. Some are small, while others reach to the bottom of the gown. The newest are composed of one or more wide ruffles, which lie flat on the shoulders and gradually taper as they reach the ends.

Many of the handsomest boas are made of lace.

A very dainty cape ruffle is the subject of our sketch. It is made of wide lace gathered very full in two rows, and it is ornamented with a spray of natural looking pink roses. The hat which goes with this is of pink chiffon trimmed with small pink roses and black velvet.

CHAPTER III.

THE BLIND BEGGAR.

Barnett peered around, but could see no one. There were persons passing along the road beyond, but this sound came from near at hand. He was about to return to the book he had been reading a moment before, when he heard the sound repeated.

"Look up, please," said a low voice. Then he saw a man perched in the old apple tree near his window. He had never thought of looking there for anyone.

For a moment the two men regarded each other. Barnett, for the life of him, could not remember ever having seen that grizzled face before.

"I don't know you," he said, at length, thinking that the man in the tree might be a newspaper reporter, or a curious-minded fellow who was bent on getting a look at such a dangerous character.

"No, I know you don't know me," replied the other, calmly, never taking his eyes off the young school-teacher's face.

"What do you want?"

"To do you a service."

"But, if you don't know me, what possible interest——" began Barnett, and yet there was an earnestness about the man in the tree that fixed his attention.

"You are in a close corner, young man," said the stranger.

"Did you come here to tell me that?"

"No. I am going to save you, if I can, and I am pretty sure that I can."

"But I can save myself."

"I sincerely wish you could, my boy, but it may be a long and tedious operation, and I think I may be able to oil the wheels of justice."

Barnett stared at the stranger, wondering what sort of a man he had to deal with, and why a man he never saw should take such an interest in his case.

"Who are you?" he asked, bluntly.

"As I said before, I am a man simply who is ready and able, I think, to do you a good turn. What my name is don't matter just now. You know that there is quite a pile of circumstantial evidence against you?"

"Yes, so it seems."

"With a foundation to build on, they may erect a pyramid that will crush you."

"You think so?" for there was an earnestness about the stranger that did not fail to make an impression on the school-teacher.

"Now, justice seldom miscarries to the extent of hanging an innocent man, but you may have a good deal of trouble before you clear yourself of the charge."

Barnett's face became grave. He was beginning to realize that what the stranger told him must be true, and that his position was fraught with peril.

"There; I didn't come here to depress you, but, rather, to cheer you up, my boy—to point out that you must not treat the matter carelessly. I wanted, too, to make your acquaintance."

Was the man mad? Barnett wondered, but he dismissed the idea as absurd, for the stranger spoke sensibly enough, and his eyes were clear and bright. Well, he was not so burdened with friends that he could afford to refuse the friendly offices of even a stranger. Perhaps the man was a type of those eccentrics that spring up often when a crime is committed, and lend sympathy and funds to the cause they have espoused.

The fellow might do some good, since he spoke so confidently; at least, he could do no harm. Let this eccentric person have his will, if it amused him.

"You don't seem to be much of a prisoner, with nothing but those wooden bars between you and liberty," remarked the stranger. "A good wrench, and out they would come."

"As far as I am concerned, they shall remain as they are," said Barnett. "I have many privileges here that I should lose if I tried to escape, so I shall just let matters run along as they are, confident that, as I am innocent, I need have no fear."

"And what of her?"

The young man cast an inquisitorial look at him.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean Grace—Miss Ellison, I should say. She knows, of course, what has taken place."

"You know her, then?" feeling a fresh interest in the unknown.

"No, I don't know her, but it is possible that I may see her, if there is any message that I can carry to her coming from you."

"Man, if you do that, I am your friend for life!" exclaimed the young school-teacher. "Just wait and I will jot down a few words," and he turned hastily away from the window.

"Make haste!" called the other, in a loud whisper.

Barnett, filled with a desire to set down the thoughts that had been uppermost in his mind since the tragedy, had no trouble in making a start on his letter. To be quick and concise was another thing. Though his pen dashed over the paper, a warning "Hist!" was a notice to draw the epistle to a close. He folded it, and, without stopping to set down the address, went back to the window and passed it to the stranger by tying it to the end of a poker which happened to be standing by the fireplace.

"You will be sure and deliver it?" he said, earnestly, wondering if he was doing right in trusting the note to a man he had seen for the first time in his life.

"Deliver it? To be sure I will, unless I should happen to have an accident that would lay me up. Hush! Go back! There is some one coming!" he whispered, warningly, and then suddenly dropped out of the tree and disappeared among some bushes on the other side of the garden.

"A queer character, that," muttered Barnett, as he watched the small man disappear, and noted that he was very agile for a man of his years. "Well, he managed to cheer me up, and I relished his visit. How did he manage to get into that tree in broad daylight without being seen, I wonder? Evidently it is not the first time that he has had occasion to make a surreptitious call. I should not be sorry to see the old fellow again."

The subject of these remarks had wriggled his way through the densely growing bushes, just as the village constable came around from the front of the house with a party of friends. Job Hendricks, for such was the name the stranger had given to the innkeeper, peering over the top of the hedge, grinned and wagged his gray head. "Ah, there's an ideal keeper of a prisoner. I wish there had been one of his kind way back in the past. It might have changed everything."

BASEBALL, ROWING AND BILLIARDS

Gossip of Three Popular Sports for Those Who Are Interested.

Professional baseball lost a character whose individuality was as pronounced as that of Capt. Anson, Fred Pfeffer, John Ward, "Jimmy" Ryan, "T" Donohue or any of the leading lights of the diamond, when John "Biddy" McPhee was deposed as manager of the Cincinnati Reds a short time ago. More than a decade "Biddy" played second-base in the fastest company and made friends among fans and players. His popularity was a matter of national comment. Soon after the mighty Fred Pfeffer, who used to be called the "king of second-basemen," began to find his hands were larger and more awkward than they used to be and a film began to come over his batting eye, so to speak, McPhee began to show signs of "has beenism" at his keystone position in the infield. Sickness followed, and the old player, like his famous rival for premier honors, Pfeffer, saw his baseball career as an active member of a team, come to a close.

Pfeffer made an attempt to keep, under the limelight and had to fall back upon the inevitable position of a great player who has become too stiff to cavort in his old place on the diamond—the minor league managerial berth. McPhee, too, figured that he would have to take an excursion ticket for other pastures.

But the fans set up a clamor for "Biddy" to act as manager of his old team, and John T. Brush, quick to read the public pulse, gave McPhee the responsibility of piloting the Reds in the National league. For one season McPhee found more or less harmony in the camp. But jealousies began to crop out, the team lost good players, and the manager seemed to be shorn of some of his power. Because at times the Reds played as if they were in the big league to fatten up the percentages of rivals and because the management was discouraged by the failure of the public to fill its elegant new stands—the best in the United States—it was thought that popular McPhee would have to walk the plank. And walk he did after a deal had been fixed whereby Joe Kelley, the former Brooklyn and Baltimore leader, had been signed to take his place.

There is something in the wind that blows over the Thames on the Berks shore at Henley that makes American contestants in the famous regatta forget defeat, and stimulates them into saying the first thing they get out of a beaten shell: "Well, I'll try him again." Well do I recall the cablegram that Dr. McDowell sent to some of his friends—of which I was one—after he had failed for the second time to capture the goal of his rowing career—the classic Diamond Skulls—which read "Beaten, but will keep on trying."

Constance Sutton Titus, the Union Rowing club oarsman whom New York friends sent over to Henley to try for the Diamond Skulls, gave the Britishers a great scare, but succumbed to the Balilol college (Oxford) giant, Kelley, in the eighth heat of this great rowing race after having won two heats. What did Titus do after finishing behind the Oxonian rower? He cabled New York that he was proud of the victor but would try again. Something seemed to tell him that the man who removed him from the lists in that heat would capture the final heat and the trophy. There is little doubt that Titus will go over there again next year, and if the weather is better, take the coveted trophy which has only gone to an American two times—E. Hanlan, Ten Eyck and B. H. Howell being the winners from the United States.

Titus, after asking some of the winners at the regatta to promise to come to the United States to participate in the National association events, bade adieu to the Britishers who treated him so royally. He derived the consolation out of the Diamond Skulls—the defeat of Sholes, the Canadian oarsman who had won from him on the Harlem on Decoration day, with whom he was paired in the first heat. To Titus this meant a great deal—more than the Englishmen could understand.

Did Titus make any mistakes? That is the query asked by those who knew what pains he took in building and fitting out his cedar shell that is a third shorter than the shells usually seen in the Sculls. Perhaps he might have done better in the deciding heat with Kelley, had he had a different shell. But that is doubtful, as he was outrowed and unhesitatingly declared the winner hit up a killing pace from the start. Rough water hampered Titus more than did the oddities of his shell's build. Did Titus go over early enough? Opinion is divided. He arrived at Henley more than a week before the preliminary heats and got well acquainted with the water. Was he acclimated? The weather was moist—there was much rain—and hot, and the American, born in Louisiana, liked that sort of a condition. His wife saw the races and watched him win heats and lose the chance to take the trophy from the best amateurs of the world. No one can say that Titus was excited and that he wasted strength rowing into spiles or off the course. It is sportsmanlike in the American to take the course he does—to eschew complaints—for he has none—and to give all credit to the winning Britisher and to wait for the next Henley regatta, to try once more for the world's grandest rowing event.

About the only life that has been infused into the professional billiard world of late was supplied by Adorjan, the Austrian player, whose meteoric career in the east has caused more than one critic to wonder whether or not a new "Napoleon" Ives has not really appeared. Adorjan has made Morningstar, McLaughlin and other experts look like the proverbial "30 cents" at talk line. But the spectators could not attribute to him any difference in style or delicacy of touch. "Why could the Austrian make runs of double figures so often?" was asked. No one could give a sufficient answer.

Finally I asked that question of Lloyd Jevne, the crack three-cushion player, who had been watching Adorjan, and he quickly gave the answer.

"It's his cue," he replied. "The Austrian is nothing if not original. Everything he has done since coming to this country stamps him as an odd character. I was not surprised therefore to see him playing with a new style of cue. The Adorjan cue must weigh several ounces more than the 'timber' Ives used to play with. Furthermore, it provides for a short bridge by reason of its queer construction. Of the ordinary diameter at the butt end, it continues thick until quite within 15 inches of the tip, when it suddenly becomes smaller—the break is so pronounced that the cue looks like a bit of socket work. From the beginning of the small part to the tip there is very little slope, but this small part is plenty long enough for any bridge that might come into play in any game. The advantage? Well, the cue certainly is stiffer, less likely to warp out of straight lines, and the weight is evenly distributed, and doubtless counteracts any tendency to 'pump handle' shot. Whether or not this cue is better than one of the experts' 'joint cues,' it remains for Adorjan to prove.

"Ives played with a cue that was larger all the way down to the tip than almost any other good player used. He liked the big end, for it suited his form of bridging. But Ives could play almost as well with any cue taken out of stock as with his cue, that he carried around in a chamois case. Schaefer uses an ordinary cue. Schaefer is an extraordinary billiardist, but quite an ordinary man in his ideas about billiard tools. In the opinion of the 'Wizard,' the cue cuts little figure in a championship contest. 'It's the balls and cushion that count,' he would say, when we were discussing this matter.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Scotch Plains team will go up against the Roselle Field Club, Saturday afternoon. The Roselle people are A1 players and expected to touch up the doughty 'Plains team.

The local policemen's team expects to compete with the Elizabeth aggregation again shortly. Captain Overbaugh is in communication with its manager; Police Justice Mahon, and he hopes to set the date for some day next week.

After Saturday's League games, there will be no more until August 23. A week from Saturday was skipped in making up the schedule as that is the date on which Hope chapel has its annual excursion to Asbury Park and the members of that team will attend en masse. The only other League games are those postponed from June 21.

Manager Johnston, of the Scotch Plains ball team, expects one of the hardest games of the season, Saturday afternoon, when his colts cross bats with the Roselle Field Club. Scotch Plains won the first game at Roselle three weeks ago by a close shave and after the second innings was unable to score, but with the game that the 'Plains team has been putting up of late if Roselle wins they will have to play fast ball. The contest will be exciting enough for all.

It has been decided that the exhibition baseball game to be played between a nine picked from the Plainfield League teams and the St. Francis Xavier Deaf Mutes will be for the benefit of the local Baby and Fresh Air Camps. An admission fee of twenty-five cents for the grandstand and ten cents otherwise will be charged and the proceeds will be equally divided. The game will be played Wednesday afternoon, August 20, on the Hope grounds, the Y. M. A. having tendered its use together with all paraphernalia for the day.

Some West Enders, who don't know the difference between a baseball and a ping-pong score, have made themselves conspicuously ridiculous by disputing the official tally, as published in The Daily Press of Monday. One of the main points at issue is with regard to the earned runs. For the benefit of the misinformed, The Press would define an earned run as one made by a player who has reached first on a hit and advanced by either a steal, a sacrifice or another hit. No run is earned where the batsman takes his base on four balls, a dead ball or an error.

The Scotch Plains fans are mourning the loss of "Chick" Crusins who has been playing shortstop for the 'Plains ball team during the past two seasons. George made many friends while a member of the team and all regret seeing him go but it could not be helped, as the Rockville Centers, of Long Island, have been after him for some time and, as they could afford to pay the price for his services, Manager Johnston lost him. While the loss is felt by the team, still Manager Johnston promises to have a new man playing the position in the game against Roselle Saturday.

TENNIS.

In the continuation of play in the tournament at the Y. M. C. A. last evening Robert W. Meeker, who is out of town, forfeited to Eric Moraller. The committee of arrangements has prepared the following schedule: Wednesday—Dr. Whitford and Robert Scull; Thursday—Eugene McCarthy and C. M. Rogers; Friday—Edward Neil and R. Sebring; Saturday—Kenneth Robert and J. Emes; Monday—J. F. T. Fuller and Vail. When these sets have been played the remainder of the schedule will be arranged.

Date Set for Outing.

At the regular meeting of the Hope Y. M. A., held last evening, the date for the association's outing trip to Lake Hopatcong was fixed for the ten days intervening from September 3 to 13. A large number of members have already signed the list of those who are to go. The only other business transacted was the election of one new member and the receiving of seven applications.

TALKED TOO MUCH.

In Clearing a Friend "Mike" Gave Testimony That Convicted Himself.

Francesco Remano, arrested on a charge of assault, arising out of a general squabble in the vicinity of a house near the corner of Pearl street and Watchung avenue Monday night, appeared for trial before Recorder Doud last evening. He was fined $5 and costs. A man named "Mike," the proprietor of the house where the quarrel occurred, came forward to testify for Remano but in the attempt to free his friend he became much entangled in the meshes himself.

"Mike" testified that congenial and convivial friends sat down in his establishment to play seven up for drinks. At a stage of the game one of the players insisted that the jack of spades was the king of clubs, and refused to be convinced that there was nothing royal about a knave, hence the fisticuffs. Another witness, "Pete," admitted he "paid it fifty for five bottles." Chief Campbell immediately made a complaint of keeping a disorderly house against "Mike" and he was fined $10 on the spot.

WHEEL PASSED OVER ARM.

Little John English Escaped, However, With Only Bruises.

Jarred from his seat upon one of the Eastern Bottling Company's wagons, little John English had a miraculous escape from injury under the wheels this morning. The boy was with his foster father, Henry Staats, the driver. The accident was caused by the wagon catching in the switch at Front and Somerset streets. The jolt threw the lad to the ground and one of the wheels of the heavy wagon passed over his arm. He was picked up and found to be apparently unhurt, except for a bruise upon his arm.

MORE BABIES.

Fifteen Little Ones Taken to Netherwood Fresh Air Home.

Fifteen children and babies were received at Miss Curry's Netherwood Fresh Air Home, yesterday, for a restful sojourn amid healthful surroundings. They were met at the Netherwood depot by Liveryman J. S. Darby who gratuitously placed his stage at the disposal of the delighted youngsters for their trip to the place.

This evening's meeting at the camp will be in charge of William C. Frink, of Elizabeth.

Two Cars ty Boynton.

An enjoyable and successful affair was the trolley excursion under the auspices of the Retail Clerks' Association to Boynton Beach last evening. Two well-filled cars left the North avenue station at 7 o'clock. On arriving at the beach dancing was enjoyed until 11:30 o'clock, when the return trip was made, the party getting into Plainfield shortly after midnight.

Only Routine Matters.

Vacation time prevented any heavy business from occupying the attention of the Plainfield Board of Health at the monthly meeting yesterday afternoon. Only routine matters, including the payment of bills, were considered.

Mrs. Henry Nischwitz and children, of Manning avenue, are visiting at Saylorsburg, Pa. The latter will remain until September.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

TO GREATLY IMPROVE HYDE MOUNTAIN TRACT

Will Convert Hyde Estate Into a Beautiful Residential Park on Mountainside.

OPENING NEW ROADS.

WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH FUTURE EXISTENCE OF PARK GOLF LINKS.

A Few Slight Changes Necessary in the Course—Frank de L. Hyde's New Colonial Residence and Gate House Now Building.

Extensive improvements, designed to make the place rank high among the residence parks of the State, are in course of operation at the Hyde estate, bordering on East Front street, and extending back along the slopes of the mountain. When completed, the work will have made the grounds one of the most picturesque in this section of the country.

Attracting marked attention from the outside will be the handsome lodge and gateway, now in course of erection. Running back to the golf links of the Park Golf Club will be a modern road, which will furnish a desirable passage from and to the course, in addition to the present means of access from the lower end. On the side of the mountain, with a splendid stretch of scenery before it, will be the new colonial residence of Frank de L. Hyde.

Should the contemplated sale of the building lots marked out on the estate be effected, other residences also will probably be erected, making a park settlement, in which handsome homesteads will be prominent features. Such operations, however, are only in prospect. The work in actual operation is upon Mr. Hyde's own home and upon the lodge and road. Extensive stables are to be built for the new residence.

From the work of engineers and architects, it is evident that the future of the estate will mean the conversion of 150 acres of mountain woodland into a cultivated tract of residential parkland. No effort is being spared to beautify the grounds in a permanent way, to make possible the erection of future homes in a setting which will be harmonious to costly effect.

With the extension of the building operations, some slight change has been made necessary at the Park golf links, which form part of the estate. The location of Mr. Hyde's new home will necessitate the removal of one of the holes on the course, which will be altered in accordance therewith. The Golf Club leases its land from the estate, and it was at first feared that the improvements might include an appropriation of the golf course. The apprehension has proven ungrounded.

TO MAKE ASCENSIONS.

They Will be Regular Features at Boynton Beach Twice a Week.

The Central Balloon Company, of this city, has contracted with C. W. Boynton, to furnish eight balloon ascensions at Boynton Beach, during the remainder of the season. They are to commence on Saturday afternoon and the remaining seven will be given on Tuesdays and Saturdays between 5 and 6 o'clock. William Mack will be the aeronaut and each ascension will be under the personal supervision of William Schorb, of this city. The contract calls for a rise of at least 1,000 feet each time.

Boynton Beach is one of the most dangerous places in the country for descending as the balloonist has but very little ground on which to descend. The air current is almost always toward Staten Island and the parachute will invariably be carried toward the Atlantic Ocean. Proprietor Boynton has agreed to provide steam launches to follow the balloon and parachute to prevent their loss if they fall in the water.

Gift of Governor.

Governor Murphy has presented to the Grandin Library of Clinton, Hunterdon county, a handsome and valuable volume, attractively bound in colonial blue. It is the National Register of the Society of Sons of the American Revolution. Another new addition to the library is from President Ralph Voorhees, a relative of the former Governor of that name, a very interesting work on "Introduction of Domestic Reindeer into Alaska."

—Fancy Delaware peaches, quality the very best, are being received daily by Neuman Brothers.

SENATOR KEAN SAYS CROSS

BELIEVES PRESENT STATE SENATOR WILL BE RENOMINATED.

Expressed That Belief While at the Congressional Convention at Flemington on Tuesday.

Senator Kean attended the congressional convention of the new Fourth district, held at Flemington Tuesday. The senator said he came merely to meet the Republicans of the Fourth district and had no intention of delivering an address to the convention. He was asked concerning the situation in the Fifth congressional district and his home county of Union.

"I am sorry that the Democrats of the Fifth district entertain a belief that they will elect Mr. Flanagan," remarked Mr. Kean. "I cannot see upon what they base this alleged confidence, and I believe that we will return the Republican nominee to congress from the district. I am told that Mr. Flanagan is very strong in Morris and Warren counties."

"The Democrats are basing their hopes largely upon the situation in the Republican ranks in Union county," the senator was told. He shrugged his shoulders and smiled as he replied:

"Oh, I don't believe their hopes are well based, in that event. Union county will give its normal majority."

"How about the senatorial fight?"

"Senator Cross will be renominated and elected. Judge Runyon may or may not be an applicant for the nomination before the convention, but Senator Cross will be nominated at all events," he replied.

BRIDGING RARITAN RIVER

ONE NEW ONE STARTED AND TWO MORE SOON TO BEGIN.

Within Last Ten Years, Three New Bridges Built Between New Brunswick and Bay.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 7—Within the last ten years the Raritan river, between this city and its mouth, a distance of ten miles, has had three new bridges built over it. Another is now being constructed, and two more will shortly be commenced.

The Albany street wagon bridge was the first of the number, and it replaced an ancient structure, part of which had stood for a century. That was done in 1893. Two years later the old Landing Bridge, at the upper end of New Brunswick, burned down, and had to be replaced with an iron structure. The next bridge building feat was done by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which replaced its iron bridge and draw at this city with a steel trestle and draw. This work was done piecemeal, and trains continued to run uninterrupted while one bridge was being replaced by the other. That work was completed four years ago, and the railroad is now engaged in replacing the steel structure with a stone arch bridge.

The Middlesex County Board of Freeholders has already voted to build a wagon bridge over the Raritan from Perth to South Amboy, while the Trenton and New Brunswick Railway Company will bridge the Raritan about two miles below this city. Their line has been completed to within three miles of the river.

Besides these five bridges there is the structure of the New York and Long Branch Railroad at Perth Amboy, making a total of six, three wagon and three railroad bridges.

NEW HOUSE.

Two Story Dwelling for West Front Street—One Other Permit.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to Lemuel E. Hart for the erection of a dwelling, two stories, 29 feet front by 30 feet deep, on West Front street.

A. L. C. Marsh, on behalf of Mrs. F. W. VanWyck, has filed plans for an extension to the dwelling on the corner of Stelle and Plainfield avenues. William Tallamy is the mason and John Abbott the carpenter.

Funeral of Dr. Glen.

Private funeral services, conducted by Rev. Dr. Yerkes, were held yesterday afternoon over the remains of the late Dr. I. R. Glen, of Madison avenue. The remains were taken to Flemington for burial.

Cornet Accompaniment.

Cornet accompaniments to the singing at the Sunday-school sessions of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be a feature for the present month. DeWitt Frazee will be the musician.

LEARNED OF FATHER'S DEATH.

Visiting Friend Brought Word of What Happened Three Years Ago.

Sad news is that which has come to Albert Butler, a colored barber of this city. When he learned that Thomas Muir was going to Woodstock, Ontario, a few weeks ago, he asked the latter to make some inquiries there about a father and a brother left there some years ago. This week, when the Plainfielder returned home, he brought Butler word of the death of his father, over three years ago. The brother also had disappeared and the barber has lost all trace of his relatives.

QUIETLY WEDDED AT HOME

MISS ANNA LOUISE BORRUP BECAME WIFE OF CHAS. KIRCHNER.

Ceremony Took Place at Bride's Home on Terrill Road Yesterday at Noon.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Borrup, of Terrill road, was the scene of a quiet wedding, yesterday noon, when their daughter, Miss Anna Louise Borrup was made the wife of Charles Kirchner, of New York. Only a few intimate friends and near relatives witnessed the ceremony. Rev. Dr. Parks, of Scotch Plains, officiated.

The bride was prettily attired in white silk and was given away by her father. Mrs. Andrew Krog, of this city, acted as matron of honor and Andrew Krog, as best man, completed the party.

Following the nuptials a repast was served which concluded with an informal reception by the bride and groom. The young people afterward departed on their honeymoon which will be spent at the Inwood Golf Club, of Staten Island, of which Mr. Kirchner is a member. On returning they will reside temporarily with the bride's parents until a new home which the groom is having erected on Central avenue, Netherwood, is completed. The bride received many handsome silver and china presents.

MIXED UP PAPERS.

Cabinet Fell in the Night and Made Trouble for Justice Huff.

Confusion reigned for a time this morning in the office of Justice Fred Huff on the discovery of an accident which had occurred some time during the night. When the justice appeared he found a large cabinet, in which legal papers were filed, broken from its fastenings upon the wall and its contents scattered about the room. Thirty-six pigeon holes had discharged papers of every sort into a conglomerate mass, and the official is still ruefully contemplating the extensive work which is before him in the task of sorting out his possessions into something like their old time orderly neatness.

YOUTHFTL RESCUERS.

Children Saved Live Stock at the Nelson Fire Tuesday Night.

At the fire which consumed the barns of Frank O. Nelson, near New Market, Tuesday night, the children of the owner displayed unusual heroism for boys and girls so young. Led by Miss Vera Nelson, aged seventeen, neither Mr. or Mrs. Nelson being at home, they formed themselves into a volunteer department and rushed into the burning structures, rescuing twelve cows and hauling out considerable machinery before they were driven back by the flames. The others in the party were Miss Lyrantha Nelson, aged fifteen, Beatrice aged fourteen, and Albert aged ten.

PING-PONG PLAY.

Schedule Arranged for Boys Tournament at the Y. M. C. A.

The committee in charge have arranged a schedule of games in the ping pong tournament for the boy's department of the Y. M. C. A. With the exception of Saturday when play will begin at 9 in the morning all games will be at 2 o'colck. Following is the order: Friday, Rittenhouse and Aalholm; Saturday, Guinn and Templin; Monday, Long and Leggett; Tuesday, Lambert and Schmelcel; Wednesday, Reubenstein and Woodhull; Thursday, Burr and Van Arsdale. Another series will be prepared when these have been played.

Talking of 'Phones.

The residents of Pattenburg, Hunterdon county, are talking about the introduction of telephones in that place. The telephone company is extending the line to Bloomsbury. The Little York residents have their 'phones and are much pleased. The residents in that section of the State would like to have the line extended to Clinton.

DRAKE WAS HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Edward Korman Told Story of the Assault at the Preliminary Hearing.

THE BAIL SET AT $600.

Korman Showed No Signs of His Almost Fatal Injury—Said He Saw Drake Approaching—Then He Was Struck Down—No Words Had Passed Between Them.

Charles Drake, accused of atrocious assault on the person of Edward Korman, was given a preliminary hearing in Justice Mattison's court yesterday afternoon. The court held him in $600 bail for the September Grand Jury. The hearing yesterday was merely a move on the part of the defence to ascertain the case of the State. County Prosecutor James W. Grigg, of Somerville, was present on behalf of the commonwealth. Wm. G. DeMeza and Francis J. Blatz looked after the interests of Drake.

Edward Korman was the principal object of interest of the curious throng in the little court room. In spite of his recent long period of unconsciousness, he did not look like a man that had narrowly escaped death. Whatever injuries he received do not seem to have any permanent effect on him either bodily or mentally.

When asked to relate the happenings of the fateful night Korman deposed that after putting up his horse for the night he walked out in front of his home on Harrison street, and started to walk down the street. He heard someone coming up behind him and looking around saw Charles Drake. Before he could get out of the way he was struck on the head with some heavy instrument and felled to the ground. He had no knowledge of anything after that.

Cross-examined by Mr. DeMeza, Korman swore that his head was not cut, but swollen, that he merely glanced sidewise when he heard footsteps and thus received the blow on the back of the head. He said that no words passed between him and Drake. There was no quarrel whatsoever, not a single syllable having been spoken. At this point counsel for the defence waived all further examination, and consented that the accused be held for the Grand Jury.

WITH THE ELKS.

Plainfielders Left This Morning for Salt Lake City and Then California.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blatz and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nelson, of this city, started with a party from Newark this morning, in a special vestibuled train, for Salt Lake City, where the male members will attend the grand lodge session of the Order of Elks. After spending three days in the convention city the trip will be continued to San Francisco and Los Angeles which will be reached August 15. After that the members will be at liberty to return home at any time they choose. It is the intention of the Plainfield contingent to remain in all six weeks. On the outgoing trip stops will be made at Chicago, Council Bluffs, Omaha, Grand Island, Ogden and Echo Canyon.

INVITATION ACCEPTED.

But it Was a Weazel Which Had Been Stealing the Chickens.

Councilman George P. Mellick has been a loser of chickens to an enormous extent of late, so much so that his hired man a few days ago issued an invitation to the supposed thieves to come while the chickens lasted. The night before last the invitation was accepted and twenty-three fowls disappeared. It has now been discovered that a weazel is responsible for the continued depletion of the roosts at the bungalow.

Miss Curry Expected.

Among the features at the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school session next week, Miss Sara Curry, with some of the children from her Netherwood Fresh Air Home, is expected to be present. The matron was prevented from appearing last Sunday, owing to illness at the home.

Will Never Drink Again.

Word was received yesterday from Charles McGinley, of East Third street, who is on his way to San Francisco. He stopped at Chicago long enough to see the Chicago river and then and there resolved never again to drink water.

GOING TO BUILD.

John M. Schorb Says He is Going to Ignore Council's Action.

John M. Schorb, of Somerset street, who was refused permission to go on with erection of a frame extension to his building on the corner of Manning avenue at the last meeting of the Borough Council, this morning announced that he had taken legal advice in the matter and signified his intention of resuming work on the structure, which had been held up for a few days on account of the Council's action. Mr. Schorb will begin work tomorrow. It is now up to the Council to speak.

THOUGHT HIMSELF CONVICTED

YOUNG MAN'S FRIENDS PREPARED A FAKE ARREST AND TRIAL.

Charged Him With Being Drunk and Disorderly—Finally Learned It Was All a Joke.

In the deceptive depths of the flowing bowl, one young Plainfielder has found trouble which may lead to his taking a brace of abstinence, for a day or two at least. Going through the humiliation of being summoned by an officer of the law to appear in court to answer a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct proved a hard matter to digest and the aftermath of regret was so strong as to shatter the young man's self composure almost to the breaking point. The worst of it is that he did not realize his fault until it was made public.

When a policeman appeared this morning and notified the alleged offender that he must appear before a neighboring justice of the peace, the young man underwent all sorts of inner spasms of sorrow and remorse. He secured the aid of his employer, tearfully declaring his utter innocence of the charge. For several hours, his life was a burden to himself and to all those about him, and then, with perspiring fear and trembling, he sought the office of the justice.

Not until the forms of a hearing had been accomplished and the web of crime seemed woven fast about the penitent did he learn that the whole matter was a joke, concocted by his companions of last evening. His sense of relief was overpowering, but he is vowing vengeance now and racking his brains to scheme some method of getting square.

IN COMPTON'S ORCHARD.

Boys Admitted in City Court That They Had Been There—Were Severely Censured.

Although having had in previous years more trouble with boys in his orchard than that suffered by the average fruit grower, Halstead Compton continues to be annoyed by apple stealers. He appeared in the city court, last evening, as complainant against Thomas Porter, Teddy Howe, Grover Marsh and Charles Clarke, West End boys, who had invaded the small orchard he retained after cutting down the greater part of his trees to stop just such depredations.

The lads pleaded guilty and received a severe censuring from the bench. All promised to stay away from Mr. Compton's property under pain of a heavy sentence if they returned. The police were also instructed to watch the orchard and arrest anybody found trespassing.

Help for Baby Camp.

A letter received at The Daily Press office from C. W. Eoff, of Crescent avenue, who with his family are summering at Wilmington, Vt., tells of the delightful weather and charming scenery at that summer resort. Mrs. Eoff encloses a check of $5 for the King's Daughters Baby Camp on the mountain.

Lost Another Child.

James F. Judge, the young son of Andrew and Katie Judge, of Grove street, died at his parents' residence yesterday afternoon after a short illness. This makes the second death in the family within ten days, a little daughter, Maria, having been buried last week. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

In Justice Nash's Court.

Summons have been issued in Justice Nash's court in the landlord and tenant cases of Thickstun against Illsley and Thickstun against Parker, returnable August 12.

Brigade Field Day.

Brigadier General Gilmore is planning for a field day at Trenton next month, for a brigade drill. All the militia companies of the State will take part.

LARGEST CROWD OF SEASON

LEFT ON THE EXCURSION FOR ASBURY PARK THIS MORNING.

Two Sections of Twelve Cars Each Carried the Excursionists to the Shore.

Largest of all the excursions which have gone out from Plainfield this season was that taken this morning by the members of Crescent Avenue, St. Stephen's and Bethel chapel Sunday-schools. Two sections were needed on the train, with twelve cars each, which seemed none too many for the excursionists. The first section, with Conductor Webster in charge, was over crowded when it left North avenue, while the second, directed by Conductor Brighton, had five cars filled, with St. Stephen's people yet to be taken on at the Netherwood station.

Everything passed off smoothly at North avenue, in spite of the large crowd which sought to board the first section of the train. After the hurrying excursionists had found that there would be plenty of room on another section, they took the slight delay in good part and waited. Those who curbed their impatience were well pleased that they were not so crowded as the earlier passengers had been, even if it meant a little more time before the destination would be reached.

All the details of the excursion were well arranged and the indications are for a most successful and enjoyable day at the shore. The weather while somewhat cool, promised to be pleasant, and later in the day fulfilled all the hopes of the excursionists as to their long looked for outing.

POW-WOW OF POLITICIANS

ALL READY FOR THE OUTING OF UNION COUNTY REPUBLICANS.

Tickets Selling Fast for the Clambake Which Will be the Principal Feature.

Chance to secure tickets for the big outing of the Union county Republicans at Galvin's Park on Saturday is still open to the fortunate few who apply at once to City Collector Frank Smith. The supply is limited and first come, first served is the unvarying rule. It is expected that tomorrow will close out the sales, as the demand continues to be good.

Plainfield will undoubtedly send a large delegation to the clambake. The plans for the transportation of the guests have not yet been completed, but it is exepcted that the arrangements in effect at the outing two years ago, will be duplicated. At that time, it will be remembered that several special cars conveyed the local delegation to the scene of the outing at the grove near Rahway. The advantage of closeness in point of distance, with the increased facilities for reaching the spot this year, make it reasonable to expect a larger crowd from this city than on the last celebration.

"Nat" Astfalk, the peer of clambake purveyors, will be in charge, guaranteeing the usual excellency of arrangements. He has alreday sent in his orders for what appears to be enough food to supply an army, the list being headed with 50,000 clams. The usual accompaniments of a bake, such as oysters, crabs, lobsters, bluefish, frogs' legs, tripe, chickens, corn, potatoes and watermelons, with other good things "too numerous to mention," are promised to tickle the palates and fill the internal vacancies of the thousand and more guests who are expected.

From the reports and promises of acceptance, it is understood that the Governor, Senators Kean and Dryden, with the majority of the Republican Congressmen of the State, will be present to aid in making the gathering a success.

Day at the Shore.

Get away from the cares and worries of business life for a day and join the members of Franklin Council upon the excursion to be run to Asbury Park next Thursday under their auspices. The sea breeze will bring fresh vigor into your life and fit you better for the routine of daily work afterward.

Salvation Army.

B. F. Elliott will give a stirring address on the five pointed star of the flag at the Salvation Army Hall tonight. Mr. Elliott is an able speaker, and the meeting promises to be very interesting. His text will be Matt. II, 2, "We have seen His Star and are come to worship Him." All are welcome.

WHY FORMER SENATOR WAS NOT NOMINATED

Reed Faction of Somerset County Delegation Spoiled the Well Laid Plans.

HAD COUNTER SCHEME

OTHER DELEGATIONS JUST PREVENTED AN OPEN RUPTURE.

For Sake of Harmony the Project of Complimentary Vote for Senator Reed Was Abandoned—It Was a Close Shave.

Those who claim to be on the inside as to the proceedings at the Fourth District Congressional convention at Flemington on Tuesday tell an unexpected story as to the danger which threatened that peaceful gathering. An open rupture between the two Somerset county factions, it is said, was almost imminent when the leaders were dissuaded from their alleged purpose of carrying the fight upon the floor of the convention.

What caused the seeming trouble was the expressed intention of certain of the Thompson retainers to secure a complimentary vote for the former Senator. They secured promises of support from some of the other delegates, who were ignorant of the fact that the ideal was to strike a blow at the Reed faction in the convention. When the latter learned of the scheme, they exposed the nature of it, and the neutral men were exceedingly displeased that they had so nearly aided in provoking a factional fight.

Trouble was avoided principally by the selection of Mayor Smalley as chairman of the Somerset county caucus. He told the gathering plainly that the North Plainfield delegation would not submit to any action showing endorement of Thompson. When this news became known among the other delegates, they repudiated their promises to aid in giving the complimentary vote and declined to have anything to do with the scheme.

Further danger of factional trouble was then reached, it is said, by the action of the Reed men in going among the delegates and securing pledges of support for a complimentary vote for the nomination being given to their own leader. After a number had been secured, the Hunterdon and Mercer leaders learned of the new plan and finally dissuaded the Reed men from doing anything which would add to the bitterness between the rival Somerset county camps.

"It was a close shave," said a Somerset delegate who is not allied to either the Thompson or Reed faction. "It looked like an open rupture for a time. A lot of delegates were fooled, and they became angry. The Reed men had the upper hand eventually. They proved it by selecting Smalley as chairman of the delegation. It might have been a good thing, ultimately, for the Republican party in Somerset, if a break had occurred. We are tired of this factional scrapping, and we are anxious to have done with it. If North Plainfield votes to go over into Union county in the election to be held September 16, to determine that question, Charlie Reed will go with it and will cease to be a factor in Somerset politics. Otherwise we, who are neutral as between Thompson and Reed, are of the opinion that we may deem it necessary for the sake of party harmony and unity to retire both of them from party leadership."

Who Stopped Horse.

It was Harry Bush, of fire headquarters, and not Lewis Dunavan, who captured the plunging horse on Park avenue, Tuesday evening, belonging to Mrs. Snyder. His timely action prevented a serious runaway.

Removing Old Gardner House.

Work was started this week on the removal of the old Gardner house on East Front street to its position on the bank of the brook, to make room for the building operation for Woodhull & Martin.

Resigned From Choir.

Miss M. Williams, alto, has resigned her position as a member of the choir of Trinity Reformed church, to take effect September 1.

TWO TRACKS NEARLY READY

B. AND O. SYSTEM GRADUALLY IMPROVING ITS LINE.

When Present Improvements are Finished, Double Track System Will be Almost Complete.

Announcement is made at the headquarters of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company that the Pittsburg, Cleveland and Toledo Railroad, between New Castle Junction and Akron, O., wi l be practically rebuilt, as a cost of $4,000,000. The road will be straightened and the heavy grades reduced to a maximum of nineteen feet to the mile.

From New Castle Junction to Struthers, a distance of 14 miles, the line will be double-tracked. At New Castle Junction, which is the terminal of the Pittsburg and New Castle divisions, a yard costing approximately $600,000 will be built this fall.

A spur eight and one half miles long will be built around Youngstown on the right of way of the Trumbull and Mahoning Railroad, which is now controlled by the Baltimore and Ohio. From Niles to Ravenna the line will be shortened by several mlies, and it will be entirely reconstructed and shortened between Ravenna and Cuyahoga Falls.

This work will be placed under contract in the near future, and it is expected will be finished within 18 months. The completion of these improvements, the double-tracking of the Connellsville division between Rockwood and Indian Creek, the grade reductions and the double-tracking between Akron and Chicago Junction now in progress will give the Baltimore and Ohio a double-track line, with comparatively low grades, from Philadelphia to Chicago, via Pittsburg, with the exception of about 100 miles on the west end of the Chicago division.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The next ramshackle station on the Central Railroad of New Jersey that has outlived its usefulness and must go will be the time-honored structure at Bound Brook. The new station proposed will be one of the light stone structures for which the company has earned a national reputation. It will contain many pretty architectural conceits and all the modern conveniences that this age demands. The company will also abolish four grade crossings by building two subways.—Jersey City Journal.

New Jersey is this year, as probably never before, proving her right to the title of the Garden State. From all sections come reports of the abundance of the truck crop, surprising even the most sanguine of the agriculturists. The shipments of produce from South Jersey points are so heavy as to tax the facilities of the railroads for handling them. And the most encouraging part of it for the producers is that prices are maintained and the returns received are more than compensating for any losses sustained in past years. The banks in the agricultural counties of the State are showing the effect of this prosperity. There has been reported a great increase in deposits in these institutions, largely from farmer patrons. The indications are all for an unusually heavy fruit crop in nearly all parts of the State, especially peaches.

The Jersey tillers of the soil, who have taken advantage of the opportunities offered by the proximity of the great markets, have no cause to complain of their condition this season.—Newark News.

Miss Alberta Ross, of East Second street, leaves today for Mount Pocono, Pa., for a brief sojourn.

George Bolsterle and Gus Windham will go next week to Northfield, Mass., to join the Y. M. C. A. camp there.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. WHAT TRENTON EDITOR DID FOR COL. BRYAN

Mr. Briest's Reasons for Thinking Congressional Nomination Should Come to Him.

HIS MANY EXPERIENCES.

SOME OF HIS TRIALS IN STARTING THE DAILY PAPER TO SUPPORT BRYAN.

Results of His Little Experiment for the Good of the "Cause" Now Appeals for Nomination in Return for the Same.

The public has little idea of the troubles of some newspaper men. It often fails to appreciate the difficulties which have to be overcome in order to bring the daily issue out with regularity. Some editors are more fortunate than others. John Briest, editor of the Trenton Sunday Courier, appears to be numbered with "the others." He has just announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Fourth district and in his appeal for support, he has revealed some facts concerning his troubles which have not been known heretofore to the public.

His appeal, which recently appeared in the Trenton Courier, is decidedly interesting, especially to those who are interested in observing how far an editor will go in behalf of his political convictions. It is as follows:

"We notice that some Republican papers are picking out candidates for the Congressional nomination on the Democratic ticket in this district, and that among the names mentioned is that of W. Holt Apgar. Mr. A. is a gentleman, a personal friend of ours whom we have known for years, whom we love and respect for his many good and noble qualities, but where was he in the Democratic President campaign of 1896, when we were the head and tail, the centre and both half-backs and all the rushers, the backbone and the entrails, of the regular Democratic National party and its candidate for President, William J. Bryan? While a resident of this city he represented Hunterdon county in the Palmer and Buckner party, which was an auxiliary of the Republican party and run on funds provided by the McKinley campaign managers.

"There was no daily paper in the State supporting Bryan or his cause, and on promises and our own enthusiasm in the cause, we started one, the Daily Globe, and gave its readers the Bryan doctrine right from the shoulder. With a great flourish of trumpets, and with as much ceremony and consequence as if it were a million, the Democratic State Committee contributed $100! As soon as the promisees found that Bryan was going to get it in the neck, they began to make excuses and promptly laid down on us.

"We begged and borrowed every dollar that we could to keep the paper going, and to get funds for that purpose we put our gold watch up the spout and lost it! We did not have our clothes off but once a week, doing two men's and a boy's work, and sleeping in the office on the floor. When the end came we were $1,100 out in cash and debts, and nobody cared a damn for us or Bryan, either.

"The only time we were ever sued in our life was for debts incurred in running a Democratic Bryan paper. It was the direct cause of having our house, where we had lived for thirty-two years, sold away from us by the Sheriff. In our early years the Democratic party of this city greatly honored us. We think that we have repaid the obligation. We admit that we have had bitter thoughts at seeing those who exerted themselves to beat the party in days gone by now bossing it and reaping the rewards and honors and benefits, and we feel as independent as the proverbial shoat on the frozen Delaware.

"We want that Democratic nomination for Congress in this district. We are entitled to it, and we expect Democrats of all kinds and shades, independents of the same complexions, Presbyterians, Baptists, Methodists, Catholics and Lutherans, to support us, and we will stand by them, one and all. We have a plant to get out a daily paper in our own cause, and we are for free speech, free thought, freedom for every man to worship God in his own way, the prosperity of New Jersey and of the United States, the old flag, and a pension and appropriation for every man and woman that is entitled to it. Now, Democrats, give us your votes."

Cement Going Up.

The price of cement has advanced from $1.05 to $2.15 per barrel and business is booming in Warren county. The demand exceeds the output.

Lebanon's Peach Crop.

The best of authority estimates that the peach crop at Lebanon, Hunterdon county, will reach 75,000 baskets.

CONVINCING PROOF.

The Average Plainfield Citizen Must Accept the Following Proof.

The great Sir Isaac Newton, one of the most profound reasoners the world ever produced, once cut a large hole in a board fence to allow a favorite cat access to two gardens, and cut a smaller hole to allow her kitten to follow her. The weakness manifested in Sir Isaac's action was due to want of thought. Any reader who mentally debates the proof offered here about Doan's Kidney Pills and arrives at any other conclusion than that stated in this citizen's statement, is as short of reasoning powers as the philosopher when he turned carpenter.

Mr. Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so-called kidney cures but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper, and, being in bad shape at the time I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and, continuing their use all the pain left me."

LAUNCHING OF WAR SHIP FOR MEXICO

Great Time Will be Held at Nixon's Shipyard at Elizabeth August 20.

SHIPS BUILT IN JERSEY.

TAMPICO WILL BE LAUNCHED FOR THE MEXICAN GOVERNMENT.

Sister Ship, Vera Cruz, Will be Ready for Launching September 15—Dearth of Steel Has Delayed Construction of Both Boats.

With the launching of the Mexican gunboat Tampico, at the Crescent shipyard, Elizabeth, August 20, another notch will be carved in the constantly growing tally of warships built in this country for the fleet of foreign powers. Within less than a month later the Vera Cruz, a sister ship of the Tampico, will leave her cradle, and the double stocks made vacant will shortly afterward hold the keel plates of two more men-of-war for service in the navy of Mexico.

Having played no inconspicuous part in the construction of this nation's war squadrons, New Jersey is fast coming into prominence in the record of American-built ships for States that some day may be belligerent. In this respect New Jersey is not far from leading, and recent records show that only Pennsylvania, with its immense Cramp yards at Philadelphia, has the advantage either in point of aggregate tonnage or number of vessels, and with that record of the Delaware River works in turning out splendid fighting craft for Russia and Japan especially, Jersey, with its recently augmented facilities, bids fair to stand in equal status.

Preparations are already under way to make the occasion of the Mexican cruiser's baptism a most propitious one. The date selected marks the anniversary of the birth of the border republic's Naval and War Minister, General Reyes. By September 15 the Vera Cruz will be ready for launching, after which work will immediately be commenced on two comparatively large vessels for the Mexican government. These are about to be ordered, and will be of 1,800 tons displacement each.

Under the contract with the Mexican government the Tampico and her sister ship should have been ready for service last January, but because of the dearth of steel her construction has been materially retarded. The little vessel has been put together upon lines designed by Lewis Nixon, president of the Crescent Shipbuilding Company, and until his retirement a few years ago a member of the construction corps of the United States navy. She is intended for patrol duty along the Mexican coasts and in her way will be a valuable addition to the country's tiny naval force. Besides being technically a gunboat she will be fitted out also to serve as a small army transport.

In addition to quarters for her complement of 150 officers and seamen, accommodations will be provided for troops to the number of 250.

The dimensions of the Tampico and Vera Cruz are as follows: Length over all, 201.6 feet; breadth of beam, 32.10 feet; depth, 15.8 feet; draft, 10 feet; displacement, 980 tons; contract speed, 16 knots.

The armament of each vessel will consist of four 4-inch rapid fire guns and four 6-pounders. Each will carry two search lights and two steam launches, and will be fitted with two steel masts for schooner rigs.

The Busy Man's Way.

When you are going anywhere you always want to go quickly, and it is to appease the demands of the busy man that hourly trains have been placed in operation between New York and Philadelphia via the New Jersey Central, and to further aid him they are arranged to leave either city every hour and on the hour from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. The trains are palaces in railroad parlance, for no detail is neglected in their make-up. The road bed is model in every respect—rock ballasted, automatic block signal systemed and heavy railed and the running time is scheduled down to two hours for the 90 mile run. Then too, the country traversed is wealthy in scenic adornment and one finds comfort, convenience and speed, the signal word for every passenger. Next time you go to Philadelphia try the Jersey Central. c

A Necessary Precaution.

Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute Cough Cure you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Children like it. L. W. Randolph.

DELAY IN GETTING STEEL

THAT WILL DELAY BUILDING OF CENTRAL'S NEWARK BAY BRIDGE.

Further Details About the Bridge and the Lift to Take the Place of the Draw.

It is likely to be some time before the Central Railroad of New Jersey starts work on the construction of the steel bridge across Newark Bay from Bergen Point to Elizabethport owing to the delay in the manufacture of structural steel. The steel will not be ready for delivery to the company before the spring, but long before then the foundations for the immense stone piers which will support the superstructure will have been completed so that as soon as the steel is received the work can be pushed with speed.

Further details of the new bridge show that the draw spans are to be built on a unique plan for this section of the country.

Each span will lift up from the centre pedestal into the air on huge roller shoes, thus permitting a perfectly clear passage in less than fifty seconds. The motive power for operating the lifts is to be electricity.

This new method of operating draws is known as the Sherver roller lift, and has been very successfully used in the west, especially in the neighborhood of Chicago, where the inventor resides.

The Central Railroad draw spans are, however, much longer, and will be much heavier than any heretofore constructed. The roller lift draw is a peculiar looking piece of engineering. The periphery of the great roller shoes, which are massive and heavy, counterbalance the weight of the draw and rest on a solid and massive foundation. The draw is lifted by electrically operated machinery, which causes the great roller to turn backward on its foundation, the arms of the roller—otherwise the draw—immediately swinging upward toward the sky. In Chicago, where these roller-lift draws are in use, the lift is opened inside of forty seconds. Closing the draw is as simple an operation as its opening and as quickly done.

General Manager Besler of the Central Railroad says that the company's engineers had satisfied themselves of the practicability of the roller draw, and that the United States Bureau of Navigation connected with the Navy Department had examined the plans and approved them.

The arms of the roller lift will soar eighty-five feet in the air when the bridge is open and the immense leverage of this great weight is almost incalculable. The Navy Department especially indorses the plan to have the roller lifts placed in the centre of the channel on the usual central pedestal.

THEATRICAL.

Jessie Mae Hall, supported by the Proctor Stock Company, will present her comedy-drama, "The Princess of Patches," for the first time in Harlem, at Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatre. Ideal bills of summer vaudeville continue to attract great crowds to the Twenty-third Street Theatre. Excellent bookings have been made for the current days and the continuous performances promise entertainment of a superior sort. The Ansil troupe of international dancers, a late European importation for the Proctor circuit, will be the topping features of a twenty-five act bill. Richard Mansfield's original comedy-drama, "A Parisian Romance," adapted from the play by Octave Feuillet, will be played by the Proctor Stock Company at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, the principal role, Baron Chivrial, being played by Addison Pitt, who has been especially engaged for the part. Over in Newark another big bill of clever vaudeville will be presented at Proctor's pretty theatre on Military Park. Fiske and McDonough, the Mozart Comedy Four, Morris and Baker, Harry B. Lester, West and Lewis, and several other good entertainers have been retained for the ensuing week.

Monroe Staats, of West Second street, returned home yesterday after a ten days' stay with relatives at Martinsville.

OUTLAW TRACY DEAD

Wounded and at Bay, He Shoots Himself.

HELD POSSE OFF FOR FOUR HOURS.

Convict Had Killed Eight Men and Terrorized Two States For Weeks, Eluding All Efforts to Effect His Capture.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 7.—Harry Tracy, the outlaw, has killed himself in a swamp near Eddy farm, eleven miles from Creston, Wash.

He had spent two days at Eddy farm. A boy who saw him there carried the news to the sheriff, who rushed to the scene with a posse. Tracy retreated to the swamp and gave battle for four hours.

Late at night a long range duel was fought, the posse centering its fire upon the spot where Tracy was believed to be in the tall grass.

Members of the posse heard a shot about 11 o'clock, but did not venture into the swamp until morning.

The outlaw was then found dead, shot through the heart with his famous Winchester.

He had been severely wounded, and his leg had been broken.

For two days and as many nights Tracy held the family of Farmer L. B. Eddy under subjection. Here again he showed the qualities of nerve and cool headedness, but these very qualities brought about his downfall. Had he not allowed G. E. Goldfinch, the eighteen-year-old boy, to leave the ranch when he did the story today might be different, but the outlaw had too much faith in estimating the terror his words of warning would give to the lad.

The story of the exploits of the famous bandit at the Eddy ranch are given by the boy, who was his servant for over a day. It was Sunday afternoon that Goldfinch was riding a horse across the prairie not far from the Eddy farm. He noticed a strange man camped not far from where he passed. To all appearances the stranger was just having his supper, but young Goldfinch paid no attention to him, not seeing anything unusual in his actions. Just as the boy was going by the camper called out, asking him to have some supper. With the reply that he had finished his supper, Goldfinch did not even slacken the pace of his horse and passed the stranger. It was then that an imperative command from the stranger brought Goldfinch to a sudden stop. He was ordered to come back. This order the boy obeyed. With his usual ceremony Tracy soon made himself known. He inquired the way to the nearest farm and was directed to the Eddy place. Tracy at this time still had two horses. One he rode; the other, the boy says, was loaded with meat, sugar, coffee and bedding.

"You go ahead and tell them I am coming," commanded the outlaw.

Goldfinch readily complied and started ahead to announce the coming of the guest. Tracy, however, kept close on the heels of the lad, evidently not intending to give him a chance to give warning.

Arriving at the Eddy ranch, Goldfinch performed the service allotted to him and soon told the family who the visitor was. The night passed without any special happenings, so far as the lad relates. In the morning Tracy first made his toilet. A bath and a shave were included in his morning makeup, the farmer and his men having provided soap, towels and water. During the day the outlaw decided to make himself useful and, divesting himself of his Winchester and one of his revolvers, labored with the other men during most of the morning. He kept one revolver, however, in the holster by his side ready for instant use.

Monday evening Tracy told Goldfinch he might go. He was cautioned, however, on pain of death not to tell what had happened until Wednesday. It was this very display of nerve that had heretofore made the outlaw apparently safe, but this time caused his ruin. Goldfinch, instead of being sufficiently terrorized to keep silent, soon spread the news and aroused a posse.

Tracy had killed eight men. He escaped from Salem penitentiary ten weeks ago. The Oregon and Washington authorities had spent $40,000 trying to catch him.

Two bullet wounds in the left leg showed the cause of the man's despondency. One shot had broken the leg between the ankle and the knee. The other cut the tibial artery, which of itself was sufficient cause for death.

The fugitive had taken a strap and buckled it tight around his leg in an attempt to stop the flow of blood.

Despite the tightly fastened strap the bleeding continued until he probably realized his hopeless condition and ended the struggle. He was dressed in blue overalls and a white shirt, wearing no coat or vest. He wore a bicycle cap and a pair of tough shoes. He had one rifle and two revolvers.

The body, effects and the horses of the desperado were taken in charge by Sheriff Gardner and taken direct to Davenport, where they will be kept pending the decision of the final disposition of Tracy's body.

Entitled to the Reward.

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 7.—Governor Geer when asked if he considered that the men who surrounded and wounded Outlaw Tracy are entitled to the reward said: "Yes, I do. The posse surrounding was the cause of his committing suicide to save hanging and is as much to be credited with his death and reward for it as though its members had killed him directly."

PEOPLE WITH STRIKERS.

Trolley Line Tied Up at New Haven, Conn.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 7.—Under the most extraordinary conditions surrounding any conflict between capital and labor that has ever been waged in Connecticut the Fair Haven and Westville Trolley company is helpless before nearly 500 striking conductors and motormen. Its entire system is paralyzed. There is no traffic. Now and then a lone car moves, passengerless, over the lines, but its mission is one required by the government of the United States in the transportation of mails.

But it is not in its physical aspects that the strike presents to the officials of the railroad company the greatest difficulties. A proposition that would seem almost staggering confronts the company in the outburst of public sympathy and public indignation on behalf of the strikers. The striking employees find themselves supported throughout the city by friends, prominent citizens, lawyers, the clergy, the city council and various organizations of the city's business men and even the newspapers of the city almost without exception lend editorial support in unmistakable language to the cause of the strikers. Everywhere apparently this condition prevails, and the moral support given the company's unemployed is made all the more extraordinary by the fact that encouragement for the strikers takes the form of burning criticism of the methods and policies of the trolley company.

The people of the city are walking, and with good grace. Not a passenger has ridden on one of the company's cars, as far as can be learned, since 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and in the present temper of New Haven's citizens disinclination to ride would be general even if accommodations were to be had.

Late in the day meetings were successively held by fifty leading merchants, including the department store proprietors, clothiers and others in the center of the city, the New Haven Business Men's association, representing the merchants of the whole city, and the chamber of commerce.

In each meeting resolutions were adopted deploring the situation and setting forth the lack of accurate knowledge on the part of the public as to what are the differences between the strikers and the company and urging that every effort be put forth by the citizen body to secure a settlement that shall be fair to both sides.

Playing at War.

GREENPORT, N. Y., Aug. 7.—President Roosevelt yesterday participated on board the Mayflower in mimic warfare. The maneuvers which the ship executed were precisely those which might have to be gone through in an active battle, the substantial difference being that the enemy yesterday was an inanimate target and not active, aggressive and alert. The gun practice of the crew of the Mayflower indicates that the men behind the guns on board American war vessels are even more efficient and accurate than they were at the memorable battle of Manila Bay or at the decisive victory achieved by the American fleet off Santiago.

Deserters Arrested.

WARSAW, Ind., Aug. 7.—William Evans and Charles Kirkendall, charged with desertion from the United States gunboat Dixie March 16, 1901, have been arrested here by Sheriff Smith and Marshal Moon. Both young men reside on farms northeast of Warsaw, but had not been heard from until they came home Monday. Officers here have carried warrants for their arrest for more than a year. Evans and Kirkendall were taken to the Norfolk (Va.) navy yard.

Railroads' Heavy Storm Loss.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 7.—A cloudburst and heavy rains have caused a loss to the Rio Grande and Colorado Midland railroads estimated at $100,000. It may exceed this amount. Seven bridges are gone along the Rio Grande, and many miles of track has been washed away. On the Colorado Midland three bridges were destroyed, and the track was inundated or washed out between Manitou and Cascade.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Cholera is spreading alarmingly in Manchuria.

Emperor William arrived at Reval, Russia, and was received by the czar.

A cloudburst did great damage in Ute pass and at Manitou and Colorado Springs, Colo.

Daniel J. Sweeney, a mine watchman near Wilkesbarre, was waylaid by strikers and beaten to death.

At Alvin, Tex., fire destroyed two blocks of business houses, fifteen firms losing all of their stock; loss, $100,000.

Not Half of the Collieries In Shenandoah District In Shape to Open Now Were the Strike to Be Declared Off.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 7.—William Stein, the state mine inspector for the Shenandoah region, announces that five collieries under his jurisdiction which have an estimated value of $1,500,000 have been rendered useless by reason of having been flooded and have been permanently abandoned by the companies owning them. Four of them—Bear Run, East Bear Ridge, Kohinor and Preston No. 3—belong to the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, and he places their value at about $300,000 each. The other colliery is the Lawrence and is owned by the Shaefer estate of Pottsville and also represents about $300,000.

Mr. Stein estimates that out of the thirty-six collieries in his district only fourteen are in a condition for immediate operation if the strike were ended. The others are in such a condition that it would require anywhere from one to four months to clear them of water and make repairs. He said the average time would be about two months.

The abandonment of the five collieries will compel 2,000 mine workers to seek employment in other parts of the region, and they may have trouble in finding it if the thousands of men who have left the region during the strike should return. This condition of affairs, the mine inspector said, is a serious matter not only with the companies, but also with the men. After the strike shall have been ended most of the workmen will have to remain in idleness for another period of time until the collieries are placed in working condition.

In the coalfields south of here, Mr. Stein said, the situation is about as bad. But in the Wyoming and Lackawanna region the mines are in much better condition. The mine inspector's statement created considerable interest here, as it confirmed the belief of some of the coal company officials that a full resumption of coal mining will not take place this year and in consequence the tendency of coal prices will be upward rather than downward.

The situation so far as the peace of the Shenandoah region was concerned remains unchanged. Two companies of infantry are still kept on guard duty in the town, one at the Reading railway station, in a foreign settlement, and the other at the Pennsylvania railroad station, close to another foreign colony.

General Gobin in speaking of the conditions in this region said that Shenandoah for a town of its size is more thickly populated than the worst tenement district in New York. He thought the sanitary conditions in the foreign quarters of the place were extremely bad because of the lack of sewerage. In reply to a question he said he had been advised that foreigners in this vicinity were being drilled, but he would not say whether the information he had received was correct.

Paul Pulaski, national organizer of the United Mine Workers and vice president of district No. 9, who looks after the foreign members of the union, came here yesterday. He denied all the stories of secret drilling by the Polanders and others. He said there is no secret organization within the miners' union. He admitted that the Polanders who belonged to beneficial societies keep up a form of military organization, but he said this was done only to keep alive the memory of their days at home.

Mr. Pulaski addressed two large meetings of foreign speaking strikers in this city. There were from 1,500 to 2,000 men present. The men declared in meeting they would not return to work until after the strike shall have been officially declared off.

Lightning Strikes an Arsenal.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—During a severe storm lightning struck the Frankfort arsenal, in which were stored thousands of rounds of ammunition and tons of giant powder and other explosives. Fifty thousand cartridges were exploded by the lightning bolt, but the explosives did not ignite. The arsenal itself was wrecked, and several nearby buildings were shaken. The fire department arrived promptly and subdued the flames.

Shot While Resisting Arrest.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Aug. 7.—Samuel Burrows, aged twenty-five, a young farmer residing in the town of Nekimi, who Tuesday made a murderous assault upon two young men who had stopped in front of his farm, intending to get a drink of water, was surrounded yesterday by Sheriff Potter and a posse, and in the conflict Burrows was shot and died soon afterward.

Many Farmers Needed.

PIETERMARITZBURG, Natal, Aug. 7.—An important report made by the surveyor general and director of agriculture estimates that 10,000 white farmers are necessary in order to enable Natal to supply her own agricultural needs and declares that preference should be given to small farmers willing to work with their own hands.

Family of Five Burned to Death.

STOCKTON, Cal., Aug. 7.—Leo Wilder, his wife and their three children were burned to death at their country home, near the village of Elliott, in this county.

THINK IT OVER.

There are so many things which many people forget for the simple reason that they are always with us. Accustomed to see them so often, their very existence is forgotten. So it is that existing circumstances are often ignored and some careless observer assumed a state of affairs that really does not exist. So it is that many of the opponents of the Greater Plainfield scheme, although perfectly in earnest in their stand, have entirely forgotten to carefully consider existing conditions, a closer examination of which cannot fail to show the fallacy of some of their arguments.

Just forget for a moment all this talk about political jobbery and personal advancement and consider the two municipalities as they are, regardless of the personality of the population. They are naturally one. There is no natural boundary between them, they are alike in appearance. From a distance, it is impossible to tell where the city ends the borough begins.

When the county line was laid out along Green brook, there was no flourishing city of Plainfield. The settlement of that time grew in all directions. It was an admirable site for a city and little things like county lines were not regarded by those who were instrumental in building up the city. It has never been but one community, it is one community today. As the business centre of the community happens to be located in the city part, North Plainfield naturally contributes towards the welfare and prosperity of the city while Plainfield gives but little in return. It is in the city that the bulk of the stores are located. Here are all the banks and financial institutions, the two daily newspapers, the railroad station, the postoffice, and in fact all the principal institutions except the borough schools.

Who can gainsay the fact that North Plainfield is but the natural overflow of Plainfield? Both are dependent upon a single railroad, one postoffice, one express office. In all affairs of business and social life, there is no discrimination, the places are identical. Recognizing these facts, it inevitably follows that two governments are not necessary. They are only a useless waste of time and money besides being unnatural

From a barrel of seed potatoes and a one-inch advertisement in a newspaper a Michigan seed company has grown to a business of $200,000 a year in the course of six years, says the Philadelphia Record. The barrel of seed potatoes was essential as the stock of the concern, but not more necessary than was the one-inch advertisement, according to the statement of the head of the establishment. He increased his advertising at the same ratio as the stock.

If the advance accounts of the new bridge which the Jersey Central plans to build over Newark bay are true then the Jersey Central is going to have a structure of which it can well be proud. The present one is now particularly beautiful to look at and was not built to outlive the present generation. The new bridge is going to be decidedly up-to-date and a substantial structure that will stand wind and weather for many years to come.

An experienced advertiser tells the Milwaukee Sentinel that "any business enterprise, without exception, can increase its business (by advertising) to an extent that will warrant a continued advertising expenditure." This is merely to say, comments the Philadelphia Record, that it pays to let the people know that you are in business, and that there are reasons why they should trade with you.

While the outing of the Republican county committee, Saturday, is supposed to be strictly a peaceful gathering, some of the county booms are going to be launched in full force on that occasion. There is entirely too much "doing" in county circles to expect any large gathering of politicians to get together without some wire pulling.

It is pleasing to note that although the moving season passed by several months ago, there are frequent new arrivals of families who come here to take up their residence. Of these newcomers, there is seldom one who can be heard to utter anything but the highest praise for Plainfield and its beautiful surroundings.

The extension of the sanitary sewer through several miles of streets in the West End will be of much value to that section of the city. It will help the residential portions of the West End of the city at a time when they most need it. Its effect on property values will be a sure increase.

When the strikers take up assault and murder as means of preventing others from taking their places in the coal mines of Pennsylvania, they lose the sympathy of the public at large and their defeat only becomes a question of time. No situation is the slightest excuse for violence.

When Watchung avenue, between North avenue and East Fifth street, has been resurfaced, the many people who have occasion to use them daily will be well pleased.

INSPECTION ENGINE.

Baltimore and Ohio Has One Similar to Central's Old Star.

A unique engine has just been completed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at its Mount Clare shops, in Baltimore. It is designed for the use of officials in making inspection trips.

Though called an inspection engine, it really answers the purpose of a whole train. The engine has a small passenger coach constructed on top of the boiler back of the smokestack. The boiler is heavily covered with asbestos and the floor of the car with Brussels carpet. The seats in the coach are arranged in amphitheatre style, so as to give every one in the car a full view of the stack and surrounding country. Passengers enter the car by winding stairs on either side of the front pilot. The engine may be readily run in either direction.

ARRANGING FOR PYTHIANS

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS WILL GATHER AT LONG BRANCH LABOR DAY.

Long Branch Knights Are Making Elaborate Preparations for Their Entertainment.

The Long Branch Pythians are busy arranging the details of the parade of the great Pythian hosts that will swoop down on Long Branch Labor Day. Arrangements have been made with all the restaurants to feed the crowd at rates from 25 cents to $1 for a dinner and hotel rates from $1 to $4 per day. There will be a fine entertainment at Pleasure Bay, probably "Damon and Pythias" will be played. If not a vaudeville. Special low rates have been made with the bathing masters for those who wish to dip in old ocean.

Gov. Murphy and staff and the Mayor and Commissioners have been invited to review the parade. Trolley rides are being arranged, and a band of music has been secured. The drill of the Uniform Rank for prizes will probably take place in front of the Ocean Hotel. as the committee find the place originally selected too small. The Grand Lodge officers will hold a reception at the Imperial Hotel after the parade. The Grand Chancellor will personally present the prizes to each company that wins them.

The women will be entertained by a local women's committee and will occupy the parlors and balconies of the Imperial Hotel. The parade will be short. As soon as the excursions, of which fifteen are already booked, arrive, the line will form and march over the route. There may be a change made in the line of march. All business houses and private residences along the line of march have been requested to decorate in the colors of the order, red, blue and yellow. There will be fifty horsemen in line.

Grand Marshal Hon. B. P. Morris will review the uniform brigade with Brig.-Gen. W. E. Hitchcock and staff when the countermarch takes place on Broadway. The grand marshal will issue his official orders next week to all lodges and companies, giving location of divisions, etc.

The Long Branch Uniform Company will be out in full force. This company added six new members last week, one of them being the Grand Chancellor. They expect to have a number more before Field Day. New officers will be elected and Col. P. F. Shanley, Long Branch, will drill the company tomorrow night. Woodland Lodge, of Long Branch, will be in line with 100 men, wearing white trousers and white caps.

Arrangements are being made by lodges from other sections, but are not completed. From present indications from 7,000 to 8,000 people will visit Long Branch that day.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

DeWitt Brokaw, of Sycamore avenue, is spending a vacation in Maine.

Mrs. Henry Seader, of Lincoln place, is visiting relatives at Raritan.

Henry Paul, of Central avenue, has been entertaining friends from Camden.

Mrs. I. P. LaRue, of Liberty street, is sojourning at Asbury Park for a few days.

Miss Ethel King, of Craig place, is visiting friends at Gladstone for a few days.

Miss Eva Messler has returned home from a visit with friends in Hunterdon county.

Miss Mary Graves, of Liberty street, is entertaining relatives from Rhode Island.

Miss Mildred Thayer, of East Ninth street, is visiting relatives at Binghamton, N. Y.

Justice D. D. Smalley is entertaining an old friend, Jarvis Conover, of Goshen, N. Y.

Mrs. Nelson Runyon, of East Ninth street, is entertaining her sister from New York State.

Mrs. Charles Dixon, of West Fifth street, is the guest of relatives at Saratoga Springs.

Mrs. Henry Shearer, of West Front street, has gone to Brooklyn for a stay with friends.

Miss Edith GaNun, of Steiner place, is entertaining Miss Jessie Clawson, of South Plainfield.

Miss Rosabel Schroeder, of West Seventh street, is registered at the Plimpton Hotel, Watch Hill, R. I.

"Spiel" Walsh, of Madison avenue, has enlisted in the U. S. Army. Monday next he will leave for the Philippines.

Mrs. Harry Brokaw, of Somerville, has returned home after a visit with her cousin, Mrs. M. Johnston of Grove street.

Dr. G. W. Endicott has returned home from Stamford, N. Y., where he was called to attend a patient. He has abandoned his projected trip to Maine.

A SPECULATION.

It Landed a Pair of Old Offenders Behind the Bars—Disposed of Flowers Received for Hospital.

Charles Williams and Hank Southard, neither of whom need any description to be identified, received a sentence of sixty days each from City Judge Runyon, this morning. It didn't effect either of them much as it was the seventy-third time Charley has been sent to Elizabeth and Hank made his debut in court many years ago.

Sympathy for the sick in Muhlenberg Hospital is what led to their latest appearance before the Cadi. The pair visited Forrestelle's flower houses, yesterday, and asked for a few bouquets "for patients in the institution." They received a generous lot from the workmen, but on reaching town, both realized they had a chance to make a spec. The flowers were traded in the saloons for gin and Charlie and Hank forgot Muhlenberg until they woke in a cell at headquarters.

Arrested on Son's Complaint.

Albert R. Fitz Randolph, of Craig place, was arrested last evening by Borough Chief Campbell on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. His son laid the complaint against him. He will come up for trial before Recorder Doud this evening. Randolph is no stranger in the borough court.

First Dance of Series.

Members of Warren Engine Company will give their first of a series of grand balls to be held every week during the month of August in Saengerbund Hall, this evening. The committee in charge of these events are Julius J. Stahl, George H. Fairchild, A. Brokaw, D. C. Allen and F. Kesselring.

New Janitor Named.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Saengerbund, last evening, M. Menzenbach was appointed janitor in the place of Frank White. It was decided in the latter part of August to hold a kinderfest in order to give the children of the members an outing.

In Justice Hand's Court.

Owing to the absence of a vital witness, the contract case of Gast against Armstrong, was adjourned by Justice Hand yesterday. The jury had all been drawn for the occasion when it was announced that the matter would have to be left over.

Broke Her Arm.

Helen George the young daughter of Edgar George, of Craig place, whils playing about the house last evening, fell and broke her arm. The injury, though painful, was not serious.

Iona Council Will Send Big Delegation to See Presentation of a Council Brand at Amboy.

Iona Council, D. of P., will have a large delegation at Perth Amboy on the evening of August 22, if the efforts of the organization count for anything. According to the arrangements made at the meeting last evening, the council decided to pay for the stages, so that all members desirous of making the trip can do so without individual expense.

This journey will be made in response to an invitation to be present at the presentation of the new council brand to Mohawk Council, of Perth Amboy, for having made the greatest increase in membership. It is expected that there will be a large representative from all over this section of the State, and Plainfield hopes to show its strength with the others.

ROBBERY ATTEMPTED.

Man Tried to Drive Off With a Rig at Boynton Beach.

Bold robbery was attempted at Boynton Beach Tuesday night at the carriage sheds run in connection with the resort. It is the custom for visitors to leave their rigs there and to secure checks, paying a nominal sum for the accommodation. In the present instance, the man refused to show either ticket or money and when pressed for payment, he struck the attendant a heavy blow over the head with the butt of his whip. On attempting to drive off, he was intercepted and placed under arrest. Afterwards, he paid for his recklessness before a justice of the peace at Woodbridge. He gave the name of Harry Rose.

Coast Guard Crews on Duty.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, August 7—The life-saving crews along the Atlantic coast have gone on duty after two months of idleness. The various crews are made up of a captain and six patrolmen. December 1 an extra man is added to each crew. From sunset to sunrise the beach front is patroled by the guards, who travel in pairs, and who work in watches of four hours each. Captain Benjamin Van Brunt, who is in command of the Deal Beach Station, has been in the service twenty-three years.

Drummer Evangelist Spoke.

B. F. Elliott, of Revere, Mass., the "drummer evangelist," spoke last evening in the Salvation Army Hall on East Front street. Mr. Elliott is a fluent speaker and impressed his audience with his earnestness.

—Iona Council, D. of P., adopted one candidate at the meeting held last evening.

—Do you have frequent headaches? If so, look to your eyes. Properly fitting glasses will correct the trouble. Stiles & Co., 107 East Front street, Thursday.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 10—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—A suggestion in addition.—II Pet. 1, 4-9.

The reference here is to the familiar passage in the epistle of Peter in which he sets forth the necessity and importance of developing many of the Christian graces. The Christian life consists of no one virtue, but of many, and these are intimately associated together, and the development of one oftimes leads to the development of another, and the neglect of one will also often hinder the growth and development of others. Therefore, the apostle says to his readers, "Giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue and to virtue knowledge and to knowledge temperance and to temperance patience and to patience godliness and to godliness brotherly kindness and to brotherly kindness charity." This is the sum in addition to which the topic refers.

The lesson before us in addition consists of eight parts. (1) Faith. Faith is the foundation. It is not taken for granted. Without faith it is impossible to please God or to serve Him. A life might contain many noble virtues, but unless based upon and inspired by faith in God through Christ it is not acceptable unto him. (2) Virtue. This is not charity, but valor. It refers to bravery or to Christian courage. It is the courage that inspires a man with no fear of doing right, but makes him afraid to do that which is wrong in the sight of God. (3) Knowledge. The knowledge here referred to is not the knowledge which comes through the study of books, but practical knowledge. It is a knowledge that makes us know the right and the wrong and includes the power of doing the right and shunning the wrong. (4) Temperance. The word temperance here means self control. It has no special application to sobriety or temperance in drink. It includes temperance in all things—control of the tongue, the temper and the appetites and the passions. (5) Patience. There is no more important virtue than that of Christian patience. God Himself is our greatest example of patience. How patiently He bears with us in all our shortcomings and in our transgressions against His law! In this respect we should follow His example. (6) Godliness. Godliness refers to reverence for God or to piety. It should include reverence for everything that pertains to God and should manifest itself in a pious and godly life. (7) Brotherly kindness. All men are brothers in the Lord Jesus Christ. It follows therefore that brotherly kindness includes all men. It refers not to those who are bound to us by the natural ties of life, but those who are bound to us by the common tie of relationship to Jesus Christ. Our attitude toward all these should be that of kindness. Kind words and kind deeds should characterize our relationship to all men. (8) Charity. Charity means love. It includes love to God and also love to men.

The importance of all these virtues, both singly and in combination, is evident and apparent to us all. The beauty of a life founded upon faith and developed by the addition of such virtues as the apostle has mentioned until it reaches its climax in love to God and love to men is self evident and is at once seen to be worthy the ambition and the desire of all Christians.

It is worth noticing also that these virtues are intimately associated the one with the other. If one figure in a problem in addition is wrong, it necessarily makes the entire problem wrong. It would be impossible to get the correct result if one of the parts of the problem is defective. It is also true in our moral lives that one defective virtue may destroy the beauty and the glory of many others. How many people there are in the world who would be looked upon almost as models if it were not for one defect in their lives. A false note in music will destroy the entire harmony; so a false note in one's life will destroy its harmony. These graces must be developed in the developing of each one of them. Therefore it well becomes us to give time and thought to the solution of this problem suggested here by the apostle. We should strive to be proficient in adding one virtue to the other until we shall possess the entire list and are able to demonstrate in our lives that this example has been correctly solved.

The Spirit and the Method.

Never has the spirit of the Master been more richly shed abroad in the hearts of His disciples. On the other hand, never was the Christian church so tempted by wild and impossible schemes, so open to all kinds of delirious talk, so trustful to unknown and irresponsible adventurers, so considerate to faddists and amiable eccentrics, so impatient of common sense and moderate counsels. Never was our religion so zealous or so impulsive, never so devoted or so excited, never so ready to hear or so careless whether the speaker be a prophet or a charlatan. Never has there been more of Jesus' spirit or less of Jesus' method.—Ian Maclaren's "Life of the Master."

Contentment.

No grace is more essential to happiness and usefulness than contentment.—"Windows For Sermons."

Her Angelus.

Among the leaves she hears the old sweet story
That nature loves to tell in twilight hours;
Along the western sky she sees the glory
Of sunset splendor caught from heavenly bowers.
She stands transfigured in the tall dark grasses;
The mystic scene and spell her heart rejoice;
She feels God's presence as the daylight passes
And in the stillness, praying, hears His voice.

—Philadelphia Ledger.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 10, "A Suggestion In Addition." Text, II Pet. 1, 4-9.

What we are is shown by what we would like to have. Not what one has, but what he wants, is the best test of his nature. But we are not very often able to get all the things we wish. Many seek to be rich; only a few succeed. Many want to be happy; multitudes only succeed in being miserable. There are many things which most folks can never have.

But the most desirable things in all the world are freely and fully open to every one who truly wishes for them. Peter says that "all things that pertain to life and godliness" are given to us. This means more than existing, more than getting health and wealth and the things of the world. Jesus asked, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Our goal is the gaining the true self, the attaining unto likeness to the divine nature, the participation in the power and perfections of God, and so sharing in His glory and blessedness. This chance to get the highest and best which is possible does not come to us from our common nature, but is a gift of God. It is a special privilege offered us by His glory and power. It comes through a peculiar knowing of God which is entirely different from the ordinary knowledge of God. This is in addition to all the ordinary mercies and benefits which are given to men in the common course of life.

The divine power and glory have given to us the fulfillment of what was promised to the fathers and only dimly understood by them. The promise of a personal Saviour has been kept. This was the first promise made the sinful race and carries with it all possibilities of goodness. This Son of God has been given us as our Redeemer. With Him was also promised the Holy Spirit to be our guide and helper. The prophecy of His coming brightened all the Old Testament ages. Jesus repeated the assurance which the Baptist had with great energy given that the spirit of power and purity should be given the seekers after God. This promise has been fulfilled, and we have received the gift more precious than all others which human nature can have.

Life takes on new meaning and worth is added to it beyond all calculation as the Saviour and Holy Spirit give power and beauty to the soul to become like the divine Father, escaping from the lust and corruption which are in the world.

The end is not here. The power and glory are wholly a gift of God, but our acceptance and participation are not passive, but full of action and self exercise. The beginning is in our faith in God. The final end is in love. Between these lie all the active virtues of Christian being and doing. These qualities of our nature aid each other and hand in hand make a glorious company of helpers and defenders of the soul life.

God gives the Saviour and Holy Spirit. We are to contribute diligence. In our faith we are to add virtue, which is the old idea of fortitude, firmness, manliness—not effeminacy nor ease, but vigor and strenuousness of life. In this vigorous life we are to add knowledge or discretion, a sobriety and discernment of right. Then we acquire self control and hold appetites to their proper place. This leads to patience, a temper of soul which does not fret nor hurry, but bides its time. All this leads to a godlikeness and oneness with God which produce care for fellow men and are crowned with genuine love.

The Value of Sentiment.

Sentiment is more potent among men than is logic or morals, and it is well that this is so, for sentiment really gives practical power to both logic and morals in the realm of man's highest and profoundest personality. What is anything worth living for but a sentiment? Love of one's flag, that makes so many ready to die for it, is but a sentiment. Honoring the memory of a dead dear one—of one's child or wife or mother—is only a sentiment. Observing sacredly Christmas or Good Friday or Easter is a sentiment. Doing what is demanded by hard logic or cold duty is comparatively a lifeless act unless the life and warmth of sentiment accompany it. Logic and duty are dependent for most of their practical efficiency on sentiment. That fact should be borne in mind by whoever would lead or inspire his fellows in the right way.—Sunday School Times.

Character Ripening.

Not all Christian people bear loss, sorrow and sickness in a victorious way. Too often do we see men yielding to trouble, not growing more beautiful in soul, but losing their spiritual beauty in life's trials. This is not the way it should be, however. Our character should ripen in life's weather, whatever the weather may be. "Tribulation worketh patience." The object of life is to learn to live. We are at school here and shall always be at school until we are dismissed from earth's classes to be promoted into heaven. It is a pity if we do not learn our lessons. It is a pity if we grow no gentler, no kindlier, no more thoughtful; no more unselfish, no more unworldly as the years pass over us.—Christian Intelligencer.

Love.

Love is a day.
With no thought of morrow.
Love is a joy.
With no thought of sorrow.
Love is to give,
With no thought of receiving.
Love is to trust,
Without quite believing.

How the Latest Skirts Are Trimmed. Flounces Popular.

Cloth skirts are being flounced with silk, and silk and satin dresses have flounces of chiffon (which should be put on double), point d'esprit, net, gauze, etc. Grenadine is too stiff for shaped flounces. It looks best in straight frilled flounces. Kilted and box plaited flounces look well in glace or foulard. Muslin frills are pretty. They can also be shaped and edged with narrow ribbon.

Alternate bands of silk and lace insertion compose many handsome gowns. Dresses of all over white and beige embroidery are finished with rows of tiny satin ribbon ruffles. Generally all the summer dresses are made with elbow sleeves beautifully finished with lace ruffles and ribbon bows. Gowns of transparent material are appliqued with lace medallions placed here and there on the body of the gown. Black velvet ribbon is often used as a finish. Figured lawns, swisses and dimities are very pretty and are made elaborate.

The pretty French hat in the cut is of coarse ecru straw trimmed with black silk flowers and green leaves.

FOR HOUSE WEAR.

Negligees Are Growing More and More Elaborate.

Negligee attire is growing more and more elaborate. Indeed fussiness is essential to almost every up to date garment. At present it is possible fortunately to copy the most costly models at a comparatively small outlay, so highly wrought robes and jackets are the rule. A potent aid in much of this copying is the abundance of cotton fabrics made in imitation of silk. All the light mercerized goods have been made available for house gowns, negligees and the like, and while not a few of these are worthy of really fine trimmings there is no end of inexpensive things which will set them off nicely.

Many white fine materials are utilized for tea gowns. Most of these are made according to empire designs and trimmed with dainty laces. White tea gowns are stylish in dainty lawns and muslins trimmed with valenciennes lace and insertion. Some are made with Spanish flounces tucked or trimmed with lace. Others have plain gathered ruffles headed with embroidered beadings having pale colored ribbons run through.

The illustration shows a very pretty dressing jacket. It is made of checked lawn ornamented with a fine design. The fullness is gathered into a square yoke. The fronts and bottom are banded with plain silk. The sleeves are cut Chinese fashion and also banded with the silk.

Valuable Manuscripts.

The two greatest manuscripts in America, according to the Bookman, are the manuscript of the Declaration of Independence, which is in the government archives and which has become illegible, and the life of Benjamin Franklin, written by himself, the only manuscript entirely in his own handwriting, which changed hands and was added to a private collection in New York city. The Franklin manuscript was discovered in France some years ago in the possession of the descendants of M. Le Vaillard, to whom it had been given by William Temple Franklin, Franklin's grandson.

Stairs of Sand

By

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

He seemed to lapse into a sad and thoughtful mood after that as he turned and made his way to the highroad, leaping the fences mechanically, immersed in (what seemed to be from his expression) very bitter thoughts.

For a moment he stood in the middle of the road, looking up and down, as if undecided which way to go. It seemed to be a matter that required some consideration, but presently he nodded, and, turning, made his way along the highway that led in a northerly direction.

"I promised to take that letter to the young lady. I wonder if I shall have any trouble in seeing her. Perhaps I am altogether too sure of what I can do, and what pressure I can bring to bear on others. None too sure of my own liberty, for that matter. Go slow, Job, slow, or you will spoil everything!"

He had reached a little brook spanned by a wooden bridge, and he stopped for a moment to wipe the perspiration from his face, for the day was oppressively hot.

As he leaned there for a moment, with his hat off, resting and cooling himself, a peculiar ringing of a bell reached his ears, coming from the direction of the town he had just left. Job thrust his hat on his head, and turned to see an old man approaching. On his breast he carried some sort of a placard with an inscription, and a bell attached by a strap around one of his wrists. With the free hand he felt his way with a long staff.

"Seems to me the blind man is making his way into a mighty unprofitable neighborhood, if he keeps on the way he is going. Poor devil! He has much less to live for than I have. I guess I'll set him right and tip him something for the mistake of his taking the wrong road."

The patriarchal figure, in earth-colored rags, drew near. He was a tall man, and bent with years, his long, white hair falling almost to his shoulders.

Hendricks, who had taken out a piece of money, dropped it into the tin cup which the blind man wore attached to a leather belt about his waist. At the clinking sound of the coin dropping in the tin, the old man paused.

"God bless you, mister, and may the Lord and all His angels watch over you day and night."

He wore dark glasses over his eyes, showing that he could not be wholly blind.

"I'm afraid that you are going out of your way, friend," replied Job, gently.

"Out of my way?"

"Yes; you are heading for the open country. You have left the town—you had better return, or something might happen to you, off alone on a road that contains few houses."

"Well, now, it's mighty lucky I struck you, ain't it? I generally have a boy to go about with me, but the imp has run away fishin' or to join in some mischief. I thought I'd see how I could manage for myself."

"You live here, then?" and Job pinched himself, for he fancied that he saw a very bright eye peering at him out of the corner of one of the glasses.

"Live here?" the old man laughed. "Catch me livin' in the country. The city is the place for pickin's, but I makes it a rule to visit all the towns near by in the summer months, as it sort o' improves my health. A mean, measly, ongenerous lot o' folks they are, these here country pelicans; I can't abear 'em, I can't! Want to give ye old clothes and cold victuals, 'stead o' money. No, you don't find yer gran'dad livin' in the kentry when he has the city streets for a lay."

"He certainly has a fine pair of eyes back of those gig lamps, the old fraud," muttered Job, who had been watching the man intently and was confident that he was a humbug.

"Perhaps you will be so very kind as to turn me about in the right direction for the town," quavered the alleged blind man.

"I'd rather give you a heave into the brook," was what ran through Job's mind at that moment, regretting that he had wasted his charity on such an old fraud. He took the man, however, by the arm, and set his face toward the town.

Whether he was unnecessarily rough in the operation, or whether the other stumbled, at least one thing happened—his great green spectacles fell off in the road. Job stooped and restored them to him, but, as he did so, he looked at the man's face and he drew away instinctively, as if overcome with a sudden fear.

"Am I all right now?" asked the other.

"All right," murmured Hendricks, who had recovered his equanimity.

"Good-day."

"Good-day."

The blind man plodded on, tapping the road with his cane. Job, after watching him for a moment, turned and almost ran from the place.

"Could it be?" he murmured, when he was forced to pause for breath. "Could he have followed me here and I thought that I was safe?" Then he raised his hands impotently toward Heaven and said: "Oh, God, give me time—time for all that I have to do!"

CHAPTER IV.

THE COPPER CYLINDER.

Job Hendricks passed on his way much mystified with what he had seen, but as he found himself alone on the country road his spirits revived and he thought that he must be mistaken in supposing he had just been face to face with one whose presence he feared. "Not much changed after all these years," he murmured, as he looked to right and left over the smiling landscape. "Thank Heaven! it was in the country and not the city, for, in the latter case, all traces might have been lost."

Evidently the beauties of nature did not appeal to him particularly on that occasion, though the glories of summer rested on the land.

He seemed to be in quest of something, and anxious lest he should not find it.

When at last a wood came in sight his steps quickened and his furrowed brow became more deeply lined with anxiety. From right to left he glanced with his sharp eyes, examining the trees on each side searchingly and carefully.

"The forest is standing yet, much as I left it," he muttered to himself. "It has stood still, looking not a bit older, while I have been aging. Well, things promise well, for it might have been laid waste by a forest fire, or cut down and a town built on the site. Matters are not so bad as might be. You will come out ahead I think, Job, from the appearance of things."

He began to walk more slowly now, and occasionally paused to consider, rubbing his nose thoughtfully the while, as he examined the trees and bushes with the keen interest of a naturalist. It was in one of these stops that, looking up, he saw something that drew a startled exclamation from his lips. It was a bit of red flannel fluttering from the limb of a maple.

The sight of such an unimportant object seemed to worry him greatly, then he drew near the bushes that lined the edge of the road like a green wall, and, pushing them aside, plunged into the undergrowth.

"I would just as leave not have such people nosing about," he muttered. "But they know me better than to interfere with my work." He forced his way through the thickest of the underbrush and entered a little glade in the midst of which rose the stump of what must have been a great tree.

The man smiled at the sight, and, waving his hand toward it, said: "Bless ye, old fellow, for standing sentinel so long. Your usefulness did not cease when you were struck by lightning."

He passed the tree and went on his way down one of the aisles of the forest which at one time must have been a wagon road, but was now overrun with grasses. Now and then he paused to reconnoiter and to look around.

From time to time he smiled and nodded his head, as if satisfied that he was pursuing the right path.

ROBERTS AND KITCHENER.

City of London Presents Valuable Gifts to Victorious Leaders.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The corporation of the city of London celebrated the conclusion of peace in South Africa last night with a reception in the Guildhall tendered jointly to Lord Roberts, commander in chief of the forces, and Lord Kitchener. Both the guests were presented with addresses commemorating their distinguished war services and in the case of Lord Kitchener paying especial tribute to his conduct of the negotiations which led to the surrender of the Boers.

The address to Lord Roberts was inclosed in a golden jeweled casket, elaborately designed. At the request of Lord Kitchener a silver plate service was substituted for the gold casket intended for him.

Lord Roberts responding to the presentation speech made by Sir Joseph C. Dimsdale, lord mayor of London, paid a tribute to Lord Kitchener as "the general whose guidance had brought the war to its successful conclusion."

Lord Kitchener, in his turn, alluded to Lord Roberts as the "ever victorious field marshal." He especially praised the colonial troops who fought in South Africa.

Twenty-five hundred guests were present at the reception. They applauded the distinguished soldiers, surrounded them and shook them by the hands. The notable assemblage present included foreign coronation guests of the country, the colonial premiers, ministers, generals and high naval officials.

LADRONES DEFEATED.

They Had Looted a Village on a Military Reservation.

MANILA, Aug. 7.—A detachment of the Thirteenth infantry engaged and defeated a band of ladrones near Marivelez, Bataan province, Luzon, Monday.

The ladrones had looted a village located on a military reservation, and the detachment of the Thirteenth was dispatched against them at the request of the people and officials of the village. The ladrones opened on the soldiers from cover. The Americans replied to this fire and quickly dispersed the Filipinos.

From records captured by men of the Thirteenth it was learned that the ladrones were members of the Katipunan society. The framework and organization of this branch of the Katipunan extends through the provinces of Bataan, Bulacan, Rizal and Cavite. The movement, however, is not regarded seriously. It has no leaders of prominence, and the men are without arms. The native constabulary is operating actively to destroy the organization, and the police of Manila have arrested twenty persons suspected of plotting with the Katipunan. Numerous arrests have also been made in adjoining provinces.

General Chaffee will leave Manila next Monday on board the United States army transport Ingalls for his final tour of the Philippine Islands. He purposes visiting the principal stations in the southern islands, including Lake Lanao, in the Moro country of Mindanao.

More Out Corner Injunctions.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—Eleven more injunctions developing out of the corner in July oats have been issued here. Judge Chytraus granted six in favor of H. C. Avery & Co., and Judge Chetlain issued five on the complaint of J. H. Norton. The petitions aver, as have former ones, that the plaintiffs sold July oats "short" to the defendants and that if they are compelled to settle under board of trade rules they will suffer by reason of fictitious settlement prices. The writs run against commission houses, President Warren of the board of trade and the Bank of Montreal to stop collection of margins. The first injunction cases that were to be heard before Judge Chytraus were postponed until today. Forty-five injunction cases have developed out of the corner to date.

Great Negro Gathering.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 7.—Fully 7,000 negroes gathered yesterday afternoon in the Agricultural building, Piedmont park, for the opening session of the Negro Young People's Christian and Educational congress, which is the most extensive convention of colored people ever held in the United States. Bishop Wesley J. Gaines of the African Methodist Episcopal church is the president of the conference, and his address was the feature of the opening day. Addresses of welcome were made by Governor Candler of Georgia and Mayor Mills of Atlanta. The greetings of the Methodist Episcopal church were extended by Bishop John M. Walden of Cincinnati.

Battle of Oriskany Celebrated.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the battle of Oriskany was celebrated by a number of prominent members of the D. A. R., who visited the monument and battlefield. It had been designed to hold exercises there, but as the weather was threatening an adjournment was taken to Summit park, where the programme was carried out.

Fatal Accident at a Trestle.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Aug. 7.—An excursion train on the Illinois Central caught five young ladies on a high trestle at Dawson Springs yesterday afternoon. Two were crushed to death, and the others, jumping, were probably fatally injured.

Boy of Seven Kills One of Five.

LAFOLLETTE, Tenn., Aug. 7.—In a dispute Ira Balton, aged seven, shot and instantly killed his five-year-old brother with a .22 caliber target gun because he would not comply with his wishes.

EDWARD IN LONDON.

Return of the King Calls Out Immense Crowds.

JOURNEY MADE WITHOUT FATIGUE.

Populace Surprised to See His Majesty Looking So Well — Even Better Than Before His Long Illness.

LONDON, Aug. 7. — King Edward and Queen Alexandra arrived in London late yesterday afternoon.

Victoria station was profusely decorated with flags, bunting, shields and heraldic devices. The only foreign colors displayed in the whole scheme of decoration were three large American flags and shields, one being suspended opposite the point at which the royal carriage stopped.

The admiring comments of the crowd along the king's route from Victoria station to Buckingham palace were mingled with expressions of amazement at the appearance of his majesty riding in an open landau and much of the time bareheaded, he having removed his silk hat. The king kept continually bowing and smiling in response to the cheers of the people. Fortunately there was little rain during the drive to the palace. The long route via Grosvenor place and Hyde park corner and thence down Constitution hill was followed.

The king passed through a great sea of waving hats and handkerchiefs as he drove up to the palace. He was apparently not fatigued by the excitement of his reception.

Among the thousands of people who lined the route from the railway station to the palace there was a universal exclamation of "How well he looks!" as the royal carriage passed through the streets. The public was prepared to see a man who had had a good convalescence, but his majesty's actual appearance really astonished them. There is less flesh on the face, and the skin is clear under a fresh tint of sunburn, while the suggestion of puffiness which had given the countenance an unsatisfactory color for some time past has entirely vanished.

Train Wrecked by Torrent.

FLORENCE, Colo., Aug. 7.—A Rio Grande special passenger train from the east, bound to California and carrying 300 tourists, was ditched just east of Florence, near Swallows, yesterday. The wreck was caused by the train being struck by a wall of water eight feet high coming down Peck creek, caused by the heavy rains in the mountains south of here. A brakeman saw the torrent when it was only a short distance from the train. He rushed through the eight coaches and told the passengers on the two rear cars to hurry to the front of the train. Just as the last tourist left the rear coach the water struck the cars and, breaking the couplings, hurled them forty feet from the track. A sleeping car was thrown against the farmhouse of J. G. Roberts, occupied by himself, his wife and three children. The car formed a wall and turned the water from the house, thus saving the building from going into the river and also the lives of its occupants.

Hopes to Avoid "L" Strike.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 7.—Grand Chief P. M. Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers says concerning the threatened strike of the engineers on the Manhattan elevated railroad in New York: "I have just returned from Canada and am not fully advised in regard to the situation. However, Assistant Grand Chief Youngson has gone to New York. I don't anticipate any trouble in adjusting the grievances of our men on the Manhattan. We have a contract with that company made in 1885. I presume new conditions have arisen as a result of the company adopting electricity as a motive power. It can be stated that there will be no strike if it can possibly be avoided."

Engineers and Laborers Killed.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Aug. 7.—Two engineers and many laborers were killed yesterday afternoon in a collision two miles west of Rhodes, this county, between a fast freight and a work train. It is not known how many were killed, but eight bodies had been recovered at last accounts. Both engineers were killed, and one fireman's leg was cut off. The other fireman was saved by jumping. Seventy-eight laborers were on the work train. The freight met the work train going at full speed on a reverse curve.

Case Decided Against Miners.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 7.—Judge Goff has decided the habeas corpus case against the miners and agitators and remanded them to the custody of the marshal and sheriff, and they will be removed to Parkersburg to serve the balance of their sentences under the injunction proceedings. The decision is a great disappointment to the miners, and their counsel say that no other action can be taken.

Americans Won at Tennis.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The Dwight F. Davis international lawn tennis challenge cup appears to be destined to continue to repose in this country. Both Malcolm D. Whitman and William A. Larned, the Americans, played better than Dr. Joshua Pim and R. F. Doherty, the Englishmen, in the two sets played in the opening contests in the singles on the courts of the Crescent Athletic club at Bay Ridge.

ON THE DIAMOND.

During the absence of Catcher Moore of the Y. M. C. A. team his place will be taken by Second baseman Barnes. Center-field Smith will hold down second and his place will be filled by Bowman, the recently signed player.

Patrolman William McCarthy is rapidly becoming an expert baseball player and if he continues he will undoubtedly be graduating from the policemen's team. The way he covered short, Tuesday, was astonishing for one who has so little time to practice.

It is said that Manager John Cose has declared himself against "calling down" any of the Hope players for future misplays, especially from center field. He says it may look rank from the grandstand when an error is made but sometimes there are extenuating circumstances—especially when the man is playing out of his position.

Local Red Men will probably meet on the diamond in a public contest within the course of the next few weeks. Plans are being considered by the members of the two tribes, Miantonomo and Wetumkah, to let the paleface world in as spectators when the braves of the tomahawk and war club go on the bloody trail. It may be decided to play the game in the interest of local charity.

Saturday's hall game between the Scotch Plains and Roselle Field Club will be one of the hottest games of the season. There has always been considerable rivalry between the two teams and Scotch Plains' win against the other team several weeks ago will make the visitors play the game of their lives to try and redeem that defeat. The Roselles are one of the few clubs who have shut the 'Plains out for seven straight innings during the season.

Manager Johnston, of the Scotch Plains baseball team, has good news for the fans. "Chic" Crusins, who left the team last week to play with the Rockville Centres, of Long Island, still has a yearning for the Scotch Plains team and people and will don a local uniform again Saturday afternoon. This will save all trouble of trying out candidates for the important position of shortstop, and while trying to find the right one possibly lose several games.

The best team Rahway can assemble is going to Westfield Saturday to do battle with the semi-professionals. There is much conjecture as to how the Rahwegians will line up, as rumor has it that no stone will be left unturned to put up a nine that will ensure victory. It is currently reported that Brogan, of the Scotch Plains team, will catch a crack twirler imported for the occasion, and that among the fast men will be Captain Compton, of the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. It is certain that Rahway, with its old-time reputation for fast ball, will do its best to maintain that honor. Walsh, who struck out eleven of the Watsessings and allowed them but two hits last Saturday, will be in the box for Westfield.

GOLF.

The golf team of the Westfield Golf Club was very anxious to arrange a match for Saturday with the Park Golf Club but the absence of so many of the best players of the Park Golf Club will compel a postponement of the event. It was planned to play Saturday afternoon at Westfield and have each club represented by eight men. R. I. Townley, captain of the Westfield team, and the golf committee of the Park Club carried on the negotiations. Gus W. Faber and William. R. Townsend both leave this week for their summer vacations. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards and Rev. J. O. McKelvey are both absent. Several of the other crack players have other engagements so the match will have to be called off until some future day.

TENNIS.

Play was continued in the tennis tournament at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. Dr. Whitford defeated Robert Scull, 6-3.

TO MEET NEWARK'S FINEST

PLAINFIELD POLICE ACCEPTED CHALLENGE OF NEWARK'S FOURTH PRECINT.

This Baseball Game Will be Played in This City Next Wednesday Afternoon.

Not content with wresting games from the Elizabeth cop team and the local firemen, the Plainfield blue coat nine is now casting about for higher honors on the diamond. Since their overwhelming defeat of the county seat aggregation, they have received challenges galore, one of which has been from the Fourth precinct team, of Newark. This nine has been particularly anxious to get a game in this city and this morning Chief Kiely wired them he would accept their terms. The contest will take place on the St. Mary grounds, Wednesday afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock. The Fourth precinct team is regarded as the champion bluecoat nine of the State and to make a proper showing Captain Overbaugh will overhaul his line-up. He has several good men to strengthen weak places and is confident he can come out ahead. He has also ordered every member of the team out for steady practice under the supervision of League players.

TO RELIEVE NURSE.

Plans Regarding the Baby Camp on the Mountain.

The executive committee of the city union of King's Daughters met in the Y. M. C. A. parlors this morning at 10 o'clock. Although no quorum was present it was informally decided, that Miss Evans, the nurse at the baby camp, should have some assistance to prevent the possibility of her injuring her health. It was voted that Miss Delaney should be secured to attend to the work on the mounain and that Miss Evans look after the city for a while. An oil stove will be purchased for use at the camp. During the last two weeks thirty-two children were cared for, besides mothers.

—In fresh vegetables, Neuman Brothers are showing at present, lima beans, fancy sweet corn, Jersey tomatoes, green and wax beans and Boston lettuce.

A TRIBUTE TO C. M. BURT

PAID BY LAST ISSUE OF THE RAILROAD EMPLOYE.

Calls Him One of the Most Popular, Efficient and Up-to-Date General Passenger Agents.

A very pleasing but truthful tribute is paid to C. M. Burt, of West Seventh street, this city, now general passenger agent of the Jersey Central Railroad, in the last issue of The Railroad Employe, a monthly publication. It says:

"One of the most popular, efficient and up-to-date general passenger agents in the United States is Charles Munson Burt, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

"Mr. Burt is the youngest man in the railroad service occupying the position of general passenger agent, and the record he has made since his appointment as the head of the New Jersey Central's passenger department is one of which any man might be justly proud.

"Although a young man, Mr. Burt has seen nearly a quarter of a century of railroad service, commencing in 1879 as a clerk in the auditor's office of the N. Y., P. & O. R. R., at Meadville, Pa.

"He remained in this position until 1882, when he left the railway service to take a position with the quartermaster department, U. S. A., at St. Louis. In 1883 Mr. Burt again entered railroad service as rate clerk in the general passenger office of the old West Shore in New York City, and in 1888 he was made chief clerk in the Trunk Line Passenger Association. When the Joint Passenger Association was formed in 1896, he was placed in charge, where he remained until its dissolution, caused by the unfavorable decision of the United States Supreme Court. On July 1, 1899, Mr. Burt was appointed general passenger agent of the Fitchburg Railroad in Boston, remaining in that position until its absorption by the Boston and Maine Railroad, when he was made assistant general passenger agent.

"When General Passenger Agent Baldwin, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, died in April, 1900, Mr. Burt was called to his position, which he has since so ably filled.

"What he has accomplished toward the betterment of the passenger service of the Central is too well known to need repetition here; the splendid service which that company is according the public speaks for itself.

"With the advent of the new management of the Central, in which men of Mr. Burt's character and standing are brought to the helm of the affairs of the corporation, Mr. Burt fits admirably as a working link in the chain which is bringing the New Jersey Central to the front as one of the best managed railroads in America.

"The New Jersey Central is a line upon which the possibilities of building up an ideal system is most flattering and with the advent of the new order of things which came with General Manager Beeler's appointment and its consequent beneficial effect in all departments of the service, we may look for one of the greatest records in the history of railroading in the passenger department, and no man living is better qualified to make that record than is Mr. Burt."

The Story of San Juan Hill.

At the Rescue Mission meeting in the First Church of Christ this evenenig, George Lucas, of Company K, Second U. S. cavalry, will speak and give details of the heroic charge at San Juan Hill. Mr. Lucas is spoken of as a very interesting talker. On account of the military subject of the address a special invitation is extended to all G. A. R. and Company K men to be present.

A Dog Case.

Barney Block was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged by the police with allowing his dog to run at large unmuzzled. Sentence was suspended.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

DEATH OF GEO. J. BARRY.

Passed Away While in the Prime of Life Last Night.

Death ended the sufferings of George J. Barry, of Greenbrook road, last night, after an illness of some duration. He was thirty years old and unmarried and is survived by a mother and two brothers. Formerly following the trade of a lather at one of the local shops, he had recently been employed as a coachman by George Dupee, of Washington Park.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 8:30 at the house and at 9 o'clock from St. Joseph's church, where a solemn requiem high mass will be offered.

Funeral of Suicide.

Funeral services over the remains of Joseph Hasenstab, the Westfield suicide, were held from Cole's undertaking parlors, yesterday afternoon. Only his parents and near relatives from New York were present. Interment was made in the Plainfield avenue cemetery. No item of expense was spared in the funeral and all bills were paid by the parents, who are well to do.

PLAINFIELD AS IT STANDS TODAY

The City's Attractions Well Set Forth by Mayor Jenkins in Letter to The New York Tribune.

Plainfield has had no better advertisement for years than the letter from the pen of Mayor O. L. Jenkins which appeared in Sunday's New York Tribune. It was accompanied by a few views of Plainfield which give but a faint idea of the beautiful residental city here. The letter served its purpose well. It was a concise statement of the attractions which this city has to offer. That it will have its effect in booming Plainfiled there can be no doubt as the Tribune circulates among a class which Plainfield would be glad to see many more from.

The letter was such an excellent one that it will well repay every resident of the city to read it. For the benefit of those who did not see its original publication, it is printed in full herewith:

To the Editor of The Tribune.

Sir: A stranger standing at any of the four railroad stations of Plainfield during the busy morning or evening hours would scarcely deny to this city the title of "a New York bedroom," for some fifteen hundred commuters pass through these stations daily on their way to and from the trains running between Plainfield and New York.

The importance of the city to the Central Railroad of New Jersey may be judged by the fact that it furnishes more than forty trains each way daily, many of which make the trip in forty-five minutes, including the time crossing the ferry, and during the busiest hours trains run which make no stops between Plainfield and New York. Passengers on the railroad bear testimony to its comfortable cars, its superior roadbed and its unusual freedom from coal dust.

While discussing the city with our residents we find that their favorite designation is "the City of Homes," with an emphasis on the word "homes," which shows that they use the word in its highest and best sense.

A more detailed examination convinces one that the name is well chosen, for what always impresses the visitor is the large number of thrifty, well kept, attractive grounds; it is, as one has expressed it, "a city of lovely homes."

These homes vary in cost from $1,000 to a hundred times as much, but most, even of the poorer ones, show plainly the pride taken by the citizens in keeping everything about their places in the best possible order.

Only a few of the fences which originally bordered the older streets remain; so that the velvety lawns now stretch from the houses to the flagstone sidewalks, and from these to the curb lines, giving the streets a spacious and parklike appearance. Stately trees, well trimmed, unite their branches in arches of green above, and afford a grateful shade.

There are thirty-four miles of macadamized streets in the city proper, which are the admiration of all visitors, and which certainly are not excelled for smoothness and durability by any in the country. These fine roadways are not confined to the thickly settled portions, but stretch out into the suburbs and connect with the various county roads in every direction, making our city an ideal one for driving and cycling, and for the enjoyment of what is no doubt the coming vehicle, the automobile. The sidewalks are mostly flagged with bluestone, so that trains, schools and churches may be reached dryshod in all weathers.

Of Plainfield's water supply it is only necessary to say that it is drawn from deep driven wells in a sparsely settled part of the city, and that it is of exceptional purity, and so abundant that it is pumped to Fanwood, Westfield, Cranford, Roselle and Elizabeth. The pressure is sufficient to render the use of fire engines unnecessary except in rare instances, and the hydrants are so closely located that the houses are easily reached with streams from the fire hose.

We have twenty-six miles of sanitary sewers and are about to add four more miles, and our sewage disposal system embodies the latest discoveries, being adopted with the approval of the State Board of Sewerage Commissioners.

Two brooks, running through the city, receive the surface water from the streets, but there are many storm water sewers, which relieve those streets where the accumulation of water in heavy storms would be objectionable, and another such sewer is to be constructed this year.

The streets are lighted by electricity; not by a few dazzling arc lights (except in the business section), but by a large number of incandescent lamps, which are kept lighted every night in the year.

Geologically, Plainfield is of glacial origin, the terminal moraine at the eastern end of the city making ideal sites for the elegant country residences which crown its beautiful knolls. The underwash plain, on which the larger part of the city is located, is especially healthful, on account of the dry sand and gravel of which it is composed; the city is free from malaria, and is recommended by New York and Brooklyn physicians as a suitable place of residence for their patients suffering from catarrhal, throat and lung troubles.

A trolley system, consisting of six lines radiating from the central station, not only serves to make the different parts of the city and adjacent borough of North Plainfield conveniently accessible, but it affords the means of taking delightful excursions—northwest to the Watchung Mountains; northeast to the various towns between Plainfield and Elizabeth; east to Staten Island Sound; southeast to the picturesque grounds of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, which are unsurpassed for beauty and for the care which is taken in maintaining them; southwest to Bound Brook, New Brunswick, Somerville and beyond. The introduction of this trolley system has opened up a large area of land especially desirable for building sites, and many new houses have been erected all along its lines.

Plainfield has, with North Plainfield, a population of about nineteen thousand; it has but few saloons, and these are regulated by a strict excise law. There are a number of excellent hotels, the Netherwood and the Mountain Park Inn being especially well known from their conspicuous location—the former on Netherwood Heights, and the latter overlooking the city from the Watchung Mountains.

Rents are reasonable, and good houses may be obtained to fit any purse. We have two national banks, a savings bank, a trust company, and several substantial building loan associations.

In her city government Plainfield has been particularly fortunate. Citizens of the highest rank, both commuters and local business men, have always been found who were willing to serve the people in the Common Council, and the people have been glad to elect such men to manage the city's affairs. The police and paid fire departments are considered models by visitors from larger cities, and they well deserve their reputation. Our people sleep in peace and security.

Considering all the benefits received by the people, the tax rate is very moderate, viz.: $2.50 on $100, and this on a low valuation; as the taxable property increases at about the same rate as the city's expenses, the tax rate has remained stationary for several years.

We have eleven public schools, including those of North Plainfield, under most competent direction. The pupils who maintain a satisfactory standing in their classes will be admitted on certificate of the principal, without examination, at Amherst, Williams, Wesleyan, Oberlin, New York University, Vassar, Smith, Wellesley and other colleges where the certificate plan is in force. They wlil also be fitted to enter, without conditions, Princeton, Harvard, Yale and Columbia. North Plainfield conducts a manual training school.

There are also in Plainfield several private schools of the highest rank, where young men and women are prepared for college, including Leal's, the Seminary and the Randolph-Cooley School.

Churches and religious societies of almost every shade of belief are found, the total number being about twenty-six, including several in North Plainfield.

Plainfield takes great pride in its

WAGON DISAPPEARED.

Piscataway Farmer's Possessions Were Found Three Days Later.

Most peculiar was the robbery suffered by Daniel Boyce, a farmer living at Possumtown, near New Market, this week. On Monday one of his farm wagons, laden with oats, and drawn by a team of horses, disappeared from the barn. It was not heard of again until yesterday, when word came from Bound Brook that the missing rig was at that place. It had been found standing along the road side by a hay carter, who took it to Bound Brook and left it there to be called for. Nothing was missing, and the owner is wondering whether the whole affair was not a practical joke.

HELPED SURPRISE HIMSELF

SEXTON STEWART, OF HOPE CHAPEL, HAD A BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Assisted in the Preparations, Supposing it Was for Some One Else—A Good Time.

Genuine surprise was that afforded D. F. Stewart, the genial sexton of Hope chapel, by the members of the Young Men's Association last evening. In recognition of his birthday anniversary, which occurred a few days ago, he was given a complimentary party, at which some fifty of the young folks of the chapel gathered to congratulate the recipient and, incidentally, to enjoy themselves. Refreshments, prepared by the members of the Y. M. A., were served and general sociability, of the true Hope chapel type, was the rule of the evening. The committee in charge was Thomas Chamberlain, William Hartfelder, Albert Marsh and Elmer Hoffman.

What added to the merriment of the evening was the mistaken idea of the sexton that the affair was being arranged for some one else. He had even assisted in the preparations and it was not until everything was fully ready that City Judge Runyon brought him in front outside the building and introduced him to his own birthday party. Too overpowered by surprise to express his feelings, Mr. Stewart could only murmer his thanks and then tell all hands to enjoy themselves.

CLAASSEN HELD.

Hearing Before Justice Kelley on Charge of Embezzlement Yesterday Afternoon.

After a short hearing at police headquarters yesterday afternoon, Wm. Claassen, of Liberty street, was held in $250 bail on the embezzlement charge preferred by Ralpb Mabie, of New York. The amount was furnished by V. W. Nash. Justice Kelley, of Elizabeth, presided.

The plaintiff claimed that Claassen has been acting as his agent in selling roofing materials and that the amounts secured in this way were to be returned to him within thirty days. This, he claimed, had not been done, as Claassen had retained $289. The defense did not offer any testimony in rebuttal. Claassen's counsel was V. W. Nash, Jr.

SIGNED THE PLEDGE.

That Was Before Young Man Read That He Was Victim of a Joke.

Not until the appearance of yesterday's Daily Press did the victim of the practical joke resulting in his supposed arrest and trial realize that he had been hoaxed by his friends.

After the hearing, the young man was nursing some hard feelings against his companions of the night before, who had gone into court and solemnly substantiated the testimony which made the defendant appear a monster of vice. As an alternative to a sentence of $25 fine, the young man eagerly agreed to sign the pledge to abstain for the space of three months not only from all alcoholic liquors but from the society of those who might lead him astray.

Now he is wondering whether or not he is bound by the provisions of the contract.

Entertainment at The Park Avenue.

Entertainment of a most pleasing nature was afforded the guests and a few friends from outside at the Park Avenue Hotel last evening. The affair was in the nature of a concert given by John F. Boyle, of Brooklyn, the blind musician, who rendered piano and whistling solos, besides some clever recitations. The guests were well pleased with the entertainment, and the artist expressed much gratification at the treatment accorded him.

Hotel Euchre Party.

Guests at the Park Avenue Hotel will enjoy the usual weekly euchre this evening.

STOLE THEIR TOOLS.

Sneak Thief Visited the Residence of John Dickson, of Fairview Avenue, Now Building.

A new species of sneak thief is at work in the borough. Workmen engaged on a house in the course of erection for John Dickson, on Fairview avenue, have been in the habit of locking up their tools in a shed used for that purpose. Last evening, on completing their day's work, Charles Codington and David Bodine put away their tools in the usual place, but on arriving at the house this morning they were minus the instruments of the craft.

Thieves had broken into the building during the night and appropriated eleven saws, all the chisels in sight, besides planers, and everything they could carrry away. It is not thought that the ordinary tramp burglars were the culprits, but rather an exceedingly low specimen of thief, who has no regard for the higher phases of the art. The decent burglar would hardly steal a workman's tools.

LOTS OF ELECTRICITY.

Lightning Struck a Tree and Perforated Tin Cans Which Were Heaped at Its Base.

While watching the brilliant electrical display during Sunday morning's storm, A. E. Hoagland, of West Front street, noticed a bolt strike the large whitewood tree on the Harburger property. It is regarded as a landmark by residents in the vicinity and becoming curious as to whether it was injured by the lightning, Mr. Hoagland examined it yesterday.

He found the only damage to be the killing of a number of clinging vines but at the foot of the tree he made a remarkable discovery. Several discarded tin cans, which lay about the trunk, he found to have been burned through in spots by the bolt. The edge was fused. It had evidently scarttered as the holes were slightly smaller than a penny in size. An electrician, who examined the cans, estimated it would take at least a current of 10,000 volts to perforate the tin in that manner.

MAY SUE FOR DAMAGES.

Rahway People Believe O'Neal Has a Claim Against the Town for Policeman Hickey's Shooting.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, August 8—Officer Hickey says he "is very sorry that he shot O'Neal." O'Neal is sorry, too. Several interesting questions on the matter have arisen regarding a claim for damages, which, many state, O'Neal would have against the city after his recovery. It is claimed that Hickey believed his own life to be in jeopardy and fired in self-defense. Others claim that Hickey was intoxicated and is a man easily "rattled." Less than a year ago he defied the Mayor and applied several red-hot epithets to him.

Hickey claims to have the endorsement of the society to which he belongs, which many Hibernians deny emphatically. At the meeting of the City Council, charges were preferred against Hickey, and he was held for trial in two weeks. Meantime O'Neal is in the poorhouse hospital, wondering what it's all about, anyway.

MRS. PECK WON.

Verdict Against McVey in District Court at Elizabeth.

The case of Julia Peck against John H. McVey which was a suit on a lease of premises formerly the cafe on North avenue was tried yesterday at Elizabeth in the District Court. Judge Roberson, of Jersey City, presided in the absence of Judge Atwater.

The case took up the entire part of the day allowed for contested cases and the result was a verdict for the plaintiff for the full amount. The plaintiff's attorney was Isaac P. Runyon, of Bird & Runyon, and the defendant's interests were looked after by W. S. Angleman, and Baldwin Strauss, the well known New York lawyer.

Lawyer Angleman immediately gave notice that he would file an appeal to the Supreme Court.

NEW BAGGAGE ROOM.

Local Contractors Are Estimating on Proposed Structure.

Estimates are now being made by contractors for the erection of the new baggage room on the south side of the tracks at the North Avenue station of the New Jersey Central. A look at the plans convinces one that the new addition will be one of the finest rooms of its kind on the road. The Union News stand on the north side will be removed in a day or two.

—The only real ice cream is at Tier's.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a consecration meeting this evening.

STOLE TWO HORSES.

Horse Thieves Operated at High Bridge With Some Success.

The band of horse thieves which has been operating in Hunterdon and Somerset counties for the past few months, visited High Bridge Wednesday night and made away with two animals. They belonged to Wm. Tigard and Charles Hoffman, whose barns were broken open.

County detectives are after the thieves and descriptions of the stolen animals have been sent broadcast through Somerset and Hunterdon counties. A rig was also taken from each place and further along at another farm a set of double harness was taken.

FIRST OF FIREMEN'S DANCES

THE AFFAIR AT SAENGERBUND HALL WAS A SUCCESS.

Besides the Dancing There Were Other Attraction in the Basement of the Hall.

Decidedly successful was the firemen's ball given in Saengerbund Hall last evening. It was the first of a series to be held every Thursday evening during the month of August under the auspices of Warren Engine Company. Fully one hundred couples attended the affair and enjoyed the dancing up to an early hour this morning. Naylor's orchestra discoursed the music for the occasion. The floor committee was Bert Bodine, Lafayette Rosenstiehl, Lewis Feiring and David Allen. George Fairchild and George Stewart acted as a door committee.

Down in the basement a little side show was conducted where a hit-the-baby rack was in operation and where refreshments were a-plenty for the hungry. Edward Smith was in charge of the babies and a prize has been offered for the one who succeeds in knocking down the most kids during the series of dances. The refreshment committee was composed of George Schlereth and Raymond Schenck, Charles Stahl, J. Higgins, and Phil Currin. J. J. Stahl had charge of a candy booth.

MORE SMALL-POX.

Elizabeth Has Been Compelled to Open Its Isolation Hospital Again.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 8—The health authorities are surprised and chagrined over a fresh outbreak of smallpox here, after the disease had been officially reported to the Board of Health Monday night as having been completely stamped out. The isolation hospital was closed July 26, when the last patient was discharged, and it is now undergoing repairs. It had to be reopened again to admit the latest victim, George Hall, thirty-two years old, married, and who resides at 1181 East Broad street. He and his father have been active in the Salvation Army.

This is the second time the isolation hospital has been closed and forced to reopen since smallpox made its appearance here last fall.

COMPANY K'S LAST CHANCE.

Members Will Go to Sea Girt Tomorrow to Try at Rifle Range.

Company K is making a determined effort to make the best record of any company in the National Guard on the rifle range. It has already nine sharpshooters and thirty-eight marksmen who have qualified.

Tomorrow is the last free day on which the rifle range will be open and Captain Browning is extremely desirous that every member of the company who has not qualified, should make an attempt to attend. Those who can are asked to meet at the North Avenue station tomorrow to take the 8:11 train. The record on the range for last year was made by Company M, of Somerville, with eight shrapshooters and thirty-nine marksmen.

Funeral of Geo. J. Barry.

All that is mortal of George J. Barry, of Greenbrook road, was laid to rest this morning, after the usual impressive ceremonies of the church. Solemn requiem high mass was said over the remains at St. Joseph's church and interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery. The pall bearers were John Carney, William Neal, Richard Birmingham, Howard Cooper, James White and Lawrence Benner.

THE NEW HOME OF WOODHULL & MARTIN

Something About the Fine Structure Which is to be Built on East Front St.

AN IMPOSING BUILDING

WOODHULL & MARTIN WILL OCCUPY THE FIRST FLOOR.

The Building Will be Three Stories High, of Grey Brick With Trimmings of Indiana Lime Stone—Will be 200 Feet Deep.

The general effect on East Front street will be greatly heightened by the completion of the new building to be erected by Woodhull & Martin upon the old Gardner property. From the plans, it is evident that a most imposing structure will be the result of the work which has already been begun.

Of three stories, eighty feet in height, the building will be of handsome grey brick, with trimmings of Indian limestone and metal cornices. The front will be 108 feet, with one main entrance to store, and side entrance to the offices on the east side. The depth will be 200 feet.

One large apartment, covering the entire area of the ground floor, will be devoted to the store proper, where all merchandise will be shown. Fire proof stairways, with iron rails, slate treads and tiled entrances, will run to the second and third floors. There will also be a vestibule entrance, tiled, with marble base. Three large sky lights will aid in giving light to the building, in addition to the windows, of which there will be a large ornamental one in the rear, with nine show windows in the store front.

Maple flooring will be used throughout, with asbestos pillars. Steam heat will be one of the numerous conveniences of the building, which will be fitted out with every modern appliance for comfort and durability. In all points, the entire plant bids fair to equal anything of the kind yet erected in the city.

GATHERING THEM IN.

Heavy Sentence for One Offender—Another Pair Will be Arraigned This Evening.

A. R. Fitz Randolph, in the borough police court last evening charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was fined $20 and seven days' for each of the two charges. Chief Campbell took Randolph to the Somerville jail this morning to serve out fifty-four days.

George Frazee was found yesterday afternoon in a state of intoxication by Policeman Fahn lying beside a borough fence and was taken into custody. He will appear before the Recorder this evening.

For raising a disturbance in the vicinity of Saengerbund Hall last evening while the dance was in progress, a man named Angleman was arrested by Officer Winn, and locked up on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He will receive sentence this evening.

MERRY PARTY.

Spent Last Evening Very Pleasantly on New Market Lake.

New Market Lake was the scene of an enjoyable outing for a small but exceedingly merry party of young Plainfielders last evening. Two row boats, in which a trip was made to the farthest portion of the pond, furnished the motive power for the enjoyment, while refreshments were served on board by the young women. The return home was made about midnight, after a time of general jollity. Those comprising the party were the Misses Dora and Grace Ulrick, Ada VanDoren, Edna Randolph and Florence Hall, Lawrence Whitall, Clarence VanDoren, Elias Giles and Mr. Banghart.

Address by B. F. Elliott.

At the Salvation Army Hall last evening, B. F. Elliott, the "drummer evangelist," delivered an address on the five-pointed star. The address was in regard to a theory of his own regarding the one nation and one tongue prophesy. Mr. Elliott was listened to by a large audience who were impressed with his views on the subject.

BATTLED FOR POSSESSION

Frank Linke Held the Fort in the Morning, But Withdrew Later by Lawyer's Advice.

PUT OUT OPPOSITION.

Thrilling Things Happened When the New Manager of the Eastern Bottling Company Came to Take Charge—Formal Notice Served in Name of Company Prevailed.

Trouble brewing of late between Frank Linke, manager of the local branch of the Eastern Bottling Company, and the other members of that corporation, foamed over in a contest which waged all day yesterday. It ended last evening with the withdrawal of the Plainfielder from possession of the plant, but only after several hours' sharp fighting on the lawyers interested in the affair. The new manager, Edward P. Turner, who was appionted on July 25, is now in charge.

Mr. Turner did not take full charge as soon as he expected. Nevertheless, he made a charge on the premises. About 11 o'clock yesterday morning, accompanied by J. A. MacArthur, secretary and treasurer of the company, and Constables Manley and Gjettlesen, he repaired to the establishment on West Second street and demanded possession. Mr. Linke took a different view of the situation and refused to withdraw. Lawyers Swackhamer and Harry Runyon, for Turner, and William Newcorn, for Linke, then argued the matter in a wordy warfare, which ended with Patrolman Gorman's being called in to eject the visiting party.

This was done and peace reigned for a time, with the original manager in possession of the field. The contention of Mr. Newcorn was that his client had not been legally notified of his dismissal from service and that therefore, he was still legally responsible for the management of the place. To remedy this difficulty, one of the opposing lawyers made a trip to Newark in the afternoon and secured the proper paper, drawn up under the seal of the corporation and setting forth the fact that Edward P. Turner had been appointed manager of the local branch of the company. This notice was immediately recognized by Mr. Linke, who turned the keys over to his successor shortly before 6 o'clock last evening.

Another phase of the matter, however, remains unsettled. It is with regard to Mr. Linke's holdings in the stock of the company. The Plainfielder claims that the action of the company is a plain attempt to freeze him out. Some time ago they made him an offer for his stock, but it was over $2,000 less than he would take. At the same time, the provision was inserted that neither Linke nor his wife should engage in the business of bottling or selling liquor here for the period of ten years. The conditions were unqualifiedly rejected. This part of the matter remains in abeyance.

When the plant of the Eastern Bottling Company was placed in this city, Linke was appointed manager, under a stated salary, and with a contract for five years, providing that his services should be satisfactory. Mr. Linke claims that the company has turned in bills for war taxes amounting to $6,000, bills for freight and rent, and in this manner attempts to show that he has been conducting the business at a loss.

The corporation contends that his services have not been satisfactory, and that the right to retire him is valid. It is admitted that as a stockholder he has equal rights with the others to have access to the premises but that his period as manager expired with the first year of his service at the beginning of July, when the company had the power to dispense with him if they saw fit.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

There is no doubt now but that the Red Men of Plainfield belong to the Improved Order. The two tribes there have voted down the proposition to play ball against each other on Sundays. Before they were improved, the red men did not hesitate to go scalp hunting on every day of the week.—Newark News.

In his public announcement that he will be a candidate for a renomination, State Senator Joseph Cross declares that he believes he is entitled to another term in the upper house of the Legislature. That seems to be the general impression all over the State, outside of Plainfield, and is even agreed to by both Senators Kean and Dryden.—Newark News.

A number of farmers living near North Branch, in Somerset county, formed the plan, some years ago, of conducting a country store on the co-operative order. The object of the association, which was duly chartered according to law, was to purchase and sell groceries, dry goods, hardware, tools, farming implements, horses, cattle, swine, sheep and live stock, milk, cheese, produce and general farming supplies. The plan did not work well, either for lack of business or because of improper management. An application has been made to have a receiver appointed, and the case is to be argued on the 19th of this month. The assets are few and the liabilities are about $5,000.—Elizabeth Journal.

It is becoming quite apparent why the renomination of Congressman Fowler was hastened by the Republicans. The "harmony" of that convention was referred to as incontrovertible evidence that all factional feeling had been buried, particularly in Union county, and there was no more Kean, Voorhees, Rankin, Plainfield, Summit, Elizabeth, Rahway, city, county, or any other factions—but all the lions and lambs were dwelling together in unity, and a little child could lead them, even a Fowler.

But clouds are arising. Plainfield wants to be recognized away up on the ticket, even the Senatorship, and even to the retirement of the esteemed and able present representative Cross, who has served but one full term. Former Mayor Fisk, of that city, not wishing to become a candidate, City Judge Wm. N. Runyon has been put forward.

Senator Cross has been interviewed by the Elizabeth Journal representative, and he declares he is a "really and truly" candidate for renomination, and his friends, who are many, will work energetically to that end. Truly the dense harmony is being rifted as with a two-edged sword—and the end is not yet.—Rahway Union Democrat.

LITERARY.

It is not often that one finds a love story which is absolutely satisfactory, and a fine love story ending in renunciation is a still rarer thing. Such, however, is "Broken Toys" with its Roman setting and its atmosphere of noble love and tragic renunciation. Another story which will interest readers of the August Cosmopolitan is "The Soul of Mozart" which centers in the theme of transmigration of souls, a problem fascinating even to the ancients. It is a tradition that society stories are written by those who have never moved in society; but Mrs. Foultney Bigelow writes "The Story of a Scented Note" from within the charmed circle. The tale of Heine's passion for Mathilde by Richard LeGallienne, and a pretty little Japanese romance help to make the number an interesting one for reading on cool verandas by the sea or within the city's walls.

Richard Foote, the well-known tragedian, is slowly recovering from the effects of a long illness.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE PROPOSED PRIMARY LAW

Special Commission Hopes to Report a Bill at Next Session of the Legislature.

NEED OF SUCH A LAW

TALK OF HOLDING PRIMARIES AFTER SAME FASHION AS ELECTION.

Members of the Commission Have Something to Say Regarding the Work That is Now Before Them—Nothing Until After Election.

It is likely that a primary election act will be presented to the Legislature next winter that will, if enacted into law, not only preclude the possibility of the riotous scenes incident to the congressional primaries in Camden last week, but will also wipe the "boss" off the political map in New Jersey.

A special commission to consider the question and draft a bill for submission to the Legislature was named several weeks ago by Governor Murphy, who is much interested in primary reform. In his inaugural message the governor emphatically declared that there was need of a better primary system than that prevailing in New Jersey, and he recommended action by the Legislature. Rather than handle the knotty problem itself the Legislature passed a law providing for the naming of a special commission by the governor, which is to go fully into the matter and suggest a means for bettering the conditions at primaries.

It is quite among the possibilities that this commission will recommend that the primaries be held on the last registration day preceding each election, and that they will be conducted in just such manner as are the elections, the regular election officials acting as the primary officers. This, it is argued, would not be an impossible task for the election officers and would give every voter a chance to say just whom he would like to see nominated by his party. The commission having under consideration the matter of a new primary law is composed of Clerk in Chancery Edward C. Stokes, Corporation Counsel George L. Record, of Jersey City, and Joseph L. Munn, county counsel of Essex.

"Our present primary plan is weak in that it provides no punishment for fraud," said Mr. Stokes, in discussing the matter. "If primaries were under the supervision of the election officers and a proper penalty provided for irregularities, it would certainly do away with many of the present practices. The special commission has not buckled down to work yet, but when it does we hope to evolve a plan that will meet the approval of all good citizens."

County Counsel Joseph L. Munn stated that the work of the primary election law commission is progressing with due consistency. The commission, he said, is now gathering information and data concerning the laws regulating primary elections that are in operation in a number of states, and which provide better safeguards to the voters from the unfair and overt methods of dishonest political manipulators than is afforded by the present laws which pretend to regulate such elections in New Jersey.

"We will probably not do anything in the nature of drafting a bill until after the election of November next," said Mr. Munn. "No change in primary methods can be made except by legislative enactment, and that cannot be effected until the Legislature convenes next year. The task of drafting a bill will be only a matter of two or three days, so the commission has no reason to act with any haste in the matter.

"We have had several illustrations of the necessity of establishing a new law to govern the holding of primary elections in New Jersey. The recent elections in Camden in connection with the selection of delegates to the congressional convention is a case in point. By deferring final action on the report that we will submit to the Legislature until after the coming elections, we may obtain additional illustrations that may accentuate the necessity of enacting more stringent laws for the governing of primaries."

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

LABOR CONGRESS TO MEET

ANNUAL SESSION OF STATE FEDERATION OF LABOR AT TRENTON.

Child Labor and the Reported Violations of Laws Concerning It Will be Chief Topic.

The twenty-fourth annual congress of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor will be held August 18 and 19, in the assembly chamber at the State house, Trenton.

The labor conditions in the glass works at Minatola will play a prominent part in the discussions which will be led by some of the most prominent labor leaders in the State.

It was stated by a prominent labor advocate that an effort will be made to secure legislation with a view of having a more strict enforcement of the law prohibiting the employment of child labor.

Reports from almost every corner of the State say that this law is meeting with wholesale violation, because of the laxity on the part of State Factory Inspector Ward and his deputies in doing their duty. There are many plants which claim to be immune from the visitations of a factory inspector, with the result that distressed conditions exist.

It is known that frequent attempts have been made to have Governor Murphy see to a more rigid enforcement of the labor laws, but aside from a rebuke to Factory Inspector Ward nothing further has been done.

The New Jersey State Federation of Labor is a part of the American Federation of Labor and is organized principally to review annually State labor conditions. The congress is made up of representatives of each central labor union in the State, which in turn are the representative bodies of each local labor union. After the session the state federation makes its report to the heads of the American Federation of Labor.

Herbert Munro, of West Eighth street, will leave tomorrow for a vacation of two weeks to be spent at various places of resort.

Public Library, especially since the addition of the scientific department, for which we are indebted to the generosity of the late George H. Babcock. An annual appropriation for maintaining the library is made by the Common Council, and every effort is made by the managers of the library to extend its usefulness.

The Young Men's Christian Association has a beautiful and well equipped building, and its assembly all is a favorite place for all sorts of charitable and literary gatherings.

To summarize, Plainfield possesses convenience of access, great natural advantages, a strong public spirit, and a high standard in the social, intellectual and religious life of the people; it is a place where parents may bring their children to grow up under the most favorable environment.

DRILL FOR SECOND BRIGADE

GEN. GILLMORE'S PLAN TO HOLD A BRIGADE FIELD DAY.

The Twenty-Four Companies of the Second and Third Regiments Will Participate in It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, August 8—For the first time in the history of the National Guard of New Jersey a brigade will appear in the field next month in battle formation.

General Gillmore is preparing for a field day for the Second Brigade, to be held in this city probably on the large vacant field between Hamilton and Greenwood avenues in Wilbur.

The brigade will be drilled in close and extended order and other movements in connection with field work. General Gillmore for the past few days has been consulting with the military authorities about transportation and facilities for feeding the men.

There will be twenty-four companies in the field, comprising the Second and Third regiments, numbering in all about 1,700 men.

Both regiments have had the advantage of a week's work in the field, which consisted of all of the movements which will be contained in the programme which has been mapped out for the field day.

This move, while it has had its origin with General Gillmore, has met with the approval of Governor Murphy, who has consented to work hand in hand with the brigade commander in putting the National Guard of New Jersey on a better war footing.

MUST PAY.

Elizabeth Council Will Grant No More Franchises Without Receiving Due Compensation.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 8 — No more trolley franchises, it is said, will be granted by the city of Elizabeth to applicants for such privileges unless the municipality gets ample compensation for the same. This was indicated by the action of the City Council on the applications presented by the East Jersey Street Railway Company and the Essex Cross Country Railway Company. The latter wants to build a road from Union avenue, here, through Union township to Irvington, Milburn and Orange, while the East Jersey wants to construct a road from Elizabeth to Rahway along St. George and Rahway avenues.

Opposition developed at once to the granting of the franchises until the City Council knew just what the two companies were willing to concede for the privilege, and both applications were referred to the committee on streets and parks, which will open negotiations with the applicants and ascertain just what they are willing to pay the city.

SOMERVILLE MAY LOSE ITS MILITIA COMPANY

Showing at Sea Girt Was So Poor That Brig.-Gen. Gillmore Was Disgusted.

MAJOR DUNGAN'S PLEA

AT HIS REQUEST SOMERSET'S COUNTY SEAT WILL GET ANOTHER TRIAL.

If Company M Makes Another Such Showing the Company Will be Disbanded and Given to Trenton, Rahway or Elizabeth.

"I'll just give them another chance, and if they don't trip up, why, out they go," was the manner in which General Gillmore has characterized the showing made by Company M, of Somerville during the Second Regiment encampment at Sea Girt.

Company M came to camp with but thirty-six men and their poor appearance on the field compelled Colonel Collins to distribute them among the other companies and by this arrangement the regiment appeared on parade with one company shy.

Shortly before breaking camp rumors came from the colonel's headquarters that he had taken steps to have General Gillmore replace Company M with another company located in some other part of the State. Trenton, Rahway and Elizabeth were mentioned in connection with the new company's possible location. The matter had even gone so far as to an investigation of Trenton's resources for recruiting another company. Trenton was chosen because of the sure erection of an armory here, which would provide better facilities for drilling the men.

Last week, it is understood, Major Dungan, who commands the first battalion, to which Company M belongs, interceded with General Gillmore to have the company retained in the guard. His request was granted, with the warning that an occurrence similar to that of the encampment would result in the company's instant dismissal.

The decision of General Gillmore was to some extent received with disappointment by Rahway and Elizabeth, who were anxious to provide for the new company. Elizabeth, which had the support of Colonel Collins, who is a resident there, already has two companies. Rahway is without any.

Prior to the outbreak of the Spanish-American war a company of the Third Regiment was stationed there, which afterward was recruited in the volunteer forces. After the war the entire company was dismissed by court-martial for failing to report for inspection because of the unpopularity of its commander.

The situation now appears as though the Second Regiment will remain intact, at least until the passing of another encampment.

AT URSINO.

U. S. Senator John Kean is Spending His Summer at Home Near Elizabeth.

Senator John Kean is spending the summer at his home, "Ursino," near Elizabeth. His old home, which has been occupied by the Keans for more than a century, is always open, and thither he goes upon every occasion that public business or social occasion will permit, taking many long journeys in order to have his own bachelor surroundings.

Nobody believes Senator Kean is nearly fifty years old until it is recalled that he ran for Congress twenty years ago. His appearance has not changed since then, so far as any ordinary observer would remark. He is an enthusiast in his senatorial work. He rarely misses a vote and works diligently on committees and keeps close tab on proceedings. The consequence is that he is well informed as to details, and his colleagues consult him, not merely because they want his opinions, but because he has knowledge of the situation.

He and Senator Foraker sit together, and are warm personal friends.

"Foraker is one of the most charming men I have ever met," said Senator Kean recently, and, while the Ohioan has a reputation for oratory and political sagacity, it is an undoubted fact that personal charm in Senators, as in other folk—men and women alike—gathers more loyalty than even oratorical ability.

Senator Kean is a connection of President Roosevelt's by marriage, but more closely by long acquaintance and some business relations.

B. R. Richardson, of New York, has been the guest of his friend, I. H. Townsend, of Washington avenue.

Rev. E. E. Jackson, of the Mount Olive Baptist church, has commenced a month's vacation which will be spent at Atlantic City and other places.

TWO OF BEDDALL'S SLAYERS IN JAIL.

Pastor Edwards Tells of a Scheme For Cutting Off an Ear of Every Union Miner Who Returns to Work.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 8.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the death of Joseph Beddall, who received his fatal injuries in the riot here last week, has concluded its inquiry and rendered a verdict holding "Joseph Paluwicz, a butcher; Matthew Paulaskas, a one armed saloon keeper, and many other rioters unknown to the jury" responsible for the killing. The men named in the verdict are now locked up, and other arrests will follow. The two men were taken into custody by two constables, who were protected by a platoon of soldiers from Company K of the Twelfth regiment.

A large number of witnesses were examined, including the three workmen and Deputy Sheriff Thomas Beddall, who were first attacked by the mob; the six policemen who were subsequently set upon and some of them shot and several eyewitnesses of the riot. Some of the testimony was considered very important by the coroner and the jury. Paluwicz was identified by three boys who testified they saw him in the crowd with a club, and Paulaskas is alleged by another witness to have injured Joseph Beddall. The policemen testified that as they ran up the street pursued by the mob firing pistols men standing at nearly every saloon door shot at them as they passed. At one doorway three men stood blazing away at them, and from an upper window of a building three other men were shooting down on them. The drinking places referred to are all owned by foreigners.

The Rev. Charles Edwards, pastor of the Presbyterian church here and formerly state president of the Young Men's Bible society, declares that the young men in his congregation, which is made up principally of mine workers, have informed him that foreigners have determined to cut off an ear of every man who returns to work so that they will forever be marked as "unfair workmen." Mr. Edwards says his young men are in a position to know, and he believes the story. The foreigners, it is declared, think that this is the easiest method for preventing attempts to break the strike.

The situation in this section of the coalfield remains unchanged, and staff officers at brigade headquarters do not apprehend any trouble in the near future. Two companies are still on guard duty in the foreign quarter of the town.

Lacemakers' Strike Settled.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 8.—The strike at the Wilkesbarre lace mill has been settled. A committee from the striking employees and Superintendent Doran held a long conference, and a compromise was agreed upon. The mill has been idle six weeks. Because Superintendent Doran refused to discharge five girls whose fathers and brothers remained at work in the mines after the miners' union had ordered them out the 1,100 employees of the mill, who are all members of the Lace Weavers' union, quit work. According to agreement, so it is said, neither side will divulge the nature of the compromise agreed upon. All that is known is that all hands will return to work on Monday.

Ample Aid For Strikers.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 8.—Secretary Wilson of the mine workers reports that the assessments are coming in from the locals. The donations, he said, have been ample to carry the strikers through until the present time. He would not state the amounts now being received on donations or assessments. He said that it had been decided to give out no more figures on receipts from these sources.

Miners Arrested For Stealing Coal.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 8.—The Pennsylvania Coal company at Pittston has caused the arrest of a number of miners who mined coal for their own use in abandoned workings and outcroppings. An official of the company says that since the strike began hundreds of tons of coal have been stolen from the company. The men were bound over for court.

Hunting For Missing Son.

THOUSAND ISLAND PARK, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Theodore L. Peverelly of Brooklyn is at the Murray Hill hotel in search of his son, Theodore, who came to the islands three weeks ago and has not been heard of since. It has been learned that young Peverelly hired a skiff at Murray Hill. His father will not believe he is drowned, but thinks he has become lost among the islands. He chartered a steam yacht and has spent two days searching along the river, but without success.

The Nancy Hanks Monument.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 8.—The monument recently erected over the grave of Nancy Hanks, mother of Abraham Lincoln, at Lincoln, Ind., will be dedicated Oct. 1. Colonel Charles S. Denby, former minister to China, will be invited to deliver the dedicatory address.

Floods Cause Heavy Loss of Life.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 8.—Torrential rains have flooded and devastated the low country on the coast of the Black sea, especially in the neighborhood of Tcharkamba, Tekkekul, Terme and Samsun. Many lives were lost.

THE CUBAN LOAN.

Minister Squiers Quoted as Being In Favor of the Scheme.

HAVANA, Aug. 8.—The newspapers of Havana publish many comments on the proposed changes in the customs tariff for the purpose of providing security for the projected loans of $4,000,000 and $35,000,000, as set forth in the bill passed by the senate last Tuesday. All the conservative newspapers consider that these changes will be hard on the poor man.

Regarding the news received here by cable that the American press considers the floating of these loans to be an infraction of a clause in the Platt amendment, La Discusion says:

"Mr. Squiers, the American minister, believes it advisable to assist the Cuban agriculturist. He has also said the American government would be pleased that the republic of Cuba should pay its debt to the revolutionary army by means of a loan, that so doing would greatly aid the prosperity of the country and that he believes Cuba to be financially capable of the operation."

New York Yacht Club Races.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Aug. 8.—The run of the New York Yacht club cruise from Newport to this port yesterday was made in a magnificent westerly breeze, which sent the yachts over the course of thirty-seven miles at a fast clip and proved record breaking in the history of runs between these two ports. The Boston schooner Constellation, owned by Francis Skinner, Jr., covered the distance in 3h. 32m. 15s. and won the race in the large schooner class. Commodore Ledyard's schooner Corona won in class B and F. F. Brewster's schooner Elmina in class D. For the sloops the Yankee won in class H, the Queen Mab in class I, the Humma in class K and the Ondawa in class L.

Americans Lead at Tennis.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The team of American lawn tennis experts successfully defended the Dwight F. Davis international challenge cup yesterday on the courts of the Crescent Athletic club, Bay Ridge. They defeated the challenging Englishmen in the four matches of the singles by three victories and suffered one defeat. William A. Larned, the national champion, was the only player on the American team to succumb to the playing of the Englishmen. He was beaten by R. F. Doherty, who formerly held the championship of all England. Malcolm D. Whitman, the unbeaten American title holder, beat Dr. Pim and R. F. Doherty. Larned's only victory was scored against Dr. Pim.

Canadian Yacht Won.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—The first race in the Seawanhaka cup series on Lake St. Louis ended in a victory for Trident, the Canadian defender. It was a regular procession, and the start really decided the day. Tecumseh crossed the line to windward, but within a minute Trident, who was two seconds behind her, had cut across her bows and gained the weather position. Throughout the race the defender pointed 20 degrees higher than the challenger and outsailed her in every way. She led at the first buoy by 3½ minutes and steadily increased her lead, winning by 14m. 52s.

CATHOLICS RESOLVE

Philippine Question Brought to Test at Chicago.

FAITH IN PRESIDENT EXPRESSED.

Sympathy Extended to the Friars In Their Hour of Trial and to the Catholics of France Now In Trouble.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The temper of the convention of federated Catholic societies relative to Archbishop Ireland's warning not to interfere with the Philippine question was put to the test at the closing session. John T. Keating, a national officer of the Hibernians, offered a substitute resolution for those previously brought before the meeting. Mr. Keating proposed that the delegates dismiss the friar and the Philippine school questions with an expression of satisfaction with the manner in which the subject is being handled by the Vatican and the administration. This was along the lines advised by Archbishop Ireland. When a motion on the substitute was put, there was but one affirmative vote, and that was Mr. Keating's. The convention then adopted the following resolution on the subject:

"We hereby express confidence that the Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, will perform his duty under the constitution and laws and our firm belief that he will institute a rigid judicial inquiry into any abuses by subordinate government officials in our territorial possessions and promptly rectify such abuses. We are especially confident that in his dealings with the serious problems arising in the Philippine Islands property and personal rights guaranteed by treaty, laws and constitution will be faithfully safeguarded and protected.

"Resolved, That we extend to the friars in the Philippines our fullest sympathy in this their hour of trial; that we appreciate the value of their services in the cause of religion and humanity; that we pledge them our support as American citizens in upholding the hands of our government in its determination to see that they are treated with that common justice that belongs to all who enjoy the protection of the American flag.

"Resolved, That this federation congratulate the Vatican and the American government on the position attained in the negotiations regarding the questions which have arisen in the Philippines, and we express our full confidence that these negotiations will be continued until a just and amicable solution shall be obtained."

Other resolutions regretted the present circumstances surrounding the Indian schools and pledged active and moral support in remedying the conditions. The establishment of Catholic high schools wherever practicable was advocated, sympathy was expressed for the Catholics of France in their present troubles and suitable recognition was taken of the deaths of Archbishops Feehan and Corrigan.

Atlantic City was chosen as the meeting place of the convention in the third week of July, 1903.

Bermuda's Big Dock.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 8.—The new floating dock for the British government's naval station at Ireland island, Bermuda, has arrived off St. George. This dock is the largest floating drydock in existence. It was built by Messrs. C. S. Swan & Hunter at Wallsend-on-Tyne and successfully docked the battleship Sans Pareil as part of its official trial. The dock was towed out from the river Thames by two powerful tugs and was attended on the trip across by a third vessel. The dock is 545 feet long, and its side walls are 53 feet 3 inches high. It is capable of lifting a vessel weighing 17,500 tons and drawing 32 feet of water.

Explorer Baldwin Talks.

TROMSO, Norway, Aug. 8.—Evelyn B. Baldwin, the arctic explorer, in an interview characterized the reports of difficulties on board the America during the recent Baldwin-Ziegler expedition to the north as incorrect. He described as out of place and premature any criticisms at the expiration of only one year of an expedition the time for which was placed at five years. Mr. Baldwin said further that he had only taken such measures on board the America as were necessary for the interests of the expedition and that he would pursue his aim to reach the north pole as vigorously as ever.

Where Is Young Ogden?

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 8.—An effort will be made to secure trained bloodhounds for the purpose of tracing young Wilberforce Ogden, the son of Millionaire William Ogden, who disappeared from his summer home at Chatham last Monday night. The Passaic river and nearby ponds have been dragged, every road is being watched, and the searching parties are fighting their way through the wilderness of the great swamp near the Ogden home.

Churchmen to Head Schools.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The house of commons by a majority of 122 adopted clause 7 of the government's educational bill, which gives the predominence in the management of voluntary schools to churchmen. This clause had been hotly opposed by the opposition, and its adoption will enable parliament to rise this week.

NOT MR. THOMPSON.

While political booms are in full sway in Union county, there is a singular quietness over in Somerset. It is customary to hear something of the possibilities, especially in Republican circles, long before this but for some reason the Somerset politicians have been very quiet so far. The only rumor heard so far has been to the effect that Former Chancery Clerk L. A. Thompson, of Somerville, might desire to succeed Senator Charles A. Reed in the upper house of the State Legislature. That story eminated from the Bridgewater end of the county several months ago and nothing has been heard of it since.

If Mr. Thompson had any aspirations to sit in the State Senate, Tuesday's Congressional convention at Flemington must have shown to him the futility of such an attempt. Senator Reed has had two terms and does not desire to be returned. As far as is generally known, North Plainfield has no candiate for the place. The friends of Mr. Reed and the neutral forces in the Republican ranks of the county would not stand, however, for Mr. Thompson's candidacy. Mr. Reed's successor must be some other man.

At the Republican convention in the Fourth Congressional district at Flemington, the attempt was made to give Mr. Thompson a complimentary vote. It failed. Any attempt to give the senatorial nomination to Mr. Thompson would fail in the same way and for the same reason. Although some of the newspapermen of the State proclaim that Senator Reed is dead politically, the faction in Somerset county of which he has been one of the prominent figures is still a very important factor in that county and can come very close to controlling the Republican party there. As a matter of fact, it is not Mr. Reed's party or Mr. Thompson's party but Somerville and North Plainfield arrayed against each other with the townships siding with one or the other. As long as North Plainfield remains in the county, that condition of affairs will continue.

Tomorrow will be the day when the Republican politicians from Union county will gather at that pleasure resort near Westfield for the annual outing of the county committee. There is reason to believe that the outing this year contains more hidden possibilities than any such similar affairs for many years. Never have the booms of the candidates appeared so numerous and in such a hearty state at this time of the year before. It may be that the lack of warm weather is accountable for it. However that may be, there is prospect of lots of changes before the last of the eatables shall have disappeared tomorrow night.

HUMORIST AT HOTEL.

Chas. J. Burdette Entertained the Guests at The Netherwood.

Charles J. Burdette, a noted humorist, was present at the Hotel Netherwood last evening and gave one of his entertainments. For almost two hours he continued to delight the guests with his inexhaustible fund of anecdote, bright stories, and recitations. Mr. Burdette tells a pathetic story with the same ease and telling effect as he relates one full of wit and nonsense. His presence at the Netherwood last evening was greatly enjoyed by the guests. He will return to the house again before the end of the season.

TWO CENTURIES OLD.

Veteran Tree Cut Down to Make Room for New Factory.

To make way for the new buildings of the Pedrick-Ayers Company on West Front street, yesterday, workmen removed a large tree which has been a landmark in that section for years. It was of the whitewood variety and its branches covered an immense area. A five-foot saw was used in cutting, but the trunk was too large to allow it being used straight through. Several men who examined the stump declare the tree tree was at least 200 years old.

TOOK THREE MEN.

Trio Required Before the Offender Was Lodged in Jail.

When Mayor Jenkins disposes of cases in the city court he generally deals the medicine out in large and bitter doses. He made it $10 or twenty days, this morning, for Joseph Sutphen, a young man who drank something more than water yesterday.

He was arrested originally by Patrolman McCarthy at the depot, but the pair hadn't gone far when Roundsman Mattox was called in. Before the procession reached headquarters it was joined by Chief Kiely who supported Sutphen from the rear. The prisoner had nothing to say when arraigned and allowed his employer to pay the fine.

Wheel Quit Work.

Worn out from long usage, the wheel on a carriage belonging to Walter G. Runyon, of Dunellen, collapsed on West Front street this morning. No other damage was done and a new wheel was secured. Mrs. R. H. Batchelor, the occupant, was badly frightened but unhurt.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

VanArsdale is having a great run on tennis shoes and oxfords this summer, the largest he has ever had.

There is a great slaughter in prices at the New York Bargain Store this week. Shoes are sold at prices that will make you "rubber."

Ice cream freezers and refrigerators are a seasonable special at Gayle's hardware store. The stock is being cleared out at remarkably low figures.

All the meat purchased of Fred Endress is delivered in patent wagons carrying storage boxes. That insures its being in perfect condition when it reaches the purchaser.

At Hodge's pharmacy in the Y. M. C. A. building—that's the place. That is where you get only standard preparations and the most delicious ice cream you ever tasted.

That man with the slick suit left his order with John G. Bantle, the Watchung avenue tailor. Bantle has a lot of summer goods left over which will be made into suits at cost price.

If you are looking for bargains there is something doing at I. H. Boehm's, West Front street. Prior to occupying new and enlarged quarters, present stock must be reduced to save expense of re-handling.

If you want a neat job in the line of paper hanging or interior decorating, you need go no further than your telephone to talk with Charles Conover & Company, of Elmwood place They will do the work right and reasonably.

Be secure from the heat of the summer sun by wearing one of the New York Clothing Company's two-piece hot weather suits, which are cool, dressy and reasonable in price. The stock is being closed out now, to make room for fall goods.

Shirt waists are the special offering at the Paris Cloak Store on West Front street. A large stock has been placed on sale, at prices which are away below the manufacturer's figures, and excellent bargains are to be found among a large assortment of styles and patterns.

When your time piece is out of order, the first question which comes up is "where shall I take it to be repaired?" Let us enlighten you a little on this subject—Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, has in his employ an expert watchmaker, one who learned his trade abroad—being compelled to know how to make any part of any kind of a watch. Take your watch to Doane's and you will make no mistake. As to your eyes, if they need attention take them there too; they will be properly fitted. Doane, 115 Park avenue.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

KING TO HIS PEOPLE

Edward VII. Issues a Special Proclamation.

SYMPATHY OF SUBJECTS APPRECIATED

This Personal Expression of His Majesty's Feelings Sent as an Autograph Letter to the Home Secretary.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The following message from King Edward to his people has been made public:

"On the eve of my coronation, an event which I look upon as one of the most solemn and important of my life, I am anxious to express to my people at home and in the colonies and in India my heartfelt appreciation of the deep sympathy they have manifested toward me during a time in my life of such imminent danger. The postponement of the coronation ceremony owing to my illness has caused, I fear, much inconvenience and trouble to all who intended to celebrate it. But their disappointment has been borne by them with admirable patience and temper.

"The prayers of my people for my recovery were heard, and I now offer up my deepest gratitude to Divine Providence for having preserved my life and given me strength to fulfill the important duties which devolve upon me as sovereign of this great empire."

King Edward's proclamation is a personal and spontaneous expression of his majesty's feelings. It was conceived and written by himself in an autograph letter to the home secretary, C. T. Ritchie. In addressing this communication to the home secretary the king is following the traditions observed by the late Queen Victoria when she addressed personal messages to the nation.

King Edward did not drive out yesterday. A large crowd had gathered outside Buckingham palace in expectation of their majesties taking a drive, and the king, who was lunching in one of the front rooms of the building, came to a window in full view of the people, who cheered him enthusiastically. The king bowed his acknowledgments.

It had been expected that his majesty would visit Westminster abbey, but he did not do so. He was busily engaged with his secretary, Lord Knollys.

The New Haven Trolley Strike.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 8.—A better feeling is apparent in the big trolley strike situation, and the members of the state board of mediation and arbitration are so satisfied with the outlook that they have returned to their homes. G. A. Parsons to Hartford and Mr. F. T. Ives to Meriden. Gilbert L. Smith of Sharon, the third member, did not come. When Messrs. Parsons and Ives left, it was with the understanding that if an amicable settlement by arbitration cannot be reached today they shall be notified. Upon such information they will offer their services to the parties in conflict.

Lake Shipbuilding Brisk.

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 8.—It is expected that $10,000,000 worth of steel steamships will be built on the American side of the great lakes for service in 1903. Twenty-four freight ships are under contract, and every berth at the lake yards is filled for the entire winter. No more can be taken to be delivered before late in the summer of 1903. The present season will be the most active in the history of shipbuilding and transportation ever before known on the American lakes.

Sage's Gift to Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 8.—It is learned officially for the first time that the late Dean Sage, son of H. W. Sage, was sole donor of Stimson hall, the new medical building now nearing completion on Cornell campus. The structure when finished will have cost $125,000. This gift to Cornell adds another to the long line of donations from the Sage family. Chief among those made since the death of the elder Sage were Cornell infirmary and Stimson hall.

Various Labor Troubles.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Twenty-five boilermakers employed by the Oil Well Supply company have quit work because a nonunion man was allowed to work in the shop. Contractors for the State Normal school work have declined to employ union workmen because the men wanted nine hours' pay for eight hours' work. The barbers' strike, begun June 15, has been settled, the bosses agreeing to close the shops Friday afternoons.

Great Britain Declines.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—In a dispatch to the Daily Mail from St. Petersburg the correspondent says Great Britain in her reply to the circular issued by M. de Witte, Russian minister of finance, regarding the Brussels sugar convention declines to participate in a conference on the sugar question and is significantly silent with reference to M. de Witte's antitrust proposals.

Jail Breakers Captured.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Colby and Bowen, the burglars who escaped from the Elizabethtown jail, have been captured. Colby was caught between Saranac lake and Lake Placid, and Bowen was taken near Silver lake.

General Smith Coming East.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—General Jacob H. Smith, accompanied by his wife, left for the east. The departure of General Smith was very quiet, and few persons knew of his going.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; fresh southwest winds.

Peasants of Galicia Starving by Thousands.

VIENNA, Aug. 8.—After a special investigation among the agricultural laborers in eastern Galicia, where a great strike marked by several outbreaks has been in progress for many weeks, the Neue Freie Presse draws a gloomy picture of the conditions which led to the strike.

The average mortality from famine for several years past, according to the Neue Freie Presse, aggregated 50,000. Laborers' wages range from 8 to 16 cents a day, and women earn from 4 to 8 cents a day. The peasants rarely taste bread and exist chiefly on a soup, the principal ingredients of which are water and herbs.

Advices from Lemberg are that the strike shows signs of coming to an end, compromises having been reached in several districts and the military authorities having quelled the disturbances in others.

Three Bathers Drowned.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 8.—A strong undertow claimed the lives of three bathers here yesterday. The dead are George Fird, aged seventy years, of Ottawa, Canada, a former member of the board of alderman of that city; Walter Basham, aged fifty-five, of Montreal, chief train dispatcher on the Grand Trunk railroad, and Miss Florence J. Thomas, aged twenty years, of Montreal. The three persons were the only bathers in that section of the beach at the time. Their prolonged absence from the Eastman House led to a search.

Hotel Razed and Guests Injured.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Aug. 8.—During a terrific windstorm which passed over Carolina Beach, twenty miles from Wilmington, the Hotel Oceanic was razed to the ground and thirteen guests more or less injured, one perhaps fatally. As telephonic communication was cut off by the storm and the roads were piled up with trees and debris news did not reach this city of the occurrence until several hours afterward, when medical aid and nurses were sent down on a special boat.

The Arkansas Had Successful Trial.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 8.—The United States monitor Arkansas has returned from a very successful trial trip. During the trial the Arkansas maintained for two hours a speed of 12.2 knots, or just .7 knot greater speed than required by the government, the vessel's contract speed being 11½ knots. On the progressive screw standardizing trial on Barren island course Tuesday the monitor ran over a measured knot at the rate of 12.95 knots an hour.

Philippine Court Martial Cases.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—A recent mail from the Philippines contains an interesting summary of the results of court martial cases in those islands. It shows that the accused in 227 cases were dishonorably discharged, in 231 cases forfeited pay and allowances, in 115 cases suffered other punishment, in 110 cases were fined and in 320 cases were sentenced to confinement.

Bandits Got Rich Haul.

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—One hundred packages of greenbacks, each containing $1,000, were stolen by the bandits who held up the Burlington train on Tuesday night in a ravine near Savanna, Ill. The Adams Express company therefore, instead of incurring a loss variously estimated between $2,000 and $20,000, is out $100,000 in round figures.

Six Hurt by Trestle's Fall.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—Six men were badly hurt by the collapse of a trestle at the city's new filtration plant in course of construction at Torresdale, a suburb.

THE SUMMER GIRL

THE chaperon shook her head sadly. "There is no use—the summer girl works overtime," she remarked.

The married man looked his astonishment. "Why, I thought she was a butterfly creature who did nothing more serious than eat bonbons and flirt," he said.

"You were never more mistaken," retorted the chaperon dryly. "I don't know who started the story about the summer girl and her many engagements, but I do know from experience that it's pretty hard for the summer girl to get engaged once, let alone many times, nowadays. Look at that!" she went on, pointing to a group in the distance. "Look at that solitary specimen of manhood and all those girls. Look how he is sitting on the railing with his hat on. Sitting! And those girls are standing around him—nearly falling over one another—in the effort to make an impression on him. That's what I call spoiling a man."

"Who was it?" interrupted the married man, "who called love a chase"—

—"In which man was the pursuer and woman the pursued?" finished the chaperon.

"Very pretty, but you'll notice it's the other way around at summer resorts. Just let me tell you from my experience what are the chief requisites of the summer girl. To be successful she must have the wisdom of the serpent with the innocence of the dove joined to the diplomacy of an oriental, the stoical courage of a red Indian and the eye of a stockbroker to the main chance. But even these qualifications are hardly sufficient unless she is backed by a chaperon who can command, on occasion at least, an icy face, an impenetrable manner, a brazen eye, and a voice like a two edged sword."

"Then the chaperon isn't going out of style so far as the summer girl is concerned?"

"She is the most necessary part of her equipment, if you will allow me to put it that way," returned the chaperon, with her cynical little smile. "Without her the summer girl is indeed at the mercy of the powers that prey—in other words, the gossips. When the summer girl dances more than once with the same man or forgets herself so far as to linger in the moonlight, who is it that meets the innuendoes of the gossips with a stony stare? The chaperon. Who is it that sits for hours with aching head in an overcrowded hotel ballroom in order that the summer girl may have some one to talk to when she is left to play wallflower during a dance? The chaperon again. Why, if it were not for her the summer girl's very breathing would be construed into subject for gossip."

SPOILING A MAN.

"But the girl who is forced to go away without a chaperon?"

"Heaven help her, for her own sex won't! She has to take her choice between charming the men and making friends of the women, for she can't do both. If she has a good time, she is called a flirt and shocking; if she goes with the girls and turns her head away when a man comes around, she is called artful and designing. So what is the poor girl to do?"

"But if she succeeds in getting engaged in spite of everything?"

"Ah, then for the time being she becomes immune. In fact, many summer girls adopt this plan in order to have a good time in peace. But woe to the foolish virgin who breaks her engagement during the winter time and then returns to the same place next summer!"

The chaperon's silence was expressive.

The married man stroked his beard thoughtfully. "Now that you put it to me," he remarked, "it does seem as if the path of the summer girl were not one of roses!"

They looked at each other significantly and without a word walked away in opposite directions.

MAUD ROBINSON

Stairs of Sand

By

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

Copyright, 1901, by Street & Smith.

suddenly, in the midst of his walk, without warning, a sharp shot rang out and his hat fell to the ground. He stooped calmly, picked it up and examined it carefully. "Not a bad shot," examining the holes, which had evidently been produced by buckshot. "A little nearer and I should have had considerable of a headache," and, replacing the hat on his head, without even stopping to look for his assailant, he continued on his way, turning neither to right nor left.

"That must have been the work of a greenhorn," he said to himself. "He must be remonstrated with before I go any further. I might stand a chance of being potted against when his aim was truer."

Nothing further happened; the invisible marksman did not attempt to repeat his experiment. The little man had now come to an opening in the woods. Beyond, to his right, his sharp eyes detected a slender thread of smoke drifting lazily up through the warm air, and it was in this direction that he now bent his steps.

Entering a little glade he saw beyond him what seemed to be the foundations of a house roofed over with old tarpaulins and bark. It was out of a hole in this roof that the smoke was drifting, and which had attracted his attention.

There seemed to be no opening to this building, but near the front wall, set in the ground, was a square slab of wood like the covering to a well.

Without a moment's hesitation he lifted this, disclosing a burrowlike hole that evidently communicated with the interior of the place. Carefully he climbed down into the hole, and, passing through a dark passage, found himself in a cellarlike room feebly lit and filled with the stifling smoke of the green boughs with which the fire had been fed.

"Ahoy, there! Anybody at home?" for, in that light, there was no human being visible.

Then, what he had taken to be a bundle of fagots lying by the fire, seemed to become suddenly endowed with life, and finally resolved itself into the form of a little woman, bent with age, who came hobbling forward with surprising agility.

"You know me, mother," bending his head down near to hers for a moment, while she examined his features keenly and then passed a withered hand over his face.

"Yes, Will, I know you. What do you here?"

"It matters not," roughly. "And, let me tell you, I am not to be potted like a bird by your people. Just now, as I was coming through the woods, some one fired on me."

"It will not happen again," she said, timidly. "It is the youngster; he is new and has much to learn."

"It will be well if you tell him there are lessons I can teach him that are not learned in schools," said he, harshly; "lessons that, once learned, are never forgotten. You understand, mother? Let the lad know that once I forgive for his youth, but again——"

"You have nothing to fear," she stammered.

He broke out into a loud laugh that roused strange echoes in the place.

"Fear—fear, did you say? A pleasant word, and soft on the tongue, but what does it mean?" and he laughed again.

Seeing a pick standing against the wall he took it. "I have need of this, mother." She nodded.

"Will you be here long?"

"That may be as business calls for. I simply stopped here now that you might give that man a warning." He moved toward the entrance, and then, stepping back a few paces, laid his hand on her arm while he looked down in her face searchingly.

"There was a trouble up at the big house yonder," waving his hand in the direction of the town. "You heard about it?"

"Yes."

"Well, what then?" and his grasp on her arm tightened.

"I know nothing of him who caused it?"

"No; it was none of our work."

"You are sure of that?"

"Do you suppose I would keep it from you if I knew?"

"No," and, dropping her arm, without another word, walked over again to the way he had come. "I go on business of my own, and while I am in the neighborhood I am to be left alone. No following, remember," and with this parting warning, which his manner implied more than his word, he passed out into the passage, and so on up into the outer air.

As he stood for a moment a little dazzled by the sunlight, two men entered the glade. In deep talk they did not notice him at first, but, when their eyes fell on him, one uttered an exclamation and seized his companion by the arm and dragged him into the bushes.

The object of their alarm, noticing the action, simply laughed, and, turning on his heel, went down a path to the right, with a good-humored smile on his face.

As he made his way along, he paused once and again to listen. He held the pick he had borrowed with both hands, as if preparing to use it in case of a necessity.

To make sure that no one was following, he withdrew into the bushes at one side of the road and waited. He was in a position to command the path, and see any one coming or going.

It was not long before a crackling of dried branches warned him that his suspicions were correct. Presently a tall young man, with dark, unshaven face, and in very ragged clothes, slunk into view. He drew nearer, looking about with frightened eyes. As he came abreast of where the other was hidden, he paused to listen. It was only for a moment that he stood there, for the man with the pick leaped out in the road, with the weapon uplifted and such a fierce look on his face that the other, with a howl, turned and ran up the path, his grotesque tatters fluttering in the wind, and disappeared in a twinkling at a turn in the way.

"A fine new recruit that," muttered the man with the pick, looking after him. "But what of it? The most of the breed are cowards."

Then he shouldered his implement and went on down the path until he came to a small ravine, through which a brook was flowing. Swinging himself down over the bank he dropped on the edge of the stream, and, for a moment, stood looking around him carefully at the rooks on either hand. Then one peculiar shaped stone seemed to attract his attention, and he nodded, and at once began to throw up the earth at the foot of the rock. His face wore an anxious expression now, and was full of tense emotion. He worked furiously, as if his very life depended on his energy. Not once did he pause, except to straighten his back, wipe the sweat from his forehead or cast a look around the little ravine to see if any prying eyes were fixed on him.

It was half an hour before the pick struck something that gave out a metallic sound. He was trembling with eagerness now, as he dropped down, stretched himself full length over the edge of the hole and felt among the loose earth at the bottom with his fingers. Then a deep sigh of relief escaped him, as he drew out a long, metal cylinder that seemed to be made of copper, now discolored with contact with the earth. He arose to his feet, and, taking the pick in hand, with a blow smote one end of the cylinder and the top flew off like the cover to a box.

"Safe enough, after all," he muttered, in a delighted voice, as he drew out of the tube a roll of yellow parchment, and, unrolling it, glanced over the close-written and faded writing. Folding the scroll, he placed it carefully away in an inner pocket, and then, picking up the copper cylinder, sent it flying into the bushes at the foot of the ravine.

"A good day's work," he said, rubbing his hands together softly. "Blessed old nature is a better guardian than man; in human hands I should never have found it again in this wicked world."

He stood and washed his hands in the feebly-flowing brook and bathed his heated face. Whatever the paper contained, it must have been of great and lasting importance to him. For, when he was sure it was unharmed and in his possession, his face seemed to lose its anxious lines, and he became, as if by some subtle metamorphosis, a much younger man.

OLNEY BARRED BY AGE.

Why the Democratic Party Is Not Likely to Nominate Him for the Presidency in 1904.

When some Memphis democrats let Richard Olney know that they would like to see him the presidential nominee of the party he told them he did not wish to be considered a candidate. He gave no reason for his unwillingness to respond to their kind advances. In a letter to a New York paper Edward Stanwood says Mr. Olney could have pleaded his age as an all sufficient reason why he should not be considered in connection with the presidency. In 1904 Mr. Olney will be 69 years old and would be over 74 if he were elected and served to the end of his term.

HON. RICHARD H. OLNEY.
(Proposed for President by the Democrats of Tennessee.)

Not one of the great political parties, says Mr. Stanwood, has ever elected or nominated a man so old as Mr. Olney will be in 1904. The oldest man ever elected president was William Henry Harrison, who was 67 in 1840. Jackson was 65 when elected the second time. Buchanan was 65 the year of his nomination and Taylor was 64. Henry Clay was 67 when he was a candidate in 1844. Gen. Scott was 67 when he ran in 1852, and Cass was 64 when he ran in 1848. There is no precedent for a presidential candidate of 69, and politicians are as much guided by precedents as lawyers are.

Mr. Stanwood says Mr. Blaine told him in 1892 when he was 62 that he no longer desired to be president; he had reached a time of life when he craved rest. "When the American people elect a president," said Mr. Blaine, "they require him to remain awake four years. I need my sleep." The American people make more demands upon the time and energies of their chief magistrate than they did in the quiet days of the first presidents. It is doubtful whether the average man put in the White house at the age of 69 would live through his term if he tried to do all that was expected of him. Lord Salisbury at the age of 72 has resigned the premiership because he no longer feels equal to the discharge of its duties.

The mental and physical strain to which an American president is subjected is increasing. The office is not one for men who have to nurse a strength weakened by the insidious approaches of old age. There doubtless are exceptional men of 69 who are able to stand a four years' siege of constant work and worry, but a political party will be quite excusable if it declines to look for them and gives preference to younger men.

The age limitation which excludes Mr. Olney, says the Chicago Tribune, will not be objected to by David Bennett Hill, who is only 59. It will not affect Arthur P. Gorman, who is a little over 63. It will not be difficult for the democrats to find a candidate who has not lived up to the maximum limit of 67 years.

GONZALO DE QUESADA.

First Minister from Cuba to the United States Was Educated in New York City.

Gonzalo de Quesada, the first Cuban minister to the government at Washington, was born in Havana,

GONZALO DE QUESADA.
(Minister at Washington from the New Republic of Cuba.)

December 15, 1868, educated in the public schools of New York, and later in the college of the City of New York, from which he was graduated in 1888. After studying at Columbia and New York universities he took his degree in law. Senor Quesada represented the Republic of Cuba during the revolution, and became the pet of the patriotic ladies in Washington. He is a dark-eyed, handsome, gallant young man and a thorough diplomat.

THE TRACY INQUEST.

Crowds Flock to Davenport, Wash., to View Outlaw's Remains.

DAVENPORT, Wash., Aug. 8.—The curious are flocking to Davenport from all directions to view the body of Harry Tracy, the dead outlaw. The inquest will be concluded today. Witnesses from Oregon are here. The body probably will be taken to Spokane tomorrow and later sent to Salem, Ore., for burial at the penitentiary. Tracy's guns may be distributed among the Creston posse. Other relics have already been given away. A new story of Tracy's wonderful daring has come to light. Mr. McGregor, the keeper of a livery stable at Wilbur, on viewing Tracy's body, positively identified him as a man who came to his stable last Friday night. He says Tracy had two horses, which he put up for the night. He also left his rifle and a bundle, asking the unsuspecting liveryman to take care of them until morning. Where he spent the night is not known. At the time set he called for his horses, bundle and rifle, paid his bill and rode away.

Many Claimants For Tracy Reward.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 8.—It is probable that the $4,100 reward for Outlaw Tracy's body will not be paid for some time owing to the number of claimants. Governor Gear has already stated that he was willing that the state should pay the reward as soon as proper identification shall be made, but the reward will not be paid until the claimants shall reach an agreement. It now seems likely that the aid of the courts will be invoked. It is said that Governor Gear will also favor the payment of the $1,500 to Mrs. Waggoner for discovering Merrill's body at the same time the reward is paid for Tracy. Governor McBride of Washington has announced that he will act in accordance with the decision of the Salem authorities in paying the reward.

Public Lost $100,000,000.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The official receiver announces that he has issued summonses against Whitaker Wright and Robert Leman to recover $750,000 in connection with share transactions between the British-American corporation and the failed London and Globe Financial corporation, limited. The city is displaying the deepest interest in the London and Globe group of companies, and the demand that the public prosecutor act is increasingly insistent. Probably the full extent of the money lost to the public by the company will never be known, but financial experts now estimate it at upward of $100,000,000.

Zionists Did Not Succeed.

VIENNA, Aug. 8.—Dr. Theodore Herzl, founder of the Zionist movement and head of the Palestine association, and Dr. Wolffson, president of the Jewish colonial trust, have returned here from Constantinople. They report that their conferences with representatives of the sultan with reference to the proposed settlement of Zionists in Palestine have been without result. In reply to Dr. Herzl's written statements on the subject the sultan expressed sympathy with the Jews in their purposes and named certain concessions which he would grant. These, however, did not meet the requirements of the Zionists.

Elevator War at an End.

BUFFALO, Aug. 8.—So far as rivalry between the elevators of the Elevator Owners' association and those controlled by the Western Elevating company is concerned Buffalo's elevator rate war is a thing of the past. The two rival associations have reached an understanding, with the result that all the elevators of the two organizations are now in a single pool. The Great Northern elevator, with a capacity of 3,000,000 bushels, however, is still outside the breastworks, and what the result of this will be remains to be seen.

Mine Fire Spreading.

PHENIX, Ariz., Aug. 8.—Miners from Jerome report that the fire in the United Verde mine has crept down to and is entering the fifth level. The old shaft is abandoned on account of gas. The lower level is open through the new shaft, the upper levels in that shaft being bulkheaded. Smelters have been shut down owing to a break in the machinery, and practically all the men have been discharged except the machinists and the few who can aid in fighting the fire when a plan of action is developed.

Czar and Emperor at Reval.

REVAL, Aug. 8.—Yesterday afternoon Emperor William and the czar witnessed the operation of landing a force on the island of Carboe. This maneuver ended with the entire force marching past the sovereigns, who had followed the operations by boat and on foot ashore. Upon leaving the island their majesties responded heartily to the cheers of the crews of the warships. During the day the czar and the emperor exchanged aiguillettes as a token of friendship.

Accused of Stealing Maccabee Funds.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 8.—A special to the Tribune from Manistee, Mich., says that Alex Baumgarten of Chicago treasurer of a Maccabee lodge in that city, is in jail there awaiting an officer with requisition papers from Illinois. It is charged that he left with $7,000 of his lodge's money. He had been in that city but a few hours when he was arrested.

A Third Victim Dead.

HUDSON, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Matthew Burch of Stockport, who was injured in the collision on the Albany and Hudson Electric railway Aug. 2, died yesterday, making the third person dead. He was a fruit buyer. The collision took place within 200 feet of Burch's residence. He had boarded the car one minute before the accident.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

Ralph Schoonmaker was seen once more with the Y. M. C. A. team on the diamond Saturday. He played a star game at second base for his team and was a strong man with the stick.

Franklin, Safe Works, is one of the sluggers of the league. He has struck out very few times this season, and it is a rare game in which he does not come out with one to two doubles to his credit.

League games scheduled for tomorrow are: Hope against Safe Works on Hope grounds, Umpires Townley and Melvin; St. Mary against Y. M. C. A. on St. Mary's grounds, Umpires Young and Brown. Both games are to commence at 3:30.

Owing to the injury to Berry Egan, Barnes covered first bag for the Y. M. C. A. team in the Safe Works game. He covered the position to perfection, having shattered the hopes of more than half of the opposing team in their attepmt to make the circuit.

When Chief Kiely's colts go up against the Newark Fourth Precinct team next week, the smiling face of "Jolly" Jack Conroy will in all probability be seen on first base instead of the rear end of the battery. A new catcher will make his appearance on that day.

"Smiling" Jimmie will again be in the box for the Hopes tomorrow. His exhibition of last Saturday—six hits in twelve innings—shows him to be in too good a form to lay off even for one day. He hopes to hold the Iron Workers down to even less than the half dozen.

It is reported that the Roselle Field Club will have Griffen, of the Pearsalls, in the box in the game against Scotch Plains tomorrow afternoon. A good game is assured any way as the visiting team is one of the strongest in Union county and will come prepared to redeem its defeat of several weeks ago. Game will be called at 3:30.

Manager Townley is not satisfied with the way his team pulled out of the Cops-Firemen game, Tuesday. With the material composing the nine it had ought to have done much better and would if the men could practice together more. In several ways the firemen were stronger than the police and would give the latter a good rub if a little reconstruction work took place. It is not at all unlikely that two more games will be played between the two teams.

Two pitchers were knocked out of the box in a game between the West End Stars and the Essex Streeters, yesterday. Sullivan and Harding, of the Essex team, were the unfortunates. Hollard was then put in and succeeded in holding the Stars down, but it was too late to save the game, which went to the Stars by a score of 12 to 6. The feature of the game was a fly catch by Johnson, the Stars' second baseman. Randolph and Drake were in the points for the Stars and Martin caught for Essex.

Manager Johnston, of the Scotch Plains baseball team, will probably close out two games for Labor Day sometime next week with one of the best clubs about New York city. Managers Cose, of the Hopes, and Johnston got together and talked over two games for that day, one at the 'Plains and the other at Plainfield. At that time the two teams could not come to any agreement as to the financial end of the game. The local management submitted the proposition that the two teams meet on equal division of receipts. Manager Cose wanted each club to take the receipts of the game on its own grounds. As yet no agreement has been reached. So Manager Johnston thinks it best to make other arrangements for that day.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The members of the Essex A. C. held a series of sprinting matches on the Esesex street course, Wednesday, which were the means of attracting a large crowd of spectators. An exciting hundred yard dash was won by Wallace Pearce over six contestants and honors in a half mile run were awarded to Harry Ramsberger. Both winners secured prizes for their fleetness. A number of other events for which medals have been offered will be held this evening.

GOLF.

There will be no more team matches at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club until Saturday, August 31, when Morris J. Dumont, captain of the team, has a match arranged.

Eugene McCarthy, the expert of the Hillside Club, paid a visit to the Park Golf Club course, Monday afternoon. The grass was still long on some of the holes and the entire course was very slow but McCarthy was much pleased with its general appearance.

After holding the lead in the race for the Golf Committee cup at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club for many weeks, H. F. Baker, of Bound Brook, has been passed. Robert Abbott is now in front and has an excellent chance of winning the trophy this year. Young Abbott was in the finals with Frank O. Reinhart for the Club Championship cup and is considered one of the coming players in the State. His victory for the Golf Committee cup would be a popular one. H. F. Baker is a newcomer this year, having played heretofore on the links of the now defunct Somerset County Country Club, where he was considered one of the best players.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

One of the fastest miles driven with wagon at the local driving park was made last Saturday by A. C. Vail, with Kenelen. The time was 2.25.

In the account of the races at the Driving Park on last Saturday, the event between Thomas Brantingham's Cigarette and A. C. Vail's Rover R., driven by C. C. Brower, was recorded as having been won by the former. Rover R. won.

TENNIS.

The August tennis competition for the Mellick cup, ladies' singles, will be played tomorrow morning on the courts of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, beginning at 10 o'clock. Entries may be made to Miss Whiton, of 821 Central avenue.

STUCK TO POST.

Thereby Skipper Kaus Saved the Passengers on Steamer New Brunswick Last Night.

To the bravery and coolness of Skipper Fred Kaus, of the Raritan River steam boat, New Brunswick, a dozen passengers and a crew of twenty-three men probably owe their lives. On its trip from New York to New Brunswick last night, the vessel caught fire, and only for the heroic action of the skipper in staying at the wheel in the blazing pilot house, the boat would never have reached shore.

When the efforts of the captain and mate had placed the human freight in places of safety on shore, the steamer was a mass of flames. It was beached near its landing place, a total wreck. The loss is about $60,000. Nearly everything of value, including some blooded race horses, was saved.

DELIGHTFUL DAY.

Excursion From Plainfield to the Twin Cities by the Sea Found Ideal Weather and Fine Bathing.

Excursionists of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Grace Episcopal and St. Stephen's Episcopal churches arrived at the North Avenue station from Asbury Park and Ocean Grove at 8:45 last evening. The day at the seashore was an ideal one for an outing. Although the breezes were somewhat cool, the temperature of the water was all that could be desired for bathing. Everything passed off smoothly and no accident occurred to mar the pleasure of the day. They were the first excursionists of the season to enjoy total immunity from rain. St. Swithin, who must be getting tired of seeing himself in print, was propitious for once.

Say Autos Go a Mile a Minute.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Aug. 8—The Middlesex County Board of Freeholders Wednesday authorized the preparation of an ordinance limiting the speed of automobiles through the entire county. It was stated at the meeting that automobiles traverse the county at the rate of a mile a minute.

TAX FOR AMUSEMENTS.

Asbury Park is Considering the Raising of Funds That Way Instead of by Subscription.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, August 8—The Town Council has formally taken up the question of revenue for amusement purposes with the view of settling for all time an unpleasant task that devolves upon a few business men every summer, that of soliciting contributions for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the carnival and parade. The matter was brought up at the regular meeting of the council Monday night by A. R. Parsons, who is the chairman of the music committee. His suggestion is that the sum of $10,000 be raised to be expended as follows: $8,000 for music, $500 for the lake carnival, $500 for the baby parade, $500 for the Fourth of July celebration, and $500 for advertising.

Mr. Parsons said he was sure that everybody felt the need of a larger band, and that if $8,000 was set aside for music he was confident a band of thirty pieces could be secured. The suggestion was accepted by the councilmen, and a committee will endeavor to have a bill passed this fall in the Legislature, empowering the city to increase its tax assessment in this way.

ELECTION BOARD MET.

Organized for Fall Work at Elizabeth Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 8—The County Board of Election, comprising P. J. Ryan, John W. Murray, John L. Crowell and William Carr, met at the court house yesterday and organized for the fall work.

Organization was perfected by the election of P. J. Ryan as chairman, John W. Murray, secretary, and S. Rusling Ryno as clerk. On motion the clerk was instructed to notify the county chairman to send in list of names for appointment as election officers, the same to be in the hands of the board not later than Wednesday, August 20.

There being no further business to be transacted the board adjourned to meet again at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, August 21.

COURT HOUSE CONTRACT.

Awarded by Freeholders to John H. Parker Co., for $288,750.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 8—The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders last evening awarded the contract for the construction of the new court house to be erected in this city to the John H. Porter Company, of New York, which was the lowest bidder. Its bid was $488,750. The building is to be completed within two years from the signing of the contract. Ackerman & Ross, of New York, are the architects.

Gas Stove Blew Up.

A gas stove at the home of James Chamberlain, of West Third street, became filled with vapor, yesterday, and exploded when Miss Lillie Duckworth, his niece, attempted to light it. Pieces of the stove flew in all directions and the young woman narrowly escaped being struck. A number of dishes were shattered and the stove was completely wrecked.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver. W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

Didn't Want Undue Publicity.

Not wishing any undue publicity, Miss Margaret Scanlon and James McConnell, both of this city, were quietly married at St. Mary's rectory, Saturday, July 5. Rev. Father Farley performed the ceremony which was witnessed only by the necessary attendants. The young people will go to housekeeping shortly in the West End. The groom is a machinist and is very well known.

SOMERSET CO. WILL DECIDE THE FIGHT

Thus the Trenton Times Views the Situation in the Fourth Congressional District.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE?

SEVERAL NAMES SUGGESTED AS CONGRESSIONAL POSSIBILITIES.

No Time Yet Fixed for the Democratic Convention — It Will Not be Fixed For Several Weeks Yet.

Because of the political uncertainty of the new Fourth Congressional district, says the Trenton Times, much interest attaches to the candidate that will be named by the Democrats to make the run against ex-Judge William M. Lanning.

The Republicans claim the district to be Republican by 500 to 600, but the impartial observers look upon it as about an even break.

Mercer county's Republican majority will about be offset by the Democratic majority of Hunterdon, so that Somerset county will decide the battle.

Somerset is not safely Republican, although its leaning is to that side of the house.

It is pretty well settled that the candidate will come from either Mercer or Hunterdon counties. Samuel S. Childs, of Somerset, who has been frequently mentioned is ambitious to go to the State senate and will likely get the nomination for that post.

Dr. Charles P. Britton, of Trenton, has been mentioned as a most likely candidate, if he would consent to make the run. He is an old-time Democrat, with hosts of friends and as he is himself a manufacturing potter, his candidacy would meet with favor in the industrial world.

Mayor Katzenbach could have the nomination if he would take it. The party leaders believe he would make the best run in the district. His business is such, however, that it does not seem at all probable that he will allow his name to be seriously considered.

W. Holt Apgar is looked upon with favor by many Democrats both in Mercer and Hunterdon counties. He is not an unwilling candidate and would undoubtedly make a good run.

Asked as to when the convention was likely to be called, Colonel Hurley, who represents Mercer county on the Democratic State committee, said that no time had been fixed. He added that it would not be called for several weeks to come.

PRIZES FOR EUCHRE.

Were Won at the Hotel Netherwood Last Evening.

Progressive euchre was the attraction at the Hotel Netherwood last evening. Twenty-five tables were placed for the players. The first woman's prize was won by Mrs. Perozo, Brooklyn; second, Mrs. Hendry, Brooklyn; third, Mrs. Hebert, Brooklyn. The first men's prize was captured by Mr. Hebert, Brooklyn; second, ex-Congressman W. Irving Comes, Brooklyn; third, George A. Strout, New York.

The semi-finals in the ping-pong tournament were played earlier in the evening. The players have now been reduced to two, Peter Suau, New York, and A. Momir, Washington. The finals will be played off Monday evening.

American Day.

One of the big days at Asbury Park is American Day, when the Jr. O. U. A. M. have their celebration. It will be observed next Thursday, the date set for the excursion to be taken under the auspices of Franklin Council, of this city. It is needless to say that the attractions are so many and various as to guarantee a time of great enjoyment to all who may make the trip.

Cruising in Japanese Waters.

A letter received from Walter B. Rittenhouse, of Sandford avenue, who is now in Japan, says that he has just returned from a cruise on the great inland sea of Japan. He found it delightful although considerably different from cruising in American waters.

Old Entrance Again.

Entrance to the telegraph office at the railway station from North avenue may now be made through the old door, which was closed for so long a time. New steps have been placed in position, so that the doorway can be used again.

BURNING WEEDS.

Gasolene Torch Method Now Being Tried by the Elizabeth-Plainfield Trolley Company.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Aug. 9—The grass that grows along the tracks causes a great deal of annoyance and expense to all suburban trolley roads. Rain beats it over on the rails and the wheels crush it, thereby "greasing" the rails as the car men say. When this happens the brakes lock the wheels and they slide along the glazed surface of the rails, frequently causing accidents.

General Manager John N. Akarman, of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company, is trying a novel means of disposing of the grass on the Elizabeth and Plainfield line. The experiment is being made on Second avenue, Roselle. Two men with a gasolene torch on wheels such as is used in melting asphalt pavements, are going along the track burning the grass off. The gasolene torch generates an intense heat and the fresh green grass and weeds are burned to a crisp.

Business Booming.

Business appears to be booming with the First National Bank. One year ago their deposits subject to check amounted to $693,230.11, today they are $910,801.59 showing an increase of $217,671.48 in one year which is certainly a very good showing. At this rate of increase it will not take long to reach the $1,000,000 mark.

Rare Bird.

Frank Hedden has on exhibition at his office a white heron, or migret, the only one ever known to be shot in this vicinity. It was brought down by a Plainfield sportsman who intends having it mounted.

DELIGHTFUL PLACE FOR A HALF DAY'S OUTING

Interesting Spots to be Found by Visitors at Quaint Caldwell.

IS VERY EASY TO REACH

ITS HISTORY DATES BACK TO THE EARLY EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.

Washington Stopped There—Has a Rare Old Cemetery With Many Aged Grave Stones—The Birth Place of President Cleveland.

One of the most attractive spots in this part of New Jersey for a half day's outing is the quaint but historic little village of Caldwell, which can easily be reached by trolley from Newark. There one may enjoy perfect quiet or look on spots which date from colonial times and possess interesting histories.

Compared with surrounding towns, the early history of Caldwell has been dimmed by the flood of years. Prior to its purchase, in 1740, it was the abode of an extensive band of Indians, most of whom left the same year and joined the Six Nations at Seneca Lake, New York.

It was not until twenty-one years later that the last of the Indians left Caldwell, but, strange to say, there is no record of anything but the most amicable relations between the whites and the red-skins.

One may easily locate the places where two extensive Indian burial grounds were 140 years ago, but all traces of the mounds have long since disappeared. One was on the road leading to Roseland and the other toward North Caldwell. The first house built in Caldwell was erected in 1748. It was used as an inn, and here, under a large tree, General Washington once dined. The old historians say he drank wine diluted with water. The exact location of the tree is not known.

Much has been written and said in connection with the fact that Caldwell is the birthplace of former President Cleveland, and this is one of the now historical facts that have contributed toward making the name and location of the quiet town known to the general public.

The house of Cleveland's birth, which was occupied at that time by his father, Rev. Richard F. Cleveland, pastor of the Presbyterian church, is on Bloomfield avenue, near Arlington avenue.

It is in an excellent state of preservation, and at present is occupied by Rev. Nelson B. Chester, one of the successors of the former President's father.

The room in which President Cleveland was born is on the first floor of the northwest corner of the house, in the rear. Farther up Bloomfield avenue, old residents of Caldwell will point out with a laugh where Mrs. Maria Crane lived at the time she made the first pair of trousers ever worn by Grover Cleveland. These were made in anticipation of the removal of the family to New York State.

Even a brief visit to Caldwell would be incomplete without a trip to the old cemetery which is rich with the flavor of Revolutionary days. In this moss-grown ground are interred the bodies of many patriots who fought for their country and helped to make the early history of New Jersey.

Many of the old stones bear inscriptions dating from the beginning of the eighteenth century; many are so worn by the elements or overgrown with moss as to be illegible, and doubtless date to the latter years of the seventeen hundreds. Here lies the body of the first settler of Caldwell, Thomas Gould, who died in 1898 at the age of ninety-nine years, leaving 207 descendants, most of them alive at the time of his burial.

To the visitor interested in church history ample material is readily obtainable. Although the present church edifice adjoining the burial ground is of comparatively recent date, the history of the trials of the original congregation is interesting. The question of building a church was first agitated in 1770, and the first structure was partially completed when the Revolution called its builders to arms. When the war was over the old frame building had fallen apart.

The first church was a portion of what is now known as the "Beach House." A church was erected on the site of the present edifice in 1793, and was considered an imposing structure. Situated on high ground its steeple could be seen for miles in every direction. It was destroyed by fire in 1872, and replaced by the present building, which was constructed at a cost of $75,000, and completed in 1875.

The second pastor of the church, for whom President Cleveland was named, was Rev. Stephen Grover. Having received an increase of salary he decided to erect a house of his own and abandon the parsonage. This house still stands and is located on one of the most picturesque spots in Caldwell. It is nearly opposite the church, and is easily found by a sign on the lawn designating it as "Grover House."

In the centre of the village, beautifully located on the banks of Provost Pond, a branch of Green brook, stands a quaint, vine-clad, one-story building, one of the old landmarks of Caldwell. This was the office of Governor Jonathan Provost. It marks the site of the famous Provost tannery, which was destroyed by fire in 1868. The view through the glen from the old building is one of the most attractive about the village.

NEW BOROUGH FIRE HOUSE?

FORMAL VOTE WILL BE TAKEN ON THAT QUESTION TUESDAY.

No Required Number of Voters—A Very Light Vote is Expected on Question.

Tuesday is the date set for the special election in the borough to get the opinion of the taxpayers on the proposition to build the new fire house. It is not probable that there will be a great outpouring of voters to register their views on the question.

Already in the petition presented to the council taxpayers representing more than one-quarter of the taxable property of the borough have signified their approval of the project. No opposition whatsoever has been encountered from any quarter by those who have been pushing the scheme to a conclusion, and Tuesday's balloting is likely to result in a number of the prime movers going to the polls and the mass of the electors giving their silent consent. No given percentage is required to carry the project through.

The polling booths will be at Saengerbund Hall and the pool room on Somerset street conducted by W. P. Jerolaman.

SACRED CONCERT.

EUCHRE AT HOTEL.

Guests at Park Avenue Hotel Enjoyed Weekly Euchre Party.

Euchre was the attraction for the guests at the Park Avenue Hotel last evening, in the regular weekly event provided by the management for entertainment at the popular resort. A large number of players took part, enjoying the usual social features in connection therewith.

At the conclusion of the evening, Miss Leila Howard was found to have scored the greatest number of points, winning the first women's prize, a handsome tray. Mrs. Summerville, of Brooklyn, took second trophy, a pair of silver embroidery scissors. Henry Stothoff, of New York, won the first men's prize, a stein, while Miss Jessie Perkins, who played as a man, secured the scarf basket offered as second.

Men's Meeting.

Rev. A. F. Stillwell will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Tomorrow also he will supply a Plainfield pulpit for the third consecutive year. He addressed a meeting at the Association Hall last summer, and was much liked. Good music will be provided.

Mrs. Cable, of New York, and son, Elmer, are spending the week at Sunset Cottage.

COUNTER EFFORT OF UNION CO. DEMOCRATS

The Elizabeth City Executive Committee Has Arranged for a Big Outing.

GOING UP THE SOUND.

MANY PROMINENT DEMOCRATS HAVE PROMISED TO BE ON HAND.

An Elaborate Dinner Will be One of Main Features—There Will Also be Athletic Contests—Other Arrangements.

To counterbalance the effects of today's big Republican celebration, the Democrats of Elizabeth, under the auspices of the city executive committee, have arranged for a similar affair to rally the ranks of the party throughout the county. It will be the fifth annual outing of the county seat Democracy, and it is safe to say that it will prove a gala occasion for all good followers of the ticket throughout this section. It will be held on Thursday, August 28.

On the large steamer Isabel, the excursionists will take a trip around Staten Island and thence to Long Island Sound, where the destination, Point View Grove, will be reached. Here a day of sport has been arranged for, with an elaborate dinner at the hotel, noted for its cuisine and for the general good management of Mine Host Witzel. The repast will be one of the main features of the day.

Athletics also will be much in evidence. The committee on arrangements announces among the events potato, three-legged and obstacle races, half mile walk, tug of war, fat men's 100 yard dash and a baseball game. The latter will be between the married and single men of the party, who will also comprise the teams matched in the tug of war.

Prominent guests have been invited from many points, among those who are said to have signified their acceptance being Congressman DeWitt C. Flanagan, Hon. W. Burke Cochran, of New York; Hon. William Sulzer, of New York; chairman of Democratic State Committee Hon. William B. Gourley, Hon. Leon Abbett, Hon. John T. Dunn, Hon. Johnson Cornish, Robert Davis, Jersey City; Mayor Ryan, Mayor Seymour, of Newark; Mayor Kaltzenbach, of Trenton; Mayor Seymour, of Bayonne; Mayor Baldwin, of Summit, and Mayor Hinchliffe, of Paterson.

TAUGHT FROM DESK.

Special Features at Sunday-School Session at Park Avenue Baptist.

First in the series of summer programmes, the exercises at the Sunday-school session of the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning will be of much interest. The lesson will be taught from the desk instead of in classes, Rev. Ackland Boyle, of New York, being the speaker assigned. Other features will be cornet accompaniment, solo by Miss Adelaide Runyon and a talk by Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. Some of the children from the Home will be present and D. M. Torrey will make the opening prayer. The offering taken will be for the benefit of the Netherwood institution.

Sixth Anniversary.

The sixth anniversary of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, will be celebrated on Tuesday evening, August 19, with an entertainment in K. of P. Hall to which all members and their friends are invited. Among the prominent guests to be present will be the State councilor, Miss Blake, of Trenton, and Deputy State Councilor Philip Hanschene, of Elizabeth.

Justice for Borough Offenders.

In the borough police court last evening, Lud Frazee, on a charge plain drunkenness, was fined $5 or seven days. He took the latter. A young man named Angleman, who was arrested in front of Saenger Hall, while the dance was in progress Thursday evening, charged with disorderly conduct, was let off with a warning.

Commandery Conclave Postponed.

The conclave of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., called for next Monday evening, Aug. 11, has been postponed until Monday evening, Aug. 18. Samuel Bingaman, commander. F. K. VanAuken, recorder.

EDITOR LANE LEFT PROPERTY

HIS FAMILY IN SUMMIT HAS INHERITED A VERY LARGE AMOUNT.

A Sealed Letter, Left Behind, Contained His Will—Who His Heirs Were.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Summit, August 9—Alfred J. Lane has returned from Washington, where he has been in connection with matters relating to the estate of his brother, former Assemblyman Thomas F. Lane, who died in that city on October 15, 1900. Mrs. Lane, the widow of Thomas F. Lane, also died in that city on July 17. After Mr. Lane's death she had been appointed administratrix under the laws of the District of Columbia, her husband having presumably died without making a will.

A letter written by her husband two days before his death and addressed to Alfred J. Lane, was one of the papers found among his effects, which were turned over to her as administratrix, and, as it was believed to be a letter of no intrinsic value, the seal on it was not broken but it was placed in a safe deposit vault and was there at the time of his death.

This letter was then turned over to William H. Dennis, attorney for Mrs. Lane, and it was opened in Mr. Dennis's office in the presence of Senator Blackburn, the father of Mrs. Lane, and Alfred J. Lane, to whom it was addressed.

It proved to contain an assignment and transfer of a large block of stock in the Vicker-Maxim Company, of England, to the members of Mr. Lane's family in Summit, and a will devising that the remainder of his estate should be divided between his widow and his mother, the latter also a resident of Summit.

The transfer of stock comprised 1,300 shares of a par value of 1 pound each, but with a market value considerably higher, and he also assigned to the same parties the commission and accounts due from the Vickers company, amounting to $12,000. Mr. Lane had represented the Vickers-Maxim Gun Company for several years.

Those to whom the stock was assigned and transferred were his mother, his two brothers, John J. Lane and Alfred J. Lane, and his sister, Minnie E. Lane. Of the estate devised to his widow and mother, the most important item was life insurance, amounting to $15,000. The envelope containing this will and transfer also contained a brief letter to his brother, advising him to protect the property left by the deceased.

THROWN OUT.

But Occupants of Carriage in Runaway Escaped Serious Injury.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 9—What came near being a serious runaway happened on Park avenue yesterday afternoon. John B. Anderson, of Jersey City, a guest of Fred Ivamy's, and another friend started out for a drive in Mr. Ivamy's runabout. When near E. M. Johnston's place, Mr. Anderson's hat blew off and in his endeavors to recover it, the horse became frightened and tried to run away.

In its struggles to get the bit between its teeth, the animal fell and rolled into the gutter along the roadway, becoming entangled in the harness. Both occupants of the wagon were thrown out, but fortunately unhurt, except for a few bruises. The horse also escaped serious injury but the wagon was almost an utter wreck.

Evona Back on Duty.

After three weeks in the shops, the club car Evona was put into service again this morning on the 8:30 express. It has been thoroughly overhauled and repainted, and its appearance was welcomed with relief by the members of the club, who have been riding in one of the regular coaches.

Church Picnic.

Members of the German Reformed church will hold a picnic Tuesday, August 26, at Debele's farm, Rock avenue, two minutes walk from the West Front street trolley line. Picnic and games of all kinds begin at 1:30 o'clock.

Eminent Preacher.

Rev. Dr. M. B. Chapman, of Boston, will preach in the First M. E. church tomorrow. Dr. Chapman has been pastor of large churches in Brooklyn, New Haven and elsewhere and is a very eminent preacher.

Salvation Army Service.

Special services will be held in the Salvation Army Hall this evening at 8 o'clock and also all day tomorrow. Major D. Dunham, "The man with a new heart" will be in charge.

LOOKING OVER GROUND FOR NEW CEMETERY

Capitalists Viewed Site Near Oak Tree and Were Well Impressed With It.

INCLUDES 240 ACRES.

THE PARTY WAS CARRIED TO SITE ON A SPECIAL TRAIN.

Went Over the Ground Yesterday Afternoon—Were Greatly Pleased—The Tract is Nearly Free From Buildings.

Preliminary steps toward the laying out of the contemplated cemetery at Oak Tree are gradually being taken by the projectors. The matter has now reached a point where it remains for the capitalists to decide or not whether the scheme is to be pushed to completion. The proposed site was thoroughly viewed by a delegation, yesterday afternoon, and they left the vicinity greatly pleased with their finding. A report will be submitted by them to the projectors at a meeting to be held in the near future and in all likelihood they will vote to begin actual work. None of the farms to comprise the cemetery have as yet been purchased but the owners have all given options on their property.

A special train on the Lehigh Valley Raliroad conveyed the party from Newark to Oak Tree. The party consisted of Shreve Ackley, industrial agent of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, Lawyer Adam Frank, of New York, and three of the capitalists. At the station they were met by Lawyer Frech, of Somerville, Wallace Vail, of this city, William C. Kelley, of Oak Tree, and a Daily Press reporter.

Carriages were in waiting and the party was immediately taken over the ground. The land all lays east of Woodland avenue and north of Pennsylvania avenue. Marconnier chapel and the ground owned by the church body is at the junction of these two thoroughfares but the property is exempt in all plans.

The farms which were inspected and which will be purchased of the deal in consummated are those owned by Mrs. Isaac Laine, of this city, David B. Kellogg, of New York, the latter being a part of the old John I. Holly place, Mrs. John Freeman, Eugene VanCourt, W. H. Knight and William C. Kelley. In all the farms comprise 240 acres and are nearly free from buildings. It is on the slope of a hill and with a small amount of labor could be transformed into a most desirable piece of property, admirably suited for the intended purpose. An engineer tested the ground and made known the nature of the soil.

Permission to lay out a cemetery has been secured from Raritan township and as soon as the plans reach a nearer state of perfection articles of incorporation will be made. Among those who are interested in the scheme are Former Governor Fotser M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth, and Judge Kirkpatrick, of Newark. It was the intention of both to be numbered among the party, yesterday, but previous engagements prevented.

CHILDREN DID WELL.

Gave a Succesful Sale for Benefit of the Baby Camp.

A sale for the benefit of the King's Daughter's Baby Camp was held on the lawn of Mrs. P. H. Bennett, 98 Duer street, yesterday afternoon. The idea was suggested and carried out by the Misses Marguerite and Mary Bennett, Helen Woodruff, Louis Bennett and Pierson Bailey. With generous donations and the liberal patronage of the neighbors, the children were able to clear $2.53 for this worthy cause.

Fraternal Visit.

At the regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, Lo. 74, K. of P., held last evening, the members voted to attend the meeting of Unity Lodge, of this city, in a body, Thursday evening. It will be of a purely fraternal nature and for the purpose of bringing the members of both lodges in closer contact. One candidate received the second degree.

Scott Sues Goss Co.

In the Circuit Court of New York, Walter Scott, of the Scott Press Works, has filed a complaint bill against the Goss Printing Company, of Chicago, for alleged infringement of a patent on an improvement in web printing machines. The complainant asks for an examination into the matter and also for an accounting and an injunction.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It is not at all likely that while the Republican factions in Union are quarrelling like cats and dogs over the nomination of a Senatorial candidate the Democrats may quietly steal a march on them by selecting a strong and popular candidate and electing him. The county gave only 1,726 Republican plurality last year, and there is now intense factional bitterness in all parts of the county, which there seems no chance of allaying. Ten years ago Union gave the Democratic electoral ticket more than seven hundred plurality.—New York Herald.

If any counties in New Jersey propose to avail themselves of the Strong act, providing for smaller boards of freeholders, they will soon need to bestir themselves. Before the act can become operative in any county it must be submitted to a vote of the people on the petition of five per cent. of the legal voters. The act provides for a board of nine members in Hudson and Essex, seven members in counties of from 100,000 to 150,000 inhabitants, five members in counties of from 50,000 to 100,000, and three members in counties under 50,000.—New York Herald.

Fourth District Republicans have set an example of harmony and good judgment before the party in the rest of the State. Their convention at Flemington yesterday was a model of smoothness, and their nomination of Judge Lanning for Congress perhaps the best that they could make.

The candidate has been a life-long resident of Mercer county; he is a self made man and a man of the people. He is an able lawyer, has demonstrated in various ways his capacity for affairs and has a clean and creditable record.

Although the counties in the new district gave only a little more than a thousand Republican plurality in the last Gubernatorial election, the Democrats will probably find Lanning a hard man to beat next November.—Newark Advertiser.

The Elizabeth Journal is not numbered among those optimistic organs of the Republican party which deliberately shut their eyes to manifest facts and refuse to believe that the people can ever be driven or persuaded into withdrawing their confidence from the policies of Republicanism. A few days ago The News, under the caption "Omens of Trouble," called attention to the dangers which threaten Republican supremacy in New Jersey, arising from the unwise nominations, the strife of factions and the clashing ambitions of rival leaders. A number of the thick-and-thin party organs of the State have poohpoohed the warning without denying the existence of the conditions described. With fatuous folly they refuse to recognize that harmony is indispensable to success and that party disintegration is certain to be followed by party defeat. There is widespread dissatisfaction because of the failure of the last Congress to uphold President Roosevelt's policy with reference to Cuba, and that sentiment is likley to find expression in the coming Congressional elections.

The Elizabeth Journal is the leading Republican newspaper in one of the districts where factionalism is most pronounced, and hence it sees with a clearer vision than some of its contemporaries. After recounting some of the causes for public dissatisfaction with the Republican party and the evidences of increased harmony and unity among the Democrats, it says:

These are facts, and their existence ought to signify to those who see and appreciate them as facts, that this is no time for quarrels and disturbances in the Republican party. If these facts are not improved between now and election day, there will be surprises that have not been anticipated.

The Journal is nearer right than its purblind and overconfident contemporaries. If the Democrats are wise enough to take advantage of the situation, there will indeed on election day be "surprises that have not been anticipated."—Newark News.

The conference between the Committees from the Aldermen, the Rapid Transit Commission and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company cleared away a lot of the fog that has been raised about the tunnel franchise. The company readily agreed that the tunnel could be used for fire and police telephone wires. There would have been no objection to such a request. It agreed to begin work within a year. This is an unnecessary clause because work on this side of the Hudson river has been in progress for some time. The company agreed to a clause providing that the work should be of possible extension beyond that done in five years and that the limit should be five years. It agreed that the Health Department should have sanitary control of the tunnel. If the tunnel is to be built it can only be used for passenger service, and sanitary conditions would be maintained anyway.

The company pays $800,000 to the city for closing Thirty-second street, and it believed that a demand that it should in addition assume all damages which may arise was unreasonable. That point is held for future consideration.

The charge that the tunnel was to be used to divert the through commerce of the city to Montauk Point was too puerile for serious consideration; but the company denied it. The immense freight piers now under construction in this city and on the other side of the bay show how the freight is to be handled. Possibly the Aldermen do not know that the tunnels would not afford space for the Pennsylvania freight business.

The eight hour and prevailing rate of wages clause was opposed by the company because such a stipulation would be illegal. The contractors must arrange that.

The company is willing to agree to all that is asked, and any reasonable proposition that it can comply with, and it is strange that the city officials oppose such a large undertaking for the benefit of the city, its people and its commerce.—Jersey City Journal.

THEATRICAL.

On but few occasions has the Academy of Music, New York, ever held as large a crowd as gathered there Thursday evening to witness the first performance of the latest New England drama, "Quincy Adams Sawyer," a dramatization from a novel of the same name. The entire house (one of the largest in America,) was crowded from pit to dome, and what should be even more gratifying to the management, is the fact that this vast audience was more than pleased with their offering, and went away with but one verdict—that it was one of the best rural dramas ever seen, and a fit rival of the "Old Homestead." The story of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" from first to last is sweet, pure and wholesome. It abounds in character studies, has a genuine heart interest, and no end of comedy and sentimentality. There is nothing melo-dramatic about the play, for its comedy dominates every scene, and its homely wit, quaint humor and equally quaint characters and characterization appeal to the audience. It is in four acts. The first act represents the interior of a village store and postoffice. The second act, the crossroads and the interior of the Putman sitting room. In act third, the Pettingil farmyard is shown with an old-fashioned husking-bee in progress. The fourth and last act shows the interior and exterior of the Pettingil homestead during a good old-fashioned snow storm. The atmosphere of the Berkshire hills permeates the entire performance, which with its romantic love story, its comedy, pathos, and its clean-cut, distinctive character types, bright lines and clever situations, make it one of the best rural dramas ever produced. The cast, headed by Charles Dickson and Miss Helaine Haddey, is one of unusual strength.

Mrs. Chauncey Wheeler, of Somerset place, is entertaining her sister, Mrs. C. C. VanDoren, of New Brunswick.

Miss Elizabeth Dufford, of the borough, has been visiting her grandparents at Middlle Valley, Hunterdon county.

Men Will be Boys.

In the excitement of a lively exercise like boat-racing or ball-playing, they will strain their muscles and go home limping and sore. Then they are glad they have Perry Davis' Painkiller on hand to soothe the quivering nerves; to penetrate the muscles with warmth and healing power. It has relieved the pain of two generations of Americans. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

Sale of Delinquent Lands for Unpaid Taxes and Assessments.

Collector's Office, City of Plainfield, New Jersey.

JULY 26, 1902.

Notice is hereby given that the subscriber, the Collector of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, pursuant to the authority of the statute in such case made and provided, and by the direction of the Common Council of said City, will expose for sale and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, (but not for less than the amount due from the same, as appears in the following schudule, with interest and costs) on Friday, the twenty-ninth day of August, A. D., 1902, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day at the said Collector's Office, No. 151 North Avenue, in said City, certain lots, tracts and parcels of land situated in the First, Second, Third and Fourth Wards of said City, upon which the taxes and assessments have remained unpaid for the space of two years from and after the time when they were due and payable.

This sale is made under the provisions of the 13th Section of an Act entitled, "An Act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments and water rates or water rents in Cities of this State, and imposing and levying a tax, assessment and lien in lieu and instead of such arrearages, and to enforce the payment thereof, and to provide for the sale of lands subjected to future taxation and assessment," passed March 30, 1886, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto.

Further particulars of the lands to be sold may be obtained at the office of the subscriber on any week day prior to the day of the sale, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. except holidays and Saturdays, and on Saturdays between 9 a. m. and 12 noon.

The following list contains the lot and block numbers of the lots, tracts and parcels of land to be sold in pursuance of this advertisement, as they appear on the official assessment maps of the City of Plainfield, on file in the office of the City Collector, together with a statement of the Wards of the City wherein said lands are respectfully situated, and the amount due from each of said lots respectively. To the amount due on each lot or parcel as hereinafter designated, there will be added interest as indicated, and also its proportionate share of the costs of this sale, which is hereby estimated at Three Dollars for each item of arrearage thereon.

All lots so sold will be purchased subject to all taxes and assessments levied thereon subsequent to November 20th, 1899.

SALE OF FRIAR LANDS.

Nothing Known of Reported Transfer to American Syndicate.

MANILA, Aug. 9.—Nothing is known here of the reported sale of the lands of the friars to an American syndicate, and the statement that such a sale has been made is officially discredited.

The Dominicans transferred eight of their estates in the island of Luzon to the Philippines Sugar Estates Development company, in which certain Americans are interested, in January, 1900. The government has questioned the legality of this transfer, and the matter is now pending before the courts. Some property belonging to other religious orders here is nominally outside of the control of the church, and judicial action will probably be necessary before the government purchases the friar lands. That there have been recent transfers of friar property is doubted. The status of the holdings of the friars is not believed to have changed since Governor Taft left the Philippines for Washington last December.

The surrender of Dulilan, a Mohammedan priest, who has been the leading opponent of the American forces on the island of Mindanao, will probably insure peace with the Moros in the Lake Lanao district of that island. Dulilan submitted to the American authorities last Tuesday, and he has promised to induce the remainder of the defiant Moros to surrender.

A TIEUP LIKELY.

Indications Point to Big Strike on the Manhattan "L."

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—All indications point to a tieup of the lines of the Manhattan "L" next week.

The engineers and firemen have prepared a list of demands to be submitted to General Manager Skitt on Monday.

He has already refused to consider the demands of the engineers for a nine hour day and five trips.

There is little reason to believe that he will reconsider his determination or that Mr. Gould will interfere.

The firemen demand that they be given assurance that they will be retained in the employ of the road at the same rate of pay they get now.

They have no hope that their terms will be agreed to, and with the prospect of losing their jobs anyhow they are more than willing to strike.

In fact, the firemen have forced the engineers to a position from which they cannot recede, and the firemen hold the whip hand.

The two organizations are working separately, but will unite if it is decided to strike.

Fast Yachting.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Aug. 9.—The seventy-nine mile run of the New York Yacht club cruise before an eighteen knot southwester from Vineyard Haven to this port not only furnished the best sport of the week, but proved one of the finest runs in the history of the club cruises, equaling if not exceeding the run made eleven years ago around Cape Cod. Starting out two hours after sunrise, the leaders of the fleet kept up a twelve knot pace for over seventy-five miles, being almost entirely before the wind and ending up with a smart, hard thrash over the four miles of the home stretch from Race point to the finish line at Wood End light. Nearly every yacht was able to get into the harbor some hours before sunset, and every one was enthusiastic over the day's sport.

Colombian Rebels Vanquished.

PANAMA, Colombia, Aug. 9.—A telegraphic message received here from Bogota says that General Marin, the revolutionary leader in the department of Tolima, and his forces have been attacked and destroyed by government soldiers. Pulido, another persistent revolutionary fighter in Tolima, who refused to surrender, has been captured with his companions at Garzon, Tolima. The department is said, consequently, to be pacified. It is believed that the men taken prisoners will, following a recent decree, be shot.

The Dam Strike Ended.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The strikers at Croton dam returned to work this morning under an agreement reached after a conference with the contractors. They are to remain at work one month to allow the contractors an opportunity to confer with the aqueduct commissioners and try to adjust the contract so that an eight hour day can be allowed the men.

MINERS IN UGLY MOOD

Nonunion Man's Family Is Shamefully Persecuted.

RESCUED BY GOVERNOR'S TROOP.

Soldiers on the March In the Shenandoah Region Are Jeered, Hooted at and Called Hard Names.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 9.—A platoon of the governor's troop of cavalry went to Turkey Run hill yesterday on an errand of mercy and rescued a small family from violence of the neighbors. There had been petty acts of violence reported from that territory nearly every day for a week.

Brigadier General Gobin received a pathetic letter from the wife of a nonunion workman who is employed in the Gilberton colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, in which she told of the treatment accorded her by strikers in that vicinity. Among other things she said rocks had been thrown through the windows at night, one of them nearly striking her sleeping child. The house was damaged, and while she was outdoors one night a shot was fired at her. She also said crowds gathered around the house, hooted and jeered at her and the child and hung crape on the door. Her husband, she concluded, was compelled to stay in the mines in order to earn money to keep them from starving, and as he could not leave his work she asked the commanding officer of the troops here to protect her.

The troops rode all over the territory and found that the population, which is made up of many foreigners, was not in the best frame of mind. The soldiers were hooted and jeered and called uncomplimentary names. Only one stone was thrown at the horsemen, and this was done by some one in a crowd on a high ridge out of reach of the soldiers. The cavalrymen stopped their horses, and the crowd scattered instantly.

The two Lithuanians who were held responsible for the death of Joseph Beddall in the riots of last week have been committed without bail to the county jail at Pottsville on the charge of murder. Another Lithuanian, who is charged with rioting, was released on $2,000 bail. It is understood that a large number of other arrests will be made, and more charges of murder will be brought.

A WASHERY BURNED.

Probably Fired Purposely—Several Mines Now Running.

SCRANTON, Aug. 9.—The Capouse washery of the Scranton Coal company, a branch of the Ontario and Western coal department, was destroyed yesterday afternoon by a fire of unexplainable origin.

The flames were discovered a few minutes after the force of men returned from dinner. The company officials allege that the place was set afire during the noon hour when the workmen were away at dinner and when only one man was about the plant. The fact that a washery fire was unknown until the Bellevue washery burned a week ago tends to lend color to the suspicion that the flames were not of accidental origin.

The Dodge colliery of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, located at the southern boundary of the city, has resumed work with 200 men. Half of these are old employees of the colliery working under ground. The other half are recruits from among the foreign element, who are put at work doing the outside jobs.

This makes four collieries in operation in this city. The Oxford, Cayuga and Dickson, the other three, are increasing their forces right along, and the companies say that if the ratio of increase continues for another week they will be working full handed.

Mitchell Satisfied.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 9.—President Mitchell in an interview last evening said he was satisfied with the situation in the hard coal region. Reports from the district officers of the United Mine Workers show that the misunderstanding which prevailed two weeks ago over the distribution of the relief fund has now disappeared, and the strikers are more confident than ever that they are going to win.

A Boy's Heroic Act.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—James Carr, aged sixteen, was fatally scalded in a tank of boiling water while attempting to rescue Joseph Garforth, aged seventeen, who had fallen into the tank. Carr died at a hospital, and Garforth is not expected to live. The youths were playing baseball, and Garforth tripped and fell into a sunken vat used as a receptacle for exhaust steam and water from a factory in the vicinity. Carr went to his friend's assistance and was dragged into the scalding water. With marvelous heroism he held Garforth's head above the water until both were rescued.

Settling New Haven Strike.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 9.—At 11:30 last night the executive committee of the strikers assured the business men's committee that they would recommend to the strikers that they accept the terms agreed upon yesterday afternoon between themselves. It is learned from a member of the citizens' committee that the committee told the strikers' executive committee at their final session that in their opinion the railroad company had in good faith acceded to practically all that the strikers demanded and that they hoped the men would see fit to go back to their work at once.

EDWARD IS CROWNED

Great Crowds Witness the Long Awaited Event.

THE KING'S STRENGTH FAILED NOT.

Immense Throngs Witness the Pre-coronation Illuminations, but Quiet and the Absence of Rowdyism Prevailed.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—King Edward VII. has been crowned. The great event so long expected, once postponed and which at one time seemed likely never to occur took place today under favorable circumstances and amid general rejoicing.

The programme already announced was carried out without a mishap. The crowds were such as only London can show, but there was not the noisy exuberance of spirit which would have marked the event had it taken place when first planned.

The climax in the ceremonies was reached at noon. It was a few minutes past 12 o'clock when the crown was placed upon Edward's head. Then followed the crowning of Queen Alexandra, and at 12:55 their majesties left Westminster abbey and returned to Buckingham palace.

The entire ceremony occupied one hour and a quarter.

King Edward bore up well under the trying ordeal of the day and showed no signs of weakness. Indeed the general remark was, "How well and hearty he looks!"

The first section of the procession to the abbey started from Buckingham palace at 10:30 o'clock and consisted, of dress carriages in pairs, containing members of the royal family headed by trumpeters, the Royal Horse Guards' band, the First Life guards and the Royal Horse guards. Then came the carriages, occupied as follows:

KING EDWARD VII.

First.—The Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, the Grand Duchess of Mecklenberg-Strelitz, the Duke of Cambridge and Prince Frederic.

Second.—Princes Andrew and George of Greece and Princesses Victoria and Louise of Battenberg.

Third.—Princes Maurice, Leopold and Alexander of Battenberg, Princess Victoria Eugenie of Battenberg and Princess Beatrice.

Fourth.—The Duchess of Albany, the Duchess of Argyll and the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Roumania.

Fifth.—Princesses Louise and Augusta Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein and Prince and Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein.

Sixth.—The Princesses Victoria Patricia and Margaret of Connaught, the Duchess of Connaught and the Grand Duke of Hesse.

Seventh.—The Duke and Duchess of QUEEN ALEXANDRA.

Sparta and Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia.

Eighth (drawn by six black horses).—The Crown Prince and Crown Princess Charles of Denmark, Princess Victoria and the Duchess of Fife.

After the foregoing came the Prince of Wales' procession, which started from York House at 10:45. The advance guard consisted of a detachment of the Royal Horse guards, followed by two carriages containing official members of the Prince and Princess of Wales' household, the first troop of the Royal Horse guards, the carriage of the Prince and Princess of Wales and the second troop of the Royal Horse guards.

The king's procession left Buckingham palace at 11 o'clock, escorted by the Royal Horse guards, the king's bargemaster and twelve watermen. These carriages followed:

First.—Sir Acland Hood, Sidney Robert Greville and the Hon. Mary Dyke

CROWNING THE KING.

and the Hon. Sylvia Edwardes, maids of honor to the queen.

Second.—Lord Knollys, the king's private secretary; Sir D. M. Probyn, keeper of the king's privy purse, and the Hon. Victor Christian Cavendish, treasurer of his majesty's household.

Third.—Lord Colville of Culross, lord chamberlain to the queen; Field Marshal Lord Wolseley, Vice Admiral Culme-Seymour and the Hon. Charlotte Knollys, lady of the bedchamber to her majesty.

The eve of the coronation of King Edward VII. was marked in London by large crowds, which wandered all the evening somewhat aimlessly through the semi-illuminated streets. Down Whitehall, where the Canadian arch was the center of attraction; around Westminster abbey and along the Strand the sidewalks were blocked with the expectant populace. The people were deterred from any signs of rowdyism by the acute recollection of the recent postponement of the coronation, and those who had seen the unrestrained exhibitions which occurred upon the slightest pretext during war times could not fail to notice the different temperament shown last night. With a few exceptions it might well have been said of the metropolis of the empire that it was living up to the national reputation of taking its pleasures somewhat sadly.

The absence of blatant horns and annoying feathers was pleasantly atoned for by the lighting up of many buildings. The brilliancy of the illumination held the country visitors to the city so spellbound that vehicular traffic became more and more difficult as the night wore on. Until a very late hour the stand speculators did a thriving business, and around those stands occupying good locations there were lines of people anxious to get seats at the last moment. Many of the thousands who walked through the streets stayed up all night in the hope of securing a free coign of vantage from which to view the coronation procession.

A NIGHT ATTACK.

Probable Plan For the Naval Summer Maneuver.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., Aug. 9.—The uncertainty which enshrouds the movements of the fleet of warships now being mobilized in the vicinity of Newport and Block Island has given an added interest to the prospective plans of action for this portion of the summer maneuvers.

An officer on one of the ships has stated that the mimic warfare would probably consist of the landing of troops near New Harbor, Block Island, where they would encamp; that the ships would then leave the vicinity, and subsequently an attack would be made by night in boats under cover of fire from the ships. If the bombardment be successful in demoralizing the defenders, boats would be sent ashore under cover of fire from the machine guns, while the landing place would be illuminated by searchlights from the ships.

It was further stated that the attack on Newport would be by night and that it would include in both the attack and the defense work by battleships, cruisers and torpedo boats as well as an attempt to land a force in the face of a supposed enemy. It is also probable that the attempt will include an attack not only on the south end of Rhode Island, but also on the south end of Conanicut island from both east and west bays. Although the exact date has not been given out, there is good reason to believe that it will be within a week or ten days.

Englishmen Won In Tennis Doubles.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The famous Doherty brothers, former champions in doubles of all England, defeated Holcombe Ward and Dwight F. Davis in the doubles match on the courts of the Crescent Athletic club, Bay Ridge. The American team of national title holders by virtue of this defeat lose their holding of the international championship which they won two years ago at Longwood, Mass., by defeating the Britons in the first series for the international challenge trophy.

PACIFIC CABLE TALK

President and Attorney General Knox Hold Conference.

COMMERCIAL COMPANY'S PROPOSITION

Several Important Conditions Added to Those Set Forth—Priority of Service and Right to Fix Rates Among Them.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Yesterday's conference between the president and Attorney General Knox developed into one of the most important that has been held at Sagamore Hill.

Several months ago the Pacific Commercial Cable company sought permission from the executive branch of the government to lay a Pacific cable running from San Francisco via Honolulu and Guam to China, there to connect with the British cable to the Philippines. The proposition of the company was to assume all expense of laying and operating the cable. For the concessions of landings at San Francisco, Honolulu and Guam the company proposed to grant to the United States government special rates and in certain conditions of war practically absolute control of the cable.

Mr. Roosevelt referred the whole subject to Attorney General Knox, with a request that he go carefully over the proposed conditions, eliminating such as he might regard as impracticable and adding such others as he might believe would subserve the interests of the government. The results of his investigation and his conclusions Mr. Knox presented to President Roosevelt yesterday.

President Roosevelt approved of the amended conditions and, so far as the executive branch of the government is concerned, the company now may proceed with the work of laying the cable. It is regarded as essential, however, that the conditions be ratified by act of congress, as some doubt exists of the rights of the executive branch of the government alone to grant such privileges as are included in the Pacific Commercial Cable company's proposition.

The conditions as approved by Mr. Roosevelt are regarded as particularly favorable to the government, and it is believed that, with the cordial indorsement of the president, which he will give the proposition in his message next December, congress will ratify the conditions without serious delay.

Attorney General Knox added several important conditions to those proposed by the company. Among these new conditions are these:

That the United States government at all times shall have priority of service.

That the government, through the postmaster general, as is customary in such contracts, shall have the right to fix the rates to be charged by the company.

That in time of war the government shall have the right absolutely to control the cable.

And, finally, that the United States, at any time after the completion of the cable, may purchase the line at an appraised valuation, to be fixed by arbitrators selected in the usual manner by the two parties to the transaction.

Bryan Will Not.

MUSCATINE, Ia., Aug. 9.—William J. Bryan settled for all time the rumors that he will be a candidate for president in 1904 in an interview yesterday while on the way to Danville, Ill., where he was to speak. Colonel Bryan when shown the reports that he might again be a candidate was much nettled and expressed himself in no uncertain manner. He said he wanted the matter settled right now, so there could be no further question. "I will not be a candidate for president in 1904," said Mr. Bryan. "While I would not promise never to be a candidate again under any circumstances, I have no plans looking to the future nomination for any office."

Good Crops In Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 9.—The ministry of finance in summarizing the telegraphic crop reports of the country says that the wheat crop promises well generally, but that other grains promise less favorably. All the crops in European Russia are expected this year to show great improvement over those grown in 1901. The weather in the month of July and the drought injured the crops in the Volga district and on the southwest coast, while in the west and in portions of the center of the country rains delayed harvesting and hurt the quality of the product.

Ignored Bills Against Ball Players.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 9.—The Shelby county grand jury has ignored all the bills of indictment presented against the Memphis Baseball club and visiting players for playing ball on Sunday. As this grand jury holds until after the close of the league season there will probably be no more interference with Sunday ball here.

Killed by Live Wire.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Charles Butler, twenty-eight years old, a lineman, was shocked to death by a live wire while at work. Workmen succeeded in reviving him twice, but the delay in securing a physician was so great that he died before medical aid arrived. He leaves a widow and a baby two weeks old.

Suicide Had Prepared For Burial.

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 9.—With his burial clothes arranged by his own hand, Wesley M. Rich, a well known and retired merchant, died last night from an overdose of opium taken with suicidal intent. His wife is at Thousand Islands Park, and his daughter, Miss Lillian Rich, is visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

To Successful Treatment of the Hair.

THE PHILO HAY SPECIALTIES CO., Newark, N. J.

GENTLEMEN:—My hair all came out, I had to tie up my head to keep it warm. I saw an advertisement and sent to the drug store to get a bottle of and a cake of HARFINA SOAP. Shortly after I commenced using it, my hair began to grow as thick as it was when I was a young woman. I recommend it to everyone who is in need of it. It is the best dressing for anyone's hair. I was 72 years old when I lost my hair. My hair is growing, has its natural color, and is thicker than it was before it came out. Many thanks to Hay's Hair-Health.

AKRON, O., Nov. 22, 1900. Yours very truly, Mrs. MARY A. KOFLIN.

HAY'S HAIR-HEALTH will restore gray, faded or falling hair to its youthful color, thickness or beauty. It is not a dye, but a cleanly, healthful tonic to the hair and scalp, removes and prevents dandruff and will not stain skin or clothing. Its use cannot be detected. Equally good for men and women.

AID IS NEEDED.

Since the subject of the baby camp of the City Union of King's Daughters was brought up last spring and The Daily Press appealed to the public for aid for that worthy charity, about $100 has been turned over directly through this office while the agitation has been the means of interesting several prominent men who have been of great assistance to the work. At present the camp on the mountain is being taxed to its uttermost and a grand, good work is being done.

When so many Plainfielders are enjoying the summer vacations, either in anticipation, as a reality or a thing of the past, it would be well if they would not forget the little ones to whom this outing at the mountain means much. It is not for the healthy ones but rather for those who will benefit most from the pure air and healthful surroundings. It may bring health and strength back to those who would have otherwise succumbed to the dreaded illnesses of midsummer. Its efficacy has been proven in the past. There is no experiment about it now.

It takes money to meet all the expenses of this summer camp on the mountain for the sick babies. They must be fed and cared for and transportation must be furnished to and from the camp. The money already contributed to the cause has been well spent but the expenses will continue as long as the work keeps up and they must be met. Any contribution sent to this office will be forwarded at once to the treasurer of the City Union and it will assist in benefitting scores of little ones. In the midst of the summer pleasures of the most fortunate, a small amount would not be missed and it would materially assist the young women of the local circles of King's Daughters in a deserving work.

There are all sorts of rumors concerning trolley companies current these days. For weeks it has been insisted that the companies of northern and central Jersey, including the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, were about to be consolidated. The officers of the companies concerned have been kept busy denying these rumors. That there is some foundation for the stories most people believe but it is evident that the plans have not yet reached a head. Then the companies operating in the vicinity of Trenton have been active and there are stories of new corporations. Up in Warren and Hunterdon counties, the farmer folk are stirred up over the trolley question. There are several companies after franchises there and as they happen to represent rival interests, the excitement has grown remarkably and promises to give the people of those counties something to talk about.

A. G. Bauer, advertising manager of a Chicago wholesale house, has studied the philosophy of business, and he is quoted by the Philadelphia Record as follows: "There are two departments in a great wholesale business that are inseparable—the sales department and the department of advertising. They are like the positive and negative wires—you need both to strike a light. With the promotion department they constitute a trinity of business."

Here, says the Philadelphia Record. is the opinion of a man who has been for many years directly interested in advertising: "Advertising is as important in the world's work as is iron or electricity. It is the very life-blood and the nervous system of all business. It is as much a part of the production of a useful article as are the machinery and the labor which go into the making of it from the raw material."

It will be a surprise to most Plainfielders to learn that Somerville had such a narrow escape from losing its militia company. But for the influence which Major N. Y. Dungan, of Somerville, possesses in Second Regiment circles, the company might have been disbanded this year. As it is, General Gillmore has decided to give the Somerville soldiers one more chance.

It is greatly to be feared that Manager John Cose, of the Hope Y. M. A. baseball team, has seriously injured his effectiveness as a manager by trying his hands at baseball as a member of the firemen's nine. After the remarkable exhibition which he gave in the field, there are certain of the Hope players who are beginning to wonder if he really knows what baseball is.

Mayor Jenkins or Street Commissioner Gavett can do a worthy thing for the city when they compell the trolley company to put the streets back in the condition they found them. If no pressure is brought to bear, it must not be expected the company will act. A glance at Watchung avenue, where the trolley runs, shows the need of some action.

It looks as if Congressman Howell would be renominated in the new Third Congressional district. Middlesex has for its companions in that district Monmouth and Ocean counties.

The reputation of the Plainfield policemen at baseball has begun to spread. Newark's crack organization wants a game now and Plainfield has agreed to accommodate them.

NEW CAR SHOPS.

Jersey Central Will Rush Work on Five New Ones.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 9—The Jersey Central Railroad Company will begin at once the erection of five new shops on its land at Elizabethport, where the new car repair shops are now built. It was not the company's original intention to start this work at present, but a change has been made in the programme and now the job is to be rushed. When these are finished the company will have a total of fourteen large shops on its extensive tract of land alongside the Newark and Elizabeth branch of the Central, and which comprises over seventy acres.

A Necessary Precaution.

Don't neglect a cold. It is worse than unpleasant. It is dangerous. By using One Minute Cough Cure you can cure it at once. Allays inflammation, clears the head, soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane. Cures coughs, croup, throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Children like it. L. W. Randolph.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Saturday evening prayer meeting will be held at the Methodist church tonight at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Glazer will occupy his pulpit Sunday morning. No preaching will be held in the evening, the time being devoted to a "Fresh Air" service for the benefit of Camp Woolfe, of Westfield. Everyone who is interested in this great work which as done so much for the mother and children of the East Side, New York, is invited to attend the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klemser, former residents of the village but now of Plainfield, have the sympathy of all in their loss of their infant son who died yesterday morning. Interment will be made Sunday in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery here.

The high weeds along the trolley track between the village and Plainfield continue to grow and thrive upon the healthy growing weather of the last few weeks. The crop will probably be harvested when it has ripened and gone to seed.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be Sunday-school, 9:30; morning preaching by pastor, subject, "Midnight Messages," 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7; no evening preaching service during August.

Miss Florence Wade, who underwent an operation several weeks ago at Muhlenberg Hospital for appendicitis, continues to improve and will be able to be brought home shortly.

The convention will be preceded by high mass in St. Lucy's church. Captain C. A. Reilly, president of the Essex county organization, will be a candidate for State president, and has been indorsed for the nomination by the county board.

Delightful Trip.

Miss Noel J. Bullock and Miss C. A. Barber write from Italy that ever since landing at Antwerp, July 1, they have had fine weather and a delightful trip. Their last letter was dated from Pisa after they had just crossed the St. Gothard Pass, with its 360 bridges and eighty tunnels. They are members of a small party ably conducted by Miss S. Lillian Blaisdell, formerly secretary of the Bureau of University Travel.

Physical Director Disabled.

While playing hand ball in the rear of the Y. M. C. A. Hall yesterday morning Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood had the misfortune while reaching for a difficult ball te sprain the ligaments in his right ankle. The injury, though painful, was not serious, but will keep him confined to his home for a few days.

Funeral of Young Son.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

For comfort and elegance, the Douglas shoe is unsurpassed at its price. A full line of high and low styles is to be found at A. W. Willett & Sons' Park avenue store.

Some new and natty styles in neckwear are shown at J. R. Blair's, Park avenue. For a large and assorted stock of men's furnishings to choose from, there is no place like Blair's.

Coal is still scarce, but McDonough Brothers have a supply that is by no means exhausted. It may pay you to give them a trial, if you are looking for the best that the market affords.

"Oh, I don't know what to get for dinner," is one of the frequent plaints of the household. Settle the problem at once by steppng into Smalley Brothers' butcher shop, North avenue.

J. W. Gavett, the West Front street crockeryman, has the largest assortment of fancy china and cut glass novelties to be found in the city. He is making a special of lamps this week.

In Callahan & Son, the Richmond street grocers, the people have a firm in which they can place their confidence. They sell all their goods at a fair price and never anything but the standard articles.

The ice cream parlor connected with W. W. Warnock's establishment is the mecca for all Plainfielders during the warm season. The reason is plain. The cream he sells is the most delicious sold in the city.

All talk about annexation aside, the store of W. W. Dunn, Lincoln place, has few peers and no superiors in the Plainfield's. If you want satisfaction in the grocery line, you will make no mistake by dealing at Dunn's.

Cooling and invigorating to the scalp and restful to the entire body is the hair tonic prepared by L. W. Randolph. Another article, always seasonable, is his antiseptic tooth paste, which is popular among all who have ever used it.

Ladies' summer underwear is nowhere offered to better advantage than at Putnam & DeGraw's, where a stock that is just right can be found. Another taking item on the sales list at present is that of lace lisle ribbed hose, black and colored, which are in great demand among lovers of feminine foot finery.

PERSONAL.

General Eli Long, of Grove street, is out again after his recent illness.

Mrs. T. A. Moore, of Watchung avenue, has returend home from a visit at Newark.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Labor Disputes Retard Business. Agricultural Outlook Brighter.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Bright prospects in agricultural sections far outweigh the adverse influence of labor disputes, which are still retarding trade and manufacture. Confidence in the future is unshaken, dealers everywhere preparing for a heavy fall trade, while contracts for distant deliveries run farther into next year than is usual at this date. Activity has been noteworthy in lumber regions, and fish packing made new records.

Aside from the fuel scarcity and some congestion of traffic, the iron and steel situation continues propitious. Coke ovens in the Connellsville region maintain a weekly output of about 250,000 tons and find ready buyers at full prices. Much more could be used to advantage. Despite the urgent demand for finished products there is more or less closing of plants for repairs, and workmen seek a rest after the vigorous campaign. Conditions are indicated by the number of orders going out of the country which domestic producers cannot undertake. The machinery and hardware trade is fully sustained, but there is idleness at tin plate mills and glass factories. Minor metals are steady.

Splendid growing and harvesting conditions have prevailed in most sections of the country, especially where the larger and more important crops are raised. In view of the distinct progress, it was natural that prices should tend lower, and this affected exports favorably, which in turn had a steadying influence. It is now almost certain that the agricultural returns will be far above the average as to quantity, while the low stocks at the opening of the season are calculated to sustain prices, and there is little prospect of a return to the low quotations of preceding years of bumper production.

Ease in the money market has continued despite the loss in surplus reserves of the associated banks, due to gold exports and increased loans. Aside from a small shipment on a special operation the outgo of gold received a decided check, francs declining in response to the sharp rise in sterling rates at Paris. National bank resources have attained a new high record above $6,000,000,000, with deposits of half that sum. Foreign commerce at this port is still less favorable than in the same week last year, exports declining $3,775,690, while imports increased slightly.

Failures for the week numbered 196 in the United States against 173 last year and 14 in Canada against 31 a year ago.

GENERAL MEYER DEAD.

Commander of Orange Free State Forces During Boer War.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 9.—The Petit Bleu announces the sudden death of General Lucas Meyer of heart disease. General Meyer was attacked several times with this illness during the war in South Africa.

General Meyer was commander of the Orange Free State forces in the Boer war. After the conclusion of peace he left South Africa for London, where he was entertained in British official circles. General Meyer, accompanied by his wife, left London a few days ago for Dresden. This step was taken upon the advice of his physicians. On his way to Germany he stopped in Holland to see former President Kruger of the Transvaal.

HAD FAITH IN HIMSELF.

John Mitchell, President of the United Mine Workers, Began Life as a Mine Boy.

The leader of the coal miners and president of the United Mine Workers is thus described in a brief sketch in the Outlook:

Like so many other labor leaders in this country, he is still a young man. He is 33 years of age. He went into the coal mines as a boy of 13. His school education as supplemented by night studies, chiefly upon economic questions, and especially those relating to organization of labor. He joined the Knights of Labor in 1885, and ten years later, when he was 25 years old, he was elected secretary-treasurer of a district organization of the United (President of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mine Workers. His subsequent rise in power within the organization was extremely rapid. In 1897 he was elected a national organizer, in 1898 a vice president, and in 1899 president. At the beginning of the great strike in 1900 the power of the organization was almost exclusively among the bituminous coal miners of the west, who had gradually won by "collective bargaining" much better terms as to hours, wages and treatment than were accorded to the anthracite miners of central and eastern Pennsylvania. Among the latter less than 10,000 out of 140,000 were connected with the union. The success of the strike, largely due to Mr. Mitchell, was followed by the accession to the union of nearly the whole body of anthracite miners, including the recent immigrants from eastern Europe. At present, therefore, he has supporting him a great organization, but the time of battle is not of his choosing.

CAKES FOR CORONATION.

London Bakers Are Trying to Outdo Each Other in Producing Elaborate Designs.

The bakers, in their efforts to tempt attention and stimulate a craving for their wares, have now taken advantage of the king's postponed coronation. While the services in the Abbey have been delayed by the illness of the king of England the bakers have undauntedly gone ahead and in many of their windows are exhibited crown cakes of the most elaborate design.

Some of the cakes are, more strictly speaking, coronet cakes, for they have been made to resemble the coronets of earls, viscounts and dukes.

"The crown proper," said a baker, whose window was ornamented with an enormous "king cake," "is made of almond or cream water paste; the gems are smooth sugared Dragee almonds and silver beads and the large balls, as well as the imitation of the ermine fur are made of meringue icings very slowly baked so as not become discolored. The meringue is dusted with coarsely crushed, but evenly sifted cut loaf sugar, about the size of wheat kernels, and the dark spots are applied after baking with a camel's hair brush. The arms of the crown are made in sections and bent while hot over properly shaped tin strips, and the leaves are separately formed and slightly twisted. The arms and leaves are then fastened on the head rim with hot suger."

Daily Mails from Heaven.

A spiritualistic journal in St. Petersburg has a column headed "From the Other World." In it appears signed communications from the dead, in reply to queries from the living. Any subscriber can send a letter to a dead person on forwarding to the editor four copecs, which are equal to about three cents. The dead seem to be prompt correspondents, for no inquirer has to wait more than a week for a letter to come from the other world. The heavenly mails are always on time.

The Right Place.

"Is this where you make trouble?" asked the little man at whose elbow stood an aggressive-looking woman.

"This is the marriage license bureau," answered the man behind the desk.

"That's what I meant,'" said the little man, as he sighed and reached into his pocket for two dollars.—Chicago Post.

A Providential Porter.

A gentleman Scotch presbyterian, traveling with his five-year-old son, told the child as he put him to bed to say his prayers as usual, which the boy flatly refused to do.

"Don't you want the Lord to take care of you to-night?" asked the anxious father.

"What's the porter here for?" was the child's response.—Lippincott's.

Ready for Business.

"Beg pardon," said the long-haired visitor, "but is there a literary club around here anywhere?"

"Yes," replied the editor, significantly, as he reached under his desk. "Are you a literary man?"—Catholic Standard.

THE WOMAN SNOB.

She Is Usually a Poser of Practically No Social Importance.

"Awfully exclusive."

"Yes; only goes with two or three people and won't even bow to any one else."

"Wonder who she can be."

These remarks were all directed toward a rather pudgy and commonplace woman seated in a wicker chair on a hotel piazza engaged in staring through her lorgnette at the passersby. A man and a girl strolled past. Up went the insulting lorgnette. The girl flushed. The young fellow—I am afraid he was only an impudent college "freshie"—laughed, and, taking from its leather case his fieldglass, he actually dared to glance through it at the snobbish lady. A gasp went around the piazza.

THE INSULTING LORGNETTE STARE.

The victim arose, purple with indignation, and swept upstairs to her room with an aggressive rustle of stiff silks. But outside every one was secretly glad of her downfall. One man even went up to the hero and invited him downstairs to have something cooling.

Afterward it developed that the woman snob was "nobody at all"—quite a mediocrity, in fact—and that she had adopted this pose in order to lend herself a social importance to which she was not entitled.

That is almost always the way. The people who are really worth knowing are the simplest and the easiest reached. The others resemble nuts which are very hard to crack and which, when opened, reveal nothing. Remember this, you who pride yourselves on being so exclusive.

And, anyway, why should a woman pride herself on being disagreeable? She was put into this world to bring sunshine and joy into it, and oftener than not she does the very opposite. Why should you wish to cause heartache when with a nod or a smile you may bring a little joy and comfort into some lonely life? What matters it if the recipient is not of blue blood or possessed of the supposedly necessary "social position?" She needs your smile all the more if she is not. The rich and great have plenty of friends. It is the others who lack them.

MAUD ROBINSON.

SUMMER BREAKFASTS.

A Few Hot Weather Hints For the Conscientious Housekeeper.

Breakfast unconsciously influences us the whole of the day. The dishes which compose it should be judiciously chosen, especially during hot weather. What is more depressing, for instance, than a dishful of meat on a morning when the thermometer registers anywhere from 90 to 100? And how much more appetizing is a saucer of berries heaped up with rich cream!

CEREAL WITH BERRIES.

Meat should be used as little as possible in hot weather. Berries, vegetables, cream, eggs and cereals are the proper diet.

Don't serve oatmeal in a thick, gummy mass—there are lighter cereals than oatmeal anyway. Serve less of the cereal, but surround it with raspberries, blackberries, strawberries or sliced peaches, according to the season. Dates and whipped cream make another appetizing breakfast dish. Remove the stones from the dates so as not to spoil the shape and place them in a saucer with a mound of whipped cream in the center. Minced chicken and mashed potato mixed with chopped parsley and browned in the oven after the fashion of an omelet is a light and easily digested meat dish. Tomatoes with eggs are also a dainty combination. Select large tomatoes and cut them in halves. Remove a little of the pulp from each. Into the hollows thus made pour the yolks of three eggs. Bake in a quick oven and garnish with parsley and hard boiled eggs. Tomatoes broiled or baked are excellent for breakfast. Plenty of green things and a change every day are the two essentials of the ideal summer breakfast.

he rose from his ablutions, and, with surprising agility for a man of his years, took the bank with a flying leap and clambered up onto the path above.

One moment he cast a look back at the hole from which he had extricated the precious paper.

"The curious will find little there to satisfy them," he said to himself, with a smile. "And now I am prepared to visit Ellison and find out what can be done for the young man. He shall do his part or——" He drew his lips tightly together, and his great, knotted hands clinched. "Oh, there is no fear but he will do all, and even more, than I want him to." And, in order to avoid passing the strange habitation and its inmates, he plunged into the thicket and so made his way safely to the highway that led to the town.

CHAPTER V.

JOB HENDRICKS MAKES A CALL.

James Ellison was seated at his desk in the library writing, now and then stopping in his work, with pen poised, to think, his eyes fixed on the bright garden that spread out beyond the window. He was still a handsome man for all his 50 years and grizzled hair and mustache. Seated there quietly at his desk, he had not the appearance of a man who had lost his wife in such a tragic manner but a few shorts days before. Apart from a certain nervousness which manifested itself when he heard unexpected sounds, he might have been taken for a man who is at peace with his fellows and the world. It was in one of these pauses of his work, while his eyes rested on the garden beds without, that a distinct cough close to him caused him to turn swiftly around in his chair with a muttered exclamation.

He found himself facing a small man in a brown suit, who stood in a respectful attitude, twisting a shabby hat between his red fingers.

"Who let you in? What are you doing here?" asked Ellison, angrily.

The stranger waved his hand in a deprecating way and smiled.

"There, my dear sir, don't excite yourself unnecessarily."

"But I do excite myself, as you call it, over this intrusion."

"No intrusion at all. I have come to talk on a subject that will interest you deeply. I knocked on the door, and, not getting any answer, I came in."

"Then you can take yourself off as you came," exclaimed the other, unappeased. "I told the household that I would not see anyone. It is no time to receive visitors."

"No, no, of course not. People should respect a grief so deep as yours," replied the stranger, soothingly.

Ellison looked at the man suspiciously to see if there was any lurking sarcasm in that remark, but the unwelcome visitor's face was calm and placid.

"Well, now that you are here," said the banker, roughly, "perhaps you will tell me who you are, and why I am indebted for this visit."

The other, without waiting to be invited, sat down in a comfortable chair, and crossed his legs like a man who is making himself at home.

"What you have to say make brief," growled the banker, frowning at the little man's presumption.

"I will reduce my story to as few words as possible," meekly. "I have come to speak to you on behalf of a friend—one you knew in the past; his name was Martin Frale."

Ellison jumped to his feet, his hands clasped and his lips moving. A moment only these evidences of emotion lasted, and then he laughed nervously and dropped back in his seat.

"It must be a very old story that you have to tell me," he said; "some bits of ancient history. Did you force your way in for that? Tell me!" recovering his arrogant manner.

"Yes; it was exactly to rehearse some bits of ancient history that I came to see you, James Ellison," returned the visitor, at the same time fixing his bright eyes on the other's face.

For a moment their glances met, but it was not the visitor who retired first from the contest of staring each other out of countenance. Ellison looked down on the floor, twiddling his thumbs and twisting uneasily in his chair. There was something in the manner of his uninvited guest that made him think, after all, it might be best to hear him out, and have done with him.

"You had a certain interesting transaction with this Frale nearly 17 years ago," began the stranger.

"Certainly, but what of those old times? In the first place, the man we are speaking about is dead," and in saying this he seemed to feel a certain satisfaction.

"How do you know he is dead?"

"Eh, what's that?" this time staring at the little man as if he would read the secrets of his heart.

"I say, how do you know he is dead? Did you ever take any great pains to find out?"

"I heard it on pretty good authority," sullenly. Then, his voice rising, "I wish you would be kind enough to come to the point, and not be beating around the bush in this distressful manner."

"It don't distress me a bit," and the little man smiled. "Well, since you wish it, we will come to the point. If it pleases you to have it so, Frale is dead, though I would not be willing to swear to such a statement."

"Go on."

"Frale, these many years ago, became involved in a robbery. A factory it was, and the foreman happened unfortunately to be killed. Frale was supposed to be guilty. He managed at the time to escape. He came to you——"

"Oh, why tell me everything that I know already," said the banker, testily.

"I thought perhaps you had forgotten. But I am coming to the point. The object in Frale's escape was to find a home for his baby daughter. It seems that he had been reduced to robbery because he was a ruined man, and his wife had need of surgical aid, which he could not procure for her."

Ellison tried not to appear interested, but he did not venture to warn the other again not to repeat matters of ancient history.

Indeed, he could not keep his eyes off the little man's face as he told his story in a calm and dispassionate way.

"Now we are coming to the most interesting period in the lives of these two men, whose paths lay so wide apart." He drew a long breath, as if to add emphasis to what he was going to say. "Ellison had married a short time before a rich woman, but her fortune was in her own hands, and if she died childless, it was all to go to her relations. Ah, I thought you would be interested sooner or later," for while he was saying this, Ellison had leaned over, and his heavy breathing could be distinctly heard in the silence of the room. Ellison at once sat up in his chair with a jerk and assumed an air of indifference. "If there was a child that survived, then the money was to remain in the father's hands in trust. It was just about the time of Frale's trouble that the Ellison baby died, while the mother was in a dangerous illness."

The last words, innocent enough in themselves, seemed to excite the banker beyond control, for he rose, and going over, laid his hand on his visitor's arm.

"Who are you? How did you come to know all this?" he demanded.

"I am known by the unattractive title of Job Hendricks," was the unperturbed reply. "As to how I came to know this bit of family history—I may have had it from Frale himself, or procured it from his heirs and assignees. But why do you interrupt me in the most interesting part of my story?"

Ellison slunk, rather than walked, back to his chair, into which he sank with a sigh.

"The father was in a predicament. He saw the fortune taking wings. It was just at this juncture that his former friend, Frale, appeared on the scene with the request that he should take charge of his infant daughter, as he had an appointment with the government. Ellison was never so glad to see his shabby ex-friend as on this occasion. The papers drawn up, he adopted the infant as his own. There was an important clause that the father might claim his daughter when he was free, in 20 years or more, or whenever his sentence was served. Ellison agreed readily to this, for there were many things that might happen to a man in prison—jail fever or other maladies; he might even happily be shot when he attempted to escape. The latter would have pleased Ellison most. Then, with money, it was possible to trace and destroy the papers showing the adoption; in short, this philanthropic man, who had taken in the child of a criminal, had every chance of coming out ahead in his benevolent game."

Now that Ellison was acquainted with the chief parts of the story, he recovered his equanimity and composure quickly. As he believed he had to deal with a cunning blackmailer, who had somehow come into possession of the secret of his life, and as he had plenty of money, it would not be a hard matter to buy him off.

"Well," said Hendricks, smiling in his beard, for he guessed what thought was passing through the banker's mind. "Mrs. Ellison recovered, and found her child living and well. That is how Frale's daughter—the vagabond's brat—became an heiress, and the fortune of the family was fixed to remain forever in James Ellison's possession."

Ellison did not answer at once, but, swinging round in his chair, took a checkbook out of his desk, dipped his pen in the ink, and said: "How much money do you want?"

He received only a laugh for an answer.

Siberian Butter in Eastern Markets.

Siberia is bidding strongly for the butter trade of the east. Not only are the markets of Dalny and Port Arthur supplied by the Siberian product, but it is also shipped in considerable quantities to the principal commercial centers of China and Japan. The possibilities for the production of both milk and butter in Siberia are unlimited.

Two grades of Siberian butter are sold in Niuchwang. The first grade—table butter—is put up either in two-pound rolls or in two-pound casks or tins. It contains very little salt and cannot withstand a warm climate; consequently it is successfully shipped only during the winter months. The price of table butter at Tomsk is 12 rubles per pood, or about 16 2-3 cents per pound.

The second grade is used only for cooking purposes, and is put up in five-gallon oil cans, casks or rolls. It retails at Tomsk at seven rubles per pood (about ten cents per pound). The cost of shipping freight from Tomsk to Manchuria is $1.80 per 36-112 pounds, but it is expected that this rate will soon be considerably reduced.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

League games to be played today: Hope against Safe Works on Hope grounds; St. Mary against Y. M. C. A. on St. Mary grounds. Games called at 3:30 sharp. The will be no League games next Saturday.

The All Plainfield team, which is to play the Xavier Deaf Mutes in this city on Wednesday, August 20, for charity, will be announced in a few days. Several League members are busily selecting the best players.

The best baseball team that Rahway can put in the field will go up against the Westfields this afternoon. The Rahway pitcher has a record of striking out sixteen men and the members of his team count on him in doing something to help win the game. Recreation Park will be the scene of the struggle and the game will commence at 3:30.

GOLF.

The acting chairman of the golf committee of the Park Golf Club has received a challenge from R. I. Townley, captain of the Westfield Golf Club team, for a match to be played at Westfield, Saturday afternoon. Each club is to be represented by eight men. The challenge will be accepted if enough of the local players can be gotten together.

A mistaken idea has prevailed with many that the play for the Hooley cup at the Park Golf Club is discontinued during midsummer. According to the provisions made by the golf committee of that club, the trophy is to be played for every Tuesday afternoon until the close of the season. One year, arrangements were made to suspend play during August but it was not continued this season. There was no play for the trophy last Tuesday afternoon and there were not four competitors who were ready to play. It is necessary to have four starters in order to have the scores count.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Union County Cricket Club has been organized in Elizabeth with twenty-one charter members. The club will fit up excellent grounds on Rahway avenue and Fay avenue in that city, and the grounds will also be adapted for lawn tennis and croquet. Persons over fifteen are eligible to membership. E. A. Leach is president; Clarence Goddard, secretary; and Titus J. Leach, treasurer. Percy Howard is captain. The club will also have a junior membership list for lads from twelve to fifteen years, from which a minor eleven will be selected. A substitute membership book will be opened for people to join the club who wish only to play tennis or croquet.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Counter-attraction in the shape of the Republican outing interfered with the schedule at the Driving Park this afternoon. There will be some racing, however, between two of A. C. Vail's horses. A friend of the owner from Maine will drive in a wagon exhibition against C. C. Brower.

TENNIS.

In the continuation of play in the tennis tournament at the Y. M. C. A., Thursdry evening, Rogers defeated McCarthy, 6 2. Last evening Neal defeated Sebring, 6-0. This afternoon two sets will be played, Denton and Hallock, Robbie and Emes.

PING-PONG.

In the ping-pong tournament begun yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., Rittenhouse was defeated by Arthur Aalholm. This morning Guinn defeated Templin. All contests are best two out of three.

ROD AND GUN.

The Independent Gun Club will hold a shoot on the rifle range, Maple avenue, this afternoon.

Going With Hope Chapel.

New arrangements have been made by the I. C. T. Club excursion committee, with regard to the outing to be taken next week. It has now been decided that the club will not go in a body upon the trip to Asbury Park with Franklin Council on Thursday, but will instead accompany the Hope chapel Sunday-school next Saturday. Plans for securing a special car are being considered.

Stolen Horses Recovered.

The two horses, stolen Wednesday night from William Alpaugh and Charles Hoffman, of High Bridge, were recovered yesterday by the Newark police. They were found in the possession of two men who afterwards confessed to stealing the animals. The capture was made through a description of the rigs furnished by Chief Kiely.

Lieut. Coleman Recovered.

Lieutenant Coleman, who has been ill at the Hotel Netherwood, since returning home from the Philippines, is able to be around again. He has been asssigned to duty in California when he is completely recovered.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Most pleasant impressions are those reported by Andrew Vanderbeek, of this city, of the journey which brought him to his present location in the little village of Hick's Wharf, Virginia, where he and his wife have gone for a time to rest and recreation. In a letter just received by The Daily Press, Mr. Vanderbeek writes in glowing terms of the beauties of the trip from Washington to Old Point Comfort and thence up the Chesapeake Bay to his destination. Here was found former Mayor Rockfellow, who is reported to be as tanned and healthy as any old Virginia farmer, enjoying life in the open air as he has never done before. The Rockfellow farm is on the river front, with good fishing ground almost at the door, while in the rear the land supplies other necessaries in the way of vegetable food and fruit. The country throughout the section is a beautiful stretch, abounding in the most picturesque scenery, while the climate is said to be all that could be desired. Mr. Vanderbeek felt better as soon as he reached his pleasant stopping place and he looks forward to being greatly benefitted in health before he returns to Plainfield.

Going Home.

Left standing for a few moments on Park avenue this morning, the horses attached to the Lehigh Valley stage decided to make the homeward trip alone and started off. They were making good headway when they were caught by C. L. Smith, the North Plainfield dairyman, who brought them to a standstill near North avenue.

Hope Chapel Record.

Members of the Hope Y. M. A. will shortly publish a paper to be called the Hope Capel Record. H. C. Brose will be the business manager.

TRIAL FOR KESSLER.

Will Stand Trial on Charge of Murder October 13—F. M. Voorhees Named as His Counsel.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 9—William Kessler, the one-legged cripple, who shot and killed a man in the "Glass Houses" last May, was arraigned before Judge VanSickle this morning. He pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder and his trial was set for October 13. Former Governor Voorhees was appointed as his counsel.

Kessler has admitted shooting the man but claimed it was justifiable. His victim, he said, and another man, both intoxicated, entered the "Glass Houses" and attempted to assault a woman. In taking her part the shooting followed.

WORKED WHILE HE SLEPT.

Burglars Robbed Home of T. B. Nolan Without Disturbing Him.

When T. B. Nolan, of East Third street, awoke this morning, he discovered that burglars had visited his home while he slept. Entrance was gained through a window and a suit of clothes, two pairs of shoes and $1.40 in money was taken.

None of the family heard any suspicous noise during the night but a neighbor claims to have heard some unusual commotion about the premises at 10 o'clock. The burglars evidently searched hurriedly as $18 in a bureau drawer was overlooked.

The matter was reported to the police and it is Chief Kiely's opinion that someone familiar with the house committed the theft.

Dogs Frightened Burglars.

Burglars attempted to effect an entrance to the house of Franklin DeCamp, Linden avenue, Thursday evening. Their efforts were not successful, as the barking of dogs aroused the inmates and the intruders were frightened away. It was this same evening that the carpenters' tools were stolen from the house of John Dickson, Fairview avenue.

In Both Cases, Failure to Hit the Opposing Pitcher, Was Largely Responsible for Defeat—Story of the Two Games With the Scores in Detail.

Westfield, 9; Rahway, 8.

After having secured a lead in the City Baseball League which confines the final victory to the two clubs, the Y. M. C. A. and the Hope Y. M. A. teams fell down Saturday afternoon. St. Marys did not find the Y. M. C. A. team a difficult proposition while the Safe Works players fell upon the Hope Y. M. A. combination in a way that brought tears to the eyes of the Hope rooters. In both cases failure to hit the delivery of the opposing pitcher was the primary cause for the defeat of the leaders. Only two more games remain to be played by each team. Y. M. C. A. and Hope Y. M. A. are still tied for first place and one or the other must win, the other two clubs being too far behind to catch up There will be no league games next Saturday afternoon. The week following the leaders will meet. Then there are postponed games to be played off by Hope and Safe Works and Y. M. C. A. and St. Marys.

HOPES WIPED OUT.

A shut-out in all its baldness and also the first to fall to the lot of a League team was the bitter pill the Hope team had to swallow, Saturday. The Safe Works aggregation played all around their opponents and won out by a score of 12 to 0. Failure to hit Burns' delivery was one particular cause that can be assigned for the victory. At the bat the Iron Workers were all right. In the field they were better. They landed on Montross and Hewitt, the latter being substituted in the seventh, for 12 hits, dropping them all around the field. The Hopes managed to get four scattered hits off Burns and get two men as far as third, but that was all.

Hopes were first to the bat and went out with a cipher. Their opponents immediately started a carousal and when the agony was over three men had scored. In the second they sent another man over the plate, in the fifth four more and in the seventh another four. Nearly all were made by a fine bunch of hits, that included two and three baggers.

With the Hopes it was the same story oft repeated. Time and again when a hit would have done wonders it wasn't forthcoming. In the fifth matters looked promising when Hartfelder rapped the leather for a two bagger and Gordon sacrificed to give him third. But Hewitt had previously struck out and Roseberry followed suit, settling the matter. The agony was worse in the ninth after Shortman flied out to Burns. Dalley reached second on a clean drive, and was advanced to third by Martin and Montross getting free passes. Hartfelder took the willow while the expectant crowd howled for a hit but he sent a measly fly in the air that was gobbled by Allen. This left everything to Hewitt and he prepared to kill the ball but instead sent a little fly to Jackson that was quickly gathered in and Hope gave up the ghost.

Burns' pitching was one feature of the game. The support he received was simply elegant and when he was touched up, somebody robbed the Hopes of a hit. The Safe Works people practically played an errorless game.

Following is the official score and summary:

Two innings decided the result of the game between the Y. M. C. A. and the St. Mary's. All the runs made by the former were scored in the second, when Doyle was touched up for five hits, which, with two errors, combined to give what looked like a safe lead. St. Mary's, however, settled matters in their fourth, making five of their seven tallies, off four hits, a base on balls, an error and the general slow work of the Y. M. C. A. in the field.

Except for two bad innings, both pitchers were in good form. Doyle especially distinguished himself, striking out nine men and giving only one pass to first. After the second, one scratch hit was the total until the ninth, when two singles fattened the Y. M. C. A. batting averages without affecting the result.

St. Mary's error column is deceptive, as only two of the six misplays were costly ones. Of the other four, that of Lederer's was an excusable muff of a long fly after a desperate run. Mack redeemed his fumble of Smith's grounder in the sixth by taking a hot liner off Burt's bat and doubling Smith at first.

Fast base running was another feature of St. Mary's play. Lederer and Taylor led with two steals, while Keene and Crotty took advantage of Y. M. C. A.'s slowness in the field by stretching out singles for two bases. None of the Y. M. C. A men succeeded in stealing and only one attempt was made. Eleven left on bases, against St. Mary's six, tells part of the story of the game.

Things looked dubious for St. Mary's for a few moments in the ninth, when Y. M. C. A. managed to get three men on base, with only one out. Burt singled, Barnes sent a grounder through Doyle's hands, advancing Burt, Bowman flied to Winn, Bolsterle singled. Doyle retained his steadiness, in spite of the nerve wearing conditions. George Dupee died on a pop fly to second and McLaughlin ended the suspense of the St. Mary fans by striking out.

Following is the official score and summary:

SUIT FOR DAMAGES AGAINST A GOVERNOR

Andrew F. Power, of Netherwood, Has Started Suits for $500,000 for Slander.

EIGHT SUITS IN ALL

ARE BROUGHT AGAINST THOSE WHO CLAIMED POWER WAS DISHONEST.

Governor Kimball, of Rhode Island, and Others Are Defendants—E. W. Williams, of this City, is One of Power's Attorneys.

Complications likely to result disastrously for some of the parties interested in the affair have arisen in the difficulty between Andrew F. Power, of Netherwood, and Governor Charles D. Kimball, of Rhode Island. Suits aggregating $500,000 have been brought in the Supreme Court of New York by the Plainfielder against the Governor and Louis B. Curtis, of Bridgeport, Conn., the complainants in the charges recently made against Power. The latter is represented by Edgar W. Williams, of this city, and George Gordon Battle, of New York.

Malicious prosecution and slander are the charges instanced in the present cases. There are eight suits altogether, four against each of the defendants. Two of these are brought for Power personally and two for the Exporters' Association of America and the New England Manufacturers' association. These are the organizations against which the charges were made by Kimball and Curtis in the matter in the Centre Street Police Court, of New York a few weeks ago, the claim being that Power had misrepresented their financial conditions.

In the suits against Curtis, Boothby & Baldwin are associate attorneys with the other lawyers mentioned. In speaking of the affair, Mr. Williams, counsel for Mr. Power, characterizes the whole proceedings on the part of Governor Kimball and Curtis as an outrage. He says: "The criminal prosecution brought against Power was a piece of unadulterated malice. There was not a scintilla of evidence to support any allegation which was made against Power. The complaint in the police court was dismissed by Magistrate Flammer without asking for any statement from the defendant or any evidence in his behalf."

In consideration of the unfavorable light in which the whole disagreeable affair has placed Power, the suits for damages have been brought. Summonses were served on the defendants on August 8 and they are allowed twenty days in which to file their answer.

BACK TO JAIL.

Mrs. John Kavanaugh, Just Out of Jail, Caused a Disturbance at Her Home—Was Rearrested.

Mrs. John Kavanaugh, of the West End, was returned to the county jail for thirty days this morning, from which she was released last week. She went to the home of her husband on Grant avenue, last evening, under the pretext of seeing her children from whom she is separated, and caused a disturbance which aroused the neighborhood. She was arrested by Patrolman Saffron.

When arraigned before City Judge Runyon, she became defiant and asserted she would go to the house whenever she felt like it. His Honor lost patience with her and the sentence followed. It took three policemen to return her to a cell as she refused to go of her own accord. Even then she annoyed the court proceedings by shrieks and denunciations of Chief Kiely and the police.

M. Seymour Purdy Preached.

The pulpit at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning, was occupied by M. Seymour Purdy, of Marconnier chapel, who preached on the command of Jesus, "Follow Me" as found in the Gospel of St. Luke, the latter part of the ninth chapter. The sermon was enjoyed by the congregation, being interspersed with many helpful suggestions.

TOLD OF FRESH AIR WORK

MISS SARA CURRY AT THE PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Addressed the Sunday-School Yesterday Morning—Her Little Children Sang.

Miss Sara Curry and some of the fresh air children from the Netherwood Home added greatly to the interest in the exercises at the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school yesterday morning. Twenty of the tenement tots were present with the matron, and their singing was highly enjoyed by a large audience. The morning collection, amounting to $12.62, was for the benefit of the home.

Beginning the special summer sessions arranged by Superintendent George E. Hall, yesterday's programme was of unusual interest. The lesson was taught from the desk by Rev. Ackland Boyle, of New York. Other features of the morning were solos by Miss Adelaide Runyon, cornet solos by De Witt Frazee, who also accompanied all the singing, and a short talk by Miss Curry upon her fresh air work. Souvenir programmes of pretty design were distributed among the audience.

Gratifying success seemed to attend the efforts of the superintendent to make the warm weather sessions of the school interesting to the scholars. The primary department met with the main school yesterday, and the presence of many friends made the audience a large one.

SEVERE STORM FOR JERSEY

HEAVY RAIN AND LIGHTNING WERE IN EVIDENCE HERE.

Several Places Struck, But No Serious Damage Done—The Water High at Watchung.

Lower Jersey received the worst end of the storm which passed over Plainfield last evening. Trenton and neighboring places suffered severe losses from wind, rain and lightning, and the southern portion of the State was visited by a veritable tornado. This city experienced its only bad effects from the rain, which was responsible for a number of bad washouts on the streets.

Lightning struck the ground in several places, but no reports have been received of any great damage. A tree in the rear of Charles Fisher's home on East Second street, was shattered, and another shaft ploughed up the ground outside Warren chapel. Worshippers at East Third Street chapel were badly frightened, but unhurt, by a ball of fire which flashed through the building during the evening service.

Trolley and telephone service suffered somewhat for a time, but the derangement was only temporary. The street lights on one of the circuits on West Front street were out of working order for some time. Church services in general were interfered with or prevented altogether, and those which were held depsite the weather were attended by the smallest congregations imaginable. The damage to streets and sewers was promptly attended to today by Street Commissioner Gavett's men.

Stony Brook was swellen far beyond its boundaries at Watchung. A boat belonging to Fred Nelson was washed over the dam by the torrent and no trace if it has since been discovered. It is believed to have been dashed to pieces.

During the heavy downpour of rain last evening Somerset street, in the vicinity of Greenbrook road, and extending for several blocks, was flooded from curb to curb. The trolley cars, plowing along through the water, looked like Venetian gondolas. Traffic was next to impossible even when the storm somewhat abated its fury. At some points the water was three and four feet deep. Many cellars along the street were flooded. On the lawn of Ex-mayor Wilson, Greenbrook road, there was water to the depth of three feet.

From one of the heaviest crashes in the neighborhood, Mrs. James Manning, of Dunellen avenue, suffered a severe shock, necessitating the service of a physician. She was obliged to take to her bed, where she remained until today, owing to the shattered condition of her nerves.

Residents of Washington Valley say that the rise of water along the brook was the heaviest in so short a time known in years. Two bridges were reported washed away at Watchung Hollow.

CLAMS FIRST, THEN POLITICS

That Was the Order of Events at Union County Republicans' Outing Saturday.

TWO THOUSAND THERE

Politics Took a Back Seat While the Guests Enjoyed the Clambake—Lots of Prominent Guests Were Present, But Wire Pulling Was on the Quiet.

Politics took a back seat when the Republican hosts of Union county gathered at Galvin's Park, Saturday afternoon, for the much heralded outing of the county committee. Of course there was some political talk, with so much doing in the county it could not be expected otherwise, but each man's chief endeavor appeared to be to round up as much as possible of the clambake and enjoy himself thereon to his heart's content. Over a thousand gathered from all parts of the county and, although they may not have discovered the inside line to the county situation, they saw many prominent men and had their appetities satisfied.

Like other affairs of that nature, it was not possible to land the courses in their proper order. Some of the guests failed to land some of the attractions at all. It is safe to say, however, that no one went away hungry. It is no slight task to feed a thousand and the county committee managed to accomplish the task as well or better than is usually the case.

As each man entered the park he was handed a blue badge with a golden inscription, a polished clam shell dangling from the bottom, and a screeching eagle unfolding it swings at the top. True, the badges were intended for service, according to the date thereon, at a Republican love feast last year, but their requisition Saturday was noted as characteristic of the party fondness for economy. A few Democrats from Elizabeth, who contrived to gain access to the park, asserted that the whole affair was in honor of King Edward's coronation, and will make use of the event in the next campaign to show the imperialistic tendencies of their political opponents. One man, who came to the grounds, full faithful to the G. O. P., failed to get an adequate share of the bivalves and the viands, and now he says he will not vote for Roosevelt in 1904.

Noted Republicans were present from all parts of the county. But Senator Cross was conspicuous by his absence. And there was not a man in all that throng who had seen any other man there for the space of ages. At least such was the impression to be gained from the numerous handshakes, from the many faces wreathed with broad smiles, from the excessive condiality in the air when one individual happened to see a fellow being. Of course there was some wire pulling during the day, but the wires were well insulated and no sparks were visible to the general gaze. Oratory was happily absent, and no one had time to listen to speeches anyway.

The menu provided a feast for the gods. There were a half-dozen pyramids of steaming clams, fourteen barrels of luscious lobsters, fifteen hundred chickens, 2,000 ears of corn, twenty-five gallons of ketchup, 500 pounds of bluefish, fifty firkins of butter, a plantation of water melons and a ton of bread. To wash it all down there was enough beer, ginger ale and sarsaparilla to float the Atlantic squadron, and in the shape of a siesta a cigar for every man in the press.

It took sixty colored waiters to wait on the 2,000 people present. Several long tables stretched along the green, where after being regaled with chowder in an enclosed building, the hungry multitude sat itself down to eat There was a slight delay in the serving of the victuals, and excitement began to cool, when at 4:30 o'clock, the canvass was lifted from off the steaming pyramids of clams, and an odor, as of sea weed, filled the air. A mighty shout arose from the throng. Another moment and the tables were groaning beneath burdens of food. The greatest charge in the annals of warfare had just begun.

All the while Datter's band of Elizabeth, played "Arrah, go on, you're only fooling," "Ain't it a Shame, a Measly Shame," "Johnny, Get Your Gun," and other air appropriate to the occasion. At 6 o'clock the crowd began to disperse, and before many minutes the grounds were left in sole possession of the man who issues invitations to paralyse the artful dodger.

Noticed in the throng were Congressman Chas. N. Fowler, U. S. Senator John Kean, County Committee Chairman Hamilton Fish Kean, Surrogate Geo. F. Parrott, Sheriff Samuel Hueston, Prosecutor N. J. C. English, Colonel D. C. Collins, County Surveyor Bauer, Editor Henry S. Altai, German Free Press, Postmaster Charlock, Assistant Postmaster White, Former Assemblyman Ellis R. Meeker, Frank Bergen, County Clerk Howard, Michael Gannon, Robert Taylor, Elizabeth; City Collector F. H. Smith, Councilmen B. F. Coriell, Robert L. Lee, Clarence L. Murphy and Gloak, Freeholder W. A. Westphal, Postmaster E. H. Bird, Andrew McCardell, City Judge Wm. N. Runyon, Chief P. S. Kiely, Chief T. O. Doane, Mayor O. L. Jenkins, Former Assemblyman Chas. S. Foote, John Cose, D. C. Smalley, Plainfield; Mayor N. B. Smalley, Dr. A. H. Dundon, Frank Rowley, North Plainfield; Clerk of Board of Freeholders S. Russling Ryno, Chief of Police Wright, Councilman Brooks, Tax Receiver Charles E. Reed, Rahway; Assemblyman Hall, Cranford; Colonel E. W. Hine, Westfield; Freeholder King, Clark township.

A detail of Plainfield policemen composed of Patrolmen Overbaugh, Flynn and Higgins assisted a similar detachment from Elizabeth as a committee of safety.

REPAIRING TRACKS.

Gang Putting Trolley Tracks in the City in a Proper Condition—A Temporary Switch.

In response to a letter from Street Commissioner Gavett to Road Master Knight, the trackmen of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railroad Company came to this city, Saturday, to make temporary repairs to the roadbed. The men also removed the new switch at Watchung avenue and East Second street, to send it back to the works for alteration as it was found unsuitable. The one now in use is intended for the turnout at Rock avenue and West Front street, and it may be a fortnight before the proper one is received again.

After the switch is completed, if the street is not left in satisfactory condition, the city roller and macadamizing force will be employed and the expenses charged to the street railway company.

MINOR COURT CASES.

Troublesome Offenders Arraigned Before City Judge Runyon This Morning.

In the city court, this morning, Thomas McLennon, of Jersey City, was asked to pay $3 or spend ten days at Elizabeth for being out of order at Watson's Grant avenue house, Saturday evening. He preferred the latter owing to a shortness of coin. Patrolman Saffron made the arrest.

Sentence was suspended on Thomas Newman and Edward Bergen, who were arrested by Roundsman Flynn, yesterday morning, for fighting at the home of the latter's mother on South Second street. The fracas took place in doors and although City Judge Runyon commended the officer for his action, he decided the matter was one where a formal complaint should be made.

MAKING FACES.

Theme of Address to Little One at the Netherwood Camp.

Mothers and children at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home were given a treat yesterday afternoon at the special services conducted by Rev. D. H. Clare, of Waverley, N. Y., who preached at the Park Avenue Baptist church in the morning. He gave an interesting talk upon the subject of "making faces," the keynote of his remarks being "a merry heart maketh a pretty face." Members of the church and Christian Endeavor Society also were present. Miss Mary Clark presided at the organ. At the close of the service, the mothers and children sang "God be With You Till We Meet Again" as the visitors were leaving the grounds.

Outing for Firemen.

Members of the West End Hose Company enjoyed an outing up Long Island Sound yesterday. A party, numbering about twenty, left here in the morning and returned home about midnight.

Paid His Fine.

Borough Chief Campbell arrested an unknown man, who said he hailed from Newark, Saturday afternoon for drunkenness. He was fined $5 the same evening and paid up.

RECORD MADE FOR PARK CLUB

Roberts de S. Newhall Played the Eighteen Holes in Competition in 83.

REINHART AT HILLSIDE

Reinhart Tied for Second Honors There, D. H. Barrows Being Low Man—Newhall Was Low Man at Park Course—Ideal Weather and Courses Fast.

With so many of the local golfers on vacations, the attendance at the local golf clubs Saturday afternoon was naturally small. Those who did turn out found the courses in the best of condition and ideal weather conditions prevailing. Frank O. Reinhart appeared at the Hillside course and divided second honors with E. T. Newkirk. D. H. Barrows and W. T. Glenney were the low men in the regular weekly competitions. At the Park Golf Club, Roberts deS. Newhall broke the competition record for that course, making an 83, and taking first place in the regular weekly competition for the President's cup.

Frank O. Reinhart made his reappearance at the links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, Saturday afternoon, in his usual fine form. His round of the course in 79 gave him a share of the honors of the day, tieing him for second with E. T. Newkirk in the play for the Golf Committee cup. The lowest net score was made by D. H. Barrows, with a 78, giving him the three points more in the standing for the trophy.

Robert Abbott, who did not play Saturday, still leads for the cup. The changes resulting from last week's play advance Barrows to a tie with Glenney for third place, with seven and one-half each, Newkirk to fifth, with seven and Reinhart from thirteenth to a tie for seventh.

Following are the scores of Saturday:

	G	H	N
D. H. Barrows	88	10	78
Frank O. Reinhart	79	0	79

EMPLOYES WELL PLEASED

HOW THEY VIEW NEW MANAGEMENT OF JERSEY CENTRAL.

Editorial in Railroad Employe Outlines the View Taken by the Railroad Men.

While everyone knows that, from the point of view of the passengers, there has been a wonderful improvement in the service of the Jersey Central Railroad since the new management took command, it is interesting and gratifying as well to know that there have been equal improvements from the view point of the employe. The Railroad Employe, a monthly publication for railroad men, in its last number has something to say on the subject editorially.

In an article headed "Gratifying Conditions," it says:

"The Central Railroad of New Jersey will on August 15 institute a system of standard time inspection and after that date employes who are connected with or have any relation to the running of trains will be required to carry standard watches as prescribed in a circular recently issued by the company.

"This system in its operation is identical with that in vogue on the Lackawanna and several other lines throughout the country where it is said to give the best satisfaction to everyone concerned.

"While the order was not at first enthusiastically received by the employes and while a number of misunderstandings existed as to its purport, the men generally who own watches that will not pass inspection are procuring standard time pieces.

"Conditions on the New Jersey Central, as they exist today and as they existed six months ago are radically different. Today the men in all branches of the service have the greatest of faith in and respect for both General Manager Besler and General Superintendent Huntington, who are not only demonstrating themselves competent managers, but who are evidencing a desire to make the burden of the rank and file of the service as light as possible.

"In view of this fact it is plainly the duty of the employes to exert every effort to foster and extend the good feeling and pleasant relations which go so far toward constituting an ideal service.

"It is not perhaps to be wondered at, in view of the many handships which the employes of this corporation have undergone during the recent Warren administration, that they should be suspicious even of the kindest treatment, but with the evidence of the liberal reciprocal and sensible policy of the present management, under which every man in the service is assured of good treatment and just recognition the feeling of unrest which was rapidly approaching a chronic stage before the recent change is wearing away and the employes are becoming their ownselves once more, working hand in hand with the management for the upbuilding and good name of the company they mutually serve.

"The men at present at the helm of New Jersey Central affairs are practical railroaders who have come up from the ranks and we know of no road in the country where the future outlook for harmony and good feeling between the company and the employes is brighter than on the Central Railroad of New Jersey system."

Patrolman Nicholas Myers, of the local police force, is enjoying his ten days' vacation. Part of it will be spent with relatives at Williamsburg.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

STATE GEOLOGIST'S REPORT

AN INTERESTING DOCUMENT TELLING ABOUT NEW JERSEY.

This is the Chief Clay Producing State in the Union—Special Topics Taken Up.

The annual report of Henry B. Kummel, Acting State Geologist, for 1901, which is now ready for distribution, is an exceedingly interesting document and, unlike the usual reports of the departments, is entertaining reading.

The first section of the report reviews the work which has been done during the past year. The topographical work, which has been in charge of C. C. Vermule, as consulting topographer and engineer of the survey, has surveyed 220 square miles, making a total of 1,263 square miles of land surface resurveyed for the large scale maps up to date. The surface geology has continued under the charge of Prof. R. D. Salisbury, and has been directed mainly to the completion of the final report on surface formations of the northern part of the State.

"New Jersey," according to this report, "is the chief clay producing State in the Union, the clay mined and sold to clay workers in 1900 being valued at $476,881, or 25.4 per cent of the whole for the country; but these figures do not include the value of the large amount of clay mined by those manufacturers who own their own clay banks and thus supply their own clay in whole or in part. During the same year the output of clay outputters of the State had a value of $10,928,423, or 11.36 per cent. of the whole amount of the country, New Jersey ranking third of all the States."

Lewis Woolman has collected during the year artesian well records, and the survey is now in possession of data from between 1,200 and 1,300 wells from many parts of the State.

These have been indexed upon a card catalogue, so that the record of any well can be readily found.

The drainage of wet lands of the State has received much attention in the past. "That the work of the survey in this direction has borne good fruit is shown by the steps taken by large capitalists looking to the reclamation of the Hackensack meadows."

William S. Myers contributes an entertaining and instructive section on "Chlorine in Natural Waters," and Prof. Henry B. Kummel writes of "The Mining Industry." The iron industry in New Jersey, Prof. Kummel says, during 1901 has been in a prosperous condition, much better, in fact, than was anticipated by many at the beginning of the year. This has been due to the extraordinary demand for pig iron, which has prevailed throughout the country at large, particularly during the closing months of the year. Accompanying the report is a geological map of the Green Pond Mountain region in Morris and Passaic counties, and a map of the State showing normal chlorine. There are also six plates showing the different sections treated in the various phases of the report and some figures illustrating others.

Up the Hudson.

On August 7, 14, 21, 28 and September 4, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will run its usual midsummer excursions on the "Upper Hudson," under personal escort. Special excursion tickets will be sold on those dates for regular trains arriving at Jersey City prior to 10:05 a. m., good to return on same day on any regular train leaving Jersey City after arrival of steamer.

A stop will be made at West Point, giving those who disembark an hour and a half at that point, and enabling them to view the United States Military Academy.

In order to insure an early return, no stop will be made at Newburgh, although the steamer will run to a point off that city and there turn.

Round-trip rates: Princeton, $2; New Brunswick, Metuchen and Perth Amboy, $1; Rahway, 80 cents; Elizabeth, 75 cents; Newark, 50 cents. Proportionate rates from other points.

CAME FROM HEAVEN.

Insane American Startled a London Crowd—Claimed to Be the Saviour.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—D. H. Fanning of New York, a cabin passenger on the North German Lloyd steamer Friederich der Grosse, from New York, who arrived in London Saturday, has been taken to St. Giles' infirmary under the wandering lunatic act. Mr. Fanning is connected with the firm of Hass Bros. of New York city, and his parents are spending the summer at Newport.

Mr. Fanning startled the guests who crowded the courtyard of the Hotel Cecil at noon by driving into the court in an automobile and declaring he was the Saviour and had just come from heaven on his machine. He insisted upon shaking hands with all the guests present until he was finally taken to his room by the hotel porters.

Mr. Fanning developed a mania on the Friederich der Grosse on the way over here. On the ship he declared he owned all the yachts in the world. Upon Fanning's arrival in London his friends had difficulty to persuade him to leave the railroad station and go to a hotel. Yesterday morning he started in an automobile back to the railroad station, saying he was going to run down and kill all the pedestrians he met on the way. He fell in with and picked up an English lance corporal, with whom he drove to the Hotel Cecil.

Mr. Fanning was known to have had a large sum of money in his pocketbook when he arrived in London. He threw this money about the streets and returned to the hotel penniless.

NEW CHURCH FORMED.

A Philippine Catholic Society to Oppose the Roman Rule.

MANILA, Aug. 11.—Isabelo de los Reyes, the labor leader; Pascual Poblete, formerly a member of the Katipunan secret society and La Union Obrera Democratica (the Workmen's Democratic union), have organized a Philippine Catholic church in defection from the Roman Catholic church.

Governor Taft, Dr. Pardo de Tavera, a member of the Philippine commission, and Aguinaldo have been appointed honorary presidents of the organization, and Father Gregoria Aglipay, a native who was recently excommunicated by the Catholic church, has been made bishop of the Philippine Islands. Fourteen junior bishops and a large lay council have been named. The latter includes Felipe Buencamino, one of the leaders of the Federal party. Pascual Poblete has taken the presidency and Isabelo de los Reyes the secretaryship of the new organization.

Several native priests who were named bishops have declined to accept. It is expected that Governor Taft will decline his honorary presidency when he hears of his appointment.

Opinion here as to the growth and effect of this movement is divided. In some quarters it is ridiculed, while in others it is considered serious. Some people say it will further upset the political situation and create unrest and possibly a clash between the regular Catholics and the dissenters.

What the President Is Doing.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 11.—President Roosevelt passed a quiet and uneventful Sunday at Sagamore Hill. He did not attend church in the morning, as is his custom, but Mrs. Roosevelt and the children were in their pew at Christ church. No visitors of an official character were received during the day. The president this afternoon will receive at Sagamore Hill Prince Tsia Chen, cousin of the emperor of China, who is passing through this country en route home from England. The prince will be accompanied by Minister Wu Ting Fang, Sir Liang Chen Tung, Minister Wu's successor; Mr. Won Kai Tai, Secretary Wong and Hon. Herbert H. D. Pearce, third assistant secretary of state, as the special representative of the state department.

Montana Railroad Assessments.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 11.—The state board of equalization has announced that it will reduce assessments upon the main lines of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Montana Central and Oregon Short Line railroads from $16,200 per mile to $12,800, a cut of 20 per cent. The announcement was made after representatives of the roads had been given a final hearing. The total railroad assessments as revised amount to $31,450,606, a little more than 100 per cent increase over last year. A week ago the assessment was fixed at $41,000,000.

Terrific Storm at Trenton.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 11.—About a score of buildings were unroofed and otherwise damaged by a terrific storm that visited Trenton late yesterday and was described by those who saw it as a cyclone. The properties injured were in the center of the city, and the electric light and trolley wires at that point were torn down, suspending the trolley service and causing a portion of the city to be in darkness. On Perry street six three story brick houses were unroofed, and the fronts of the houses fell into the street. Fortunately no one was injured.

Fire In Altoona, Pa.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 11.—The Opera House block, one of the largest buildings here, which was occupied by the Imperial Dry Goods company, the One Price Clothing company and the Eleventh Avenue Opera House, has been gutted by fire at a loss of $55,000. The origin of the fire is unknown. The dry goods company carried about $65,000 worth of stock, and its damage is estimated at over $40,000.

WHAT WE DID IN CUBA

A Summary of the Results of United States Occupation.

GOOD START FOR YOUNG REPUBLIC.

Schools, Custom Houses and Postoffices Established, Public Roads Opened and Telegraph Lines Put Up.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The bureau of insular affairs of the war department has prepared a statement showing what the United States accomplished during the occupation of Cuba from the time the military government was established, July 18, 1898, until May 19, 1902.

At the close of hostilities in Cuba, it is stated, the country was in a state of devastation and ruin, both as to its political organization and its industrial condition. Without precedent to guide and many of them without previous experience in state affairs, the officers of the United States army at once undertook to set up a form of government which would provide sufficient revenues for the immediate needs and which might be developed into a stable and lasting system.

Sixteen custom houses were established, one at the chief port, Havana, and others at the principal subports of the island, and tariffs were put in force. The principal changes in the tariff have been the gradual reduction of duties on exports from time to time until April 1, 1901, when these duties were entirely abolished.

Postoffices were opened throughout the island, and native postmasters were appointed. More than 300 postoffices were established.

There was established a department of finance, presided over by a general treasurer, and six provincial treasurers, one for each province. Subsequently these provinces were redistricted and formed into eleven so called fiscal zones.

The number of schoolhouses provided nearly equal those in this country for a corresponding area.

There was constructed a telegraph line connecting with the principal cities throughout the island and maintained by the United States signal corps.

Public roads were opened throughout the island, which, together with the construction and repair of bridges, have been of invaluable benefit to the inhabitants.

As a sanitary measure the streets of many of the cities were paved, and extensive systems of sewerage were constructed.

The harbors of the island were greatly improved, an admirable system of buoys and beacons was established, government warehouses and docks were repaired and constructed and regulations conforming to those in vogue in this country governing the harbors of the island were established.

The total revenues from all sources collected during the occupation were $57,200,000 and the expenditures therefrom $55,370,000, the remainder having been turned over to the republic of Cuba at the time of the withdrawal of United States authority, May 19, 1902.

The buildings selected for barracks and quarters for the army were used only temporarily by the troops and when put in thorough repair and good sanitary condition were turned over to the municipalities as hospitals.

That the administration of the department of sanitation was judicious and thorough in its results is apparent in the large decrease of the death rate in the island since modern sanitary measures have prevailed. The death rate prior to this time had been as high as 80 and 90 per 1,000, but decreased to less than 23 per 1,000, and during the season just passed, when yellow fever was its height, Havana was entirely free from this epidemic.

A clear title to the public buildings, roads, wharfs and schoolhouses passed to the Cuban republic.

Fatal Railway Collision.

DANVILLE, Va., Aug. 11.—In a wreck on the Southern railway just beyond Wall creek, caused by a local northbound passenger train colliding with a southbound freight train, two men were killed outright and several others seriously injured. The two engines and several cars were demolished, the debris being strewn for some distance down the track. A special relief train was hurried to the scene with physicians, the injured being brought to this city and placed in hospital.

Murder and Suicide.

UTICA, Mich., Aug. 11.—S. E. Sower, a well to do farmer, who has been living in this village for several months, killed his wife with an ax as she lay in bed and then hanged himself in his barn. Despondency over the fear that he was becoming insane and grief over the death of his only daughter ten days ago impelled him to commit the crimes.

Rebels Capture Barcelona.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Aug. 11.—News has reached here from Venezuela that after three days' very severe fighting in the streets of Barcelona, in the state of Bermudez, revolutionists under the command of General Penaloza captured the town from the government forces. The government lost sixty men and General Ruperto Bravo.

A Centenarian Celebrates.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Thyrza Gray, the oldest woman in northern New York, celebrated her hundredth birthday yesterday at the home of her daughter here. Mrs. Gray was born in Schoharie county. Her general health is excellent, and she expects to live for many years to come.

DEAD AT THE SEASIDE

Senator McMillan of Michigan Passes Away Suddenly.

LONG A LEADER IN THAT STATE.

Overwork and Family Bereavements Thought to Have Hastened the End—Sketch of the Dead Man's Career.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—A dispatch received here announces the death of Senator James McMillan of Michigan at his summer home at Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass. Death was the result of heart failure following congestion after an illness of a very few hours.

The news came as a great shock to his friends here, as when the senator left Washington shortly after the adjournment of congress he appeared to be in good health and looked forward with much satisfaction to a quiet and restful summer. For some years Senator McMillan had made his summer home at Manchester-by-the-Sea, having erected a very fine cottage at that place.

The senator leaves a widow, three sons, W. C., Philip and Frank, all of Detroit, and a daughter.

The Senator's Last Hours.

MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 11.—Senator McMillan was in his usual good health up until Saturday afternoon. For several years, however, he had suffered from a heart affection, principally a weakness brought on by overwork, and had guarded himself against it, but the extra responsibilities in the senate thrown upon him last winter, together with the shock of losing a brother, son and grandson within a year, are believed to have aggravated his trouble. He was at the Essex County club in the afternoon and while playing golf was obliged to pass over a small hill, which so affected his breathing that he was obliged to stop, and, being overcome by a slight faintness, he sent for a stimulant, which revived him, and the attack passed away. He went home without finishing the game and at dinner time was very jovial and light hearted. He remained up quite late in the evening, talking and joking with the family, but at midnight he suffered a severe ill turn, being pressed for breath and experiencing considerable pain. A physician was called, who administered the usual heart tonics, which had the desired effect, and the patient rested comfortably until 3 o'clock, when another attack came on, more severe than the first. The physician applied by hypodermic injections the most powerful heart stimulants known to medical science, but the patient was evidently beyond all earthly aid. The funeral arrangements have not been perfected, but the services will take place from the senator's late home in Detroit, and the interment will be in the family lot in that city.

Senator McMillan was a native of Ontario, having been born in Hamilton May 12, 1838, but in early life removed to Michigan and for many years had been prominently identified with the business interests and political life of that state, having for a number of terms been chairman of the Republican state committee. He had been a member of the United States senate since March 4, 1889. He was chairman of the committee of the District of Columbia in that body and was also a member of the committees on appropriations, commerce, naval affairs, relations with Cuba, coast and insular survey and corporations organized in the District of Columbia. As chairman of the District committee Senator McMillan was identified with District affairs and became very well known to the citizens of Washington, by whom he was highly regarded. He took a lively interest in the welfare of the District and was one of the foremost advocates in the efforts that are being made for its improvement.

Senator McMillan's family was prominent in social circles in Washington, and the senator himself was a member of the Metropolitan and the Chevy Chase clubs.

Typos In Session.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 11.—The annual convention of the International Typographical union met here today for a session of four days. The officers—President James M. Lynch of Syracuse, Vice Presidents C. E. Hawkes of Chicago, James Mulcahy of St. Louis and J. P. Sullivan of Boston and Secretary-Treasurer J. M. Bramwood of Denver—have been here a week at work with various committees. Most of the delegates favor Washington for the next convention, although Newark, N. J., is a strong rival. It is conceded that St. Louis will get the convention in 1904, and Nashville wants it for 1905.

Nicaraguan Volcano Threatens.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 11.—The Santiago cone of the Masaya volcano in Nicaragua has been emitting vapors, accompanied by groaning sounds, for the last twenty days. The commissioners and the governor of the department of Masaya, in which the volcano is located, report that in their opinion there is danger of an eruption occurring shortly. The town of San Fernando de Masaya is situated at the foot of the volcano of Masaya. It has a population of 22,000 people.

Fishing Outlook Good.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 11.—The steamer Virginia Lake has returned here from Labrador and reports the fishery prospect there to be excellent. The catch promises to be above the average.

HIGHWAYMEN QUICKLY DONE UP

A Series of Bold Robberies Ends In Death and Capture.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 11.—A series of daring highway robberies, which resulted in the sensational death of one of the robbers and the wounding of a citizen, has just occurred on the Monteraro road.

Two young men, apparently little more than boys in age, compelled an old lady who was driving along the highway near Edenvale to deliver her horse and buggy to them. They then drove to E. F. Heples' store at Coyote, where they purchased cartridges for a .32 caliber pistol. This they loaded and immediately proceeded to hold up the proprietor and several bystanders.

From Heples' store they continued toward Gilroy. Within a quarter of a mile of this town they met W. W. McKee, and when he failed to stop on their order they fired at him, inflicting a trifling wound. McKee lashed his horse into a run and was not further molested.

The robbers continued south to Stevens' store, 1½ miles from Heples', robbing two or three teamsters on the road of small amounts. They were just entering Stevens' store when they saw five or six armed men riding rapidly toward them. This was a posse consisting of E. F. Heples and the men who had been robbed with him.

The robbers abandoned their jaded horse and started across a field toward the foothills. A running fight ensued, in which one of the robbers was shot through the stomach.

In emulation of Convict Tracy he placed his pistol to his head and blew out his brains, dying almost instantly. The other threw up his hands and was taken into custody.

SEVEN BURNED TO DEATH.

Hotel In Which Were Seventy-five Persons Destroyed.

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Aug. 11.—Fire yesterday destroyed the Landon hotel, burning seven people to a crisp and doing a property damage of $75,000.

All the bodies that have been recovered are fearfully charred and in no condition to be moved except in blankets.

When the clerk discovered the flames at 2 o'clock in the morning, the interior of the dining room was a gulf of flame, and he could not get through. He rushed up the main stairway, kicking in doors and calling out at the top of his voice. Most of the guests were aroused by this means and by the discharge of firearms. There were seventy-five people in the house, and all of them got out safely with the exception of the seven victims and three others who have not yet been located, but who are believed to be safe.

In addition to the hotel three stables and half a dozen stores were burned, only the greatest efforts preventing the whole of the business section of the town from going.

Supposed Train Robbers Caught.

WASECA, Minn., Aug. 11.—Three men, believed to have been implicated in the Burlington train robbery near Marcus, Ill., last Tuesday night, have been captured here after a sensational fight and pursuit. The men had been lounging about the railroad yards during Saturday, and in the afternoon Sheriff Collins and Chief of Police MacDonah approached them to question them. One of the men broke away and, drawing a revolver, fired at the sheriff, but without hitting him. The sheriff fired at the fleeing man, hitting him in the leg. He then turned and emptied two revolvers at the officers, but without effect. Another bullet from the sheriff's revolver lodged in the desperado's thigh, but he continued his flight. The other two men fled in an opposite direction, with large crowds following. The wounded man was captured in a swamp near Clear lake, the others being found in a cornfield some distance from town. All were lodged in jail. In their flight the three scattered jewelry, watches, chains, rings, knives and other booty.

Thousand Island Boat Stranded.

THOUSAND ISLAND PARK, N. Y., Aug. 11.—The steamer New York of the Thousand Island Steamboat line, which went on the rocks in the American channel just below Thousand Island Park Saturday night about 12 o'clock with 850 passengers of the Union Masonic excursion from Syracuse and vicinity on board, still remains fast on the shoal despite the efforts of the sister boats of the squadron to release her. The boat is high on the shoal and appears to be damaged considerably and will have to be put in drydock for some time. After the accident boats were lowered, and the people were landed at Fine View, just below, whence they were taken to their train at Clayton in the steamer St. Lawrence.

Excursion Steamer Disabled.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., Aug. 11.—The steamer Rhode Island, bringing a party of 600 excursionists from Providence, struck a rock when within about three times her own length of the Highland landing, Cottage City, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, causing her to leak so badly that her pumps could not keep the vessel free from water. The steamer was able to make the landing, however, and discharged her passengers without any semblance of a panic.

Severe Gale In Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 11.—A windstorm that raged yesterday for half an hour, accompanied by lightning and rain, is said to have been the severest in fifteen years. In the business streets numerous plate glass fronts were broken, signs and awnings torn down and rickety structures demolished. In the residence districts several thousand trees were blown down and numerous windows smashed.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW JERSEY, PROPOSED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1902.

Be it resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring) that the following amendments to the constitution of this state be, and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next (being the fourth day of said month), in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, the said newspapers to be designated by the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Assembly and the secretary of state.

ARTICLE V.

Executive.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 10, a new paragraph, as follows:

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor and the attorney-general, or two of them of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

ARTICLE VI.

Judiciary.

1. Insert in lieu of Section II, a new section, as follows:

1. The court of errors and appeals shall consist of a chief judge and four associate judges, or any four of them.

2. In case any judge of said court shall be disqualified to sit in any cause, or shall be unable for the time being to discharge the duties of his office, whereby the whole number of judges capable of sitting shall be reduced below four, the governor shall designate a justice of the supreme court, the chancellor or a vice-chancellor, to discharge such duties until the disqualification or inability shall cease.

3. The secretary of state shall be the clerk of this court.

4. When a writ of error shall be brought, any judicial opinion in the cause, in favor of or against any error complained of, shall be assigned to the court in writing; when an appeal shall be taken from an order or decree of the court of chancery, the chancellor or vice-chancellor making such decree or order shall inform the court in writing of his reasons therefor.

5. The jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the supreme court by writ of error shall be exclusively vested in the court of errors and appeals; but any writ of error pending in the supreme court at the time of the adoption of this amendment shall be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place.

Section IV.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. The court of chancery shall consist of a chancellor and such number of vice-chancellors as shall be provided by law, each of whom may exercise the jurisdiction of the court; the court shall make rules governing the hearing of causes and the practice of the court, where the same is not regulated by statute.

Section V.

1. At the end of paragraph 1, add the following:

The court may sit in divisions at the same or different times and places.

Strike out paragraph 3.

Section VI.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraphs 1 and 2, the following:

The court of common pleas shall be constituted and held in each county in such manner as may be provided by law.

ARTICLE VII.

Civil Officers.

Section II.

1. Insert in lieu of paragraph 1, a new paragraph, as follows:

1. Judges of the court of errors and appeals, justices of the supreme court, the chancellor, the vice-chancellors and the judges of the circuit court and of the court of common pleas shall be nominated by the governor and appointed by him with the advice and consent of the Senate; all persons now holding any office in this paragraph named, except the judges of the court of errors and appeals as heretofore existing, shall continue in the exercise of the duties of their respective offices according to their respective commissions or appointments; the judges of the court of errors and appeals, except those first appointed; the justices of the supreme court, the chancellor and the vice-chancellors shall hold their offices for the term of seven years, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointment; and they shall hold no other office under the government of this state or the United States; the judges of the court of errors and appeals first appointed shall be appointed one for three years, two for five years and two for seven years; judges of the court of common pleas shall hold their offices for the term of five years.

Strike out paragraph 2.

PUBLIC NOTICE

is hereby given by Charles Sheelen, Collector of the Borough of Fanwood, county of Union, that by virtue of a tax warrant issued on the 20th day of June, by Mayor and Council of the Borough of Fanwood, he will sell at public vendue all the lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate hereinafter mentioned, for the shortest term for which any person or persons will agree to take the same and pay the taxes assessed against the same for the years of 1900-1901, with the interest thereon accruing, and all costs fees, charges and expenses in relation to the levy, assessment and collection of said taxes. The said sale will take place at the Council rooms, Fanwood fire house on Wednesday, August 20, at 2:30 p. m. The said lands, tenements, hereditaments and real estate so to be sold, and the names against whom the said taxes have been laid on account of the same, and the amount of taxes laid on account of each parcel are as follows: House and lot, M. L. K. Carter—taxes due $9 00.

QUIET AT SHENANDOAH.

Troops Still Keep Guard—The Cost Mounting Up.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 11.—Heavy rains here have made things disagreeable for the troops in camp on the hill outside of Shenandoah. There was a large number of visitors in camp yesterday from the surrounding towns. None of the soldiers left the camp, except the two companies that are on provost guard duty at the two railway stations in the town proper.

The signal corps is perfecting the signal system. It is estimated that the total cost to the state for transporting and maintaining the troops for the first ten days they have been in the field was $35,000. This includes the pay of officers and men and cost of ammunition.

Brigadier General Gobin remained at headquarters all day. He says he has received no information of impending trouble anywhere and knows nothing of any attempt to start collieries. County officials are still endeavoring to arrest persons who were in any way connected with the fatal riot of July 30.

It is understood that two foreigners now under arrest charged with rioting will also have to answer to the charge of murder.

Collieries Not Much Damaged.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 11.—Edward Brennan of this place, state inspector of the seventh anthracite district, says that every one of the thirty collieries in his district will be in condition for operation as soon as the strike ends. While a few are flooded, the upper levels can be operated and eventually all the levels. He estimates that 75 per cent of all the men will be able to procure work at once when the collieries are reopened and the remainder within a month or two. He thinks the total damage to the collieries caused by the deep will reach between $6,000 and $10,000.

STRIKERS IN GOOD SHAPE.

President Mitchell Says Miners Are Satisfied With Situation.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 11.—The fourteenth week of the anthracite miners' strike begins today. President Mitchell is authority for the statement that the strikers are in good shape. Contributions to the relief fund are coming in from many quarters now, and the dissatisfaction which was first evinced over the distribution has now disappeared, and the strikers have settled down to what they believe is going to be a much longer siege than was at first anticipated.

A twenty thousand dollar contribution from the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen is expected by the strikers within the next ten days. It is said forty lodges will contribute $50 each. Other railway brotherhoods are expected to follow suit.

While the strike leaders are inclined to throw cold water on all reports that an attempt may be made to resume mining at an early day in the Wyoming region, it would not be at all surprising should one or two of the mines in this section be started up this week.

Enormous British Imports.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—A report on the agricultural imports of Great Britain for 1896-1900 inclusive, with a significant review of the trade conditions and possibilities between the United States and the United Kingdom, has been compiled by Frank H. Hitchcock, chief of the division of foreign markets, department of agriculture. The United Kingdom is the principal market for the surplus agricultural produce of exporting countries. The report says that during the five years, 1896-1900 inclusive, the annual average value of the imports into the United Kingdom was $2,308,174,441, of which $1,458,921,776, or 63 per cent, were agricultural and $849,252,665, or 37 per cent, were nonagricultural. To this extraordinary import trade in agricultural produce the United States was the principal contributor, furnishing about 33 per cent, or nearly one-third of the supply.

Thousands For Missions.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 11.—Rev. Dr. A. B. Simpson of New York, president of the Christian and Missionary alliance, again demonstrated his ability as a soliciter of contributions for foreign missions yesterday at the alliance convention by securing contributions and pledges aggregating $45,325.

Chicago Threatened With a Strike.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—The Chicago City Railway company is threatened with a strike in all of its lines within a week unless it yields to the demands of its barn and shop men for an increase in wages and corrects several grievances of employees in other departments.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

A number of mountain climbers perished from exposure on Mont Blanc.

King Oscar of Sweden assisted in saving twenty-three persons from drowning.

The trolley strike in New Haven has been settled, the company conceding all the demands of the men.

The Haitian government troops have been defeated by revolutionists, and an attack on Cape Haitien is expected.

The Trident, the Canadian yacht, won the third of the international series for the Seawanhaka Corinthian cup.

C. S. Titus won the final heat for the championship sculls at the regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen at Worcester.

Walter A. Scott, president of the Illinois Wire company, was stabbed and killed in the Monadnock building, Chicago, by Walter L. Stebbings, a civil engineer.

KING'S GIFT TO REALM

Osborne House a Coronation Present.

TO BECOME A CONVALESCENT HOME.

His Majesty Feels No Ill Effects From the Ordeal of Saturday's Ceremonies—Festivities in London Continued.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—King Edward has signalized his coronation in a memorable manner by the munificent gift to the nation of Osborne House, one of the favorite residences of the late Queen Victoria.

The gift is made in the following message to his people, addressed to Prime Minister Balfour. For reasons apparent in the document itself his majesty makes his intention public:

"Under the will of the king's much beloved mother the Osborne House estate is, as Mr. Balfour is aware, the private estate of the sovereign. Having to spend a considerable part of the year in the capital of this kingdom and its neighborhood, at Windsor, and having also strong home ties in the county of Norfolk, which have existed now for nearly forty years, the king feels he will be unable to make adequate use of Osborne House as a royal residence, and he accordingly has determined to offer the property in the Isle of Wight as a gift to the nation. As Osborne House is sacred to the memory of the late queen it is the king's wish that, with the exception of those apartments which were in the personal occupation of her majesty, his people shall always have access to the house, which must ever be associated with her beloved name. As regards the rest of the building the king hopes it may be devoted to national purposes and be converted into a convalescent home for officers of the navy and army whose health has been impaired in rendering service to their country.

"If in order to give full legal effect to the king's wishes it is found that application to parliament be necessary, the king trusts that Mr. Balfour will see that the necessary steps are in due course taken."

The festivities in London were continued yesterday. There were considerable crowds almost all day long in the vicinity of Buckingham palace and along the route of Saturday's procession, viewing the decorations and watching the flow of notable personages to and from the various thanksgiving services. In the evening the Canadian arch, which as an exceptional novelty for Sunday was brilliantly illuminated, was a great center of attraction and served to bring an immense concourse of people into its neighborhood.

The bulletin concerning King Edward's health was awaited with a certain degree of anxiety. The bulletin laid all fears at rest. It read as follows:

"His majesty bore the strain of the coronation ceremony perfectly well and experienced but little fatigue. The king had a good night, and his condition is in every way satisfactory. No further bulletin will be issued."

After the posting of the bulletin there was still some doubt as to whether his majesty would drive out, but the small crowd which remained about Buckingham palace hopeful to see the sovereign was finally rewarded by the appearance of the king and queen. Their majesties were accompanied by Princess Victoria, Prince Charles of Denmark, Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia and the crown prince of Denmark and were attended by a large following of the royal household.

The most interesting of all the services was that held at St. Paul's cathedral. This was essentially a people's service in gratitude and thankfulness that the sovereign had been restored to health, and it presented a striking contrast to the sad service of supplication held there in June, on the day the coronation should have taken place. The public was freely admitted to the cathedral, and the great edifice was crowded with people.

Today is being celebrated throughout the nation as a day of thanksgiving for the king's recovery.

Tortured by Robbers.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 11.—Jacob Mumma, an aged farmer who lives alone north of this city, was tortured by masked robbers who broke into his house and is in a critical condition as a result of his injuries. Mumma attempted to defend himself with a shotgun, but he was overcome and bound. The robbers poured coal oil on his feet and started a blaze to compel him to reveal the hiding place of money he was supposed to have, but they secured only a small sum.

Oldest Actress Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Mrs. Eliza Young, the oldest actress of the American stage, is dead at the Actors' Fund home, West New Brighton, Staten Island. She fell two weeks ago and had one of her hip bones broken. Hers was the first death in the new home. Mrs. Young was nearly ninety-two years of age. She was born in London. She played for a quarter of a century there and in the provinces and in 1856 came to the United States.

August 11—Meeting of Plainfield Board of Education.

OPEN AIR CONCERTS.

It really seems strange that a little town like Westfield, which is not large enough to entitle it to the name of city, can support a series of open air band concerts while Plainfield, with its thousands of inhabitants and its many wealthy people, cannot do so. What is still more remarkable is that such concerts are decidedly popular here while in Westfield the turnout has been surprisingly small. Of course there was a crowd but it was by no means as large as one might expect after having seen the crowds at the concerts in this city during former years.

One of Westfield's energetic citizens did some hustling and raised sufficient funds to get the Aeolian band from Garwood to give concerts every Saturday evening during August. The second of them was held Saturday night in the centre of town. Many Plainfielders attended but the Westfield people were not out in overwhelming numbers.

On every occasion that such public musical treats have been given here, thousands of people have turned out to hear the music. They have been wonderfully popular, particularly with those who are unable to take a week or two at some summer resort. They formed a very pleasant change from the usual routine and the local merchants felt the increase which would naturally come when so many people turned out.

Since the plan of open air concerts was first inaugurated by Former Councilman George H. Frost, they have been held at irregular intervals, largely through the efforts of Benj. LaVere, leader of the local band. Despite the popularity of them last year, Mr. LaVere was out of pocket at the end of the season and so did not feel inclined to resume the work this year. There has been some talk of arranging one or two of these concerts this month. Any movement to that end will have to be started very speedily if it is to be carried out. It does seem regretable that Westfield should show more enterprise in this direction than Plainfield.

Not a word of anything of an uncomplimentary nature has been heard about Former Judge Lanning, who has been chosen to run for Congress in the Fourth Congressional district. When a man runs for political office it is customary to discover all sorts of hateful things about him. In Judge Lanning's case, however, even the Democratic papers have only pleasant words to say. It leaves the impression therefore that the G. O. P. of Hunterdon, Mercer and Somerset have selected a candidate particularly fit.

The Republicans of Union county managed to have quite an affair at Galvin's Park, Saturday. The mosquitoes were kind enough to stay away in sufficient numbers to permit the politicians to partake of the good things and talk of the various booms, here and to come.

According to the Newark News, today will see something doing in regard to that proposed trolley merger. Either the Riker interests will obtain control of the bulk of the lines in this part of the State or else they will have to step out and give some one else a chance.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

An essay on vegetables. That old watch of yours is not misnamed a turnip. Get a timepiece of finer carat at L. Moraller & Son, Park avenue.

For satisfaction in the grocery line you will make no mistake if you purchase the brand sold by George Kirch, the Liberty street grocer. His stock is all right, and his prices too.

Shaw, the West Front street druggist, is having an increasing demand for his hard water soap. It makes a splendid lather when used in city water and for rough skin has no equal.

The Plainfield Art Store, in the Y. M. C. A. building, continues to make a specialty of picture framing. All work of this class is being done at greatly reduced prices. They furnish estimates cheerfully.

As bread is the staff of life it necessarily must be pure and wholesome. That made and sold by John Wirth, the West Front street baker and confectioner, cannot be surpassed. He makes a specialty of all kinds of pastry.

For a ten cent smoke you cannot buy a better cigar than the Pinar del Rio, full Havana filler, of excellent flavor. The Yara is a nickel smoke that is highly popular with devotees of My Lady Nicotine. These cigars are sold by Dobbins, North avenue.

Whatever is wrong with the timepiece at home, or the one you carry with you, can be remedied if you leave it at Charles E. Vail's on Park avenue. Expert workmanship is guaranteed to repair any reasonable damage to your clocks and watches.

From a stock unequalled in New Jersey, S. Scheuer & Co. offer groceries at their Plainfield store at prices that will surprise the buyer. The best goods brought within the reach of all is a motto which has added weekly to the firm's list of patrons.

HORSE SHOW.

Fair Acres Driving Club, of Westfield, is Planning for One Early in October.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Aug. 11—The Fair Acres' Driving Club is arranging to have one of the grandest horse shows in the State here this fall, to be held after the Morristown show, which in all probabilty will cause the date of the big time at Fair Acres to take place early in October.

A meeting will be held next week when a committee of four will be appointed from the association members to assist the officers in arranging the affair.

The horse show will be an all-day event; the morning will be devoted to showing the breeding classes and the afternoon will be for roadsters, four-in-hands, tandems, saddle horses, ponies, jumpers and delivery turnouts. There will be a band of music for the occasion, and the show promises to surpass anything of the kind ever witnessed in this section.

Martins Have Gone South.

Indications of an early fall have been shown in another alleged infallable sign. The martins, which for years have made their homes in the bird houses on West Front street, have left town, winging their way southward. Local weather sharps say that the yearly departure is never made until cold weather is within six weeks of arrival.

Knocked Down by Wheelwoman.

Willie Loller, the six-year-old son of Zadoc Loller, of Alton, was knocked down by a woman cyclist on West Front street, opposite Voehl's alley, Saturday evening. The little fellow was badly bruised and frightened but was otherwise unhurt. He was walking just behind his mother when he was struck.

WOODHULL & MARTIN.

TOO RAINY FOR CHILDREN

SO MISS CURRY AND HER CHARGES DID NOT VISIT THE NETHERWOOD.

But the Regular Sacred Concert Was Held Last Night—Hop Saturday Night.

Unusual success attended the formal hop at the Hotel Netherwood Saturday evening. The function was of the same brilliant variety which has characterized all like events of the kind given this season. Excellent music was provided for the occasion by The Netherwood orchestra. Many Plainfielders were present and enjoyed the evening's dancing.

At the sacred concert, last evening, owing to the inclemency of the weather Miss Curry, who was to talk on the work being done at the Fresh Air Home, and a number of the children down on the programme for songs, were unable to appear. At some future date the children, accompanied by Miss Curry, will be present at the hotel. A feature of the concert was the piano solo by Mrs. Robt. Dryden. The piece was composed for the occasion and Mrs. Dryden found it necessary to respond to a double encore. A 'cello solo by J. J. dePool was much appreciated.

Wednesday evening the subscription cotillion will be held, Friday, progressive euchre, and Saturday the hop.

CLOCK GOLF.

Exciting Contest Among Women at The Hotel Netherwood.

Much interest was taken in the clock golf tournament at the Hotel Netherwood last week. The following played in the qualifying round: Mrs. Jacka, Mrs. Suan, Mrs. Laud Brown, Miss Hibert, Mrs. Hendrie, Mrs. Balch, Miss Comes, Mrs. Comes, Miss L. Perozo, Miss M. Perozo, Mrs. Paul Sheldon, Mrs. H. C. Miller, Mrs. C. Stallman. The contest finally narrowed down to Mrs. Jacka, Mrs. Laud Brown, Mrs. Suan and Miss Hibert in the semi-finals. In the finals, Mrs. Brown defeated Mrs. Jacka.

DUNELLEN.

The funeral of Mrs. Mabel DeGrof was held in the Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon. Rev. N. J. Sproul officiated, and spoke feelingly of the deceased's Christian life and how she would be missed in the church work. A quartette, composed of Mrs. N. Apgar, Miss Edith Boice, Lester Meserole and Albert Apgar, sang, "Saved by Grace," and "Abide With Me," two of Mrs. DeGraf's favorite hymns. The remains were interred at Hillside cemetery.

Bernard McGovern is organizing a baseball team to be ready at the beginning of the next season, and has secured a number of Elizabeth players to help out the Dunellen boys. Following is the list of the nine: Kuldoshes, catcher; Licester, pitcher; McMahon, 1st base; Ponnors, 2d base; Gordon, short stop; McGovern, 3d base; Rinehart, centre field; Vail, left field; Ayers, right field.

The array of watches in the window of R. G. Crandall's repair shop, proved too great a temptation to a midnight visitor in the borough Friday, so he smashed the glass and helped himself. Fortunately the watches were unclaimed ones of little value, all others being put in a place of safety at night. Nothing else was taken.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

"Camp Woolfe" fresh air service was held at the Methodist church Sunday evening instead of the regular preaching service. The work at the camp and the result obtained by those who devote their time to this grand and worthy charity was explained to a fair sized audience considering the weather. At the close a collection was taken for the benefit of the work.

"Chick" Crusius, who made his appearance at shot stop on Saturday afternoon after an absence of a week, received quite an ovation from the local fans. "Chick" made good for his absence by playing the field game without an error but was a little low on several throws to first but they were not coslty, so were easily forgiven.

Funeral services of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klensey, who died at his parents' home Friday, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Dr. J. H. Parks officiating. Interment was made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Jimerson, of Westfield, were the guest Sunday of Mr. Jimerson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jimerson, who are staying for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Marsh, while the latter are at Saratoga.

Many a poor wheelman and automobilist, who had braved the threatening rain of yesterday afternoon, for a spin, were stalled in town waiting for the rain to abate so as to enable them to return home again.

No Epworth League meeting was held in the Methodist church last night on account of the special service for the benefit of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp.

A suggestion in addition was the topic discussed by the B. Y. P. U. members at their weekly meeting in the parlors of the Baptist church Sunday evening.

Miss Louise Robison has returned from a pleasant outing of two weeks at Asbury Park.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Piscataway township school board will meet at the Maple Grove school house Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock to decide whether the Maple Grove school shall be abolished or not. The public of that district are invited to attend the meeting, so that the board may obtain some estimate of their opinion in the matter. If the school is closed, the pupils will be transported to other schools in Piscataway township.

As a result of the heavy showers of yesterday the pond was so unusually high this morning that it overflowed the roadway along Plainfield avenue, and the bright prospect for fishing brought a large number of anglers.

South Plainfield's baseball enthusiasts were well represented among the crowds which witnessed the two baseball games in Plainfield Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morris spent yesterday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. George Howell, of Perth Amboy.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Barnet, of Brooklyn, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Meeker, yesterday.

Mrs. Thomas Brantingham is entertaining a friend, Mrs. Ackerson, and her sons, from out of town.

It is expected that Sumner Randolph and family will move to Plainfield in the near future.

Mrs. E. H. Barnet, of Brooklyn, has been spending a week at the home of Mrs. L. C. Meeker.

Mrs. Lydia Mundy, of New Brunswick, has been visiting Mrs. Charles Brantingham.

Mrs. Lewis, of New York, is visiting her friend, Mrs. F. LaTourette, of this place.

Edward and Samuel Pyatt are visiting relatives at Madison, Morris county.

weekly competition for the President's cup. Roberts deS. Newhall made an 83, which equals the figures of W. J. R. Thiers of two years ago. The course has since been made considerably harder without increasing the bogey. The bogey figures are 80.

Newhall made his first round in a three ball match playing against E. Maxwell Honeyman and Charles B. Morse. He made his second round in company with Morgan T. Townsend. His score in detail was:

Out . . . . 5 4 7 3 5 4 6 4 5—43
In. . . . . 3 3 7 4 5 5 4 4 5—40

The bogey is:
4 3 6 4 5 4 5 4 5—40

Newhall had the advantage of ideal golfing weather while the course was at its best. It was quite fast and the putting greens true. His low score easily gave him first place while W. R. Faber was second. Charles B. Morse scored a point for third thereby increasing his lead for the cup.

The scores better than 100 net were:

	G	H	N
R. deS. Newhall	83	9	74
William R. Faber	108	25	83
Charles B. Morse	102	16	86
H. G. Phillips	124	30	94

The Honeyman party, including many Plainfielders, sailed from Southampton on the steamship Bremen, of the North German Lloyd Line, last evening. A cablegram received from Mr. Honeyman states that they are due to arrive August 19 and that all are well.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

CAN NOT KEEP COOL.

Dwellers in New York Are Uncomfortable Just Now.

Journey to Coney Island or Take Trolley Rides Along Lovely Country Roads, But All Without Effect.

[Special New York Letter.]

"IS it hot enough for you?" From the day that Noah made this remark, as he drew his head in from the ark, and Shem's wife replied she thought it looked like rain man has been querying his neighbor along the same lines, at the imminent risk of becoming a bore.

Despite the oft-repeated assertion by certain New Yorkers that Gotham is the only perfect summer resort this side the ocean, we have been having some of the hottest weather ever experienced by the oldest inhabitant. And the fact that our local weather man, E. H. Emery, has recently had his rank raised to that of national weather forecaster, has not appeared to help matters much.

"It is a hard thing," said Mr. Emery to me the other day, "for a meterologist to forecast the weather during the months of July and August. The atmosphere is so undisturbed that there is nothing to work on. All we can do is to study our reports from all parts of the country. We cannot tell very well when it is going to be hot. We speak of heat waves, but that is simply an expression. As a matter of fact, there are no heat waves. Now there are cold waves, and we know which way they are moving. But we are progressing every day in our meteorological experiments, and some day we hope to have advanced far enough to be able to prognosticate for a season ahead."

For some reason or other, we all look upon the weather man as we do upon the mother-in-law—as a joke. But really both propositions are quite serious. As a matter of fact, we have made remarkable strides in weather forecasting. When the first of the 13 colonies was founded at Jamestown, Va., in 1607, practically nothing was known of the properties of the air or of the methods for measuring its phenomena. To-day there are over 200 stations in the United States electrically recording the slightest change in atmospheric conditions.

In 1643—23 year after the landing of the Pilgrims—Torricelli discovered the principle of the barometer, and rendered it possible to measure the weight of superincumbent air at any spot where the wonderful, yet simple little instrument might be placed. Torricelli's great teacher, Galileo, died without knowing why nature, under certain conditions, abhors a vacuum; but, nevertheless, he had discovered the principle of the thermometer. The data from the readings of these two instruments form the foundation of all meteorological science. Their inventors as little appreciated the value of their discoveries as they dreamed of the great western republic which was first to use their instruments to measure the inception and development of storms.

But the man who is mopping his face with his handkerchief and doing his best to keep from roasting to death does not care about the why or the wherefor of the weather shark. If he thinks about the matter at all, he probably wonders as he sees the thermometer up toward the hundred mark how a little thing like that can make it so hot.

New York does not bother much about science. Its main thought is how to keep cool during the heated term, and get the most out of life. Probably no city in the world has as many different ways for the enjoyment of the people in the summer time as Gotham. And no class of citizens strive harder to keep cool, and get hotter in their efforts to do it, than New Yorkers.

Of course, as soon as the summer season fairly opens the many seaside resorts about the city begin to do business. There is no place in the world where there are so many advantages in this respect. Hundreds of boats and thousands of trolley cars run out from Manhattan to the seashore. Twenty-five cents for the round trip is the usual price charged on the boats, and the result is that hundreds of thousands of passengers are carried every Saturday and Sunday to the bathing spots. It does not matter that they encounter more of the very thing they are trying to avoid—the heat—than they would if they remained at home.

Coney Island still remains the most popular of the resorts, despite the fact many of its, to some, most alluring features have been prohibited by the police. The old associations, however, still cling to it, and it by no means has yet reached the soberness and dignity of a camp meeting grounds. There are still many giddy and gay places of amusement on the island for those who crave excitement. It has often been a matter of wonderment to me why the people who go there will crowd into the stuffy little beer halls to listen to the cracked voices of broken-down vaudeville singers; nearly break their backs trying to lift weights; strain their muscles by punching the medicine bags; jig themselves almost into insensibility in the dancing halls, and do other acts of violent physical exertion, when their ostensible reason for taking an outing is to escape the city heat.

There are many cool spots where one may enjoy oneself on Coney island There are two or three immense recreation piers reaching out into the sea and they are swept by delightful ocean breezes, but the chairs there are nearly always comparatively vacant. The beaches, of course, are thronged at certain times of the day In the water one may be cool, but those who stroll on the sand in the midday sun are much more uncomfortable than if they had remained at home in their Harlem flat.

Another favorite method for the good people of this tight little island to keep cool, or think they are keeping cool, which amounts to the same thing, is to take long trolley rides. In this respect no better opportunities are offered than here in New York. There are numerous lines leading up through the Bronx, Yonkers, Westchester county, and, in fact, to all parts of New York state and even into Connecticut and Massachusetts. These rides would be a most delightful way to "cool off" were it not that they are so popular. Their very popularity makes them uncomfortable and in some instances a positive mode of suffering and danger. I have been on some of the cars when they were so crowded that one's life was actually menaced. Now, when a man goes out to take a spin through the country so as to escape the heat of the city, he does not get much enjoyment out of his ride by standing up on the side step in the blazing sun or being wedged in between two persons who are fit candidates for the fat stock show, with a dozen others of varying sizes sandwiched fore and aft.

But for this disagreeable feature some of these trolley rides would be delightful. For five cents you can go from New York to Hastings-on-the-Hudson and pass through some of the grandest scenery to be witnessed anywhere in the world. However, it is like everything else in New York that is cheap—so well patronized that the pleasure is all taken out of it in the fight for your life, and if you are among the survivors the hard battle you have had causes you to forget the beauties of the trip, if, indeed, you have had the time and opportunity to observe them.

One of the most popular methods to "keep cool" along upper Broadway is to visit a cafe in the afternoon and a roof garden at night. Seated at a table, through the center of which protrudes an imitation palm tree, and watching a thermometer attached to the trunk a patron will for hours work overtime wielding his handkerchief over his dripping face and order iced beverages. The thermometer is a great relief to him. He will consult it frequently and think how much hotter it is outside. Or he may, after perusing it, realize how awfully hot it is, and order another drink. In either case it serves the purpose of the proprietor.

But such is the perversity of humankind. We must imagine we are keeping cool if we have to sweat for it.

LO AS A HOUSE SERVANT.

Indian Boys and Girls Have of Late Been Taking to Housework in the West.

Indian schools all over the southwest have recently adjourned for the summer, and the students are being employed very rapidly by those who keep servants. The Indian boys make excellent cooks, while an Indian girl, once trained, is a fine maid of all work, a modish hairdresser and endowed with an inborn taste which becomes picturesque when combined with a few civilizd touches. The system of training now bestowed upon the red children at school teaches them to become servile to their superior—the paleface, and the present generation in training have become so accustomed to serving their paleface teachers that they are more than willing to enter the household as servants Herein may lie the solution of the servant-girl question—for a time, at least, says a western exchange.

Indian youths are strong, agile, and if brought up by the right kind of methods, are perfectly willing to work. They are healthy and quick of limb. This makes an excellent combination for a servant. Statistics of the Indian taken recently show that of the 45,000 workers among the various tribes, 3,000 of them are employed as helpers in the houses of palefaces. You never see the Indian servant at his or her best until you visit the home of an old Indian agent on one of the reservations.

QUESTION OF CONSCIENCE.

The View Taken of It by a Clerk to Whom an Honest Customer Returned Two Cents.

"Some folks," said a store clerk, according to the New York Sun, "are too honest. Now I've had somebody come in to me when the boss was standing by, somebody that had bought something of me the day before, and hand over two cents and say:

"'You gave me two cents too much change yesterday, and I've brought it back.'

"He couldn't rest, you see, that man, until he'd got that two cents off his conscience and returned it. But in getting rid of that load himself he simply shifted it onto me. Here's the boss standing by when that two cents is returned; and the boss says to himself, with his eye on me:

"'Hm! If you make a mistake of two cents, you'd make one of two dollars,' and so, you see, that superhonest man's return of that two cents may do me a lot of harm.

"The meaning of which is, if I can make myself clear, that we don't want to be too blamed honest. A man can be too honest and worry himself over trifles that he ought not to bother over.

"I should say that if the honest man must bring two cents back let him turn it in some time when the boss wasn't 'round."

BETRAYED BY GOLDEN LOCKS.

The Sad Experience of a Public Official Who Sought the Aid of Hair Dye.

A prominent public official began to show signs of baldness, and then rather surprised his friends by appearing with a sleek, well-groomed crop of dark hair, relates the Philadelphia Record. For some time no one suspected a wig. But a few days ago he appeared with the top of his head covered with the usual dark brown hair, but a sharp line from the tips of the ears marked a strange contrast, for the hair below the line was of the bright golden hue which is the pride of the "chemical blondes."

It was found out that the man found his natural hair was turning gray and desired to make it match the wig, so he invested in a preparation warranted to darken the hair, and in the secret of his own room applied it. But, owing to some strange chemical combination, instead of making the silvered hair dark it made the dark hair golden, and so far the unfortunate man has found nothing that will counteract the striking contrast, so he is compelled to endure no small amount of chaffing from his friends.

THE KAISER KEPT HIS WORD.

Sends Troops to Crefeld So That the Girls Might Dance with Soldiers.

During his recent tour in the Rhenish industrial district the kaiser was extremely pleased at seeing so many signs of progress. He was in high good humor when at the close of the Crefeld visit he thanked the maids of honor for their attendance, says a Boston report.

He complimented them on their graceful figures, spoke of the charming Crefeld faces, and asked if the lieutenants often danced with them. When the ladies replied that Crefeld possessed no lieutenants the kaiser laughed heartily and said: "Then I must send you some."

As he was leaving he added: "I will keep my word." Next day the chief burgomaster of Crefeld received the following telegram from Lieut. Gen. von Bissing, commander of the Seventh army corps: "By order of his majesty the kaiser and king, Crefeld is to receive a garrison. Kindly forward proposals for the accommodation of a hussar regiment in the town."

A Love-Sick Indian.

Insane because a white woman had refused to marry him Evans Brady, a full blooded Indian, died in Bellevue hospital, New York, recently.

Forward! The New Woman

THERE passed to the other plane of life not long ago a lady beloved above any in her circle of acquaintance, which was not large. Beyond the limits of one semi-rural neighborhood and a city 200 miles away, where her relatives dwell, few ever heard of her. She was poor. Until the wasting illness that finally took her out of this life she earned her own living. Then her daughter took care of her. Her health was always delicate, so that she was not able to go often from home. But that home was the center of a social life brilliant and joyous, brilliant because its mistress was a very intellectual woman and drew her own kind about her, joyous because she was joy itself. Her motto was Robert Louis Stevenson's, "Courageous and gay; courageous and gay." Thus she met every difficulty and downfall in her path, and these were not few. Outwardly looked at, her life from girlhood to its close was one of suffering, bad luck and poverty, yet her indomitable will and gladness of spirit rose triumphant over all.

One of the schemes to give pleasure to herself and friends was her book of clippings. She had a merry sense of humor, a keen appreciation of wit. When she saw in her reading a particularly good joke or humorous anecdote, she scissored it out and pasted it in her scrapbook. She called this her jokebook. If she heard a specially amusing story, she wrote it down. When friends called, she often entertained those who had the developed sense of humor by giving them this book to read or by reading from it to them. After she was gone her daughter found the book in a box of clippings she had prepared to add to it. The book and its clippings are now among the choicest mementos of herself that she left to her friends. It is like a benediction to them—a benediction from one who never slumped or whined or blamed others, but faced the world in the steadfast spirit of courage, sweet temper and high endeavor.

No work is man's work, no work is woman's, but all work is to the one who can do it.

There is always something irresistibly humorous in a little pig and a little baby.

One of the successful New Jersey potteries is owned and managed by a woman, Mrs. Poillon. She herself established the pottery, and she learned the business as she went along. During the years when the china painting fad was on among American women Mrs. Poillon began dabbling in clays and colors for her own amusement, but after a time settled down to the potter's work as an industrial occupation. She was obliged to learn nearly all the processes by personal experimentation, for professional potters will not reveal to an outside person the secrets of clay mixing. After getting the few instructions she could obtain Mrs. Poillon experimented till she learned how to mix and fire her wares, and it is recorded that she had almost as many failures as Bernard de Palissy before the elusive bird success perched upon the dome of her pottery. Now her plant is thoroughly successful commercially, and she considers the potter's trade a very good one for women.

I have been interested for some time in watching the lists of honor pupils in the graduating classes of public high schools. Of present summer graduates in one of the two schools I happen to know of, two of the pupils receiving scholarships were boys and six were girls. In the other the only graduate that got a prize was a girl. No boy had any. Is the masculine brain perhaps becoming too fragile to bear the strain of wrestling for a prize in mathematics?

Miss Ann Dorrance of Wilkesbarre conducts one of the principal flower growing establishments in the United States. She raises large quantities of roses for the New York city market, and by the end of June had shipped to it more than two million. These roses were mostly produced in greenhouses.

Women can be eminently successful floriculturists. They can be successful at anything they have grit enough to undertake and stick to.

One drawback to a woman in an occupation involving mechanical work is her lack of knowledge of the use of tools. For this reason she is often put to great expense in the hire of a carpenter to do repairing and other work she could easily achieve if she had even a slight familiarity with tools. The use of a hammer, saw, hatchet, plane and carpenter's rule ought to be as much a part of a girl's education as a knowledge of housekeeping.

Mme. Henri Gerin-Lajoie of Montreal has prepared a handbook of the laws of the province of Quebec, and her work has taken its place as a legal reference book, even though women may not yet practice law in that benighted province.

I said, 'How much money do you want?'" (irritated).

"Well, I want something, but I don't want money. You seem to have had experience with blackmailing schemes, you fly to your checkbook in such a hurry."

Ellison closed the book, and flung it in his desk angrily.

"It is hard to keep my temper with you. Now state your wants."

"I think we are beginning to understand each other," said Hendricks, blandly. "No doubt, in the end, we shall be very good friends.

"No doubt."

"The facts are these: I am interested in the fortune of this young school-teacher, who has been held on the charge of being an accessory to the tragedy. Now, the young man is innocent."

"You seem to be omniscient," replied Ellison, with a palpable sneer.

"Never mind that. It is absurd to think that he could be guilty. Now, you will oblige me, and I am sure I can count on your help to set him free."

The banker could hardly conceal his pleasure at the turn things had now taken. Evidently he had to deal with a man who was not going to be unreasonable.

"I am sure that I have always had a liking for the young man," he said. "I was the means of his coming here, and I supported the school out of my own purse. Now, even if you had not asked me, I should have lost no time in doing all I could for him."

He said this with an air of frankness, but the other eyed him for a moment with a certain distrust.

"You are a relation of Barnett's?" asked Ellison, uneasy under that uncompromising glance.

"No, never saw the fellow but once in my life. But I have made up my mind that he is innocent and I want him free. You have money—use it. Hello! What's the matter now?" for the banker had been staring out of the window, and then stepped forward and made a quick gesture as if to some one in the garden.

Hendricks had slipped forward, and peered out behind his back. He was just in time to see a man dodge behind a tree. The one glance was enough for him to see that the fellow was very ragged and unkempt, then he was gone.

He returned noiselessly to his place, just as Ellison turned. The latter found his uninvited guest seated with his face resting on his hand, evidently in deep meditation.

"You may have been surprised at my rushing to the window in such an abrupt way," explained the banker. "You see, we are overrun with the neighbors' children, who come in and steal flowers from the garden. Now, I shouldn't mind that, if they wouldn't trample down the beds and ruin everything. I saw them at it again just now, and was moved to anger. You see?"

"Yes, I see," replied the worthy Hendricks, regarding the other out of the corner of his eye. To himself he said: "What is the use of this elaborate lie, unless there is something serious in that man's sudden appearance which he does not care about others knowing. A cunning knave this—surely!"

CHAPTER VI.

"WE SHALL BOTH GO DOWN TOGETHER."

"By the way," said Hendricks, after a moment's pause, in which each man covertly regarded the other, "where is your daughter now?"

"Eh; what's that?" The question seemed to surprise the banker. Hendricks frowned, and his red fingers beat a tattoo on the arm of the chair while he looked the other firmly in the face.

"As the guardian, or rather trustee of the affairs of her father, Martin Frale, it is not strange that I should like to see the young lady."

"But surely, man, you are not——"

"No, I am not going to tell her that her father was driven to crime in an effort to save her mother's life. But if Frale is living, it would be a comfort to him if I might carry him the good news of her welfare. You know that even a man who has been years in prison has not lost all fatherly feeling."

"Well, but Martin Frale is dead."

"Granting that he is. It might be that I was instructed to see her, and, being a man of my word, would naturally wish to carry out the agreement."

Ellison was silent. During an experience of years among men, he had never met with such a human enigma. Who was this man? At least he knew much, and was amiable, and might be easily managed if treated with kindness and consideration.

"Then you promise that if I tell you where the daughter is"—he did not have the courage to say "my daughter," in face of the facts presented—"you will be silent respecting her origin?"

"I am listening."

"Can I trust you?"

For a moment the face of Hendricks relaxed, and he smiled.

"It seems to me that just now we have reasons to trust and yet mistrust the other. One will safeguard the other. You need, however, have no fear that she will ever learn whose daughter she really is. I know that you can mean her no harm, and that she is safe. But I should like to see her for reasons it is not necessary for me to state."

"Very well. After the terrible affair of the other night, I thought it best to have her removed to the home of her old nurse."

"And where might that be?" and the question came as if Hendricks was dealing in court with a recalcitrant witness.

"The nurse is housekeeper for the one lawyer that this town affords, named Jared Henslow."

"Henslow?" the other repeated, rubbing his forehead.

"What, you know him?"

"How should I know him? But the name is familiar. I once knew a man of that name."

"Well, she is there."

Hendricks rose and stood for a moment looking down on the floor with a strange expression on his face.

"For this last information I thank you—as the friend of Martin Frale, of course. I have no doubt that she has led a happy life all these years."

"She has been brought up as the daughter of a rich man should be," replied Ellison, theatrically. Then, remembering that he was not addressing an ordinary visitor, continued: "I am quite sure that, if Martin Frale was living, he would never have regretted having trusted his daughter to my care. What, after all, does it matter if some trickery was used in the matter to retain the fortune in the family, instead of allowing it to be scattered among a dozen perhaps worthless relatives of my wife. Martin Frale's daughter must have gone to an asylum as a child, and never known what happiness meant, but for this strange circumstance in her life. She has been carefully reared, has enjoyed everything that money could purchase. Could Martin Frale, were he living to-day, wish her differently off? Would he attempt to drag her down to his own level again? Would he take her from the luxury in which she has been bred, to a different life—one of possible misery?"

"As the spokesman of Martin Frale, I believe that he would do nothing of the kind," said Hendricks, in a low voice. "She would hardly love her old father with the brand of shame upon him—the father she never knew. She would not be a woman to care to change her lot for the sake of carrying possible comfort to the declining years of an old convict."

Job Hendricks at this juncture seemed to be particularly interested in a picture on the library walls, for he turned his back on his companion and said, after a pause: "Ah, you are well provided for here. I should like to feel that I was going to be so comfortably lodged for the rest of my life."

"You are not in very prosperous circumstances, then, Hendricks?" ventured Ellison, who thought he saw the way now to offer a bribe which his guest had rejected with such scorn a short time before.

Job Hendricks turned about and plumped down in a chair again.

"I dare say I am as prosperous as I deserve," he said. "My wants are few and I am getting on in years. A man don't need much when he has reached my age."

"Still, there are comforts that might make life easier."

"I know what you are thinking about, but oblige me by not approaching the subject again."

The banker was silent.

"Tell me," said Hendricks, after a pause, "are there no clews that would point to the fact that some other person must have committed the crime, rather than young Barnett?"

"Nothing as yet," replied Ellison, as if weary of the subject. "Of course, as I told you, I am interested in setting the young man free, and so at the first opportunity I sent to New York to bring down an expert detective to take charge of the case. The police are doing something, of course, but I thought I might do a little independently."

"And what is the result?"

"Nothing as yet. He only arrived yesterday afternoon, and has spent the time since in interrogating the servants."

"Well, I should not wonder if I took a hand in the matter myself if all else failed."

"What, too?"

FROM THE WORLD'S FOUR CORNERS

Industrial and Commercial Facts and Figures from Various Foreign Lands.

On many of the islands of the Caribbean fishing is the main source of livelihood. It is not a pleasing prospect that confronts the island fisherman in his struggle against the odds of life, nor does the income from his chosen calling warrant a life of extravagant luxury. It is a life of hardship and constant danger that he leads, and the recompense is so meager that the poorest paid American workman would not consider living upon it possible.

Varieties of edible fish are not plentiful in Caribbean waters, nor are they easily captured. Flying fish and redsnapper constitute the fish menu, and both are caught where the water is comparatively deep and rough. The flying fish are surface fish, and are caught with nets. The water is first baited with fish heads and other unedible portions ground fine. This attracts considerable numbers of flying fish, and when they have congregated large circular nets are cast over them, on the edges of which are heavy lead weights. The weights cause the edges of the nets to sink rapidly, and once four or five feet below the surface they are drawn together with a string, and the capture is complete.

The redsnapper is caught with a hook and line, and must be fished for in considerable depths of water, some 15 to 20 fathoms. They are caught on or near the edge of coral reefs or banks, and their presence is determined by what the natives call the water telescope, a simple device consisting merely of a square tube three or four feet long, which simply cuts off the light from the surface and prevents it from obscuring the less brilliantly illuminated depths, thus making it possible to see the bottom in as much as 20 fathoms of water.

The smaller islands in the north of the Caribbean chain, including Saba, St. Kitts, Nevis, Montserrat, Antigua and St. Martins are the homes of the fishermen, and on practically all of these may be seen the crudely constructed camps of the fishermen, who sell their product as far south as St. Vincent and Barbadoes.

Practically the whole population of the Dutch island of Saba are engaged in the fish trade, upon which they rely entirely for the sustenance, and the recent volcanic destruction has brought many hardships to those who were not in the path of the terrible fires, but who suffer because of destroyed markets.

Meat and Dairy Products in New Zealand.

I give below a statement of the quantities and value of meats, butter and cheese exported from New Zealand from March 31, 1901, to March 31, 1902:

Description.	Quantity. Cwts.	Value.
Meats:
Frozen	1,871,731	$10,863,902
Preserved	37,903	670,040
Butter	219,493	4,784,860
Cheese	86,476	924,596

These exports went almost wholly to Great Britain. The increase in the export of butter is very marked, being 20 per cent. in quantity and 24 per cent. in value.

The dairy industry in New Zealand is advancing rapidly, and the government is doing all it can to promote the trade. Experienced government graders are constantly employed at the principal ports, examining the exports of these products and issuing certificates of quality. It is a rare thing in any part of New Zealand to be served with poor butter. The same is true of beef and mutton.

There are no droughts in New Zealand, and it is a fine grazing country. Cattle are never housed here, as the climate is mild enough for them to be left in the open all the year round.

The difficulty in exporting to the United States is the absence of direct communication by steam. To the west coast, the Oceanic Steamship company maintains a direct line, with fine modern steamers running every three weeks to San Francisco, but to the east coast there is absolutely no direct communication, which is so necessary for food products that must be carried in a frozen condition with as little handling as possible.

There are steamers running regularly to New Zealand and Australia from New York, and many of them are built to carry meat and dairy products; but they are all English steamers, and on the return voyage go to England, where everything destined for America has to be transshipped, which adds very much to the cost of delivery.

As shown by the figures given, the average cost per pound of the products mentioned is:

Frozen meat (including lamb, mutton and beef), five cents; butter, 19 cents; cheese, 9½ cents. These figures represent the f. o. b. New Zealand cost. L. A. BACHELDER.

Beet Leaves for Fodder.

As an indication of the direction in which progress is now being sought for and promoted among sugar-beet growers may be cited the proceedings of a recent meeting of the Verein der Deutschen Zucker Industrie, a national association of beet culturists and sugar manufacturers, wherein it was decided to offer a prize of 10,000 marks ($2,380) for the best process which can be devised for drying beet leaves and "heads"—i. e., the top which is cut off when the sugar beet is trimmed preparatory to grinding. The desperate condition in which the beet sugar industry will be left by abolition of export bounties compels anew every possible economy in the conservation and use of each element in the raw material. This use of the pulp, leaves and waste molasses as food for cattle is a chapter of the general subject which has hitherto attracted comparatively little attention in the United States. Its importance in Germany, as well as the present technical status of the leaf-drying process in that country, will be indicated by the conditions of the tests which competitors for the prize must be prepared to meet. These, as officially announced on the 27th of June, are as follows:

(1) Leaves and heads dried by the competing apparatus or process shall not contain water in excess of 12 per cent.

(2) The prepared product must be of good form and condition, as free as possible from foreign substances and smell, and not scorched or burned.

(3) The loss of soluble nutritive elements in the dried leaves as compared with fresh leaves shall not exceed 15 per cent.

(4) The working cost of the process, including depreciation and wear and tear of plant, shall be in such relation to the fodder value of the product that it will be, when properly installed and managed, economically profitable.

The remaining specifications provide that the plant for working the process shall not be unsightly or prejudicial to the neighborhood in which it is located; that the competing plans, drawings and descriptions must be filed before September 15, 1902, at the office of Privy Councilor Koenig, in Berlin, and the apparatus be ready for trial at a place to be designated by the commission during the period from October 15 to November 25 of the present year.

Trade of Port Arthur.

As there is no custom house at Port Arthur no definite figures can be given in regard to the imports, but a rough estimate shows that not less than 180,000 tons of cargo were imported into Port Arthur in 1901.

The principal imports were cotton piece goods, silk piece goods, metals, flour, household effects, paper, sugar and tobacco. Among other articles may be noted building materials, timber, kerosene, ammunition and machinery.

The number of all the trading houses and firms is approximated at 700 and their volume of trade at about $18,025,000 yearly. The following shows the shipping:

KILLED THE THIEF.

This Time the Raider of Corra Ryno's Chickens Was Caught.

Another reason has been discovered for the rapid disappearance of the chickens belonging to Corra Ryno, of Coddington avenue. The reason this time was a mink and was spied by Charles Herrmann, a next door neighbor early yesterday morning. Mr. Herrmann killed the visitor with a hoe and then summoned Mr. Ryno who found fifteen more of his fine broilers dead. That makes forty-seven in a month.

Burning Railroad Ties.

Burning railroad ties, on the tracks in the rear of Mumford's carpet cleaning works on East Third street, brought out the fire department about 10:30 yesterday morning in response to a still alarm sent in by Patrolman McCarthy. A line of hose from No. 2 wagon was strung and a stream of water soon extinguished the flames. The building was threatened, but the prompt work of the firemen prevented its being attacked.

'PLAINS' GOOD GAME.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 11—One of the most exciting games of the season was played Saturday afternoon on the local diamond when the Roselle Field Club went down to defeat at the hands of the local. From the time the first man was up in the first innings until the last man out retired in the ninth the game was all that could be desired by the most lusty rooter of either team.

The visitors had Parker, one of Newark's crack twirlers, in the box but the heavy hitting locals landed on him for two two baggers in their half of the first and before they were retired had netted three runs. After this Parker settled down, but could not stop the home team from making base hits at critical stages of the game. Manager Johnston tried out a new twirler during the first five innings by the name of MacCauley, who pitched last season in the New York State League. The visitors had some difficulty finding his curves, only six base hits being made in the fifth inning he was in the box.

In the fifth inning the visitors tied the score on a long hit to right field, which in being fielded in struck in a tree and before it could be returned to the diamond again two men had crossed the plate, making the score 5 to 5.

Manager Johnston brought Harvey in from right field to do the twirling in the sixth and it was all up with the Roselles as they were completely at his mercy, only one base hit being made off his delivery in the fourth inning, while six of them fanned the air.

Scotch Plains scored one in this half of the sixth but were shut out in the seventh and eighth.

DRESS CAUGHT FIRE.

Prompt Action Saved Mrs. Herman Kellar From Severe Burning.

Mrs. Herman Kellar, of Somerset place, had a narrow escape from being seriously burned Saturday evening. She was standing by the counter in her husband's store on Somerset street, when Mr. Kellar lighted a cigar and carelessly threw the lighter to one side. Mrs. Kellar leaned on the unextinguished taper and before she was aware of it her clothing was in a blaze. With the aid of her husband the flames were extinguished before she suffered any injury.

WHERE THE CENTRAL'S FREIGHT IS HANDLED

Great Amount of Work Done at Jersey Central's Transfer Sheds at Elizabeth.

DONE WITH EXPEDITION

AT THAT PLACE THE CENTRAL DISTRIBUTES ITS FREIGHT FOR ALL POINTS.

Demands on That Department Have Become So Large That the Central Has Acquired More Room for Additional Facilities.

One of the busiest places in the county is at the Jersey Central transfer sheds at Elizabeth. Little is ever said of the great amount of work transacted here because the public knows nothing about it. Twenty-four hours of every day there is a steady string of truck pushers going up and down the long platform, which is little short of one-sixth of a mile in length, distributing freight for the various sections of the country.

The total amount of tonnage handled during June was 85,110. This is 5,762 tons more than June of last year. Of this amount 59,000 tons is local, 50,000 being from the Port district and 9,000 from uptown. The Port's tonnage shows an increase of 10,000 tons for the month over that of two years ago. The interchange with the Pennsylvania shows little increase, the figures remaining about the same during the last two years, 13,523 tons being June's quota.

Four years ago the freight transfer here included only small shipments which came up from New Jersey Southern stations and amounted to about twenty-five tons a day. The average daily tonnage last month was 350 tons. The transfer work was, previous to 1898, mostly done at Jersey City. The present commodious sheds were constructed in anticipation that they would fully meet all requirements, but the demands have so increased that they are incapable of doing it, and 100 tons a day of Elizabeth exchange work is being done in Jersey City.

The facilities for handling the big increase have been more than doubled puring the past year, and still are inadequate. Some idea of the work can be had when it is known that seventy-six cars can be placed and handled at one time. The present facilities and force can handle 230 cars a day. The force consists of fifteen clerks and fifty-five laborers, and the pay roll is over $3,000 a month.

The Central railroad finding that more room with additional facilities is necessary has purchased several acres of land along their tracks north of the present sheds, upon which, it is rumored, the company proposes to erect a new transfer plant.

This is the site where the notorious "glass houses" now are. Senator Kean sold the site to the Central people and they will begin the demolition of these houses. The railroad has had considerable trouble with parties living in them, for not a week passes, it is said, but that the tenants perpetrate some robbery on the transfer sheds.

The Elizabeth district of the Central Railroad is said to have the best transfer system in the world. It has been in operation only since the first of last month, but it is attracting the attention of railroad men throughout the country. Two-thirds of the stray packages have been cut out since its adoption, and when the force has had another month's experience it is thought a stray package will be an exceptional occurrence.

Wrecked on Hill.

With a broken wheel on their automobile, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Roller, of Putnam avenue, waited at the foot of the Dugway hill Saturday evening until Capt. Hand's teamsters came to the rescue and towed the wrecked vehicle home. A rock in the roadway was responsible for the damage, tearing the tire and shattering some of the spokes, making it impossible for the machine to proceed.

Considering Assessments.

Property owners on West Sixth street and Orchard place had their accounts considered, Saturday afternoon, by the assessment commissioners appointed for the purpose of levying the amounts due for the recent macadamizing of those thoroughfares The commission has now almost finished its labors.

It Needs a Tonic.

There are times when your liver needs a tonic. Don't give purgatives that gripe and weaken. DeWitt's Little Early Risers expel all poison from the system and act as tonic to the liver W. Scott, 531 Highland avenue, Milton, Pa., says: "I have carried DeWitt's Little Early Risers with me for several years and would not be without them." Small and easy to take. Purely vegetable. They never gripe or distress. L. W. Randolph.

A PLAINFIELDER TURNS FARMER

Edward E. Anthony's Successful Search for Renewed Health Among Dutchess County Hills.

Ordered by his physician to seek renewed health in outdoor life, Edward E. Anthony left Plainfield last March thin and hollow eyed, with his nervous system in a state of collapse. To-day he looks sturdy and bronzed and capable of tackling anything. While Mr. Anthony's friends might recognize the well-known Plainfielder in the energetic farmer of Dutchess county, New York, who daily supplies the larger merchants of Mattewan and Fishkill Landing with some of the best of their vegetables and fruit, the task would be a difficult one if they did not happen to be looking for him in that guise. The few months of country life have done wonders and Mr. Anthony is feeling far better than he has for some time, yet it will take time to regain all his former strength and health.

Edward E. Anthony.

While it was generallly known that Mr. Anthony had located on a farm near Fishkill Village, there are few who know how comfortably he is quartered. Fishkill Village, which is seven miles inland from Fishkill Landing, was the old home of the Anthony family. Seven miles further from the Hudson river is the new home of Mr. Anthony. It is a mile from the nearest postoffice, Wiccopee, which has only recently risen to that dignity from the more old fashioned Johnsville. Two miles away is Brinkerhoff, the nearest railroad station on a branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

Myrtlawn, as Mr. Anthony's home is called, is located right in the heart of the richest truck farms of Dutchess county. There is a tract of sixty acres on which he raises a great variety of vegetables and fruit. With the aid of a young farmhand, Mr. Anthony has already had remarkable success and has won for himself a reputation for the best with the dealers of Fishkill and Mattewan. The house itself is not at all what one might expect to find there. The former owner spent a fortune in trying to outdo all her neighbors. She succeeded but her fortune was gone and the farm had to pass into other hands as well. It is an immense house, with many large rooms and every modern convenience. It is fully the equal of any city residence. It stands in a grove of large trees, flanked by a garden and with an orchard in the rear.

In order that Mr. Anthony's friends might see how he looks, the accompanying photograph was taken of him in his garden by The Daily Press' own artist. It is an excellent likeness. It is not difficult to see that country life agrees with him. Mr. Anthony is well-known here having been prominent as an officer in the old volunteer Alert Hose Company and in Fourth ward Republican circles. He was a deacon of Trinity Reformed church, superintendent of the Sunday-school there for eighteen years and has held offices in the City, County and State Unions of Christian Endeavorers. In the last connection, he is well known throughout the State.

With Mr. Anthony are the members of his family, his wife, his daughters, Matie R. and Mae E., and his son, Ned. They are all in good health and have made many pleasant acquaintances. Most enthusiastic of all is little Ned who takes a keen enjoyment in assisting his father on the farm.

A CURIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Millstone Farmer Knocked Off a Load of Hay by a Branch of a Tree Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, August 12—Heinrich Bartholomay, a farmer who lives near Millstone, suffered a severe accident near Gallagher's Corner yesterday morning through his own carelessness. He was on his way to Plainfield with a load of hay and becoming tired allowed his son to do the driving while he sought repose on top. The road is lined with large trees and the boy unthinkingly drove directly under them. Bartholomay was struck by one and in his efforts to get out of the way fell to the ground. He landed on his shoulders and was rendered partly insensible. Assistance was procured by the boy and he was taken to a farmhouse, where medical attendance was furnished by a Bound Brook physician. It is thought he is suffering from concussion of the brain. The injured man was later removed to his home.

—The Chess and Checker Club held a regular meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening.

—Peaches—at Neuman Brothers, tomorrow—fifty baskets Delaware fruit, fifty baskets Jersey. Quality? None better.

HIGH WATER.

Bound Brook Reports the Heaviest Rainfall There in Years—Some Damage.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Aug. 12—The rainfall Sunday afternoon was the heaviest experienced here in years. Green brook, Middle brook and the Raritan river overflowed their banks and Bound Brook was practically cut off from the rest of the world. Main street was covered with water to a depth of two feet.

A trench dug for gas pipes on Hamilton street caved in for a distance of 200 feet. A bridge at Chimney Rock was swept away, and bridges all over the county were damaged.

The trolley cars were stalled and unable to run to either Somerville, New Brunswick or Dunellen. The rain fall was nearly five inches.

Alis Boys to Cruise.

In the trim sloop Augusta, several of the Alis boys will start upon a sea cruise at the end of this week. The party will probably number five, although the personnel has not yet been fully decided. The boat is now lying at Perth Amboy, where it is being fitted for the voyage, which will embrace several points of interest along the coast and occupy two or three weeks.

UP AMONG THE CLOUDS.

Prof. Conti Will Make His Second Trip at Boynton Beach Tonight.

Lovers of the thrilling may find enjoyment at Boynton Beach tonight, when Prof. Alberto Conti, the aeronant, will make his second balloon ascension. The heavy wind is likely to make a little trouble for the cloud dodger, but he will make the tirp. On Saturday, he made a successful air journey, rising 3,000 feet and landing from his parachute near Sewaren station. Plainfielders will be interested to know that Conti is the professional name of a young man who is well known in this city.

STOPPED IN ENGINE'S PATH

NARROW ESCAPE FOR MRS. SARAH VEDDERS AND HER SON.

Horse Balked on Lehigh Valley Crossing—Just Moved in Time to Save Them.

Presence of mind possessed by Mrs. Sarah Vedders, of White Plains, N. Y., who occupies a summer cottage near Metuchen, is all that saved her and her young son from death on the tracks of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at the Park avenue crossing, last evening.

She had been to this city on business and was returning home shortly after 7 o'clock, driving in a trap. The Park avenue crossing is without a gateman at night and she reached there just ahead of the express from Buffalo which leaves South Plainfield at 7:34. Not wishing to wait she attempted to start over, although she heard the engine's warning whistle. Her horse had reached the center of the track when it suddenly stood still and refused to budge. The engine was almost directly upon her when she lashed the animal furiously, causing it to swerve to one side, just as the train swept by.

It was some time before Mrs. Vedders regained her composure sufficiently to drive on and she has since been in a nervous state bordering on collapse. Her young son was badly frightened but kept cool during the ordeal.

CAME INTO HER OWN.

Summer Resident at Chimney Rock is Now Worth a Million.

Through a decision of the California Supreme court, recently rendered, Mrs. Arnold Teneriffe, of Toledo, Ohio, who is summering at Chimney Rock, will become a millionaire. For eight years she has been in litigation with the State of California over the title of lands in the vicinity of Los Angeles, which were wrongfully taken from her and which will now be returned. They comprise in all 20,000 acres worth $50 an acre.

The property was bequeathed Mrs. Teneriffe by her father, who was one of the forty-niners. A flaw in the title deprived her of them and she has since been fighting for her rights, the struggle ending with the decision just rendered. She expcets to leave at once with her attorneys and convert the property into cash.

FORGOT TO VOTE.

James K. Arnold Broke His Record of Being First to Cast Ballot.

For twenty years or more, when an election has been held in the borough, there is a tradition among the inhabitants that James K. Arnold has been the first man to cast his ballot at Saengerbund Hall. Today, however, it slipped his memory that this was the date of the election in regard to the fire house, and five or six people had voted before Mr. Arnold realized that his come-early-and-avoid-the-rush record had been interrupted.

Major Coleman's Funeral.

The remains of the late Major Coleman will be taken from the receiving vault in Hillside cemetery tomorrow morning and taken to Washington, D. C., where, in the afternoon, the interment will be made in Arlington cemetery with military honors. Mrs. Coleman and Lieutenant Coleman are now in Washington. Miss Coleman and her fiancee, Lieutenant Carter, will leave in the morning.

Services at Camp.

Park Avenue Baptist Christian Endeavorers will have charge of the service at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp this evening. All friends of the society, and those interested in the camp, are cordially invited to accompany the party on the 7:15 trolley car from the North avenue terminus.

Death After Short Illness.

Henry A., the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Platts, of West Front street, died Sunday after a short illness. The funeral will be private.

FOX HILL FAIR TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

Great Event in Hunterdon County Will Take Place Tomorrow and Thursday.

IS AN ANNUAL EVENT

COUNTRY PEOPLE TRAVEL FOR MILES TO ATTEND THIS FAIR.

Is Arranged by the Two Churches at Fairmount, Commonly Known as Fox Hill, and Held at the Churches in Alternate Years.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Whitehouse, Aug. 12—The famous Fox Hill fair, which attracts great multitudes every summer, will be held this year on the grounds of the Methodist Episcopal church at Fairmount, tomorrow and Thursday. The question oftenest asked in this vicinity within the past few weeks has been: "Are you going to the Fox Hill fair?" and the answer is invariably in the affirmative.

People travel great distances to go to this gathering in the heart of the Hunterdon county hills. Fathers, mothers, sweethearts, brothers all go miles to "take in" the Fox Hill fair, which they would not miss for almost any consideration. It has always been a great source of wonderment why so many people are attracted to Fairmount on these occasions. When asked to ascribe a reason for this, William Manning Welsh, a prominent citizen, said:

"People often wonder why great crowds come here. There is only one way I can account for it. Where I now live was a hotel. It was erected by William Crater in 1810 and was a great place for the people of the countryside to gather. There was a race course on the farm and fast horses from all over the country were brought here to compete, and Fox Hill, as the place was called then, became noted, far and near.

The attendance at the fair averages from 5,000 to 7,000 people each year, and on a clear evening, when the event is in progress, vehicles of every description may be seen at all available tying places on all highways and byroads in a radius of two miles from where the fair is being held. Late comers find it very difficult to secure a place to tie their horses.

The fair itself is much like the ordinary country church exhibitions of the kind. In the afternoon there are band concerts and speaking. Supper is served—a sumptuous rural meal composed chiefly of products from the farm—and in the evening the bands play, fancy articles of every description are sold and refreshments, consisting of ice cream, cake, soda water, etc., disappear rapidly. The folks flock hither and thither, chatting gaily, and the good country folk meet old friends whom they have not shook hands with or exchanged greetings since the Fox Hill fair of the year previous.

Miss Radie Rinehart, one of the most earnest and indefatigable workers of the Methodist Episcopal church, has pieced a remarkable quilt that will be on exhibition at the fair this year and sold to the highest bidder. This article of her handiwork contains 10,168 blocks. Besides the large number of her leisure hours spent in making the quilt, Miss Rinehart has prepared many other fancy articles and collected $23 in cash.

The net proceeds of each fair average anywhere from $1,700 to $2,200.

Fairmount is a pretty post hamlet in Tewksbury township. The first postmaster, John Viesselins, gave it that name because it is a place fair to see. Visitors to the great fair climb hill after hill until a pretty plain is stretched before them—and that is Fairmount. Long before there was any postoffice the place was known as Fox Hill, and to this day that name clings to it and is still probably more used than the other.

The first settler was a man named George Fox. He came from England and owned a tract of 400 acres of land. He lived on a farm now owned by Henry Fisher. None of Fox's descendants survive. His place was called Foxenburg, but the entire neighborhood soon became known as Fox Hill.

The fair is given by the two churches — the Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal—and is held one year at the one and the next year at the other. This year it is to be at the Methodist church and that congregation will take all the proceeds, according to the custom that the church

BALLOON ASCENSION.

First of Series to be Made at Boynton Beach This Summer.

The first balloon ascension of the series to be held under the supervision of the Central Balloon Company of America, took place at Boynton Beach, Saturday afternoon, in the presence of 4,000 people. Aeronant Jack Mack made a successful parachute leap, descending from a height of 3,000 feet and landing in a yard near Perth Amboy. The balloon was inflated by William Schorb, of this city. During the remainder of the season seven more ascensions are to be made in charge of the company.

JOHN M. SCHORB ARRESTED

CHARGED WITH MAINTAINING A GAMBLING DEN IN HIS STABLE.

Formal Complaint Was Sworn to by Councilman J. K. Arnold—Hearing Tonight.

John M. Schorb, of Somerset street, was served with a warrant, this morning. which will necessitate his appearance this morning before Recorder Doud on the technical charge of keeping a disorderly house. Gambling is the specific count upon which Mr. Schorb will be given a hearing. It is alleged that his livery stable at the rear of Somerset street, near Manning avenue, is a rendezvous for gamblers.

The warrant was sworn out by James K. Arnold. Mr. Arnold asserts that not only do men congregate there to play for keeps, but that bookmakers regularly visit the establishment and make books on the races. He further alleges that Mr. Schorb's place is a nuisance to that part of the borough, and that the foul language heard in the vicinity is intolerable.

Asked if he had anything to say about the matter, Mr. Schorb this morning told a reporter that the allegations against him were false and that he has been made the subject of malicious persecution. The case comes up at 7 o'clock this evening.

WANT THEIR PAY.

Mechanic's Liens Filed Against New House on North Avenue.

Two dissatisfied mechanics have made trouble for the builder and the owner of a Netherwood property by filing liens against the place for alleged unpaid claims. John J. Heideloff asks for $300 in payment of supplies furnished during the operation, and Cormack Caulfield demands a similar sum for mason's materials and work. Both are represented by Attorney Newcorn. The defendants in the matter are John B. Dahl, the builder, and Andros Bohrovesky, ower, of the building recently erected at 1219-21 North avenue.

PAST HUNDRED MARK.

Aid for King's Daughters Baby Camp Still Continues.

Constant additions have swelled the King's Daughters' Baby Camp fund beyond the hundred mark and it is still advancing. It stands today:

Previously acknowledged	$108.69
Mrs. James Clark	5.00

In addition a case of delicious jellies was received this morning from Mrs. J. F. Grandin, of Hamden, Hunterdon county. They were taken by express to the camp.

In recording yesterday's contributions, $5 was credited to Mrs. E. C. Morris. It should be Miss E. C. Morris.

WEEKLY DANCE.

Guests at Park Avenue Hotel Enjoyed Their Regular Hop.

Several hours of enjoyment fell to the lot of the guests of the Park Avenue Hotel last evening in the regular weekly dance at the popular resort. The affair was largely attended, many Plainfield friends being present in addition to the habitues of the place. The patronesses were Mrs. Henry Stothoff and Mrs. J. H. McManus. Dancing was continued until a late hour, and the other social features of the evening were much enjoyed.

Learned of Mr. Dunning's Death.

J. B. Brown, of Park avenue, received a telegram today announcing the sudden death of John A. Dunning, a former resident of Plainfield, at George's Mills, N. H., this morning. Of late years Mr. Dunning had been living in Brooklyn. A son holds a professorship in Columbia College.

Found Guilty.

A jury of twelve men decided that Alphonso Bombano was guilty of the charges brought against him by Louise Colucci, after he had been placed on trial before City Judge Runyon, in the Council Chambers, this morning. He was directed to furnish bonds.

THREE MORE SUITS AGAINST TROLLEY CO.

Lawyer Newcorn Represents Plaintiffs in Action Amounting to $25,000 Damages.

FOR ALLEGED INJURIES.

PLAINTIFFS ARE MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE POWERS AND G. H. LEIVERS.

Leivers Claims to Have Been Hurt in Accident on East Fifth Street—Powers' Were Injured in Accident in Fanwood Township.

Trolley troubles have again brought the local railway into court as the defendant in damage suits brought by passengers who have suffered alleged injuries while riding on the cars of the company. Attorney Newcorn represents the plaintiffs in three actions against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway, aggregating $25,000. The plaintiffs are Lawrence and Catherine Powers and Geroge H. Leivers, the latter a son of former Councilman Alfred Leivers, of East Fifth street. All the cases will come up before the October term of the Supreme Court at Elizabeth.

Young Leivers was a passenger on board a Fifth street car on April 30 of this year. Defective apparatus, it is alleged, was responsible for the car's being uncontrollable and for the collision which resulted between it and another at Fifth and Richmond streets. According to the declaration, the young man was thrown out and "grievously shocked, bruised, wounded, broken, lamed, lacerated, mangled, maimed and disabled" besides being injured internally. For all of which, a demand of $5,000 has been made.

In the other suits, Mr. and Mrs. Powers are the plaintiffs because of an accident which occurred on Westfield avenue, in Fanwood township May 10. The car in which Mrs. Powers was riding left the track, and she is alleged to have suffered great injuries as a result. The sum of $10,000 is placed as the damage, while a similar amount is asked by the husband.

NEW TAX RATE.

It Will be Differently Divided—The Sum Total Will Not be Changed.

According to promises, the city tax rate will remain this year the same as before, $2.50. From the computation just made, the figures will be divided somewhat differently from those of 1901, although with the same total. The list follows: County tax, 48; State school tax, 17; fire department, 24; library, 04½; city and city light, 69; poor, 04½; free school and bond, 69; principal on sewer bonds, 07; interest on sewer obligation, 07.

Those items which are increased are the county tax, 1 cent; city and city light, three cents; poor tax, one-half cent, making a total of four and one-half. This is offset by a reduction of three cents in the free school and bond and one-half cent on the fire department.

TO KEEP AT PRACTICE.

Company K's Crack Shots Will Have Chance on Local Range.

Company K's marksmen are not to allow themselves to grow rusty in the shooting which has girven them such a good record throughout the State. The local rifle range, at Maple avenue and Greenbrook road, is to be extensively patronized by the members. Captain Browning has issued a notice to the effect that the range will be open on Saturday of this week, from 2 to 6 o'clock, and that all those desirous of bettering their scores at Sea Girt are requested to come out to practice.

HIGH WIND AT MILLSTONE.

Heavy Blow Caused Considerable Damage There Sunday Night.

The little hamlet of Millstone, on the Millstone river, received a taste of what Trenton suffered by the strenuous wind, Sunday afternoon. Trees were uprooted, fences blown down and many a barn lost its roof.

A costly steam launch belonging to Charles VanNostrand, to which a number of smaller boats were attached, was swept into the river and was practically ruined. The damage will amount to many dollars.

Services at the Home.

Trinity's Christian Endeavorers will have charge of a service at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home on the afternoon of Sunday, August 24.

FEW VOTING IN BOROUGH

Question of the New Engine House Up for a Formal Vote Today.

LITTLE INTEREST TAKEN

Borough Cellar Gang is Preparing to Parade This Evening When the Count is Over—Twenty-Nine Votes Cast in Three Hours—No Doubt About the Result.

This is the date upon which the voters of the borough are casting their opinions to ascertain whether or not money shall be borrowed to go ahead with the erection of the proposed new fire engine house. There is evident in the streets none of the bustle usually characteristic of election day. The vote cast has been comparatively light. In the first three hours of balloting exactly twenty-nine votes were cast in each polling booth.

The first district polling place is at William Jerolamen's pool room and the officers there are John H. Carney, judge; Frank W. Woodruff, inspector; W. W. Rowley and Charles G. Wood, clerks. Saengerbund Hall is the polling place for the second district and the officers there are Horace J. Martin, judge; James Bailey, inspector; L. Bird and William McLaughlin, clerks.

If the project carries, as no doubt it will, the Borough Cellar Gang are making preparations for a parade this evening. Members are shining their shovels for the occasion. Chief of Police Campbell will march at the head of the procession.

MAN KNOCKED DOWN.

Lightning Struck Telegraph Pole and Did All Sorts of Queer Stunts Last Evening.

Plainfield again had a struggle in the hands of the Storm King last evening. In the brief period of flashing lightning and crashing bolts, one of the closer shafts struck on the outskirts of the city, striking a telegraph pole on Rose street, near Arlington avenen, splitting the wood and twisting the wires into shapeless confusion.

John Brennan, employed by the city, also suffered from the same bolt. He was coming through the yard of his residence on Arlington avenue at the time, leading a horse. Probably by reason of the contact of his hand with the metal in the animal's bit, he felt the shock of the lightning so severely as to be thrown to the ground. The finger nails on the hand which held the horse's bridle were blackened from the burn the man received, and the hand is badly swollen. Otherwise, he was unhurt.

DARKLY MYSTERIOUS.

Such Are the Purposes of the Newly Organized O. X. T.

Darkly mysterious are the doings and purposes of a new secret organization formed in this city last evening, with the cabalistic title O. X. T. With a charter membership of four, the society is looking for recruits, whose eligibility, rumor has it, depends upon past achievements, but whose election can be assured only after the most soul searching investigation and by unanimous vote. The organization ceremonies were followed last night by a banquet at Timbo's dining rooms.

To Asbury Park.

Another day's preparation will fit you for the big excursion to be taken by Franklin Council to Asbury Park on Thursday. Take time tomorrow to arrange matters so that the next day will be free, so that you can accompany the crowd in search of recreation at the shore. There's no question as to getting your money's worth.

Chicago's Divine.

Chicago's well known divine, Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnston, preacheed to a large congregation at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday morning upon "The Changeless Christ." The sermon was most impressive and of marked effect upon the hearers.

All the Year Round.

The Primary Union of Sunday-school Teachers met in the Y. M. C. A. Hall yesterday afternoon. This is one of few organizations that hold conferences continuously throughout the summer, carrying on the work as usual during the hot season.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Republicans of the Fourth District would seem to be fortunate in their candidate for Congress. Even the Trenton True American can find nothing to urge against the election of ex-Judge Lanning, except that he is better than the men who nominated him. This appears like a pretty good reason for electing Mr. Lanning to Congress. When political conditions become such that the bosses deem it necessary to name unexceptionable candidates the people are to be congratulated.

Unless The True American is greatly mistaken in its estimate of his personal character, there need be no fear that Mr. Lanning, if elected, would prostitute his office to the base uses of the politicians to whom, according to that journal, he owes his nomination. On the True American's own testimony, it must be evident that Judge Lanning is not the man to accept a nomination hampered by dishonorable obligations or which involves promises, discreditable to his reputation for honesty and straightforwardness.—Newark News.

Senator Kean was present at the Republican convention held at Flemington, Tuesday, to nominate a candidate for Congress in the Fourth District. To a News reporter the Senator declared positively that Senator Cross would be renominated by the Republicans of Union county. Under the circumstances, Mr. Kean could hardly afford to express a doubt, but his positive assurance indicates at least that no bargaining of offices will be entered into involving the retirement of Senator Cross.

In some quarters there is a disposition to resent the interest which has been shown in this matter outside of Union as an impertinent interference with a question which alone concerns the Repblicans of Union. This is a mistaken notion. The course pursued by Senator Cross in the Legislature, both in the Assembly and Senate, has been such as to inspire general confidence in his honesty, ability and good judgment. His name has never been associated with jobs or deals nor has his record been marred by exhibitions of offensive partisanship. The State of New Jersey needs such men in the Legislature, and hence the almost universal sentiment in favor of his re-election—Newark News.

REDUCED RATES TO ASHEVILLE.

Via Pennsylvania Railroad, Account Meeting of Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists.

To My Friends.

It is with joy I tell you what Kodol did for me. I was troubled with my stomach for several months. Upon being advised to use Kodol, I did so, and words cannot tell the good it has done me. A neighbor had dyspepsia so that he had tried most everything. I told him to use Kodol. Words of gratitude have come to me from him because I recommended it.—Geo. W. Fry, Viola, Iowa. Health and strength, of mind and body, depend on the stomach, and normal activity of the digestive organs. Kodol, the great reconstructive tonic, cures all stomach and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia. Kodol digests any good food you eat. Take a dose after meals. L. W. Randolph.

SPEAK OUT.

The Searchlight of Publicity is Pleasing to Plainfield People.

Publicity is what the people want.

Let the public speak on the subject.

There has been too much claim—too little proof.

There is only one kind of proof for Plainfield citizen.

The experience of people we know.

When friends and neighbors endorse.

No question about such evidence.

This kind of proof backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is a case of it:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue, say: "I suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back and in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was felling very badly when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommeded for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effects in a few days. When I had finished the treatment my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend household duties."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

THEATRICAL.

The Fourteenth Street Theatre, New York, will open its season on Monday evening, August 18, with Brandon Tynan's new Irish play, "Robert Emmet." There have been more notable productions of Irish drama at this popular playhouse than at any other theatre in the United States, but it is promised that the performanec of "Robert Emmet" will exceed anything ever seen in this class of drama.

Mr. Tynan's play is founded upon the stirring events of Emmet's insurrection in 1803 which ended in the execution of the young Irish patriot, and is said to be based on historical fact, much of which has been gathered from private papers in the possession of the Emmet family, which were kindly placed at the disposal of Mr. Tynan. As the period and the story were full of exciting episodes, the author has had much dramatic material to weave into his story and he is said to have taken advantage of that fact to the greatest degree.

More than one hundred people will take part in the performance. There will be two choirs in the church scene, one of mixed voices and the other a surpliced choir of male singers, and the cast, which embraces many players of celebrity, will be the strongest ever seen in an Irish play.

Eloquent Sermon.

Rev. Daniel H. Clare, of Waverley, N. Y., preached an eloquent sermon at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday morning upon "The Tenderness of Christ." Many out-of-town friends of the preacher helped to swell the large congregation present.

WORK OF A FIREBUG.

Peoria, Ill., Has a Disastrous Fire. No Clew to the Perpetrator.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 12.—An attempt was made at noon yesterday to burn the business portion of this city. The losses include Horace Clark & Sons' mill, $100,000; Neumiller's livery barn and twenty horses, $50,000; O'Leary's undertaking establishment, $25,000.

The Neumiller Livery company's barns at 600 Adams street were fired by an incendiary, and twenty horses were suffocated. The entire stock of carriages was destroyed. The O'Leary undertaking establishment and contents are a total loss.

Previous to this an attempt was made to fire the storerooms and offices of the Val Blatz Brewing company, a few blocks away, and a residence was fired early in the day. The firebug has played havoc in Peoria for months, and the reward of $500 does not effect his capture.

A Tithers' Convention.

WARSAW, Ind., Aug. 12.—The national convention of tithers, the first of its character ever held wherein nearly all denominations will be represented, commences today at Winona Lake. Those under whose auspices the call for the convention is made are: Thomas Kane of Chicago, S. P. Harbison of Pittsburg, Revs. William G. Roberts and E. P. Whallon of Cincinnati, Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman of New York, Rev. W. H. Hunter of Buffalo, Rev. F. Rohrer of Marion, Rev. Frank Ballard of Indianapolis. Statistics will be submitted from various sections of the country where the tithing system is in vogue, and a number of addresses will be made.

Fatal Gale at Allentown, Pa.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 12.—During a violent wind and rain storm late yesterday afternoon the new three story brick store and residence of Frank J. Schroth was leveled to the ground, and Mr. Schroth, who was at work on the roof, was thrown to the ground and instantly killed. Eight other men were at work in the building. All, however, escaped injury except John Kransley, who had his ribs crushed and shoulder squeezed between falling timbers, and Dice and Harry Wieder, who sustained severe bruises. Mr. Schroth was twenty-eight years old.

South African Trade Conditions.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 12.—The British trade commissioners who have been investigating trade conditions in South Africa will sail for home tomorrow and publish their report in England. In an interview one of the commissioners said: "Our revelations will come as a surprise to the British public. The situation here is far more serious than any one imagines. There are fine openings in South Africa for energetic and up to date manufacturers, bu trade is hampered by trusts and combines which threaten to cripple the development of the country."

Danish Island Sale Assured.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 12.—The landsthing elections in the Faroe islands resulted in a complete ministerial victory. The campaign turned on the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States, and the government captured all opposition wards. Other wards will hold elections next month. A good ministerial majority is confidently expected. The treaty will be taken up soon after the opening of the rigsdag in October. At the last session those opposed to the sale of the islands had a majority of three in the landsthing.

King Holds Council.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The king held a council at Buckingham palace yesterday afternoon. The retiring members of the cabinet and their successors were present. The thousands of people who had gathered outside the palace gave the heartiest reception to Austen Chamberlain, the new postmaster general, whom they evidently mistook for his father, to whom he bears a great resemblance. Subsequently the king held another investiture of coronation honors.

THE HAITIAN CRISIS

Armed Intervention Ordered by the United States.

GREAT SUFFERING IN PETIT GOAVE

Town Fired by Retreating Troops, and Four Thousand People Are Homeless and in Destitute Condition.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Armed intervention in the Haitian revolution has been authorized by the United States government.

The navy department has received the following cablegram from Commander Henry McCrea of the United States gunboat Machias, at Cape Haytien:

"Your dispatch has been received. Having notified the Haitian admiral Killick of my determination to protect foreign commerce and telegraph cables and to resist bombardment without due notice, accepting terms, he replies with notice to all foreign consuls that this port is blockaded in accordance with the orders of cabinet council established at Gonaives, Haiti. Blockade is de facto and prohibits the entry of merchant vessels. Firmin signs proclamation. Moderate force expected to arrive today from Gonaives. I ought to leave my anchorage."

In reply to this dispatch the navy department sent the following instructions:

"If blockade ineffective, American and Cuban unprotected innocent neutral vessels should be protected in their international rights."

Minister Powell has cabled the state department from Cape Haitien that the provisional (Vasquez) government of Haiti has notified the United States legation that Gonaives, Port de Paix, Petit Goave and St. Marc provinces are in rebellion.

The government troops captured Petit Goave after strong resistance, in which many lives were lost. Firmin's troops in retreating from the place set fire to and destroyed the town.

Later the following press dispatch was received from Port au Prince:

"A press correspondent visited Petit Goave and found that the town had been entirely destroyed, there being nothing left but a pile of ruins.

"About 4,000 are homeless and are greatly in need of assistance. The greater number of them have sought shelter in the Simmonds factories near the town.

"The French cruiser D'Assas came to Petit Goave with provisions for the sufferers and has returned to Port au Prince with 200 women and children and fifteen wounded men. The authorities refused to permit the Firminists to leave, fearing they would go to other points to take up arms again.

"Each party accuses the other of having set fire to Petit Goave, but the general belief is that General Chicoye, the Firminist commander, resolved to destroy the town when he saw that he could not hold it against the Fouchardists."

Cape Haitien Blockaded.

PORT AU PRINCE, Aug. 12.—The gunboat Crete a Pierrot, which is in the Firminist service, gave notice Sunday of the blockade of Cape Haitien. The foreign consuls here and Commander McCrea of the United States gunboat Machias protested against this action. Soldiers have again gone out from here, and a battle in a few days is believed to be inevitable. The bad feeling against foreigners has increased.

Mexican Sheep Herders Routed.

BATTLE, Wyo., Aug. 12.—A crowd of Mexican sheep herders attempted to take the town of Battle, with the result that two of the herders were killed. Several made their escape into the woods, one man being shot in the leg. One citizen was hit in the heel, and Miss Estelle Sanders, a resident, was severely cut in the face by a window pane broken by a stray shot. Every man in town is armed, fearing the Mexicans will swoop down on the town, as there are scores of them in this vicinity. The attack was in retaliation for the slaughter of 5,000 sheep by the townspeople.

Forest Fires In Wyoming.

SARATOGA, Wyo., Aug. 12.—Five of the worst forest fires in the history of the state are raging in this county. Millions of feet of lumber are being destroyed, and the fires continue to grow. The fire of Grand Encampment river has been burning for a week, and the blaze can be seen for hundreds of miles. The town of Gold Hill is directly in the path of the flames and will probably be burned.

The Korea at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—The Pacific mail steamer Korea, the largest steamer ever built in America, has arrived here, fifty-three and a half days from Newport News. The Korea was given an enthusiastic welcome, all of the steam vessels in the harbor saluting her as she proceeded to her anchorage.

HOLMES TO BE JUDGE

President Names Successor to Justice Gray.

POOR HEALTH CAUSED RESIGNATION

Appointee, Like His Predecessor, Is a Bay State Legal Light and One of the State's Most Noted Jurists.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 12.—President Roosevelt late yesterday afternoon announced that he had appointed Hon. Oliver Wendell Holmes, chief justice of the supreme court of Massachusetts, to be an associate justice of the United States supreme court vice Mr. Justice Gray, resigned.

The resignation of Justice Gray was due to ill health. Several months ago he suffered a stroke of apoplexy, which some time later was followed by another. He has not appeared on the bench since he was stricken the first time. His advanced age—seventy-four years—told against his recovery with serious force. Realizing that he probably never would be able again to assume the place which he so long had filled with distinguished ability and honor, he decided a short time ago to tender his resignation to the president. With the exception of Mr. Justice Harlan he served on the bench of the United States supreme court longer than any of his present colleagues. He was appointed an associate justice by President Arthur on Dec. 19, 1881, his service extending, therefore, through a period of nearly twenty-one years.

Judge Holmes, whom the president has selected as Mr. Justice Gray's successor, is one of the most distinguished lawyers and jurists of Massachusetts. His career on the bench, particularly as chief justice of the Massachusetts supreme court, has attracted wide attention. Like Justice Gray, he is a native of Massachusetts.

Justice Gray's Resignation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Justice Gray's resignation was not altogether unexpected. It was recognized that he would be unable to resume his duties on the bench, and the general impression was that he would resign at or before the beginning of the next term of court in October. His successor, it is said, will not take his place on the bench until after his confirmation by the senate. This is the unwritten practice in the case of appointments to the supreme court. Justice Gray has been at Nahant, Mass., his summer home, for some time. During his long career on the bench of the supreme court Justice Gray delivered a number of important opinions. He was remarkably exact and deliberate and frequently spent considerable time in the preparation of his decisions. His specialty was will cases, although he participated in the consideration of many of the important issues which came before the court. Justice Gray was with the majority of the court in the decisions in the income tax cases and the insular cases. Another important cause of recent date was that growing out of the Spanish-American war in which Justice Gray decided against the right of the government to seize certain fishing smacks, the property of Cubans, which the United States authorities believed were giving aid and assistance to the enemy.

Holmes Will Accept.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 12.—Chief Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes was informed of his appointment to the United States supreme bench at his summer home in Beverly Farms last night. He will accept the honor. He was at dinner at the time, but left the table at once to receive the message.

Railroad Talk at Chautauqua.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—George H. Daniels, general passenger agent of the New York Central railroad, delivered an address yesterday before the Chautauqua assembly on "American Railroads and Our Commercial Development." Mr. Daniels began by saying that transportation underlies material prosperity in every department of commerce. Without transportation commerce would be impossible. Mr. Daniels quoted figures showing how the export of American built locomotives to foreign countries had grown and said that our railway equipment generally has commanded admiration and is now receiving the highest compliment—namely, imitation by many of our sister nations.

Ex-Governor Cook Dying.

WINSTED, Conn., Aug. 12.—Unless there is rapid improvement in the condition of former Governor Lorrin A. Cook it is feared that he will not survive many hours. Early last evening Mr. Cook became unconscious, and his physician believes that the end is now only a question of time. An operation was performed Sunday afternoon.

We Have Another Torpedo Boat.

Frosts In Nebraska.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 12.—Light frosts are reported from the northern part of this state and southern South Dakota. No damage was done to crops. Temperatures in the state varied from 39 to 51.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT DEFIED.

Bitter Feeling Against Closing of Sisters' Schools.

BREST, Aug. 12.—The prefect has called a meeting of the inhabitants of the towns of Saint Meen, Le Folgoet and Ploudaniel, who have been resisting the closing of unauthorized congregationist schools by the authorities, in order to explain the situation to them and induce them to renounce their desperate resistance. The prefect said the agitation was casting discredit upon the country and that his hearers could not imagine that three communes would be allowed to oppose the law.

The prefect's speech was constantly interrupted with cries of "We will resist to the death!" "There will be bloodshed!" "We will allow ourselves to be massacred before we abandon the sisters!"

Abbe Gayraud, Republican (Catholic) member of the chamber of deputies from Finistere, replied to the prefect and said the agitation, far from discrediting the country, was uplifting it in the eyes of the world. The only way to restore peace, said the abbe, was not to disturb the sisters. The meeting broke up with shouts of "Long live the sisters!" and "Liberty!"

No Pensions For Ex-Confederates.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The commissioner of pensions yesterday gave out the statement that an erroneous impression seems to exist among ex-Confederate soldiers regarding the interpretation to be put upon the recent act of congress relieving Union soldiers of the disabilities for having previously served in the Confederate army. The idea seems to prevail that under this act the government is authorized to pension ex-Confederate soldiers, and the result is that the pension office is being deluged with applications from the former wearers of the gray. The commissioner explained that the law in question does not contemplate the pensioning of ex-Confederate soldiers, but that it was designed solely to remove the disability which so long existed in the case of men who were impressed into the Confederate service and later joined the Union army.

Crop Statistics.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12. — The monthly report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the condition of corn on Aug. 1 to have been 86.5 as compared with 87.5 on July 1, 1902, 54 on Aug. 1, 1901, 87.5 at the corresponding date in 1900 and a ten year average of 84. The statistician estimates the winter wheat crop at about 380,000,000 bushels, or an average of 13.8 bushels per acre. The average condition of spring wheat on Aug. 1 was 89.7 as compared with 92.4 last month, 80.3 on Aug. 1, 1901, 56.4 at the corresponding date in 1900 and a ten year average of 80. The average condition of oats was 89.4 against 92.1 last month, 73.6 on Aug. 1, 1901, 85 at the corresponding date in 1900 and a ten year average of 82.2.

To Attend McMillan's Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Senator Frye, president pro tem. of the senate, has appointed the following committee to attend the funeral of the late Senator McMillan, which occurs in Detroit Friday afternoon: Messrs. Allison, Bacon, Burrows, Cockrell, Cullom, Fairbanks, Foraker, Gallinger, Hale, Hanna, Kean, Lodge, Martin, Mason, McComas, Pritchard and Wetmore.

THE VISIT OF THE BOERS.

Arrival of Generals In England to Be Made Great Event.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The arrival next Saturday from South Africa, whence they sailed July 30, of Generals Botha, De Wet and Delarey promises to be the occasion of another struggle between Boer and Briton. The colonial office has made special arrangements for the reception of the visiting Boers at Southampton. The naval review will be in progress when the Boers arrive, and after their reception by distinguished colonial office authorities, Lord Kitchener and other prominent persons they will be conducted on board the steamer chartered for the use of the colonial premiers to witness the naval review. It is expected that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain will be on board the steamer.

The Boer leaders will spend Saturday night on board this vessel, and Sunday they will be received by King Edward on board the royal yacht and in the presence of a number of distinguished personages.

The arrival in England of the Boer generals will doubtless be the prelude to another round of lionizing like that experienced by the late General Lucas Meyer should the generals decide to stay in England; but, according to The Hague correspondent of the Daily Mail, former President Kruger of the Transvaal and his party are equally anxious to prevent Generals Botha, De Wet and Delarey from landing in England.

Members of the Kruger party have sent urgent letters and cablegrams to Madeira in an effort to dissuade the generals from accepting British hospitality. It is proposed to send a Dutch vessel to intercept them, according to the correspondent, and in any case Messrs. Wolmarans, Fisher and Wessels will go to Southampton with that intention.

Engineers Highly Praised.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—General Gillespie, chief of engineers, has received a personal letter from General George W. Davis, who has just returned to Zamboanga from an expedition to the Lake Lanao country, highly commending the work of the engineer officers and men in the Philippines. He said he had two companies of engineer troops with him on the expedition and that they rendered very valuable service. "You have," said he, "every reason to be proud of the way in which your officers and men do their work."

Earthquake In Alaska.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 12.—A special from Skaguay, Alaska, says: Saturday a severe earthquake was felt here about noon. The first shock was 50 seconds long. Several large plate glass windows were broken, and chimneys in the northern part of the city tumbled down. The water in Lynn canal rose five feet very suddenly, then subsided as quickly. A report from Juneau says that the little fleet there was pitched around, and several boats were capsized. The first long shock was followed by a lighter one.

Big Fleet at Portsmouth.

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 12.—The arrival of the battleship Dreadnought and the gunboat Raven have completed the British coronation fleet at Spithead. There are now 103 vessels off that place. They are moored in four lines from Bembridge to Cowes Roads. This fleet includes 21 battleships, 24 cruisers, 16 topedo boats, 32 torpedo boat destroyers and 10 training vessels. A fifth line will be formed of foreign naval vessels, of which only the Japanese cruisers Asama and Takasago have arrived up to the present time.

Prospect of Strike Settlement.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 12.—The strike of coal miners along the West Pennsylvania railroad which began on April 16 may soon be ended. Vice President Uriah Bellingham of the district miners' organization states that a settlement is expected in a short time and that both sides will make concessions. He declined to discuss the probable terms of settlement. The district executive board will meet at headquarters tomorrow, at which it is likely arrangements will be perfected for terminating the long strike.

McMillan's Son May Succeed Him.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 12.—Politicians are of opinion that in the selection of a successor to the late Senator James McMillan the party organization will see to it that some one friendly to the McMillans and capable of perpetuating the control of the party in Michigan will be named. Several Republican leaders in Detroit give it as their opinion that W. C. McMillan will succeed his father as United States senator.

Twelve Hurt In Railroad Wreck.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Twelve persons, two of them women, were seriously injured and a score of others sustained minor bruises in the wreck of the North Adams express near Pawling, N. Y., yesterday. Of the seriously injured one, Mrs. Stannard of Brewsters, N. Y., may die of her injuries. A roadbed undermined by a cloudburst that swept over northeastern New York was the cause of the wreck.

A Small Labor Riot.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—One negro, James Smith of 444 West Forty-seventh street, was stabbed, half a dozen other negroes were badly whipped and several white men injured in a small labor riot at Catharine and Market streets yesterday afternoon. The men engaged in the disturbance were employed on the new East river bridge.

Trident Won the Cup.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12.—Trident won the Seawanhaka cup yesterday by defeating Tecumseh by 5 minutes and 27 seconds.

STRIKERS LAWLESS

Farmers Complain of Repeated Depredations.

PRODUCE AND POULTRY CARRIED OFF

State Protection Demanded—Families of Miners, Complaining of Hunger, Are Daily Fed at the Soldiers' Camp.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 12.—Complaint has been made to brigade headquarters that strikers are foraging in the rich agricultural district of the Catawissa valley, which spreads its broad and fertile length along the other side of the mountains north of this city. The life of one farmer has been threatened because he attempted to protect his property, and the raids have reached such serious proportion that the farmers are preparing to take some concerted action to stop further depredation. It is not unlikely that cavalry will be sent into the district for the purpose of stopping the raids. If the cavalry is sent there, it is probable that a platoon of the troopers will be left in the valley to patrol the farms day and night. The farmers are drawing up a petition asking for protection, which will be sent to the sheriff in case General Gobin decides not to send the troops into the valley.

Lucien Munbeck, a farmer, reported that for some time past raids have been made on his place by parties of men. Early yesterday morning he caught a man tearing out whole stacks of corn. He ordered the man off the place, and as he was leaving he fired two shots at the farmer. The latter was armed, but did not shoot.

A widow who owns a farm reported that several men came on her premises and started to dig potatoes. She ordered them off the patch, but they paid no attention to her and did not leave until they had taken all they needed. One farmer has several men patrolling his farm day and night. The foragers do not confine themselves to stealing crops, but also take poultry.

The soldiers in camp are daily feeding several hundred women and children. They come there saying they are hungry, and as there is more than enough food in the camp to supply the wants of the men the officers permit the soldiers to give something to the needy applicants. The number that came last week was small, but is increasing every day. Some of the women and all of the children come to camp in their bare feet. Many of them bring baskets to carry the food home. It is a common sight to see some of the women and children take scraps from the leavings of the soldiers. Colonel Hoffman of the Eighth regiment was asked if all these persons were foreigners, and he replied that a good many belonged to the English speaking classes.

The officials of the Mine Workers' union deny there is any actual want. They maintain the local unions are well able at this time to take care of all cases of distress.

Miners Seek Other Work.

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 12.—That the attempts of the anthracite miners to prolong the strike inaugurated thirteen weeks ago are of the most determined character is now being demonstrated by the men in this immediate vicinity. Beginning with last week, there has been a great influx of hard coal strikers into this city until the number is estimated to be 200. The men are of the English speaking element, who worked in various capacities at the mines about Pittston, Shenandoah, Pottsville, Wilkesbarre and Scranton. Nearly all are single. Ready employment is found by the men, and between Philadelphia and Pittsburg, inclusive, thousands of men have secured temporary positions. One of the men here asserted that if they fail to win their fight they would not return to the anthracite regions, but would continue in their present employment. The men, however, believe before another month they will be back to the mines with all the concessions granted.

Rumors of Opening Collieries.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 12.—The striking miners had their pickets at a number of mines in the region yesterday morning, but when it became evident that no attempt would be made to resume work they quickly withdrew. The Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company is said to be getting things in readiness to resume work at one of its big mines this week. Inquiry was made at the office of the company about the matter, but the officials in charge refused to give out any information. The operating of the breaker at the Mount Lookout colliery of the Temple Coal and Iron company at Wyoming creates no uneasiness at strike headquarters, but some of the strike leaders are said to be apprehensive that an attempt will be made by two of the companies some day this week to start up a colliery or two in the region.

Cloudburst Opens Graves.

MADISON, N. J., Aug. 12.—From Morristown to the Oranges, through Essex Falls, Caldwell and Montclair, a cloudburst has done extensive damage and has caused the loss of at least one life, a brakeman on an engine that was derailed near Convent. The cloudburst caused devastation in Hillside cemetery. About seventy-five coffins were uncovered by the rushing waters, and many of them were swept away from the graves in which they had lain.

Iowa Has a Frost.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 12.—A severe frost is reported in the northwestern portion of Iowa. Damage to corn in some sections has been considerable.

TALK OF WATER PLANT.

In connection with the recent talk of securing a purchase price for the water plant at Netherwood, it is interesting to note that Vailsburgh is just considering the advisibility of buying the plant of the Columbia Heights Water Company. The subject came up at the last meeting of the Vailsburgh Council but no action was taken on it at that time.

It is sincerely to be hoped that the members of the Common Council will not kill the subject before it can come before the Common Council. Councilman Lee can win much commendation if he will only see that his resolution is introduced. It should be remembered that there is nothing binding in the passage of such a resolution. It is merely a step in the right direction.

Several months ago, The Daily Press conducted a poll of the citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield to see how many were in favor of municipal ownership of a water plant. The verdict was overwhelmingly in favor of the project. It showed the members of the Common Council just what popular opinion was on that subject. A movement now to get a purchase price on the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company would be an excellent thing in that it would furnish actual figures on which to base calculations instead of mere estimates. Then the subject could be discussed intelligently.

It must be remembered that the contract with the water company has been renewed for a year with the privilege of making another for ten years. If there is to be any change, by all means let it be before the city has a ten-year contract on its hands.

The contest in the City Baseball League has narrowed down to two clubs. The pennant this year will go either to the Y. M. C. A. or the Hope Y. M. A. Both clubs have now won an equal number of games. There are no league games to be played next Saturday but the week following the leaders meet and the hottest game of the season may be expected. There will still be another game to be played but a meeting of the leaders is naturally going to be particularly important. If there is a tie after it is all over, a new series of games will have to be arranged.

It is unusual when a knowing writer as Charles R. Bacon, the Trenton correspondent of the Philadelphia Record, makes such a break as he did in Sunday's Record. He said at that time that Senator Cross would have an opponent of the senatorial nomination from the Fowler-Voorhees faction but that his identity had not yet been known. Mr. Bacon has evidently been on his vacation, or else he certainly would have heard of the candidacy of City Judge William N. Runyon.

That advertising creates business, declares the Philadelphia Record, has been demonstrated by the success of the men who have put new articles on the market. As one experienced business man has said: "Advertising is educating the public continually and each new advertiser finds a more intelligent and responsive people to hear his argument."

August is proving a far more satisfactory month at the summer resorts than July was. So far this month there have been a number of pleasant days and while it has been cool as a rule, an occasional warm day has sent the summer visitors to shore and mountains to escape the heat.

Accroding to the reports of the Republican outing at Galvin's Park, Saturday afternoon, it is now a fight to a finish between Senator Joseph Cross and City Judge William N. Runyon for the senatorial nomination.

DEATH OF MRS. LOGAN.

Wife of Director of Somerset Freeholders, Died Near Hilltop.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 12—Mrs. William J. Logan, seventy-six years of age, wife of the Director of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders, died at her home near Hilltop, Sunday, from catarrh of the stomach. She leaves four children: Mrs. John Brown, Jr., of Dunellen; Mrs. Benjamin Wahl, of Hilltop, and John A. and William J. Logan, Jr., of Somerville. The funeral will be held this afternoon in the Immaculate Conception church in this place. Rev. Father Bogaard will officiate. Interment will be in St. Bernard's cemetery.

DID WORK WELL.

Last Evening's High Wind Blew Down Tree on East Fifth Street.

During the heavy gale that blew about 6 o'clock last evening, the large tree on the south side of East Fifth street, just west of Watchung avenue, was blown down. The tree was an old acquaintance, a nuisance and an obstruction as well, having stood directly in the centre of the sidewalk, and was often the moving cause of midnight eloquence for belated wayfarers. It could not have been more cleanly removed, had the winds been hired to do the job. The roots were broken off level with the surface, leaving the child of the forest stretched at full length along the sidewalk.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Double Dwelling on West Fourth Street Soon to Start.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted to Joseph P. Humble, of Somerset street, a permit for the erection of a double dwelling house, two stories and attic, 38 feet front by 44 feet deep, on West Fourth street, near Prescott place. John A. Dentz is the architect, Thos. Warren & Son the carpenters.

Charles M. Wilson, on behalf of the estate of Edward Smith, has filed plans for alterations and extension to the dwelling on Central avenue. Mr. Wilson will do the carpenter work, and William H. Pangborn the masonry.

Jersey's Cadet Assigned.

John K. Herr, son of Judge H. Burdette Herr, of Flemington, who recently graduated from West Point, has been assigned to the Seventh Cavalry. He was probably the finest rider in his class at West Point and came into special prominence by his brilliant exhibition of horsemanship during the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia to the academy during the latter's visit to this country.

Two Disappointments.

Two disappointments have come to a number of young people in the Wast End who have been planning for some time to take a straw ride to Mt. Bethel. The first postponement was caused by death in the family to be visited, and now the trip has been called off by reason of another unforeseen accident at the country home.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Willard Apgar, who secured the contract for John H. Peters' new house on Dunellen avenue, will commence work at once. The structure will be two and a half stories in height and will represent an outlay of $3,000. It is intended for two families, a partition dividing it. As a result of this movement it is thought other houses will be erected in that section. W. J. Hamilton, who owns a lot next to Mr. Peters, is considering the subject of building and other owners are holding their property which has heretofore been in the market.

As a result of the Crandall burglary, the time-worn agitation for a night watchman in the borough has again been revived. Dunellenites realize the need of one and would like to have the safeguard but there is no likelihood of one being appointed at present. It is asserted by one boroughite that a watchman may be secured and maintained at private expense if the Council does not see fit to provide one.

Miss Annie Campbell, of Dealaman's grocery, who spent Sunday at her home in Martinsville, reached the borough, yesterday morning, after a long, roundabout trip. The heavy rain of Sunday night washed away several bridges in the vicinity of Chimney Rock which were on the road which she takes, and she was forced to go several miles out of her course to reach Bound Brook.

The annual reunion of the Merrill-Dayton families was held at Chimney Rock, Saturday afternoon. About seventy-five were in attendance and enjoyed themselves with conversation and eatables. Among those from the borough who attended were Mr. and Mrs. George Day, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Merrill and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Runyon.

Samuel Skinner is having his house on Front street overhauled for occupancy. He has rented it to Mrs. Waldron, of Brooklyn, who will take possession shortly.

Matthew Eganey lost a valuable horse, yesterday, through lockjaw. The animal became stricken, last week, and suffered until a shot ended its misery.

Mr. and Mrs. George Liable, of Duss' New York band, are the guests of the former's brother, William Liable.

Mass will be celebrated in St. John's church, Thursday morning. Rev. Father Dumphy will be in charge.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, of Plainfield, will be in charge of the services at the Methodist church, Sunday.

W. L. Tinsman has returned home from Orange where he spent a short time with relatives.

Henry Pruden is entertaining his brother, George Pruden, of Brooklyn.

NEW MARKET.

W. Fitz-Randolph, secertary of the Piscataway Protective Society, has called a meeting of the organization to take place at the Newton schoolhouse, Monday afternoon, August 19. Three directors and a new secretary are to be elected and other matters of importance are to be considered.

A party of Plainfielders, who were camping on the shores of the upper pond, yesterday, were caught in the shower which came up in the afternoon. They returned home in a drenched condition.

During Miss Lillian Gaskill's vacation, her place at the postoffice is being taken by Miss Emma Nelson.

Jesse Piermont, of Pottstown, Pa., is the guest of Charles T. Rogers.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The heavy shower of Sunday night interfered with the electric light service in town. A number of the streets were entirely in darkness owing to the fuses being burned out.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Lee have been entertaining Mrs. Skelly and daughter, of Raritan, and Mrs. Lee's brother, Michael Fitzgerald, of Paterson, for a pleasant visit.

A number of members of the Ladies' Circle of the Baptist church enjoyed a pleasant outing at Boynton Beach yesterday. The trip was made by trolley.

Ernest Humes, a former resident of the village but now residing at Jersey City, spent Saturday and Sunday with his friend, Hervey Marsh.

Harry Lyons, who has been spending a few days with his aunt, Mrs. Bellings, has returned to his home in New York.

Mrs. Wm. D. Johnston and daughter, Miss Addie, are spending the week at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove.

Fanwood Council, R. A., will hold its semi-monthly meeting in the Library Rooms tonight at 8 o'clock.

Harry Messler, of Rahway, has been visiting at the home of friends and relatives in town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mary Hoffman, of Maple avenue, died at her home this morning at 2:45 o'clock, after a lingering illness with Bright's disease. The deceased leaves a son, Clarence, and a mother, old and feeble. She was a well-known resident of this place for nearly a score of years. Funeral services will be held Thursday.

Prayer meeting at the Baptist church tonight at 7:45 will be conducted by Rev. E. N. Thompson, of Dividing Creek, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Francolini, of Brookside avenue, are spending the day visiting friends at Seawaren.

J. P. Morris, of New Brunswick, has returned home after a week's visit in town.

Mrs. Winans, of Plainfield avenue, is entertaining her mother, from out of town.

COPPER BALL BURST.

Filled it With Water and Then Put it in the Forge—Several Narrow Escapes.

Peter Petersen, a young lad of the borough, had a narrow escape from serious accident yesterday afternoon.

He was working around Carney's plumbing shop in Lincoln place, and while attempting to discover a leak in a copper hollow ball, used as an automatic float, the thing exploded, making a report like the discharge of a cannon, heard for several blocks. One piece of the ball, seething hot, darted through the air, and alighted on the awning over the entrance to Smalley's butcher shop on Somerset street.

Petersen had placed the ball, which was filled with water, in the forge, and although cautioned not to let it get hot, he kept blowing till steam generated to the bursting point. An adjustable handle to the forge, allowing the operator to stand behind the fire, probably saved the boy's life. The fact that he was working in the open was also in his favor.

The second piece of the ball shot through the window of the workshop and damaged some tools on the inside. It is simply miraculous that several people were not injured by the explosion.

Macadamizing Maple Avenue.

Work has been begun on the new macadamizing operation on Maple avenue, formerly Rahway road. The stretch from the Hillside golf course toward South Plainfield is being put into excellent shape by the Middlesex county authorities.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

For finished work, sure to give satisfaction, collars, cuffs, curtains, etc., should be taken to Meissner's Hand Laundry, Watchung avenue.

The Rogers Seafood Company is receiving daily some fine shipments of fresh fish. They are received direct from the nets and include some beauties.

Fred Firstbrook, the Liberty street grocer, gives away trading stamps to all purchasers. And there are more bargains at Firstbrook's than any store ever had to tell.

In the line of fresh vegetables, T. L. Walsh, of North avenue, has one of the largest and best displays in the city. All his vegetables are of the best quality and are retailed very low.

Why is it that Peck's store is so popular with women shoppers? Because it is Peck's, of course—a guarantee that the goods are the best and that money can be saved by buying there.

The thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to can be dispelled in a moment, if you visit E. S. F. Randolph's drug store, corner of North and Watchung avenues. There is the finest prescription department in the city.

That shabby house front which has been a source of worriment to your taste—call on the New York Painting and Decorating Company and have them convert it into an ornament to the neighborhood. You may be sure that the work will be done right. The price will be reasonable, too.

VanArsdale has started his August clearance sale of certain lines of shoes and oxfords and all odds and ends of stock to make room for his line of fall goods which will soon be coming in. This affords an elegant opportunity of getting good shoes far below value. When VanArsdale cuts prices you can depend on getting bargains.

the fair is held at takes the profits. When the solicitors go about from house to house in both congregations the people give as freely for the fair in the other church as they do for the one in their own.

The present Presbyterian church was built in 1851, and the first Fox Hill fair was given there the summer of that year. Almost continuously ever since it has been an annual event. The Presbyterian church's first record is in 1740. A log house of worship then stood on the place now owned by Aaron I. Sutton. That was moved, north of where the present structure stands, in an orchard on the farm now owned by Henry Fleming. Later this was torn down and another erected on the spot where the present church is. The building is now being entirely remodelled inside and out. Its pastor is Rev. Dr. Baker Smith, who has been there four years The trustees are Louis P. Salter, John Pickell, Fred Hoffman, George Van Pelt, Dallas Howell and Aaron Sutton.

Rev. George Fisher, a local preacher, held the first Methodist class meeting at Fox Hill in 1836 and the first Methodist edifice was built the following year on the opposite corner from where the present one, built in 1868, now stands. Rev. M. L. Rhodes is the pastor and the official board is composed of the following: President, Alpheus Iliff; secretary, George M. Lindaberry; treasurer, Lummis Apgar; trustees, Watson Apgar, James G. Fisher, Emmett Fisher, James Hoffman, Henry Fisher, John A. Seals.

When the poster for the first fair was printed it was captioned "Fox Hill Against the World," and it is very doubtful if a more successful and popular church fair is held anywhere in the world than at Fox Hill, as this noted little hamlet in the mountains persists in being called.

End of Quoit Contest.

Tonight's contests in the quoit pitching tournament among the local Knights of the Golden Eagle will bring the affair to an end. The fifteen teams which have been trying to keep within hailing distance of the prize will have their last opportunities, and the finish promises to be a most exciting one.

Pastor's Vacation.

Rev. John McMurray returned yesterday to Northport, L. I., after occupying his pulpit, Sunday. He will remain away until September 1. Sunday, H. R. Reiter, the Princeton football-theological student, will preach in his place.

Cathedral to Be Erected in the Vicinity of Cleveland Park—A Parish Animated by True Christianity.

[Special Washington Letter.]

ON THE beautiful hills northwest of Washington there is to be erected a cathedral for the Protestant Episcopal church of this diocese. For many miles around us we are "green-walled by the hills of Maryland," and guarded by the fastnesses of the hills of Virginia on the other side of the Potomac.

Grover Cleveland bought a summer home five miles from the white house on the hills which had never been brought into the real estate market. His going there induced others to follow; and to-day fully 15,000 good people have homes in that vicinity. Directly on the site of Cleveland's temporary home a village has been established, and Cleveland Park, as it is called, is composed of numerous handsome cottages, many of them costly and magnificent.

One mile farther from the city than the Cleveland residence Mrs. Hearst has built and thoroughly equipped a school for girls, their higher education and development in sciences and useful arts. The grounds are extensive, the buildings complete, the faculty superior, the water and air pure and healthful.

It is in this neighborhood that the new cathedral is to be built. The acreage is already purchased, and people who ride by on the electric cars can see the sign: "Cathedral Close," showing the chosen site for the home and place of worship of the bishop. Although the beginning has been made in the site selection and purchase, the plans have not yet been approved, and it may be another year before this important church work shall be well under way. But the determination to go forward in this matter, the final movement in the land purchase, marks an epoch—the practical commencement of a matter long in contemplation.

The bishop of this diocese has only a temporary or provisional home, and this is not proper for a diocese so prosperous as this one has always been. The pro-cathedral (that is the provisional cathedral) is the little church of St. Mark, on Capitol hill. It is used as the bishop's church, pending the erection of the cathedral. The purpose of the pro-cathedral is that the bishop shall have a church in which he may hold services at any time, fulfill his episcopal offices, and order the work and worship of the diocese in accordance with his ideals for the welfare and common good of all communicants, as well as of the clergy and congregations.

The church of St. Mark is located on the corner of Third and A streets, southeast; that is, four blocks away from the capitol, and only two blocks from the congressional library. You would naturally suppose that to be an excellent location, but it is not. Capitol hill is not the residential section of the prosperous, but of the financially mediocre. Although this is the pro-cathedral, and as such can be used by the bishop at any time, it has a regularly organized vestry, a regular pastor, and a complete organization, regardless of its relation with the episcopate.

BISHOP HENRY Y. SATTERLEE.

In June, 1869, this church was organized by Rev. A. F. Steele, the assistant pastor of the church at the navy yard. There were 13 lay members, who elected vestrymen, and services were held in a cheap little old frame building in the middle of a block of ground, which was otherwise vacant and uncared for. The little church was surrounded with weeds, and it was in the midst of the worst of the weeds of sin in this city. Nowhere was church work more needed at that time.

Rev. Dr. Steele devoted the remainder of his life to the work of developing this church; and it was home missionary work of a most exacting character. The people were poor, and it was found to be difficult to secure assistance from people outside of the parish. The struggle for existence was a hard one. Twelve years elapsed before sufficient money was raised to secure building lots. The corner stone of the present edifice was laid by Rev. Dr. Addison, of Epiphany church, September 18, 1880; but the church was not completed until February, 1889, 20 years after the organization of the vestry. When the church was dedicated it was in debt $10,000. Considerable of this indebtedness was paid off, when Rev. Dr. Steele, after 24 years of faithful labor, was called to the cathedral beyond the veil which mortal eyes cannot penetrate.

Rev. Andrew J. Graham, pastor of Trinity church, Minneapolis, came to Washington and assumed the work which had been laid down by the death of Dr. Steele, in 1893. He remained with the church until 1896, when Rev. Allan Griffith was called to temporary pastorate. In that year the church was offered to the bishop of Washington for use as his pro-cathedral, and accepted by him. On November 29, 1896, a concordat was executed between the bishop and the legal parochial authorities—the rector, the wardens and the vestrymen. Under the provisions of this concordat the bishop nominates the clergy and has control of the ritual and policy of the work. The rector and vestrymen retain their legal and canonical rights over the financial and pastoral concerns of the church. In the following month Rev. William L. Devries was appointed rector of St. Mark, and vicar to the bishop, in which capacity he still serves with the approval of the bishop and people.

REV. W. L. DEVRIES, D. D.
(Rector of St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church.)

Bishop Henry Y. Saterlee then enlarged the clerical staff by the appointment of Rev. C. H. Hayes and Rev. P. H. Rhinelander. The three clergy were then appointed chaplains. They, with the bishop, constitute a faculty. The deacons of the diocese live in the clergy house with this faculty for one year each, in post graduate study, thereby receiving practical instructions in homiletics and the pastoral charge. Being directly under the tutelage of the bishop, this post graduate year is of incalculable value to the young men who are to devote their lives to sacred work.

Seven years ago the new diocese of Washington was created, and Bishop Satterlee, not yet 50 years of age, was appointed its bishop. He is one of the best known citizens of the national capital and is known throughout Episcopal circles as a man of superior natural ability and almost marvelous literary acquirements. He is of commanding presence, a grand figure in chancel and pulpit, a powerful yet graceful speaker, and a gentleman of lovable character. His Episcopal ministry here has been eminently successful, as the prosperous and harmonious conditions of all of the Episcopal churches in his diocese make manifest. He is popular with the people of the entire city, as well as with his clergy.

Rev. Dr. Devries has been a successful rector of this church. When he assumed the duties, in 1896, the average attendance at morning service was 250, whereas it is now almost 600. The Sunday school attendance has tripled, and the debt of the church is almost entirely disposed of, while the annual income of the church has been increased from $5,500 to almost $10,000. The rector personally looks after the welfare of his people, attends the Sunday school, and uses his constant endeavors to bring forth fruits in his vineyard. He is as diligent as his predecessor, Dr. Steele, and is making this work his life work. The church has now under its patronage two chapels—the chapels of the Good Shepherd, not far from the government printing office, and All Saints' chapel at Benning, a desolate suburb, where there is great need of missionary work for "the submerged tenth" of this district. He looks after the poor colored people, the deaf mutes, the superannuated and the churchman's league.

Being at the head of the clerical staff of the church Bishop Satterlee has general oversight of all churches. He frequently preaches, holds monthly meetings for communicants, and attends the meetings of the larger and more important church societies. All this in addition to the work of the pro-cathedral for the young men of the diaconate. The public services at St. Mark's are hearty and well ordered. Under the direction of the bishop there have been developed four choirs, all volunteers, all under systematic training, and producing a high order of church music. The vested choir of men and boys is remarkable for its purity and mellowness of tone, as well as for its artistic renditions.

"The poor have the gospel preached unto them," because the church workers go out into the highways and the byways and compel them to come into the chapels, where sacred music is rendered for them, and where the gospel is told unto them in the simplest manner. The poor and needy are directed to the systematic charities. There is no suffering in this parish that human agencies can relieve. While Bishop Satterlee is not known to be opposed to foreign missions, he has developed the home missionary spirit throughout his diocese so that his willing workers are to be found in every part of this district, seeking the lost, the penniless and the hungry.

All of this good work will be multiplied when the new cathedral is completed, and appliances for good work are increased.

INDIAN PACK CARRIERS.

Roads So Bad in Southern Mexico That Even Mules Cannot Be Used Upon Them.

A striking feature of these roads is the number of human "beasts of burden" you meet. The roads are so bad that there is very considerable risk in conveying goods of any kind—risk both to the goods and the pack mule that carries them; consequently large numbers of Indians make a living by carrying, says Chambers' Journal. The Mexican Indian carries his load on his back, slung by a broad leather belt across the forehead.

Thus all his limbs are perfectly free, and he carries a long light stick, like an alpenstock to steady himself in going down steep places or in crossing streams. These men will in good weather carry a load of from 100 to 150 pounds, over the worst of roads, for a distance of 20 to 25 miles a day.

They wear no clothing except a pair of cotton breeches rolled half way up the thighs, and a pair of leather sandals on the feet; and each man carries a blanket to roll himself up in at night. They eat no meat, their only food being posol (boiled maize ground and mixed ith sugar, then rolled into a ball and carried moist). This they break into a bowl of water, mix well to the consistency of thin gruel, and drink; and their only food consists of this posol and tortillas. The power of endurance displayed by these carriers is wonderful.

GROWTH OF THE BEARD.

According to This Account, It Almost Ceases While a Man Is Wrapt in Slumber.

"The beard hardly grows at all when you are asleep," said the barber.

"How do you know?" asked the man in the operating chair, according to the Philadelphia Times.

"Oh, by experimenting. You see I always used to shave myself in the morning the first thing after getting up, but I hated to do it, because it was so apt to make me late for breakfast. So one night I shaved myself at 11 o'clock and went straight to bed and to sleep. Do you know, my face was almost clean when I got up? You would have sworn, unless you had examined me closely, that I was fresh from the razor. And ever since then I have shaved before going to bed, and have been given credit for shaving in the morning. The growth of the beard, you see, is practically imperceptible during the eight or nine hours of your sleep.

"But if you should stay awake those eight or nine hours the growth would be as fast as usual. One night, after I had shaved, I had to stay up with my sick daughter, and I almost needed a second scraping in the morning. The beard grows, in my opinion, three times as fast when you are awake as it does when you are asleep."

EMBARRASSING KINDNESS.

Thoughtful Young Woman Has Trouble with a Thread Hanging from Strange Man's Collar.

There is one young woman in Philadelphia, declares the Inquirer, whose benevolent disposition received a severe shock recently. She was at church and sat directly behind a tall, well-dressed stranger, who had a raveling hanging over his collar.

Being one of those generous-hearted, whole-souled girls who grow up to be motherly old ladies, a friend to everybody in town, she thought how glad she would be if some kind-hearted girl would do as much for her father, if he were to go to church with a raveling hanging down his back; so when the congregation rose for the first hymn she decided to pick it off.

Carefully raising her hand, she gave a little twitch, but the raveling was longer than she supposed, and a foot or more of thread appeared.

Setting her teeth she gave a pull, and about a yard more of that horrible thread appeared.

This was getting embarrassing, but, still determined, she gave another yank, and then discovered that she was unraveling the man's undershirt.

Her discomfiture was evident when the gentleman turned with a kindly and inquiring look to see what was tickling his neck.

SURVIVAL OF A CHAIR.

Wonderful Preservation of the Piece of Furniture at the Time of Mont Pelee's Eruption.

At the time we left Roraima she was afire from her stem to the aft engine-room bulkhead. As we looked back we saw a strange thing, says Chief Officer Scott's account of the loss of the Roraima in Martinique harbor, in Leslie's Monthly. A common reed chair, such as you often see on the deck of a transatlantic liner, was hanging in the air to the ship's stern. It had been fastened to the after flag and braced below so that it hung off in space just beyond the reach of the flames. Some poor devil had rigged it there and sat in it to save himself from fire, afraid to jump on account of the fierce rush of the volcanic currents below. We could see him there, sitting in his chair, long before we left the ship, at the back of the solid wall of fire which divided us from him, and he must have suffered terribly before he dropped from his perch and went overboard. We could not get at him on account of the fire in the forward part of the saloon, but a stateroom was at hand close by, with plenty of life buoys, and he might have got one and put it on; but, strangely enough, after all that fire there hung the empty chair literally intact. The next morning the chair still hung there unharmed.

SILK CULTURE.

A Matter of Great Interest to Women of the United States.

Can the production of raw silk be made profitable in this country? If it can, it will mean pocket money to millions of women and girls. The question has been a long time receiving an answer, for the Huguenot settlers around Charleston transplanted mulberry trees and brought silkworms from their native France fully two centuries ago. The industry flourished somewhat, and it sounds odd to be told that raw silk was among the exports of the southern states at one time. Now our silk manufacturers import annually $5,000,000 worth of raw silk, whereas in one year, a little more than a century ago, there was sent to Europe from Savannah, Ga., $75,000 worth of the same article. But then we had no silk mills in America, and one good black silk gown lasted a lady her lifetime.

To this day the children descendants of those old French Huguenots amuse themselves with rearing silkworms and making toy reels of shining, lustrous thread from the cocoons, but as a money getting occupation the business has died out.

Why it did so is hard to say. Some declare that the Revolutionary war killed the young industry, but so late as 1795 raw silk was exported from Savannah. Benjamin Franklin, too, who did so much else for his country, attempted to revive silk growing after the colonies became independent. At that time it was thought the worms could be made to live anywhere in this country. Connecticut established a bounty for those in the state who could show the best raw silk and the greatest quantity of it. So late as 1843 Connecticut women realized from the bounty and the proceeds of their industry $200,000. Then, in 1844, a killing frost came, the worms perished, and that, it is said, ended silk growing in Connecticut.

In an amateurish way women and children in various parts of the Union have continued to experiment with the worms. In Utah silk growing was one of the occupations Brigham Young endeavored to establish in order to make his hierarchy independent of all the world, and today many Mormon women actually make their own silk gowns at every step of the way, from the hatching of the worm that makes the cocoon to the spinning and weaving of the thread that forms the cloth. By the Mormon realm the industry has never been abandoned, and it was a lady from Utah who at the Chicago exposition of 1893 made the notable exhibit of the silk industry in every stage—moth, egg, worm, cocoon, silk reels, spindles and weaving looms as well as the mulberry trees, on whose leaves the worms feed while they spin their shrouds about themselves. Utah women are able to teach their sisters in other parts of the Union the mysteries of silk growing.

Following the Philadelphia exposition of 1876, congress made a small appropriation for experimenting in the production of raw silk, but it does not appear that any large results have followed. The present United States secretary of agriculture, Mr. Wilson, has, however, taken the matter up with the energy he puts into other enterprises, and the silk growing prospect is brighter for this country now than it has been for a century.

THE SILKMAKER.
[Worm. Cocoon. Moth.]

To begin, Secretary Wilson investigated the matter of climate, the extremes of which in America are against the industry. The cold kills the worms even so far south as Charleston. In Japan, however, the cold is quite as great as it is in the middle and southern belt, yet it is one of the two greatest raw silk producing countries of the earth. The United States agricultural department has found that as far north as Philadelphia the silk cocoons can be grown with advantage. Farther south there is no doubt they can be produced very cheaply by women in their own homes. The spare time in the intervals of housekeeping would be sufficient for the work. It is likely, however, that in all except the most southerly states protection in winter will be necessary. Under cover and with warmth the worms can be reared anywhere. The agricultural department at Washington will be able to supply information as to where the beginner in silk growing can obtain instructions for commencing work.

The ordinary wild mulberry tree of this country will not produce the raw silk of commerce. The Chinese variety is the best for this purpose. But it is said that a worm will spin from the leaves of the common osage orange a cocoon that will yield a commercial silk thread as fine and lustrous as any.

Stairs of Sand

ERNEST DE LANCY PIERSON.

"Yes, why not?" replied Hendricks, calmly. "I am interested, as I tell you, in this young man's affairs, and anxious to get him free. Sometimes, you know, an amateur is able to do more than the argus-eyed professional, for he brings originality and fresh ideas to bear on the subject. These moss-covered beaureaucrats go plodding along in the same rut year by year."

"Then you have engaged in such business before?" and Ellison, who had never ceased to wonder what manner of man he had to deal with, cast a searching look at his companion.

"Perhaps," and Hendricks smiled. "Come, why should you want to know so much about a poor stranger? If Martin Frale was standing before you, I suppose you could sift him heart and soul in a moment."

"I don't see why you keep referring to that 'unfortunate man,' said Ellison, with a grimace. "Let the past bury her dead. He was an ignorant man, a poor, miserable fellow, who is well out of the way. He did one good thing, and that was to trust his daughter to my care, for which he received a good sum in return. You may be a friend of his, and so naturally refer to him now and then, but you will oblige me by not mentioning him again."

"Certainly," in a low voice, "and yet you ought to have a certain feeling for him, since you have adopted one of his blood."

"Time has changed all that; she would never be taken, after these years of culture, as one of the wolf's breed."

"You are disposed to be complimentary. You might speak well of a man whom you were once not afraid to acknowledge as a friend," said Hendricks.

"If we both started in the mire, and I was fortunate enough to rise from it, is there any reason why I should not have a longing to forget the past and everything connected with it?"

"A noble, a commendable, desire," replied the other. "I will wish you good-day," and he moved to the door. "I think you will do all you can to help Barnett—I know you will," and before the other could frame an answer, he had opened the door and gone out.

Ellison sat watching the door in a dazed sort of condition, as if he half expected him to appear again, but Hendricks did not appear. Then, after a moment's hesitation, he rushed out into the hall, crossed it, and, passing through a narrow passage and then a dressing-room, reached the windows that opened on the park in front of the house.

He saw Hendricks pass out through the front door and walk with a lazy air down the main avenue that led to the gates. Not once did he stop to look back at the house that he had just left.

Ellison, who was watching, saw him disappear beyond the lodge-keeper's gate, and returned to the library shaking his head and muttering to himself.

As he entered the room, he started back in dismay at the sight of a strange man in tattered clothes who was seated at the desk he had just left, and was puffing on a cigar that he had evidently extracted from one of the drawers.

James Ellison slammed the door behind him with an angry gesture, which did not in the least seem to disconcert the shabby individual with the cigar.

"I wish you wouldn't make such a noise, Jimmy," remarked the latter, as he blew a smoke wreath into the air and watched it fade away. Ellison stepped forward and pushed him into a sitting position, his every gesture betraying the anger he felt.

The shabby man shook off the grasp, made a pretense to brush his dirty sleeve, and looking up calmly, as he drew a long puff on his cigar, said, with an air of blase weariness:

"I wish, my dear fellow, you would not be so rude when you meet a man. Really, I expected kinder treatment from one I have learned so long to love."

Ellison uttered an oath, turned away, walked up and down the room several times and then, pausing before the ragged individual, who was inspecting his cigar with critical interest, said:

"Could you not tell, you fool, when I warned you from the window, that you were not to be seen around here?"

The other waited until he had shaken the ashes from his cigar, and then replied, in a very mild voice:

"Really, my dear brother, you are getting to speak very harsh in your old age. Why should I be warned off the premises by a wave of the hand, as if I was under a commanding officer?"

"You will do what I tell you," cried James Ellison. "I did not even know that you were in the neighborhood. Now, if you want money, you shall have it," and, as he spoke, he drew a roll of bills out of his pocket.

The other laughed hoarsely, and waved him aside. "Later will do. What are you so worried about, anyway? Have I asked for anything yet?"

"No, not yet; but I thought I would forestall you. Now, oblige me by keeping out of my sight for a time. I have troubles enough of my own, as you must know, if you have been in the neighborhood for many days."

"I want first a good suit of clothes—well lined."

"Well, you shall have it."

"You are ready to agree to anything. My man, you seem to be in a peck of trouble," as he noticed that his brother was pacing up and down the room.

James Ellison came over and laid his hand on the other's shoulder.

"Trouble enough. I have reason to believe that Frale is still living. He was here but an hour ago, or one who resembles him."

The brother sank back in his chair and uttered a long-drawn whistle as he cast away his cigar.

"Come, this matter is serious," looking up. "And where might this person have gone?"

"I told him where Grace was now living. It seems that he was very anxious to see her."

"You should have told him nothing."

James Ellison laughed.

"When you meet a stranger who informs you of a great secret of your life, I suppose you would advise me to show him the door. If not Frale himself (and he speaks like an educated man, while the other was unlearned), at least he knows enough to give me a great deal of trouble. But why am I wasting all this time on you?" as he seemed to notice for the first time his brother's rags. "Go your own way, and I will go mine."

The ragged man rose and twirled his mustache with a dainty air.

"My brother, you have said that once before," and then, bending over the table that stood between them and shaking a soiled finger in Ellison's face, he said: "You are very haughty now, but I believe that we shall both go down together, and now to make myself beautiful in a suit of your clothes," and he opened a door and passed through, while his brother dropped into a chair, overcome with impotent rage.

CHAPTER VII.

PASSING SHADOWS.

Hendricks left the park in a thoughtful mood. He had much to ruminate on. It was strange how his thoughts ran on that ragged individual he had seen for a moment out of the window, the man who seemed to worry Ellison so much, more than anything else that had happened during the visit.

"Why was he so worried lest the fellow should be seen?" he asked himself on the way back to the town. "Can it be that that person is in any way connected with the tragedy? Well, time will tell." It was only when he entered the town that he remembered his brief interview with the blind man. He felt so sure that his fancies had misled him that he was delighted to see that worthy seated on the steps of the meeting-house, soliciting in a quavering voice charity from passers-by.

"It must have been a fancy after all—that man could not be here," muttered Job, as he approached the blind man again.

The patriarch was seated on the stone steps of the church, his hat was off, and he seemed to be trying to get a breath of fresh air, a modicum of the faint breeze that had sprung up just then.

"Here is a little to help you along, friend," and Hendricks dropped a dime in the tin cup he wore about his waist.

The blind man uttered his thanks, and then, taking off his glasses, proceeded to rub them carefully.

Job turned away, shaking his head, after looking the beggar over slowly and carefully.

"Well, I am certainly getting foolish in my old age. There, I fancied when I first saw the fellow that he was looking for me." He rubbed his eyes for a moment, and then: "Job, you are getting to be an old fool! How is it possible that he could have followed you here?"

He resumed his road, and yet he did not feel wholly at ease as he made his way to the Bluebell.

The landlord was delighted to see him at such an early hour.

"I thought you would not come until night," ventured Mr. Bowersox.

"What does it matter to you when I come, as long as I pay for what I get?" said Job, in a moody voice, though he had no intention of offending the inn-keeper.

PACIFIC COAST LINE.

It Abounds in Seaside Resorts of Every Description.

Patronized Largely by Wealthy Tourists from the East—Speculation in Beach Property Is Popular.

[Special Los Angeles Letter.]

WHILE the seaside resorts on the Atlantic coast have a world-wide reputation, less is known concerning those upon our western boundary, although the latter are fast growing in general favor. To the person who does not object to the desert trip, and with whom the expense of the journey cuts no figure, the Pacific shore line rivals the east in attraction. While southern California is in the same latitude as our southern states, the climate is much more even than in any other portion of the country. The winters are warm, and the summer days much cooler than those of the northern states. A breeze comes from the ocean until the middle of the afternoon, the humidity is low, evaporation being very rapid. Nearly the same amount of cover is required at night in summer as in winter.

San Diego excels in the matter of climate. Although it is but little north of the Mexican line, the variation in temperature is small from season to season. Coronado Beach is, probably, next to that at Santa Catalina Island, the finest for bathing purposes, although Los Angeles people might consider this statement unfair to their favorite Long Beach. During many years visitors were compelled to content themselves with the accommodations (none too good) afforded at San Diego, and ferry across the bay to the beach daily, if they were indisposed to pay the rates charged at the great hotel there. Now, residence at the "tented city" is the popular thing, and it is not uncommon to see a party of "first family" young ladies together with their chaperon tinkering with hammer and nails at the floor of their abode when all the carpenters happen to be busy. (People with trades are in demand at good wages in southern California at present.)

These tented cities are springing up all along the coast where there is drinking water, and possess the virtue of being easily moved, for fashions in beaches are very arbitrary and change frequently, like all other fashions. A few years ago Redondo was the most popular bathing place. It is beautifully situated, the undertow is not strong, the surf is fine and fishing excellent. It is now patronized by people who want a very quiet time by the sea, for it has been eclipsed by resorts later in favor. The only thing that can be urged against Redondo is the large quantity of pitch or asphalt thrown up by the ocean, but there is more or less of it all along this oil-bearing coast. Santa Monica and Ocean Park, which are practically the same resort, are subject to heavy, cold winds and the water is frequently very rough. Port Los Angeles is nothing more than a long pier built into the sea from Santa Monica, where there is no harbor and where it is often very difficult to make a landing. As a town on the bluffs, Santa Monica is rather pleasant, but the beach below, like Ocean Park, is low, and it is often remarked that it would not require a very large tidal wave to sweep the cottages with their inmates out of existence. The same is true at Terminal Island, which has, however, on the shore side, the advantage of still water bathing for those who dislike going into the surf. This island is more like a peninsula, for the place of attachment to the mainland is seldom covered with water. Terminal Island lies between San Pedro and Long Beach. The former town is located on high bluffs where an extensive view is obtained. Excursion steamers leave this point for Catalina Island, which is so well known to be, par excellence, the finest resort on the coast that it requires no further mention.

THE PET OF LONG BEACH.

The government is adding to the natural advantages of San Pedro, constructing here a rather fine harbor, which is the port for Los Angeles. Long Beach has leaped into favor because it has so very many natural advantages. It is near the city, has two railroads and a street car line, an excellent pavilion and the finest bathhouse south of San Francisco, completed at a cost of $75,000. The town is high enough to be beyond reach of danger in case of tidal waves has excellent drainage facilities and the finest beach along this coast of fine beaches. Two years ago there were few improvements. Now it is a town of homes, on a sort of plateau. The contour of the country protects it from the high winds, while there is always a pleasant breeze. It is one of the places which everybody likes, hardly knowing the reason why.

But it is only fair to enumerate the disadvantages of each place. There is at Long Beach a kind of undertow called a "rip." An experienced swimmer recognizes one forming a little way out and easily escapes it, but an amateur is sometimes caught. Two have been drowned at Long Beach this summer, which, added to other victims, makes a total of nine during the last three years. Perhaps this is not many when one takes into consideration the great number who bathe there. The citizens are now installing a system of life lines and buoys which will reduce the danger to a minimum. Property at Long Beach is expensive, away beyond the speculation point, especially near the water front, where in miles of surf one may see bathers enjoying themselves all day.

A few days since a new watering place was born, Playa del Rey (King's Beach). There are many things to be said pro and con regarding this point. There are said to be millions back of it, and it is to be an ocean resort for "millionaires." There is certainly little to attract one at the present time. Two spurs of hills run to the sea very near each other. Upon a high bluff it is proposed to erect a $200,000 hotel, with building lots around it varying in price from $1,500 to $2,000 each, with high-priced building restrictions. At this season the hill is a mass of brown sand. In winter, like all of southern California, it is a beautiful green. Just how the necessary water for household purposes and irrigation of grounds will be supplied, seems to be an open question. What is considered a strong feature of the place is a lake or lagoon, back a few hundred feet from the shore, which is to be dredged out and an outlet made into the ocean, so that fresh tide water may flow in and out. Just now the pool is stagnant, and said to contain a large number of stingrays, which are dangerous, and are to be dredged out. The lagoon will furnish still bathing. It is to be surrounded by a park. A large portion of the town is to be on the bluffs and land behind them, as the beach property, proper, is limited in extent.

This is a great scheme, and sounds well, and with the millions said to be back of it, may be carried to a satisfactory issue. A part of the property consists of the old Ballona ranch, and it was here that much money was spent, years ago, trying to construct a harbor from the lagoon. But sand kept drifting in, compelling the abandonment of the enterprise. Trains ran there at that boom time, but a few years ago the railroad company pulled up their tracks. Those who attended the recent sale (a new boom) had to stop at Alla (a signboard on the prairie) and were met by tallyhos and other conveyances and taken to the beach, about two miles distant. Women and business men pretty evenly divided the crowd, which was a very merry one. All minds were intent on values from a dollar and cent point of view. A few carloads of very tired, but good-natured people, were pulled up to Inglewood late in the day, where they were compelled to wait nearly two hours for an engine to couple on to draw them to Los Angeles.

Everywhere along the coast is the lovely California sunshine, with a full breeze rendering every day of this season, thus far, cool and pleasant. Restfulness is in the air, and on all sides something to delight the eye.

Modern Window Advertising.

Lay figures upon which to display clothing in shop windows have been in modern times enormously improved, so that the good ones are now far from presenting that woodenness of appearance that was once commonly characteristic of them. But occasionally some clothing merchant, going in for realism, puts in his window, as a display figure, upon which to hang suits of clothes, a living man; and it is curious to see how soon a figure will fix attention. The same man in the same clothes, seen among other men, in the street or elsewhere, among familiar surroundings, might attract no special attention whatever. But in the unfamiliar surroundings of a show window he attracts the eyes of many.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

Barnes demonstrated his all 'round ability by catching a good game for Y. M. C. A., Saturday, in the absence of the regular backstop, Bert Moore.

Taylor continues to gain in popularity with the local fans. His fielding for St. Mary's is a general feature of the games and his daring base running has made him a warm favorite.

Bowman, who made his first appearance with the Y. M. C. A. team in Saturday's game, made a good impression. He is an old U. of P. man, and he promises to be a valuable addition to the team.

Umpires for the next League games were appointed at the meeting of the executive committee of the City League last evening as follows: Hope-Y. M C. A., Young and Townley; St. Mary's-Safe Works, Melvin and Brown.

Dally, the Hope first baseman, is getting to be a wonder at the bat. He made two of the four hits in Saturday's game both of which were for two bases. If some one could have followed suit Hope would have been saved the ignominy of a shut-out.

"Doc" Doyle's brilliant work in the box last Saturday has been a topic for general comment. Besides striking out the side in the first inning, he had the Y. M. C. A. heavy hitters guessing all through the game after the second and Bolsterli twice, in vain attempts to connect.

The local fans are waiting with much expectancy for the game Saturday between the Scotch Plains and the Safe Work teams. The contest will take place at the 'Plains and it is expected a large crowd will accompany the locals. It will be the only game of any importance in this vicinity, Saturday, as the St. Mary and Y. M. C. A. teams rest for the day, on account of the Hopes being at Asbury Park.

Acting upon a suggestion advanced by M. A. Higgins, an enthusiastic fan and a strong supporter of the Safe Works team, Manager Muir of that nine, has issued a challenge to play the winner of the League pennant, on Labor Day, for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital. Mr. Higgins has agreed to present the winner with a valuable and suitable trophy. The matter will be considered as soon as the winner of the League race is determined.

The game between the Scotch Plains team and the Roselle Field Club, Saturday, came near being forfeited by the latter through their refusing to abide by a decision of the umpire. Klase, the third baseman of the Roselles, was at the bat and purposely allowed himself to get hit in order to reach first. The umpire was onto him, however, and called him back. The Roselles objected and it looked as if they would forfeit the game when better sentiment prevailed and the basemen was ordered back.

While Westfield beat Rahway, Saturday by a score of 9 to 8, in an extra inning game, they crawled out of a small hole. Rahway bought a team, using but two regulars and in the fifth inning had Westfield 5 to 0. By dint of hard work Westfield pulled up, scoring two runs in the sixth, four in the seventh, two in the ninth and made the winning tally in the tenth with one out. By far the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of the season was in attendance. Westfield plays the return game at Rahway September 6.

GOLF.

Yesterday's record of the standing in the competition for the Boys' cup at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club needs some correction, by reason of a recent action of the golf committee. Because Arthur Peterson scored a first some time ago after having gone over part of the course alone, he has been disqualified for that day's play and the three points taken from him. This leaves him only 17½, instead of the 20½ marked up. W. T. Glenney, who is second in the race for the trophy, has 13½.

ACTIVE LIFE ON THE HILL

HAPPENINGS AT THE EVER POPULAR NETHERWOOD.

Guests Still Continue to Flock to That Hostelry—Clock Golf and Ping-Pong.

The social current at the Hotel Netherwood keeps moving. Last week saw many new arrivals at the hostelry, Brooklyn and Manhattan people predominating. Driving, golf and tennis continue to be the principal diversions. Much interest was taken in the clock golf tournament last week and another affair of the kind will be arranged shortly. Inside ping pong was the rage and there are many experts at the game among the guests. Tomorrow evening will witness a brilliant event, the subscription cotillion, and other functions are scheduled for the present week.

Among those who registered at the hotel last week are the following: Stephen O. Hawkins, David P. Hillson, Miss Kate P. Hillson, Brooklyn; Miss Jessie Colegrove, New York; A. Kahn, New York; Miss Sadler, New York; A. Widener, Miss Edith Widener, New York; F. R. Williams, Rochester; V. Hybrinette, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Levy, Chester B. WON A DIVAN.

Drawing at Meeting of Retail Clerk's Association Last Night.

Miss Margaret Whalen proved to be the lucky contestant for the divan in the drawing at the Retail Clerks' Association meeting, last evening. She held ticket No. 455.

Other business of the evening was the initiation of one candidate and the discussion of a plan to conduct a trolley excursion to Riverside Park. At the close the members adjourned to Fowler's parlor where cream was served.

Hope's Trip to Shore.

There is always plenty of room on Hope chapel excursions. No hurry; no crowding. Everybody happy, good-natured and orderly. A vigilant committee keeps constant watch for the comfort of everybody from oldest to youngest. Make your arrangements for a Saturday holiday at the seashore August 16 as that is the day on which Hope goes to Asbury Park. No more enjoyable trip can be taken.

Fire Over Postoffice.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Aug. 12—A fire broke out last night in the office of the Central Electric Co., which is located over the postoffice. The office was gutted before the fire was got under control by the fire department. The postoffice below was flooded with water and the mail matter soaked.

Settling Estate.

Fred Casper, of Denver, Colorado, a former Plainfielder, who has been in the city for some time in connection with the setttlement of the estate of his grandmother, the late Mrs. Elizabeth Ulrich, returned to the west today. During his stay here he was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Frank Kellar, of Harrison avenue.

Death of Mrs. Mitze.

FORESTERS OBSERVED EVENT

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF COURT DUNELLEN CELEBRATED LAST NIGHT.

Visitors From Plainfield and Surrounding Towns—Read a History of the Court.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Aug. 12—In honor of the tenth anniversary of its organization, Court Dunellen, No. 1123, I. O. F., marked the event with a gathering out of the ordinary, last evening. The local Foresters were out in large numbers and their ranks were swelled by visiting delegations from Court Watchung, of Plainfield, and Court Bound Brook. High Standing Committeemen McKenzie and Norman, of Elizabeth, were among the distinguished visitors.

Impromptu speeches were the order of the evening but a feature of the affair was a history of Court Dunellen, read by L. T. Titsworth. Among some of the noteworthy facts are that it has a total membership of 138, has suffered six deaths in its ranks in ten years, has paid $1,840 in sick benefits and has paid the Supreme Court $10,-88.55. The first chief ranger was Z. L. Zender and the present Magnus Johnson. Court Dunellen has in reality been the commencement of several other courts in this vicinity.

The affair terminated late in the evening with the serving of refreshments and a general sociable hour.

Horse Tries to Get Even.

The patience of unfortunate horses under brutal treatment is proverbial, but now and then a cruel driver meets with his deserts. Such was the case a day or two since with an animal employed at a lime kiln at Lormandiere, near Rennes. The horse was drawing a heavy cart loaded with bricks, and was several times brutally beaten by his master. On reaching Rennes the driver was about to unharness, when the horse bolted in the street. He was caught and allowed himself to be led back quietly, but as soon as he came near his tormentor he rushed upon him, seized him with his teeth, lifted him up and dashed him on the ground and then lay upon him. The man would probably have been killed but for the intervention of the spectators, who had the greatest difficulty in getting the animal away from him.—Le Temps, Paris.

DIED AT HOSPITAL.

Young Man, Employed at Dunellen, Passed Away With Typhoid Fever.

Charles Maxwell, of Dunellen, who had been a patient at Muhlenberg Hospital for the past three weeks, died at the institution, this morning, from typhoid fever. He was twenty-five years old. While in Dunellen he was employed as an assistant by W. G. Runyon. His home originally was in Hopewell where he leaves a father and where the remains will be sent for interment.

BOROUGH FOR ENGINE HOUSE

Overwhelming Vote in Favor of Proposed Fire Headquarters at Special Election.

A VERY LIGHT VOTE.

Out of 279 Ballots Cast in Both Districts of the Borough, There Were 243 in Favor and Twenty-Five Against and Eleven Rejected —Voting Heaviest at Night Fall.

Election day in the borough, to ascertain whether or not the council should issue bonds to cover the expense of erecting a new fire engine house, passed off quietly. The polling was very slight, barely one-fifth of the normal vote having been cast. But the total shows an overwhelming preponderance of opinion in favor of the project. Two hundred and seventy-nine ballots in all were placed in the boxes in both districts. Two hundred and forty-three voted for and twenty-five against. Eleven ballots were rejected.

In the first district, where the normal vote is 639, only 130 people voted. The first ballot taken from the box was marked against, but that man had registered his opinion in writing, and he was made a beginning for the rejected bunch. The second ballot was also marked against but from that on everything went the other way. At this booth 109 voted for, fifteen against, and six were rejected.

The normal vote in the second district is about 590. When the ballots were counted, 134 were found to be for, and only ten against. Five ballots were rejected, because neither the word "for" or "against" was erased.

The heaviest polling was late in the afternoon, between 6 and 7 o'clock, but even in that hour the officers in the booths were not overworked. The first voter in the first district was John H. Carney. Herbert Schillinger placed the first slip in the box in the second district. On account of the satisfactory result of the election there was jubilance in the borough fire circles last evening.

STEPPED ON HIS FOOT.

That Was the Primary Cause of Arraignment of Three in City Court.

Harry Watson, Chester Pope, Joseph Green and Lewis Sutterlein were arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged with quarrelling and fighting at the Watchung avenue trolley terminus, Sunday afternoon. The two former were found guilty and were fined $3 each.

Testimony revealed the fact that in the hurry of Pope and Sutterlein to follow Green off a car, the former stepped on Watson's feet. Words followed and soon gave exchange to blows, Watson getting off the car to argue the matter out. Watson was represented by Counsellor Francis J. Blatz.

Great Day at Asbury Park.

Tomorrow will be the great day of the season at Asbury Park. Of course, you will wish to be there. The best and cheapest way of spending the day at the shore will be to accompany Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., on their excursion, leaving the North Avenue station at 8:15 o'clock. Until 9 o'clock in the evening at the Park is one of the special inducements offered for the occasion.

Sent Home Prairie Dog.

Morgan Turton, of East Front street, received word in a novel way yesterday, from J. E. Flannery, who is on his way to California. It came in the way of a tiny prairie dog shipped by "Ted" from Emporium, Kansas. The little animal was none the worse for its long trip and is already the pet of the children in the neighborhood.

Plainfielders at the Camp.

Quite a delegation of Plainfielders made the trip to Westfield last evening in company with the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, who had charge of the services at the Fresh Air Camp. B. W. Hand was the leader, and the meeting was one of unusual interest and helpfulness.

MERRY TRIO.

Started in Automobile on a Fishing Expedition For the Day.

Amid the cheering of an assembled crowd, an automobile drew away from police headquarters, this morning, bearing a fishing party composed of Councilman Robert L. Lee, George Feiring and Overseer of the Poor Alex. Ayers. The vehicle also carried bait and tackle enough to last a week but the anglers claim they are only out for the day. They will cast their lines in a small lake this side of Flanders.

TWO WERE KILLED IN WRECK

THE LOCOMOTIVE AND EIGHT CARS PLUNGED THROUGH OPEN DRAW.

Serious Accident That Occurred at Elizabethport Early Yesterday Morning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 13—A locomotive, tender and eight box cars plunged through an open drawbridge on the Long Branch division of the Jersey Central Railroad shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday morning. Two men were killed and one seriously injured. The drawbridge is over the Elziabeth river in Elizabethport.

The killed were:

MANSFIELD, Patrick, of 237 East Fifth street, Plainfield, brakeman.

WEBSTER, Daniel, of Bayonne, fireman.

Engineer Robert Beany, of Bayonne, jumped into the river and saved his life.

The danger signals were set when the draw was opened but it is said that the engineer was unable to bring his train to a standstill in time. The engine and tender were buried out of sight in the water and the cars heaped on top. One was filled with dynamite but did not explode. Mansfield struck on his head and fractured his skull. He was found floating in the water.

There was some delay in getting the wrecking cars to the scene and the line was not opened until late in the afternoon.

NOT SELLING TICKETS.

Somerville Commissioners Register Another Kick Against the Trolley Company.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 13—A multitude of matters of local interest came up for disposal Monday night at the regular monthly meeting of the Town Commissioners.

Hon. Alvah A. Clark appeared in behalf of the police of Somerville. He said Plainfield, New Brunswick and other cities gave its policemen vacations and was of the opinion that the town officers should have a like time for recreation. Referred.

The chairman of the trolley committee reported that a letter had been received from Manager Walch of the traction company, in reply to one about the complaints of violating franchise and of discontinuing the sale of seven tickets for a quarter dollar between Somerville and Raritan. He said he had quit the sale of these tickets because the Raritan Board of Commissioners had not returned the bond of the company, which was given as a guarantee of the construction of the road. As to the violation of the franchise he was not aware of anything of that nature. It was decided to have the committee visit Manager Walch in the near future.

ONLY PAID BILLS.

At Regular Meeting of the Somerset County Freeholders Yesterday.

The regular meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders was held, yesterday afternoon. Nothing beyond the payment of bills and the transaction of routine matters occupied the attention of the members. The meeting adjourned with the understanding that the members were to meet tomorrow afternoon at Belle Mead to discuss the advisability of building two bridges at that place.

Landed in the Stream.

Aided by the heavy wind of last evening, Prof. Alberto Conti, the aeronaut, took a trip seaward with his balloon from Boynton Beach last night. After rising 4,000 feet, he landed in the middle of the stream near Tottenville, Staten Island. He reached the shore without any difficulty. On Saturday night, he will make a double ascension, taking a dog with him on his trip.

Scotch Plains Finds Much to Talk About in Margherita Arlina Hamm's Marriage.

IS MRS. M'MAHON NOW.

LIVES WITH HER HUSBAND IN A VERY MODEST LITTLE COTTAGE.

Prominent Writer and Club Woman, of Brooklyn, Secured a Divorce to be Married Two Days Later at 'Plains to Newspaper Man.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, August 13—Scotch Plains has a sensation. There were some of the neighbors who suspected it from the first time the new occupants took possession of the George Ogden house on the little lane back of the Springfield road. Generally it was not known until the New York newspapers began to investigate if it was really Margherita Arlina Hamm, but recently divorced from William E. S. Fales, lawyer and magazine writer, who had wedded John R. McMahon, a New York newspaperman who has taken up his abode in this village.

Although Mr. McMahon is silent on the subject, there is no doubt that his bride of ten days is the well-known writer and club woman. According to the marriage certificate made out by Justice Clark on the evening of August 1, his wife's name was Margaret Falls, aged thirty two, born in Canada and now a resident of Scotch Plains. The Judge does not pretend that the spelling of the names is absolutely accurate but the other details fit in the story properly and only serve to confirm it.

John R. McMahon made his first formal appearance in Scotch Plains on April 1. He brought with him the woman whom he has since made his wife. They applied to Lynns R. Walpool, the hotel man, and were taken to see the George Ogden house. It is not a very commodious residence. It would lower its dignity to call it a shack but a modest cottage might better describe it. There is one floor and a part of another. Inside it is possible there may be three rooms. Mc Mahon and his companion were evidently pleased with it. From the way she talked, Mr. Walpool gained the idea that they were husband and wife. He was not undeceived until McMahon told him a week ago of their marriage.

This sequested little nook, "far from the madding crowd," was rented and a lease drawn up, the rent being paid in advance. McMahon afterwards wrote to Walpool, sending $2 and aksing him to have the garden planted and the bugs kept off it until he should appear. This latter event happened May 15 and since that time, McMahon has spent the greater part of his time there.

Several times, McMahon's original companion came out to spend the day but always returned at night. Then there were two brothers who appeared at intervals and spent more or less time at McMahon's modest home. From the point of view of the neighbors, they were an unsociable set but they appeared to be happy enough by themselves.

Margherita Arlina Hamm, as the wife of William E. S. Fales, lived on Pineapple street, along with a coterie of literary folk. They had been married in 1893 at Jersey City and apparently lived happily together, writing magazine stories, going to women's club dinners, making speeches, writing poetry, reading papers and thoroughly enjoying an aesthetic existence until sometime this year when Mrs. Fales discovered that her husband had given way to the attractions of an actress known as May Gillespie. The divorce followed.

It was on July 29, the divorce was granted. The next day, the erstwhile husband and wife kissed either good bye as he started for the bedside of his dying mother. The day following, Mrs. Fales shipped all her furniture to Scotch Plains, care of John R. McMahon.

It was that same night that a hack drove up to Ivamy's hotel and there was a call for Justice Clark who happened to be there at the time. The man and the woman in the hack told the Justice that they desired to wed without delay and as quietly as possible. They were taken to the Justice's house where the ceremony was performed with the hack driver as a witness. That the woman was Margherita Arlina Hamm, there is no doubt.

John R. McMahon was interviewed on the subject by a Press reporter but he evaded all questions by declaring his name was Bryan. He finally produced his brother, C. W. McMahon, also a newspaperman, who promptly denied that he was the hero of the story and refused to throw any light on the subject.

DEATH CAUSED BY EXPOSURE

Woman Died in South Plainfield Who Used to Walk to Her Work in This City.

HADN'T PROPER FOOD.

Particularly Sad Were the Features Connected With the Death of Mary Hoffman, at South Plainfield, Yesterday—Had Relatives From Whom She Was Estranged.

Particularly sad were the features connected with the death of Mary Hoffman, of South Plainfield, who succumbed to a long illness early yesterday morning. In most destitute circumstances, the woman had spent the greater part of last winter and spring in working at a local factory, making the trip back and forth every day, often on foot and exposed to the most inclement weather. In this way, she contracted the sickness which caused her death yesterday.

Within the past two weeks some Plainfielders learned of the pitiable condition of the woman, who, with her aged mother, was living in abject poverty, with no means of income. Help was promptly given by charitably disposed church people, but the ravages of disease, aided by lack of nourishing food, had done their work, and it was too late to do anything more than ease the last hours of the woman's life.

What adds to the tragic elements of the case is the fact that the two women have well to do connections, from whom they had been estranged by family difficulties for some years.

The funeral services of the unfortunate woman will be held tomorrow afternoon, after which the remains will be taken to Lebanon, the former home of the family, for interment.

LAD NEARLY BURNED ALIVE

EXCITING INCIDENT WHEN BALLOON DEPARTED SKYWARD.

Perth Amboy Young Man Upset a Pail of Gasolene on Himself and It Caught Fire.

Disregard of the orders of William Schorb, manager of the Central Balloon Company of Amercia, came near resulting in the death of a young man from Perth Amboy following the ascension at Boynton Beach, yesterday.

The large crowd kept pushing about the swaying balloon until the workmen were hampered in completing the inflation. Schorb warned them to keep back but with no effect. As the aeronaut sprang in the air, his feet just grazed the head of the young man, who jumped back and in doing so over turned a pail of gasolene, part of which fell on him. The flames from the pit ignited it and in a second he was blazing from head to foot. With rare presence of mind he fell to the ground and rolled over and over, thus extinguishing the flames.

He was quite badly burned but will recover. He was taken to his home but refused to give his name.

Grocers' Excursion.

The fourteenth annual excursion of the Grocers' Association will be given Labor Day, September 1, to Coney Island. The first section will leave this city at 8 o'clock, and the second section will start from Dunellen at 8 o'clock, stopping at Clinton Avenue, Grant Avenue and Plainfield. Upon arrival at Jersey City they will take one of the Iron Steamboats to Coney Island. Returning at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Board of Agriculture Meeting.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 13—The quarterly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Agriculture will be held in the Court House Saturday, August 23. Ulysses S. Grant Davis, of Whitehouse, an up-to-date farmer and graduate of Rutgers College, will make an address on "Wheat Culture From Practical Experience." Six other farmers of the county will then give their ideas on the same subject.

DEMOCRATS TALK OF MEN FOR CONGRESS

Somerset Will Have Three Possibilities for Nomination in the Fourth District.

COUNTY NOMINATIONS.

JAMES J. BERGEN, S. S. CHILDS AND A. A. CLARK MENTIONED FOR CONGRESS.

Major Nelson Y. Dungan Likely to be Democratic Nominee for the Senate—The Democrats Have Hopes of Carrying County.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 13—The Democratic forces of Somerset county believe that they should be allowed to name a candidate for the Congress in the new Fourth district, which is now constituted of Mercer, Somerset and Hunterdon and already a number of available men have come to the front.

Among the most frequently mentioned of these in connection with the nomination are James J. Bergen, of Somerville, former speaker of the House, and Samuel S. Childs, of Bernards, who has a large following. It is urged by the Democrats that Mr. Bergen, who has filled the gap when amost certain defeat stared the party in the face, should have another chance, and his prospects are believed to be very bright should the other counties of the district decide to let Somerset name the man.

Samuel S. Childs, like Mr. Bergen, has several times met defeat but he made such a fine showing during last fall's elections in running against an assemblyman whose party was almost obliged to return to Trenton, that his friends believe that should he be the favored one he will easily carry the district throughout which he is very popular.

Alvah A. Clark, Nelson Y. Dungan and several other preminent Democrats have been mentioned in connection with the nomination.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 13—Politics in Somerset is beginning to warm up and candidates are laying their plans to capture the nomination. The Democrats have great hopes of carrying the county this fall and candidates are correspondingly thick. For Congress the names of Hon. Alvah A. Clark, Hon. James J. Bergen and Samuel S. Childs are mentioned. None of these men are seeking the office, but it is thought none of them would refuse it if it was tendered them. Either one of them would make a good representative. Conservative Democrats think, however, that if Mercer or Hunterdon county can unite on a good man it would be better to have the nominee come from one of those counties, as Somerset is full of factionl strife.

For Senator the name of ex-Prosecutor Nelson Y. Dungan is the only one mentioned so far. Mr. Dungan is popular with both parties and would stand a good show of being a winner.

For Assembly, E. C. Wise, cashier of the Colonial Insurance Co., of Jersey City, and also a grocer of Somerville, is laying his plans for the nomination. Mr. Wise is a popular young man and would make a good run.

For surrogate the names of A. G. Spencer, the present Surrogate, Former Judge J. D. Bartine and Wm. Demond, a dealer in gents' furnishings at Somerville are mentioned. All three have many friends and would run well. The contest over this office will probably be the warmest of the lot.

City Nurse Resigns.

Miss Gwynne Evans, Kings' Daughters city nurse, at present in charge of the baby camp on the mountain, has resigned her position because of an important surgical case she has been called to take charge of. Miss Olive Delany has accepted Miss Evan's position as city nurse and will assume charge of the baby camp Monday.

I. C. T. OFFICERS.

Were Unanimously Chosen at a Meeting Held Last Night.

At a meeting of the I. C. T. Club, held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing six months: President, V. W. Nash, Jr., vice president, H. S. Humes; secretary, Charles Suhr, Jr.; treasurer, George L. Apgar; sergeant-at-arms, Charles L. Peterson. By a unanimous vote the members decided to attend the excursion of Hope chapel to Asbury Park, Saturday, in a body.

HORSE SMASHED HIS JAW

JOHN DAVIDSON SERIOUSLY INJURED AT WATCHUNG SUNDAY.

Frisky Animal Kicked Him in the Face—He is Now Confined to the Hospital.

Too close proximity to the heels of a horse resulted most disastrously for John Davidson, of Newark, while visiting at the home of William Titus, of Watchung, on Sunday afternoon. As relics of the encounter, he is nursing a shattered jaw and mourning the loss of several teeth, besides suffering from the general shaking up which he received.

While leading a pair of horses, Davidson chanced to get behind one of the animals, just as its heels flew up in a sportive kick. The full force of the foot struck the man on the side of the face, knocking him to the ground. He was picked up and Dr. Adams was called, but the physician saw that the case was too serious for superficial attention and ordered the patient's removal to the hopsital. Here Drs. Zeglio and Buchanan also assisted and the damage was in some measure repaired.

Davidson is still at Muhlenberg, but he is reported today to be doing well, with prospects of being dismissed from the institution in a short time. His injuries consist principally of a fractured jaw-bone and several bad cuts on the upper part of the face, where the sharp edge of the horse's hoof struck.

TWO TEAMS TIED.

Exciting Finish in the Quoit Pitching Contest of Knights of the Golden Eagle, Last Night.

After a four months' fight, the quoit pitching contest of the local Knights of the Golden Eagle came to a close last night in a most exciting finish. Four teams were tied for the leadership, and the evening's games were hotly fought for positions. Kirch and Hummer and Niles and Hummer ended in the lead. The prizes, which are gold emblems of the order, will be presented at the meeting next week.

NEARLY KILLED BY BURGLARS

Aged Daniel B. Ross Attacked by Robbers at Bound Brook, and Left for Dead.

HE LIVED IN OLD BARN.

Attack Was Made Last Night as He Went After Some Wood—Thieves Thought He Had a Fortune, But Secured Less Than a Dollar in Money and a Watch.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Aug. 13—Attracted by the stories of his reputed wealth, burglars visited and attacked Daniel B. Ross, an aged hermit living on the outskirts of this place, last night, leaving him for dead upon the ground outside his dwelling place. As far as can be learned, their plunder amounted to less than a dollar in money, with the watch which they took from the pockets of their victim.

Ross had gone outside to get some wood, about 10 o'clock, when he was attacked. Two men sprang from their hiding-place behind a corn-crib and set upon him. When he attempted a feeble resistance, one of the visitors struck him over the head with some blunt instrument, felling him to the ground unconscious. It is supposed that they then rifled his pockets and ransacked the premises in search of further spoil.

For over an hour, the wounded man lay on the ground in a stupor. When he finally revived, he managed to crawl to the residence of L. Kreyling, about forty rods away, where he was taken in and cared for. Word was sent to Dr. Fisher, who ordered the removal of the man to the Somerset Hospital at Somerville. Ross is now lying at that institutoin, suffering greatly from the effects of the blow. His story of the assault fails to furnish any clue to the identity of the robbers.

What rendered probable the hope of getting a large sum of money from the hermit was the fact that he is said to have been one of the fortunate ones in the California gold rush in '49. Since his return home, with an alleged fortune, he has been living apart from the rest of the world in an old barn. The predictions of local residents were verified last night in accordance with the expectations of years.

PRESIDENT CAN'T ATTEND

BUT PYTHIAN FIELD DAY WILL BE A BIG SUCCESS NEVERTHELESS.

Arrangements for Competitive Drills —The Prizes Announced— Word From Roosevelt.

Unless signs fail the Field Day of the Knights of Pythias of New Jersey, which is to be held in Long Branch on Labor Day, will be a big success. The committee in charge of the parade is sparing neither time nor expense to make the occasion one of special interest to the members of the fraternity which number close to 14,000 in this State.

The competitive drills will be held in front of the Ocean House. There will be cash prizes to the amount of $100, distributed as follows: $40 for the division of the Uniform Rank making the best showing. $20 for the second best division. $30 for the subordinate lodge having the largest number of members in line. $10 for the second best subordinate lodge.

The prizes are given by the grand chancellor, who will present them to the successful divisions and lodges as soon as the judges make the awards.

The latter will be members of the United States Army.

Grand Chancellor Packer will soon issue his second proclamation on Field Day. It will set forth in detail the parade, with out of the Ocean House, etc.

Grand Chancellor Packer recently extended to President Roosevelt a cordial invitation to be present at the Field Day exercises. The Grand Chancellor is just in receipt of a letter from Secretary Cortelyou acknowledging the receipt of the invitation and stating that owing to a proposed New England trip arranged for that date it will be impossible for the President to accept, although the Secretary assures the grand chancellor of President Roosevelt's warm interest in the affair and his overpowering regret at being compelled to miss so inspiring a sight. Grand Chancellor Packer is of the opinion that were it not for the New England trip, the President would be present and review the gallant Knights.

DOUBLE LAUNCHING.

Both the Mexican Gun Boats Will Glide Into the Water the Same Day.

It has now been arranged that there shall be a double launching at Lewis Nixon's Crescent shipyard, Elizabethport, September 15, the birthday of President Diaz, of Mexico. On that date the gunboats Tampico and Vera Cruz, both of which are being constructed for the Mexican Navy, will be sent afloat.

It was the original intention to launch the Tampico August 20, but Lieut. Nixon found this would be impossible, hence the change.

The places of the gunboats on the stocks will be taken at the shipyard by two large vessels to be built for the Mexican government, each to heve 1,800 tons displacement.

INCREASE IN NEW JERSEY

SHOWN BY A REPORT SENT TO THE NATIONAL SECRETARY.

Growth of the State Council of New Jersey, Daughters of Liberty.

The report of the State Council of New Jersey, Daughters of Liberty, was mailed to the national secretary, William V. Edkins, of Philadelphia, August 4. The delay of a few councils to submit their reports prevented the report being completed sooner. This report was for the six months ending June 30 last and contained the following figures, which will interest members of the order and others who have watched the progress of the order in New Jersey: Initiated, 802 women and 149 men; reinstated, 39 women and 8 men; admitted by card, 41 women and 13 men; suspended, 414 women and 118 men; withdrawn by card, 44 women and 10 men; deceased, 26 women and 8 men.

The total number of members is 10,386 women and 2,309 men; total 12,695, of whom 126 women and eighty men are honorary members, the others being in the beneficial class. Of the men seventy-nine belong to the Order of United American Mechanics, 2,154 to the Junior Order United American Mechanics and seventy-six to both these orders.

The financial part of the report contained these figures, which apply to all the councils in the State: Amount invested, $13,335.31; amount in treasuries, $24,024.34; value of paraphernalia, $20,782.23, making a total worth of $58,141.88.

During the term the councils paid out $15,779.64 in sick and death benefits, and paid out $22,083.52 for other purposes. The per capita tax which accompanied the report amounted to $499.56. In all, 146 councils were reported, every county in the State being represented with the exception of Cape May county. Essex county leads with twenty-four councils and 2,320 members.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It was quite fitting that there should not have been enough food to go around at the outing of the Union county Republicans on Saturday. The situation was fairly typical of the conditions prevailing in the party in that section of New Jersey. The factions under the leadership of Senator Kean and Congressman Fowler, seated around the patronage board, are demanding their share of the good things, and when they do not secure what they think is coming to them, instead of finding fault with the waiters, they place the blame on the managers, who have failed to provide a sufficiency of pap to satiate the appetites of their followers, who are constantly calling for more.

Hungry men are not the most reasonable people in the world, so it is no wonder that there is bitterness in the ranks of the G. O. P. in Union. They even intimate that the fellows at the head of the other side of the free lunch counter are making away with provisions rightfully belonging to the rank and file. There is one thing about the whole matter that can be foreseen. If the would-be diners do not stop their contest for the victuals and drink, neither side will have an opportunity to gorge itself.—Newark News.

HISTORY OF THE ROBE.

FORTY Thousand Dollars spent on a gown and not a jewel on it! Ten thousand dollars' worth of gold thread for its embellishment, seven thousand dollars' worth of royal ermine used to line it, years spent in its making!

Never before has such a garment been seen in America. Moreover, few gowns since the covering to the feminine form ceased to be a mere utility and became an artistic expression—a "creation"—have had so romantic a history.

It is a coronation robe probably as rich and costly as ever clothed a queen, yet it has never been worn by royalty. Its very presence in a republican country, where there are no coronations except the "make-believers" of May Day, and no queens except those elected by their dower of beauty and personal charm, is a curious incongruity.

Yet the gown is interesting—immensely so! And it is wonderfully beautiful.

When the old Czar died there was living in Paris a clever dressmaker, Madame Barutti, who was burdened with much ambition.

French to the finger-tips, she conceived a daring scheme. She announced that she had been commissioned to make the coronation gown for the Czarina.

Having gravely made her announcement, she proceeded to carry out her phantom commission.

After weary months the wonderful creation was nearly finished and she began to show it to her customers and to her pressing tradesmen. It made a profound impression. All the bon-ton of the gay Capital of Fashion crowded to the salon of the daring modiste to see the wonderful creation. At once her credit rose enormously. She saw fortune ahead of her and bought, bought till she was in debt to her tradesmen more than 6,000,000 francs ($1,200,000).

But a day arrived when she knew that she had played a foolish game and lost. The merchants were pressing hard now and she was at her wit's end. There was but one way out that she could see and she took it.

One morning her assistants found her lying dead on the floor of the room where the gown was displayed.

All the magnificent stock of satins and velvets and other costly stuffs of the best, besides the coronation gown, were sold at auction soon afterwards to settle the claims of madame's scores of creditors. The gown found an enthusiastic purchaser. But it could not be worn, and passed from hand to hand and finally came into the possession of the New York firm that owns it now.

The main part of the gown is the great mantle, which is twenty-seven feet long and nine feet wide, rounded at the end. It is made of royal purple velvet, the usual material of court ceremony. Royal purple is, of course, not really purple at all, but a rich crimson, and it has the richness of color of the fine old wines of the sunny France whence it came.

The mantle is entirely lined with royal ermine skins, about 1,500 of the best obtainable being used. From the sides and end project seventeen white satin ribbons, with which it was intended to be carried by seventeen pages.

The decoration is entirely gold embroidery, and it is this that makes the gown so remarkable a piece of handicraft. The design is exceedingly rich and elaborate. It includes a border nearly a foot wide all around extending over two feet at the end, and the usual scattered decoration, in this case of scrolls partly surrounding a five-petalled flower. These central decorations are about five inches long. The border is in arabesque or scroll effects, with horns of plenty, each about twenty inches long, and in strong relief, forming an integral part.

The gown is entirely of heavy white satin of double thickness. The skirt from the waist to the end of the train is one hundred inches long, and the train is cut nearly square. All around the bottom there is a gold fringe two inches deep and above that an arabesque border in relief corresponding to the one on the mantle, five inches deep. The bodice is decollete, with empress sleeves, and is laced up the back. There is a pointed effect with revers running toward the shoulders at the bust, and these are richly finished with narrow embroidery in gold bullion. This gown is a strange and beautiful monument to a woman's wonderful courage and persistence misapplied through too great ambition.

BOSTON NOT SURPRISED.

Story of German Prince's Love For Miss Deacon Not Doubted.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—The announcement from Paris that Miss Gladys Deacon, daughter of the late Edward Parker Deacon, is the object of affection of the crown prince of Germany does not cause great surprise among those who knew her and her parents when they resided in Boston. Since her birth Miss Gladys has been here very little. She was educated in France and lived there most of the time.

Those who saw her on her occasional visits, however, are loud in praise of her beauty. She has been much in the company of royalty when abroad, having been taken about by the Duchess of Marlborough. Once when she was stopping at Blenheim the crown prince of Germany was a visitor, and the affection which it is said that the prince now has for her may have commenced there.

The Shipbuilding Trust.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The Trust Company of the Republic has completed the payments for all the shipbuilding plants held under the options of the United States Shipbuilding company, including the Bethlehem Steel company, Union Iron works, San Francisco; Bath Iron works and Hyde Windlass company, Bath, Me.; Eastern Shipbuilding company, New London, Conn.; Harlan & Hollingsworth company, Wilmington, Del.; Crescent shipyards, Elizabeth, N. J.; Samuel L. Moore & Son company, Elizabeth, N. J., and the Canda Manufacturing company, Carteret, N. J. This consummates the transaction, and the business organization will begin at once by concentrating in different yards different types of vessels and introducing economies which are expected to result in increased profits over those of the independent companies before they were brought together.

Germans Destroy a Village.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—The work of wiping out the natives of the south sea islands continues, if the reports in the Australian papers are to be relied upon. The papers give an account of one expedition by Germans to the New Hebrides to avenge the murder of a Mrs. Wolff. This expedition completely wiped out a village, natives from which had committed the murder. One hundred and thirty persons were killed, including the native who had led the expedition to the village. A combined German and British expedition has started for Danulo, western British North Guinea, to punish the natives for the murder of seven Englishmen.

Watermelon Record Broken.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Longshoremen at the docks of the Old Dominion line have been kept busy for the past week unloading the immense shipments of watermelons which are coming in at a rate that is causing alarm to the commission merchants. The record in the number of melons unloaded during a day has been broken, there having been 85,000 transferred from the steamships to the bins that face the wharf. Fifteen thousand melons remained from Saturday's unloading, which made 100,000 in all, the largest number ever carried in the bins at one time.

Postoffice Robbed.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The postoffice here was entered by burglars, a large safe was blown open with dynamite and stamps to the value of $1,500, $500 in currency, three diamond rings, a valuable bracelet and all the records of the office were stolen. There is no clew to the robbers.

NO "L" ROAD TIEUP

Manhattan Engineers and Firemen Get Concessions.

DEMAND FOR NINE HOUR DAY GRANTED

Manager of Elevated Lines Makes a Statement—Trouble Grew Out of the Change to Electricity on the East Side.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—There will be no tieup of the elevated roads. After a two hours' conference late yesterday between Alfred Skitt, vice president of the Manhattan Railway company, and the dissatisfied engine drivers and firemen it was announced that the company had conceded to the men a nine hour day, and the men in turn waived the demand that a day's run should not be more than ninety miles.

After the meeting the men smilingly declared that it would be impossible to make more than eighty-five miles in nine hours. They considered their victory complete and said that practically every demand they had made had been granted.

Mr. Skitt declined to discuss the matter on behalf of the company, but gave out the following typewritten statement:

"The matters in dispute were finally narrowed down to a question of hours for a day's work and the limit of ninety miles per day. The engineers waived the question of miles, and the company conceded the nine hour day. The agreement was signed, and the conference ended."

The questions mentioned by Mr. Skitt were the principal causes of contention. Only the men who have been operating electric trains on the Second and Third avenue lines have been working ten hours. The engine drivers have never been required to work ten. The concession made by the company is practically a protective measure looking toward the future.

In the future, when electricity is substituted for steam, the engine drivers who become motormen will be assured that they will be required to work only nine hours instead of ten, as their fellow workmen were forced to do on the Second and Third avenue lines.

What to Do With the Vesuvius.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The secretary of the navy recently asked the naval board of construction to consider what should be done with the former dynamite cruiser Vesuvius, and that board has decided to recommend that a board of survey be appointed to pass upon her ultimate disposition. The Vesuvius attracted much attention at one time, as it was thought she might revolutionize naval warfare, but she proved a failure during the Spanish war. For some time she has been laid up in the New York navy yard. It costs about $5,000 a year to take care of her when not in use. This led Secretary Moody to ask the board of construction to consider what should be done with her. It is thought the board of survey may recommend the taking off of guns, etc., and the use of the craft as a dispatch boat.

Killed Himself Instead of a Monarch.

ROME, Aug. 13.—The Italian steamer Citta di Milano, from New York July 22, which arrived at Genoa Aug. 9, reports that an anarchist named Sganza of New York committed suicide by jumping overboard while the vessel was off Gibraltar. It is alleged that Sganza had been commissioned to murder a European royal personage and that he was on his way to Europe for this purpose, but weakened at the last moment and killed himself. Two of his companions disappeared upon the arrival of the Citta di Milano at Genoa.

Exploding Gasoline Causes Big Loss.

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 13.—Dr. W. E. Terry was fatally injured by an explosion of gasoline at Princeton, Ky. He lit a match in the Terry & Frayer drug store, which caused the explosion and originated a fire that did $100,000 of damage before it was brought under control. Among the heavy losers were the Cumberland Telephone Exchange and the Postal Telegraph company. The opera house, Terry's drug store and two dry goods stores were also destroyed.

Troops Driven From Schools.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The commissary at Lesneven, Finistere, accompanied by a strong body of gendarmes, proceeded yesterday to the village of Gouezec to expel the sisters from schools there. The schools were defended by a crowd armed with cudgels and stones. One gendarme was unhorsed, and the commissary was compelled to retreat, but later he returned with a company of soldiers, who protected him while he closed the schools amid shouts of "Long live liberty!"

A Find of Gold Coins.

LAUREL, Del., Aug. 13.—The discovery of several Spanish gold coins by workmen digging a well has thrown the village of Renslow, on the Chesapeake bay, into a state of great excitement. The money was found by Thomas Castle and William Faber, who were digging a well. It is said that the treasure of the famous Captain Kidd is buried along the shores of the Chesapeake, and many attempts have been made to discover it, but without success.

James Arkell Dead.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Ex-Senator James Arkell is dead at his home in Canajoharie, aged seventy-two years. He was born in Berkshire, England, and emigrated when a boy with his parents to America, settling at Canajoharie. For many years he was proprietor of the Canajoharie Radil.

FIGHT AT BARCELONA

Terrible Battle Day and Night In Venezuelan City.

REVOLUTIONISTS SACK THE CITY.

Foreign Stores and the American, Italian and Dutch Consulates Pillaged—United States Cruiser Ordered to the Scene.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Aug. 13.—Details of fighting at Barcelona, Venezuela, received here by boat show that a terrible battle started on Sunday, Aug. 3, and that on the following Wednesday the revolutionists entered the city. They kept up a continuous firing day and night, destroying houses one by one to reach the center of the city. At midnight on Thursday two-thirds of the city was in the power of the revolutionists.

On Friday the government strongholds were carried, and the last survivors of the government officers tried to escape by the river to the sea; but, failing in this, they made one last stand, after which, at noon on Friday, they surrendered to the revolutionist commanders, Generals Francisco, Monagas and Platero.

Among those taken prisoner are Martin Marcano, president of the state of Barcelona and commander of the government troops; eight generals and twenty-three colonels. The dead on both sides numbered 167. All houses in the city were sacked, and in some instances inoffensive women and children were maltreated and killed. All stores were pillaged, especially those belonging to foreigners, and the French cable office was robbed. The American, Italian and Dutch consulates were pillaged, and the consuls have asked for men-of-war to protect life and property.

United States Minister Bowen, at Caracas, has cabled the United States cruiser Cincinnati to go to Barcelona without delay and to take provisions. The Topeka is anchored at Puerto Cabello, the Marietta is on the Orinoco, the German warship Falke is at Curacao, and the Italian cruiser Giovanni Bausan and the British cruiser Pallas are at La Guayra.

Great Harvester Trust.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—The International Harvester company, with an authorized capital of $120,000,000, has just been incorporated here. The company is authorized to manufacture harvesting machines and agricultural implements of all kinds. It is understood that among the concerns interested in the syndicate is the McCormick Reaper and Mower concern of Chicago. The articles provide that all of the $120,000,000 of the capital stock shall be common stock unless it shall be decided to increase the company's capital beyond those figures. In that event $120,000,000 is to become preferred stock, and the additional capital is to be common stock.

Plot to Blow Up Infirmary.

DECATUR, Ind., Aug. 13.—A plot to destroy the Adams county infirmary and to kill the forty-four inmates has been unearthed. A. W. Butler, secretary of the state board of charities, was making an inspection of the buildings, and in the room of Charles Echerman he found a pile of rubbish, which he ordered removed. Buried beneath the rubbish sixty pounds of dynamite, two two pound dynamite bombs and 115 feet of fuse were found. Echerman has been an inmate of the infirmary for more than twelve years and recently was reprimanded. Since that time he has been sulky.

A Monument to Coronado.

JUNCTION CITY, Kan., Aug. 13.—At a point a mile and a half south of Junction City a monument has been unveiled for the Quivira Historical society in honor of Coronado's expedition in 1541. The location was decided upon several years ago by a number of leading archaeologists of the United States as being the approximate center of Quivira, the territory which Coronado visited in his march from Mexico in search of gold. The monument was erected by Captain Robert Henderson on his farm.

Great Race at Brighton Beach.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Direct Hal, 2:06¾, Ed Geer's great side wheeler, captured the five thousand dollar Metropolitan 2:20 class pace at Brighton Beach yesterday from a crack field in straight heats and in the winning of it cleaned up $25,000 for E. E. Smathers, the noted New York horseman, and lowered his own record a quarter of a second in the first heat, which he negotiated in 2:06½. It was the greatest gambling race of the light harness stars ever fought out in the east.

Oil Companies Consolidate.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The contract for the amalgamation of the Texas oil properties on Spindle Top belonging to the Hogg-Swayne syndicate with the Texas Oilfields company of England for $2,500,000 was closed last night in London by Judge Richard E. Brooks of Beaumont, Tex., who is a member of the Hogg-Swayne syndicate.

SLAUGHTER OF THE TEACHERS.

Four Ambushed Near Cebu—Inquiry Reveals Tragedy.

MANILA, Aug. 13.—An investigation made by the constabulary to clear up the facts in the killing of a Cebu coaching party of four schoolteachers shows that the party was ambushed twelve miles from Cebu. Two teachers were shot and killed at the first volley, a third, who ran, was shot in the back, and a fourth, who was captured, was shot in the chest while he was praying for mercy.

It is suspected that the fourth man was buried alive, as his wound was slight and probably would not have caused death. Dogs dug up two bodies and devoured the flesh. It is believed that sufficient evidence has been secured to convict all the participants in the crime.

The bodies of these teachers were found on July 24, after the teachers had been missing since June 10. The police killed the leader of the band of murderers and captured eight other alleged participants in the crime. One man escaped.

Major General Chaffee has gone on the transport Ingalls for a trip to the southern islands. He will be absent twenty days.

Strikers In Court.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 13.—Five strikers, all members of Woodward local, United Mine Workers, of Edwardsville, were arraigned before Magistrate Pollock of this city yesterday, charged with intimidating non-union workmen and rioting. The prosecution alleged that the defendants stopped a number of men on their way to work at the Woodward colliery and by threats and force compelled them to return to their homes. The commonwealth wanted the secretary of the local, James Owens, to produce the minutes of the July meeting of the local, where, it is alleged, a motion was made that the members do picket duty at the mines and persuade the men who should attempt to go to work to return to their homes. Upon advice of counsel the secretary refused to produce the minute book, and the magistrate held him in $100 bail for trial at court for contempt. The other defendants were held in $500 bail on charges of unlawful assemblage and rioting. Bail was furnished.

Reception to Schley.

CLIFF HAVEN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Rear Admiral Schley was tendered a reception last night at the Catholic Summer School of America here. The auditorium was packed to suffocation by a very enthusiastic audience, and when Rev. M. J. Lavelle of New York city, president of the school, introduced the admiral as the commander of the American fleet at Santiago the audience cheered vociferously and waved flags and handkerchiefs for several minutes. Admiral Schley responded in a brief but most appropriate speech, and then after a musical programme Admiral and Mrs. Schley shook hands with hundreds. The grounds and buildings were beautifully decorated with flags, bunting, Japanese lanterns and flowers.

Robbers Got Rich Haul.

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 13.—El Correo de Senora brings an account of a daring holdup of a stage near Mazatlan, Mexico, by three masked men, supposed to have been outlaws. The robbers secured $4,000 and made good their escape with the plunder. Mariano Gordillo, the driver, attempted to whip up the horses and was shot dead. The stage was full, but the passengers were unmolested. A shipment of $4,000 to a bank at Mazatlan was the booty the robbers were after, and when they secured this they allowed the stage to proceed.

EXTRA SESSION LIKELY.

Senate May Be Called In November to Ratify Cuban Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Advices received here indicate that President Roosevelt will call the senate in extraordinary session early in November.

Ever since it became evident that nothing would be accomplished as to reciprocity with Cuba at the recent session of congress rumors of a more or less definite nature have been in circulation that the president would call an extra session, either of the entire congress to enact Cuban reciprocity legislation or of the senate to ratify, if possible, a reciprocity treaty with Cuba.

During the past week it has been stated that it was the purpose of President Roosevelt to call a special session of the senate as early as September. It can be stated by authority that he has no such intention. His time and that of many members of both political parties will be completely occupied during September and October.

It is understood to be the belief of the president that a session of the senate held for the purpose of ratifying a reciprocity treaty with Cuba would be much more likely to be fruitful of results if it is held after the November elections than if it were held before.

It is assured that the question of the relations of the United States with Cuba will enter largely into the approaching campaign, and it is stated that the president feels the Democrats will be less likely to offer serious opposition to a reciprocity treaty after the election than they would before that time.

A treaty with Cuba practically has been prepared. It requires only the finishing touches and the signatures of Minister Quesada and Secretary of State Hay to make it ready for presentation to the senate.

Pig Iron and Steel Production.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 13.—James M. Clark, chief of the bureau of industrial statistics, will devote a considerable portion of his forthcoming annual report for 1901 to pig iron and steel statistics. During the year Pennsylvania produced 7,364,295 gross tons of pig iron. The capital invested to bring about this production was $152,075,575, and the average realized value per ton was $14.52. Allegheny county leads in the production of pig iron with 3,685,-665 tons. Of the steel products the following was the production: Bessemer, 4,319,144 gross tons; open hearth, 3,554,828 tons; crucible and other processes, 85,748 tons, making a total production of steel in the state of 7,959,-720 tons. Allegheny county leads in steel production with 5,140,580 tons. Over 80 per cent of the production came from counties west of the Alleghany mountains.

Illinois Monument Fund Complete.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The Illinois auxiliary of the McKinley Memorial association reports that the fund of $50,000 asked of the people of Illinois has been raised. The fund consists of over 50,000 subscriptions, and, counting the individual school children, who sent their pennies in through the schools, the contributors in Illinois run into the hundreds of thousands. At the close of business yesterday the subscriptions amounted to $50,128. Many of the local committees and others throughout the state still have their lists open, and it is expected that by the time all of them have been heard from the funds will have been swelled to $60,000.

Millions of Sheep Die.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 13.—Advices received by the steamship Miowera from Australia tell of terrible drought in New South Wales and Queensland, which has devastated the sheep ranches. Millions of sheep have died, and men formerly considered wealthy have been compelled to seek employment. Samuel McCaughey, the sheep king of Australia, lost more than 1,000,000 sheep of his herd of 1,250,000, and other large herders have been equally unfortunate.

Consolidation Story Denied.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 13.—A. H. Soden, president of the Boston Baseball club, when asked about the rumored consolidation of the American and National leagues said that there was absolutely no truth in the report. The meeting of the National league officials in Boston, he said, had no reference at all to any combination or consolidation with the American league. Mr. Soden could not imagine how such a report should be sent out.

President Had a Quiet Day.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The president had but one visitor yesterday. William R. Grace, former mayor of New York city. The call was purely of a social nature. Secretary Cortelyou came over from Hempstead, where he has a cottage, and spent some time with the president. He is at work on the itinerary of the trip to the northwest which the president is to take next month. The itinerary probably will be completed in a short time.

Two Boys Drowned.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—Daniel Angeli, eight years old, and Oscar Angeli, twelve years old, brothers, of Philadelphia, were drowned in the surf yesterday while bathing. Thousands of summer visitors, the parents of the boys among them, lined the beach and watched four life guards make a heroic but unsuccessful attempt at rescue.

Naval Movements.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Rear Admiral Evans' squadron, consisting of the Kentucky, New Orleans, Helena and Vicksburg, which has been cruising in the Yellow sea, has left Chemulpo, Korea, for Nagasaki, according to a cable message received at the navy department.

A REAL LIVE TRILBY

Strange Story of Hypnotism After Hasty Marriage.

WIFE SANG AT HUSBAND'S COMMAND

Young Watkins Had Only to Say a Word to the Girl He Married and She Burst Into Melody Like Du Maurier's Heroine.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 13.—Word has reached the parents of Philip Doremus Watkins, who reside in this city, that residents of Los Angeles and especially the father of Miss Maud Schonfeldt of Omaha, whom Watkins married on a railroad train a few weeks ago, believe that the young man is a hypnotist and that he practiced with her some of the famous scenes of "Trilby." The young women's father, Henry Schonfeldt, also believes that Watkins, who is now in trouble because of the checks circulated to defray his wedding journey, used hypnotic influence in getting the girl to marry him.

A copy of the Los Angeles Times which has reached the mother of the young man says:

"Now comes the story, vouched for by the people about the hotel, which confirms the suspicion that Watkins was exercising hypnotic influence over his Omaha bride. Several times while entertaining society at the Arcadia Mrs. Watkins was requested to sing. Usually she begged to be excused. Then Watkins would urge her, and she would begin the rendition of 'For All Eternity,' always the same song, and she sang in a voice full of genuine sadness, which, instead of causing her auditors to wonder—seeing that she was a bride—only made them marvel at what they supposed her dramatic powers.

"Always, it is now remembered, she would break down in the middle of the song and, weeping softly, retire from the room. While her audience was still mystified Watkins would follow and bring her back, gently enough, it seemed, but firmly, and she would resume and finish the ballad. One of the patrons heard him order her sharply as he overtook her in the hallway to return to the ballroom, but he supposed it was a part of the novel entertainment.

"It was remarked several times how like the scenes of 'Trilby' were these, but still nobody suspected. Now they believe it was the enactment of 'Trilby' in real life."

The Ecuador Railroad Case.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Aug. 13.—Archibald J. Sampson, United States minister to Ecuador, is at present here trying to effect an amicable settlement of a question which is now pending before a local court between the J. P. McDonald company, the American contractors engaged in the construction of the Guayaquil-Quito railroad, and a citizen of Ecuador named Darquea, who claims that the American company failed to pay him for work performed. Jackson Smith, manager for the J. P. McDonald company, was sued by Darquea for the money the latter alleged to be due. Smith, however, escaped from the country and left for the United States on the last steamer which left this port. The local authorities searched the vessel for Smith before she sailed, but they were unable to find him, as he was hidden in one of the boilers.

Prince Chen Sees Gotham.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Prince T'sai Chen, cousin of the Chinese emperor, went sightseeing in this city yesterday, and he was kept busy. He visited the city hall, the postoffice, Wall street and Chinatown, rode across the Brooklyn bridge and took a peep from the top of the towering Syndicate building. Chinatown was the last place visited. It was jammed when the prince reached there. He drove through Mott street, and such a display of fireworks and beating of tomtoms were never before seen or heard there. After the visit to Chinatown the prince's party hurried back to the Waldorf.

Forged Notes by the Thousand.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from St. Petersburg reports the discovery at Warsaw, Russian Poland, of a wholesale manufactory of forged bank notes and postage stamps which had been flourishing for the past four years. Enormous numbers of fifty pound notes have been put in circulation, and the national banks, according to the correspondent, have cashed $2,000,000 worth of the forged paper. The private losses as a result of the forgeries amount to $45,000.

The Abbot Goes Lame.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—It was announced at the Brighton track just after the start of the second day's events in the grand circuit harness meet that the much heralded go between The Abbot and Lord Derby scheduled for Thursday would not take place. McCulley wired John J. Scannell that the famous horse had gone lame and would not be in condition to go on the track with his fast opponent as advertised.

The Lawton Arrives.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—The United States transport Lawton has just arrived here from Manila. She brings a few casuals, a detachment of the Third cavalry and a battalion of the Sixteenth infantry. This battalion completes this regiment, the first portion of which returned last month.

Anthracite Exhausted.

OMAHA, Aug. 13.—The visible supply of anthracite coal in this city and in most of the smaller towns which depend on Omaha for a supply is practically exhausted. Dealers are booking no orders and say their eastern agents can give no encouragement of relief.

TO MAKE A CITY GROW.

The Jersey City Journal discusses at length in its editorial column how the residents of that city may aid it in growing larger, better and greater than it is. The best way, it declares, to make the city grow is to add to its attractions. The Journal continues:

"Make the city more desirable for manufacturers, make it more comfortable for residents. Provide good fire, police and school accommodations, good water, clean, well paved and well lighted streets, decent parks, with music in them on summer nights, good baths and new hospitals, good everything that a community of interests makes necessary or desirable for the people. This makes the city more attractive.

"It is not only for property owners that the city should be made attractive, but for the majority who have not the means to become property owners. It is those who do not own property who provide customers for merchants and rents for landlords.

"Few stop to think how small a proportion of the total population in a city are property owners. In this city, the number who own real estate does not amount to 20,000 out of a total population of 206,433. This is about the average number of property owners in a city, though in the State at large, 31 per cent. own their homes, and 69 per cent. hire them. The large percentage of home owners in the State is due to the number of farmers who own their homes.

"There are 35,337 farm houses in the State, and 24,133 of these are owned by the occupants, and about one half of them are free from mortgages.

"There were 379,885 dwellings in this State in 1900 in addition to the farm houses, and 137,743 of these were owned by their occupants. Of these 70,805 were mortgaged and 263,851 were hired homes.

"Jersey City had 44,367 families in 1900, and 34,060 of them lived in hired houses, more than 51 per cent. living in tenement houses.

"The total number of families living in their own houses was 8,536 and of these 4,569 had no mortgages, 3,729 were mortgaged and 238 were reported as unknown.

"More than three-quarters of the populaiotn hire their homes. These pay taxes by proxy, and they are entitled to some consideration. They contribute to the demand for houses and to the business of the merchants. They are the majority in this city as they are in every city.

"Jersey City is doing as much as most cities to make the place attractive, but private enterprise is not doing as much as it should in the way of model tenements.

"It would be a good business enterprise to buy some of the old rookeries, to tear them down, to make way for good looking comfortable tenements."

There is much good advice in this which other cities besides Jersey City can profit from. Plainfield would be materially helped if some of the small unpretentious buildings in the business district were replaced by larger and more commodious ones. There is, however, work along this very line now under way in Plainfied. It is to be hoped that the good work will be continued.

There was nothing new in the announcement that the tax rate was unchanged this year. Such a state of affairs had already been predicted by The Daily Press. It shows, however, that while the wants of the city are growing, its health continues to grow so that the citizens do not feel any increased burdens even with the extra advantages.

In estimating the profits of advertising, says the Philadelphia Record, it is a mistake to consider only the sales of the day following the announcement. The chief advantage of advertising is that it induces people to acquire the habit of going to the establishment of the advertiser—it makes of them permanent customers.

In noting the change in the makeup of the city tax rate as was published in yesterday's Daily Press, the fact was omitted that there is also a reduction of one per cent. in the interest on sewer obligation. Without it, it looked as if there was an increase of one per cent. in the tax rate.

The fact that North avenue is soon to be resurfaced by the city is welcome news to Plainfield people. There are few who do not have occasion to use that thoroughfare.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

While Plainfield dealers are charging all sorts of fancy prices for their coal, the local retailers are disposing of theirs at the rate established when the present long strike commenced—that is, $6 per ton for the commonly used sizes. W. H. Cole has remaining in his yards about 100 tons, including all sizes, while Gray & Company have a little less. When these are exhausted there is little prospect of renewing them unless the labor troubles are settled and mining operations resume.

The body of Charles Maxwell, the young borough man who passed away in Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, was shipped this morning to his former home in Hopewell by W. G. Runyon. The arrangements were completed by his father, who was in the borough yesterday. Funeral services will be held this afternoon from the church at Hopewell.

Failure of the owner to find the animal in its accustomed place, led to the rumor about town that J. Y. Wilson's horse had been stolen yesterday morning. The equine was afterwards found in the vicinity quietly grazing. It had broken from its stall during the night.

Willard N. Apgar has secured the contract to make some extensive improvements to the residence on Washington avenue owned by Senator Welsh, of Lebanon. The addition of a new bathroom will be one of the features. He expects to commence work Saturday.

A large gasolene automobile, bearing a party from Point Pleasant, broke down, yesterday afternoon, near the roundhouse. The machine was towed to Isaac Stites' blacksmith shop where it was soon placed in condition for resuming the journey.

Mrs. W. G. Tingley has returned home from Denver, Col., where she has been for the past six weeks in search of health and recreation.

John McMahon, the night switchman east of the depot, who has been somewhat seriously ill, has recovered sufficiently to resume duty.

Merle Larrabee has resigned his position with the Ideal Cash Register Company to enter the employ of his father, W. L. Larrabee.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Gray have returned home from their summer outing spent at Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. M. B. Cottrelly has returned from an outing of several days spent at the sea shore.

Whitfield Dunham, of Walnut street, is quite ill at his home.

Mrs. P. R. Apgar is convalescent after a week's illness.

Rev. Frank Fletcher spent yesterday in New York.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Manager Johnston, of the local baseball team, will probably use Harvey in the box Saturday aftrenoon in the game with the Safe Works team, of Plainfield. The club is still looking for another pitcher to help relieve him of some of the work, but the game Dick has been putting up of late has been gilt edged and cannot be beaten in the eyes of the fans by any new man.

The high weeds along the sidewalks of some of the side streets in town have been cut down by order of the Township Committee. This makes walking much pleasanter, especially during wet weather.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held its semi-monthly meeting in its rooms last night. Routine buisness was transacted. One candidate was initiated into the mysteries of the order.

Samuel Parsells, of New Brunswick, has been visiting his family who are spending the summer with Mrs. Parsell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barlets, of Glenside.

The Junior baseball team met and defeated the Netherwood Juniors on the local diamond yesterday morning by the score of 12 to 15.

The Misses Squires, of the corps of teachers of the public school, are spending two weeks at Asbury Park and Ocean Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schroder, of Brooklyn, have been spending a few days with Mrs. Frank Hosinger, of Park avenue.

Miss Louise Robison has left for Camden where she will be the guest of Miss May Browning for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Merceir have returned from a pleasant visit with rleatives at Elizabeth.

Miss Susie L. Parse is spending several days with Mrs. John R. Cochran, of Brooklyn.

Dancing will be held at Ivamy's pavillion tonight, music by Naylor's full orchestra.

Isaac Ryno has accepted a position at the Aeolian Organ Works, Garwood.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A party, consisting of Peter Johnson, Mrs. John Johnson and Mrs. Montfort, are spending the day at Boynton Beach. They went by trolley from Plainfield.

Mrs. Wm. B. Manning left this morning for Asbury Park, where she will spend a week by the seashore.

Mrs. Darlington, of New York, and her son, Earl, of this place, are spending the day at Coney Island.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley has returned home after a stay of ten days at Hamilton Square, near Trenton.

George Ryno has been confined to the house by illness for several days past.

ANOTHER DANCE.

Arranged by Guests at The Park Avenue Hotel Last Evening, As Other Was So Successful.

So much appreciated was the dance given at the Park Avenue Hotel Monday evening that the guests arranged for and held another similar affair last evening. There was the usual large attendance, with pleasant social features, making the dance one of much enjoyment. Mrs. McManus, Mrs. Stothoff and Mrs. Bailey were again the patronesses.

During the intermission, Miss Helen McManus entertained the guests with some charmingly rendered soprano solos. Albert Harold, of this city, furnished the music for the occasion.

Next in prospect among the functions scheduled at the hotel is another progressive euchre, to take place on Friday evening. Prizes will be offered, as usual, and much interest is being manifested among the guests over the social arrangements.

Feast of Tisha Boav.

Orthodox Hebrews observed yesterday as the feast of Tisha Boav, one of the world wide ceremonies of the Jewish church. Services were held at the local Congregation Beth Tefileh Isha Yentel during the day and last evening, bringing the twenty-four hours' abstinence to an end.

Schorb's Case Adjourned.

In the borough police court last evening, the case of John Schorb, up on the charge of keeping a disorderly house, was adjourned till this evening to give the defendant an opportunity to secure counsel.

—Green gages, large blue plums and crab apples are among the features of Neuman Brothers fine fruit display.

Samuel Miller, of East Third street, is spending the month at Ocean Grove.

His Sight Threatened.

"While picnicking last month my 11-year-old boy was poisoned by some weed or plant," says W. H. Dibble, of Sioux City, Ia. "He rubbed the poison off his hands into his eyes and for a while we were afraid he would lose his sight. Finally a neighbor recommended DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. The first application helped him and in a few days he was as well as ever." For skin diseases, cuts, burns, scalds, wounds, insect bites, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is sure cure. Relieves piles at once. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

HUYLER'S CANDIES ARE PURE.

Enjoyable always. Summer hours passed sweetly when the merits are personally attested.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

For drugs of the best quality, for a prescription well filled, go to T. S. Armstrong, the Park avenue druggist. If you buy of Armstrong satisfaction is assured.

Bicycles repaired, bicycles sold and bicycles stored for commuters at Van Winkle's, North avenue. This is the season of the year when a bike can be purchased for a song.

It pays to pay cash and buy of R. H. Keenan, the East Fifth street grocer. By so doing you get the benefit of those bargains he advertises each week. Orders may be 'phoned and they will receive prompt attention.

Sweeping cuts in shirtwaists attract shoppers to the Paris Cloak Store on West Front street, nowadays. Thousands of the latest styles in pattern and material are being offered at rock bottom prices—just the sort to draw patronage.

Those white duck hats which have sprung into such popular favor are to be found in all variety at Bonn's, with the latest fashionable veilings. They combine attractiveness and neatness with the desirable quality of being inexpensive—at Bonn's.

Bed room sets continue to be a drawing card at Woodhull & Martin's in the second week of the special sale. Outfits in brass, complete with springs and mattress, can be had for such low prices as to place all the comforts of a resting place within the reach of all.

Neuman Brothers are beginning to receive their largest and best shipments of Delaware and Maryland peaches. At present the quality is very fine, while the price is constantly becoming lower. They have a very large fresh assortment to select from every day.

The specialty of William Brown, of Watchung avenue, is the repairing of all clocks and watches. Few are brought to him that cannot be returned as good as new. If you have any that need a little tinkering, let him examine them. It may be the means of saving you the cost of new timepieces.

TROLLEY POLE IN POLITICS

MAY PLAY PROMINENT PART IN THE FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

How it Won a Bitter Enemy for Col. Perrine, Now Talked of As a Candidate.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, August 13—A huge trolley road pole is likely to become an indirect but influential issue in this year's political campaign in Trenton. This insignificant and insensate stick of timber may not impossibly determine the choice of a member of Congress in the Fourth District, and it is even within the bare possibilities that it may determine the political control of the next House of Representatives.

The way of it is this: Colonel Lewis Perrine, who was formerly the principal owner and very energetic manager of the Trenton local trolley company may become the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Fourth District. While riding rough shod over all opposition in extending and improving his road some years ago, the colonel found it necessary to plant a pole that resembled a towering and unsightly wooden monument in front of the palatial residence of Washington A. Roebling, the former engineer of the Brooklyn bridge. Mr. Roebling himself was an invalid, and incapable of resenting Colonel Perrine's invasion and of forcibly asserting his rights.

But in this, as in the work of completing the plans for the Brooklyn bridge, Mr. Roebling had a brave and faithful coadjutor in his wife. Mrs. Roebling, who is a very resolute woman of great force of character, protested against Colonel Perrine's attempt to disfigure their handsome property. But the colonel was obdurate to all expostulations and appeals, and seemed to enjoy Mrs. Roebling's annoyance. But that resolute and high-spirited woman determined to frustrate her enemy at all hazards, and so ran out and jumped into the hole when the workmen had it finished. And there she stood, hour after hour, when not relieved by substitutes, and the colonel was baffled, and was the laughing stock of the town. Finally, however, the colonel caught Mrs. Roebling napping, and had the pole up and strung almost in a twinkling.

Mrs. Roebling has never forgiven Colonel Perrine for what she considers his injurious and insulting proceedings in this business, and it is said that she and her numerous friends would joyfully welcome the chance his candidacy for Congress would afford of making this resentment felt. So if the colonel should be defeated, and his party thereby lose control of the House by one vote, all these important results might be traced to an ugly, old, half rotten trolley pole on Trenton's most fashionable thoroughfare—West State street.

Subscription Cotillion.

The subscription cotillion at the Hotel Netherwood, this evening, promises to be a well-patronized affair. About fifty couples have secured tickets for the event. Any who wish to enjoy the dancing may do so on the payment of $1; admitting man and woman. Spectators will be allowed the privileges of the piazza, and a luncheon will be served during the evening.

Sentenced Alike.

Before Recorder Doud in the borough court last evening John Sprague, for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was fined $5 or seven days. A similar dose was meted out to Frank Mohring, charged with the same offenses. As neither parties came up with the fine, they are spending the sunlit hours behind the bars.

Warren Boys Drilling.

Members of Warren Engine Company held a military drill on Watchung avenue last evening, in preparation for the parade at Atlantic City in September.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

She was one of those sweet young things who evidently thought the national game too strenuous to devote much time to mastering its instricacies, and she had gone to Hope Common mainly because she had a friend whose sister's friend played on one of the teams. She tried hard to understand, but her companion was too interested to explain all the knotty points of play, and she babbled on like an irrepressible brook, asking questions which would have staggered a National League veteran. The young man looked bored; the spectators plainly amused. Her hit of the afternoon, when one of the Hope batsmen had been called out on strikes, was "How did he strike out, when he didn't aim at the ball?" Perhaps she is wondering yet what made the grand stand in her immediate neighborhood break into a ripple of laughter.

Self-propelling mail wagons are the idea and invention of George F. DeGroot, a letter carrier in Morristown, who has been in the service of the government about six years. He became convinced that a carrier could not afford a horse, wagon and driver on the $200 allowed by the government, but that an automobile delivery wagon could be made to do the work. He has 18 patents covering the mail wagon. It is divided into two parts, the front for the driver, or motorman, and the rear for the carrier. The front compartment is entered only by a door, and once the driver is inside he cannot get out until released by the carrier. The rear compartment can be opened from the outside only, and thus wagon and mail are in keeping of the carrier and he is entirely responsible for it. The carrier's compartment is fitted with pigeon holes, stamp drawers, money boxes, etc., like a postoffice, so that he can lay out his route. The first wagon, made for trials, weighs about 800 pounds, with engines, water tanks and machinery in place. The engine is a 20 horse power gasolene motor, operated by electric spark and capable of 30 miles an hour on good roads. The chain gearing is so arranged that for hill climbing the gear is thrown down, allowing heavy grades to be taken very easily. Mr. DeGroot will leave Morristown in a few days and make a tour with his wagon through New Jersey. It has been approved by the postmaster general for use by suburban and mounted carriers, but the department does not furnish outfits to carriers. Ira Lynn Thompson, an electrician, is in partnership with Mr. DeGroot.
